STATIONS, MISSIONARIES, AND OTHER LABOURERS, MAY 1862.

 By MISSIONARY, is to be understood one in Holy Orders; and by CATECHIST, one who engages in such religious care and instruction of the people as may be consistent with his character as a Layman. The letter (m) means Married.—Wives of Missionaries, &c., though not named, except when engaged in some specific employment, are always expected by the Society to lay themselves out to do good, in every practicable way, among Native Females; such as cultivating familiar intercourse with them, educating children, and instructing Female Adults.

A STATION is the place at which a Missionary or European Catechist is stationed, or at which Native Christians are located under Native pastoral superintendence in connexion with the Society.

The figures after the Names of the European Labourers sent from Europe show the date of their first leaving Europe.

The asterisk (*) denotes that the Missionary is on his way out; The mark (†) that he is on his way home.

Ten days' notice shall be given in Three public Newspapers, of any such intended Meeting, and of the purpose for which it is called; which shall be deemed sufficient publicity.

IX. None of the Rules of the Society shall be repealed or altered, nor any new ones established, but at the Annual Meeting, or at a Special Meeting called for that purpose.

X. An Anniversary Sermon shall be preached at some Church in London, by a Clergyman appointed by the General Committee. An Annual Report of the Society shall be printed, for the use of its Members.

XVIII. The General Committee shall meet on the Second Monday in every Month, and oftener if needful; the other Committees as often, and at such places, as shall be by them agreed on: their Meetings to be always opened with reading a Form of Prayer composed for that purpose, or one or more suitable Prayers selected from the Liturgy. Five Members shall be necessary to compose a General Committee; and Three, each of the others. In cases of equality of votes, the Chairman shall be entitled to a second or casting vote.

XXI. All payments on account of the Society shall be signed by Three of the General Committee, in Committee, and the Lay Secretary.

XXII. The Committee shall have power to appoint such Officers and Assistants as they shall deem necessary for the well-conducting of the affairs of the Society, subject to the approbation of the next Annual Meeting.

XXIII. Five Auditors shall be appointed by the Committee, annually, for the purpose of auditing the Accounts of the Society, of whom, Three shall be chosen from the General Body. Three shall be a Quorum.

XXIV. The Life Subscriptions, or a sufficient part thereof to be equal to the Subscriptions of the existing Members for Life, shall be placed in the Public Funds, in the names of Four of the General Committee; who, on their acceptance of the trust, shall sign a declaration of the nature of it, and that they will relinquish the same whenever called upon for that purpose by the General Committee.

OF MISSIONARIES.

XXV. In the appointment of Candidates for the Missionary Office, the following course shall be pursued: The Committee of Correspondence having found a person supposed to be suitable, shall determine by ballot to nominate him to the General Committee. Previous to the day of nomination, each Member of the General Committee shall receive notice of such nomination. On the day of nomination, a report shall be made, by some Member of the Committee of Correspondence, of his qualifications; and the General Committee shall then proceed to ballot for him, unless any Member shall declare that he wishes for further information; in which case the ballot shall be deferred till the next Meeting of the General Committee. In the ballot of either Committee, the agreement of at least Three-fourths of the Members present shall be necessary to his election.

XXVI. A Candidate thus chosen shall receive instruction in such parts of knowledge, and be prepared in such a manner for his future employment, as the Committee of Correspondence shall judge expedient.

XXVII. If, during such preparation, any Two Members of the General Committee should see cause to disapprove of his principles or conduct, they may submit the subject to a Special Meeting of the Committee; and, if deemed proper, the Committee may appoint another ballot, to determine whether he shall be continued as a Candidate; of which special notice shall be given to each Member.

XXVIII. Each Candidate shall consider himself as engaged to go to any part of the world, and at any time, which the Committee shall choose: respect, however, being had to his personal circumstances, or to any previous stipulation made by him with the Society. As soon as he quits England, he shall keep a regular Journal of his studies and proceedings; a copy of which he shall send, as often as opportunity shall serve, to the Secretaries.

XXIX. Each candidate, after due preparation, shall, if not admitted to Holy Orders, be appointed by the Committee to act as a Catechist. If admitted to Holy Orders, he shall be appointed a Missionary.*

XXX. The Missionaries who go out under the direction of this Society shall be allowed to visit home, permission having been previously obtained from the General Committee: and after having laboured in the cause of the Society, to the satisfaction of the Committee, at the Stations committed to their care, until age or infirmity prevent further exertion, suitable provision shall be made to render their remaining days comfortable. The General Committee shall have the power to assist also, in particular cases, the dependent Relatives of those Missionaries, who, by devoting themselves to the service of the Society, are prevented from contributing to their support.

XXXI. A friendly intercourse shall be maintained with other Protestant Societies engaged in the same benevolent design of propagating the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

XXXII. That all questions relating to matters of Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, respecting which a difference shall arise between any Colonial Bishop and any Committee of the Society, shall be referred to the Archbishops and Bishops of the United Church of England and Ireland, whose decision thereupon shall be final.

XXXIII. That the object of the preceding Law being only to provide a mode of settling questions relating to Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, as to which no provision has yet been made by the Society, it is not to be so construed, as, in any other respect, to alter the principles and practice of the Society, as they are contained in its Laws and Regulations, and explained in Appendix II. to the Thirty-ninth Report.

The proposed reference shall be made, through His Grace the Primate, by the Committee, accompanied by such explanations and statements as the Committee may deem advisable; and the Committee will be bound so to refer all questions, falling within the scope of the Rule so understood as aforesaid, which the Colonial Bishop shall require them to refer.

While all decisions of the Bench of Bishops on questions so referred will be considered by the Committee as binding on them and their agents or representatives, the Colonial Bishops or other Ecclesiastical Authorities, unless concurring in the reference, cannot properly be considered as so bound.

XXXIV. It is recommended to every Member of the Society to pray to Almighty God for a blessing upon its designs; under the full conviction, that, unless He "prevent us, in all our doings, with His most gracious favour, and further us with His continual help," we cannot reasonably hope to meet with persons of a proper spirit and qualifications to be Missionaries, or expect their endeavours to be crowned with success.

* The following passage, from Appendix II. to the Thirty-ninth Annual Report illustrates the practice of the Society in reference to this Rule:—

"The Bishops of the Church, under the authority of the law of the land, ordain and send forth [ecclesiastically speaking] our Missionaries: these Missionaries are licensed and superintended abroad, in every case where it is practicable, by Colonial Bishops of the Church of England; as are the other Clergymen of the Church officiating in the same Colony. The Services which the Missionaries perform are in strict conformity with the Ritual and Discipline of the Church."

APPENDIX II. TO THE THIRTY-NINTH REPORT.

REFERRED TO IN THE NOTE TO LAW XXIX.

REMARKS ON THE CONSTITUTION AND PRACTICE OF THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY, WITH REFERENCE TO ITS ECCLESIASTICAL RELATIONS.

IT is the object of the following Remarks to show, that the constitution and practice of the Church Missionary Society are in strict conformity with Ecclesiastical principles, as they are recognised in the constitution and practice of the Church of England.

Throughout the system of the Church of England there is a recognised co-operation of temporal and spiritual functions in MATTERS ECCLESIASTICAL; that is, the Laity and Clergy have not only their separate and distinct provinces, but, in many important respects, they unite their agency for the accomplishing of Ecclesiastical acts.

For instance, in supplying a vacant Church, a Lay-Patron selects and presents "his Clerk"—as the Clergyman is technically called—to the Bishop; who thereupon invests him with authority to minister in that Church. So, also, there are certain Lay-officers appointed to every Church—the Churchwardens or Sidesmen—whose duty it is, not only to guard, in conjunction with the Minister, the temporalities of the Church, but also to watch over the due performance of Divine Service, the morals of the parishioners, and the conduct of the Minister; and to report, from time to time, on each of these matters, to the Ecclesiastical Authorities. The duty of these officers is implied in the old appellation, "Sidesmen," or "Synodsmen"—men summoned to attend and give information at Synods and Visitations.

The distinction and co-operation of lay and spiritual functions in the Church of England might be further illustrated in the case of Ecclesiastical Courts, and various relations which arise out of the principle, that the Sovereign is the Supreme Ruler of the Church.

Keeping the foregoing distinction in view, the Church Missionary Society may be regarded as an Institution for discharging the temporal and lay offices necessary for the preaching of the Gospel among the Heathen. It is strictly a Lay Institution: it exercises, as a Society, no spiritual functions whatsoever.

Such being the constitution of the Society in theory—are its proceedings conducted in conformity with this theory, and with the Ecclesiastical principles of the Church of England?

In order to review these proceedings, they may be conveniently arranged under the FOUR following Heads:

I. THE COLLECTION OF THE HOME REVENUE, and THE DISBURSEMENT OF IT ABROAD.

These acts are altogether within the province of Laymen.

II. THE SELECTING AND EDUCATING CANDIDATES FOR MISSIONARY EMPLOYMENT.

In this department there is no necessary encroachments upon spiritual functions. The Colleges in our Universities are Lay-Corporations, and may, in many cases, be administered and presided over by Laymen.

Yet it may be urged, that in this department there is an approach to the peculiar province of Clergymen; because spiritual persons seem the more proper judges of a Candidate's fitness for Missionary employment: and it is generally admitted, that a Bishop may exercise a control over the education and training of Candidates to be advanced by himself to Holy Orders. Now, in both these particulars the Church Missionary Society has carefully guarded its proceedings. The examination of Missionary Candidates is referred to a Clerical Sub-Committee; and the General Committee consult and act upon the report of this Clerical trial and judgment. In respect of the other point, the education and training of Candidates for Holy Orders, the Church Missionary College at Islington has the sanction and approbation of the Bishop of London; who, in this country, admits to Holy Orders all the Society's Candidates: and his Lordship has repeatedly expressed his satisfaction at the results of the system of instruction, as they have been manifested in his examinations for Holy Orders.

III. The Third general head of the Society's proceedings is, THE SENDING FORTH, TO PARTICULAR STATIONS, THE MISSIONARIES THUS ORDAINED, OR OTHER CLERGYMEN WHO HAVE BEEN PREVIOUSLY ORDAINED.

Now, here an objection against the Society has been founded on the use of the term "sending forth:"—it sounds like an exercise of Ecclesiastical power. But, Ecclesiastically speaking, the Bishop of London "sends forth" every Missionary ordained by him. The Law of the land has sanctioned the Two Archbishops, and the Bishop of London [illegible] daining persons to officiate abroad. The Secretary of the Church Missionary Society requests, [illegible]etter, the Bishop of London to ordain, in conformity with the provisions of the Act of Parliament, such and such persons, whom the Society is willing to support in some Foreign Station. The Bishop, by the imposition of hands, gives them authority to preach the Gospel, with a view to their Foreign location.—In the case of persons already in Holy Orders, who may join the Society, they may be said to go forth by their own voluntary act; but their Letters of Orders, given by a Bishop of our Church, are their mission and commission, Ecclesiastically speaking.

Hence, to call the acts of the Church Missionary Society—in selecting the station, paying the passage-money, and agreeing to provide the Missionary's salary—to call these acts a SENDING FORTH of Preachers, in an Ecclesiastical sense, is to confound names with things, and to lose sight of all true Church principles.

IV. The Fourth general head under which the proceedings of the Church Missionary Society may be arranged, is, THE SUPERINTENDENCE OF MISSIONARIES IN THEIR LABOURS AMONG THE HEATHEN.

Here a distinction must be made between the case of those Foreign Stations which lie within the jurisdiction of a Colonial Bishop, and other stations, which are not so situated, and may therefore be termed Extra-diocesan.

In the first case, the Church Missionary Society has expressly determined, that all its ordained Missionaries shall be submitted for licence to the Bishop of the diocese in which they may be stationed; and that no Missionary shall exercise his spiritual functions in such diocese without a licence. The Society has further recognised the uncontrolled discretion of the Bishop to grant or withhold his licence, and the propriety of specifying in such licence a particular district as the field of labour; so that a Missionary cannot be removed from one district to another without the sanction of the Bishop.

These principles were stated in a Letter from the Society to the Bishop of Calcutta, signed by the Right Honourable the President—December 17, 1835—in a manner so satisfactory to the Bishop, that he embodied them in the four following Rules, expressed for the most part in the words of the Society's Letter: which were, at the Bishop's request, entered upon the minutes of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, as the recognised Rules of their practice:—

"1. The Bishop expresses—by granting or withholding his licence, in which the sphere of the Missionary's labour is mentioned—his approbation, or otherwise, of that location.

"2. The Bishop superintends the Missionaries afterward, as the other Clergy, in the discharge of their Ecclesiastical duties.

"3. The Bishop receives from those—the Committee and Secretary—who still stand in the relation of Lay-Patrons to the Missionary, such communications respecting his Ecclesiastical duties as may enable the Bishop to discharge that paternal superintendence to the best advantage.—The Archdeacon of Calcutta or Bombay acting under the Bishop's immediate directions when he happens to be absent.

"4. If the Bishop* or Archdeacon fills, at the request of the Society, the offices of Patron, President, Vice-President, Treasurer, Secretary, &c., he receives, further, all such confidential information, on all topics, as the Bishops officially neither could wish nor properly ask [to receive]."

The Bishop also wrote to the Parent Society in the following terms:—"You seem to me to lay down the principle most correctly.....This is to me perfectly satisfactory; as I shall instantly inform the Archbishop of Canterbury, to whom I report all the proceedings of the diocese."—9th June 1836.

It will be perceived, that the Missionaries, thus licensed, stand toward the Bishop in the relation rather of Stipendiary Curates, than of Beneficed Clergymen. For a Bishop in England cannot refuse a license or institution to a benefice, without assigning a reason which will bear investigation before a Court of Common Law; nor can he deprive a Clergyman of his benefice without a judicial process. But no law has provided any such check in the case of Missionaries: the Bishop has the power of withholding a licence, or of withdrawing it, at his sole discretion, without assigning any cause, as in the case of Stipendiary Curates in this country.

If it be asked, What are the checks and safeguards against the undue exercise of this discretionary power of the Bishop?—it may be replied, in the words of the Bishop of Calcutta, in a Letter to the Parent Society, April 12, 1837:—

"We are not to take for granted, that discretionary power will be abused; but, on the contrary, to provide, by a cheerful and friendly spirit and conduct, against the likelihood of such an occurrence. If the event of arbitrary conduct should arise, or be supposed to arise, the remedies are—public opinion—an appeal to the Archbishop—and the Society's refusing to make other appointments and locations than those unreasonably objected to. Nothing is the least likely—and probability is the guide of life—to arise to impede or cramp the Committee; since they unquestionably and avowedly possess, The choice of men—The appointment of spheres of labour—The temporal power, including pecuniary support."

But though the Bishop's licence is at once the pledge and proof that the Society's Missionaries are under Episcopal superintendence and jurisdiction, and that the spiritual oversight rests altogether with the Bishop; yet the Society may seem, to some persons, to keep up a kind of spiritual jurisdiction and oversight, by requiring accounts from the Missionaries of all their proceedings, and by giving them directions, from time to time, which may bear upon their spiritual duties. But it must be remembered, that the Society stands toward its Missionaries in the relation of Trustees of the fund out of which their salaries are paid. In the case of a Beneficed Clergyman in this country, the Minister is the guardian and possessor of the temporalities of the benefice, because the benefice is an endowment; and the Patron has no further connexion with the Minister whom he has once presented to the Bishop. In our case, the office of Patron is, in a sense, perpetuated by the payment of the salary, and the possession of all the temporalities of the Mission.

This matter has been well explained by the Bishop of Calcutta, in a Letter to the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, May 26, 1837:—"The Missionary Committees," says his Lordship, "have a far greater latitude in India than any Lay-Patrons at home. Upon presenting his Clerk to the Bishop, the Patron at home is functus officio. The Clergyman is removed, on being once instituted and licensed, totally and for ever from the Patron, and is transferred to the superintendency of the Bishop. The Patron has nothing whatever more to do with him. But in India, the Committee is (1) the continued paymaster of the Missionary after he is duly licensed;—for institution and induction there are none. (2) They correspond with him. (3) They supply him with Catechists. (4) They report his chief proceedings home. (5) They propose removals and changes of Station to the Bishop. (6) They exercise, unavoidably, an influence which does not belong to the mere Lay-Patron; and are aiding, in a variety of ways, to the comfortable and honourable discharge of the Missionary's most exalted and most spiritual duties."

It remains to consider the case of those Stations which are Extra-diocesan; i.e. where there is no Colonial Bishop of the Church of England having jurisdiction over them.

In these cases, the Society has endeavoured to procure for such Stations the benefits of the Episcopal office from the nearest Bishop of the Church of England. Application was made by the Committee both to the late and to the present Bishop of Madras, to extend, as far as circumstances would admit, these benefits to the Mission of Travancore; which, as an independent state, not forming part of the British Dominions, was not included in the diocese of Madras. A similar application was made on behalf of the New-Zealand Mission, to the Bishop of Australia; who at once acceded to the request, and kindly promised to visit New Zealand as soon as his other duties would permit; stating, in a Letter to the Society's representatives at Sydney, "It is highly satisfactory to me, that our friends at home are taking a view of these things which proves them to belong, not only to a MISSIONARY, but also to a CHURCH Society." (See Annual Report, 1838.)

Such is a General View of the Constitution and Proceedings of the Church Missionary Society.

It is not intended to assert, that errors are not sometimes committed in the application of these principles to matters of detail. It must be remembered that Missionary operations are, alas! new and anomalous in the system of the Church of England; and that it is not always easy to draw a definite line between the two provinces which belong respectively to the Bishop and the Committee. It has been observed by the Bishop of Calcutta—Letter, May 26, 1837: "The boundaries of the power of Committees, as they approach to those of the Bishop, can be ascertained, in many points, only by time and observation." Perplexities have consequently occurred; and, unhappily, misunderstandings have sometimes arisen between the Representatives of the Society abroad and Ecclesiastical Authorities. But these are the principles by which the Home Committee have endeavoured to guide the proceedings of the Society: and they confidently respond to a sentiment expressed by the Bishop of Calcutta—"The principles of our new relations are now fully recognised: the details will soon find their level."—Letter, 9th June 1836.

* The Three Bishops of India, and the Bishop of Australia, are the Presidents of the Corresponding Committees in their respective dioceses.

In reviewing the Ecclesiastical relations of the Church Missionary Society, there are two or three points which it seems very important to notice.

1. Missionary operations, as they are conducted by the Church Missionary Society, though apparently anomalous in the system of the Church of England, are yet in strict conformity with its constitution and principles: they are analogous to many other instances of voluntary exertion for the extension of true religion within the Church, in which Ecclesiastical authority and Lay co-operation unite for the accomplishment of the same end: so that these operations may be regarded as the acts of the Church of England, putting forth its energy for the Conversion of the Heathen World. For it has been shown, that the Bishops of the Church, under the authority of the law of the land, ordain and send forth our Missionaries—that these Missionaries are licensed and superintended abroad, in every case where it is practicable, by Colonial Bishops of the Church of England; as are the other Clergymen of the Church officiating in the same colony. The Services which the Missionaries perform are in strict conformity with the Ritual and Discipline of the Church. Even in the few cases in which Lutheran Clergymen are employed, this rule is observed; and all the congregations which are gathered into the fold of Christ are trained up as Members of the Church established in this land.

And here it may be observed, that nothing less than the sanction of a duly-assembled Convocation can more fully identify the acts of any Missionary Society, within the Church of England, with the Church.* Without such sanction, all associations of Churchmen must stand in the same position. Still further, not to notice the present abeyance of Convocations, it may be asserted, that even if the Church were to assemble in her provincial Convocations, and to decree and to regulate Missionary operations, such proceedings could not essentially add to, or alter, those important particulars which, under present circumstances, entitle the operations of the Church Missionary Society to be regarded as Missionary operations of the United Church of England and Ireland.

2. It must be ever borne in mind, that Missionary operations are, in their very nature, temporary and preparative;—that they are to be gradually but eventually superseded by a different order of things, when the Heathen Nations shall have become Christianized. In some cases, as in the West Indies, this change is further advanced than in others. Now, it must be expected, that in proportion as this change advances, difficulties and perplexities will arise in our Ecclesiastical relations, peculiar to this TRANSITION STATE—from Missionary operations, to that happy consummation when there shall be an endowed and established system of Christian Instruction, and a territorial division of Ministerial labour. This consummation the Church Missionary Society has ever kept in view, and devoutly desired; and, as far as possible, has prepared for its approach. In an interview with the Bishop of Barbadoes—April 1835—this point was expressly alluded to; and it was stated by the Committee to his Lordship, "that whenever a district should be brought into the state of an organized Christian community, it should assume entirely the Parochial form, and cease to be occupied as a Missionary Station.—The Bishop entirely acquiesced in this view; and only expressed his anxiety that it should not be so acted upon as prematurely to deprive a district of the Missionary's services."—(Extracts from Committee's Minute.)

3. Lastly, it must be evident, from a review of the whole subject, that our Ecclesiastical relations depend, in many important respects, upon a mutual confidence and good understanding between the Committee and its representatives, and the Ecclesiastical Authorities both at home and abroad. This must be the case, to argue upon no higher grounds, while those relations are governed by Ecclesiastical laws and canons made without reference to Missionary operations, for an Established Church in a Christian country; and where so much is also necessarily left to the discretion of both parties. If we look to our Home operations, the Committee places confidence in the Bishop of London, that he will continue to ordain the Missionary Candidates introduced to his Lordship by the Society, according to the provisions of the Act: and the Lord Bishop of London relies upon the Committee's using every means to select, train, and duly qualify proper Candidates to be thus introduced to him.

So, also, in its Foreign operations, the Society places confidence in the Colonial Bishops—as it has been already shown, in a quotation from the Letter of Bishop Wilson—that they will not exercise an unreasonable or arbitrary discretion, in withholding or withdrawing licences from our Missionaries, or in refusing ordination to our Candidates. And the Bishops, by granting licences and ordination to the Missionaries of a voluntary Society, whose income is liable to fluctuations, and whose agents are constantly changing, manifestly place confidence in the Committees, that they will use every endeavour to keep up the Missions once established; and that they will not, on their part, act in an unreasonable or arbitrary manner, or withdraw the salary from a licensed Missionary, without reason sufficient to prove to the licensing Bishop the necessity of the proceedings.

It seems impossible to supersede this conventional understanding—as it may be termed—till Missions are supported by endowments, or till a code of Missionary canons be established by competent authority.

This mutual confidence and good understanding now exists, it may be thankfully asserted, between the Committee of the Society and the Ecclesiastical Authorities of every Colonial Diocese in which Missionaries are labouring. And may He, who is the God, not of confusion, but of peace, and "the great Shepherd and Bishop of Souls," unite together the hearts and hands of those who are labouring in this Holy Cause—"that all and every of these may, IN THEIR SEVERAL CALLINGS, serve truly and painfully, to the glory of His name!"

SERMON,

PREACHED AT ST. BRIDE'S CHURCH,

FLEET STREET,

ON MONDAY EVENING, MAY 5, 1862,

BY THE

REV. JOHN C. RYLE, B.A.,

RECTOR OF STRADBROKE, SUFFOLK.

SERMON,

ACTS XVII. 16, 17.

"NOW WHILE PAUL WAITED FOR THEM AT ATHENS, HIS SPIRIT WAS STIRRED IN HIM, WHEN HE SAW THE CITY WHOLLY GIVEN TO IDOLATRY. THEREFORE DISPUTED HE IN THE SYNAGOGUE WITH THE JEWS, AND WITH THE DEVOUT PERSONS, AND IN THE MARKET DAILY WITH THEM THAT MET WITH HIM."

In these verses you see face to face no common city and no common man.

The city is the famous city Athens—Athens, renowned throughout the earth for its statesmen, philosophers, historians, poets, painters, and architects—Athens, the eye of ancient Greece, as ancient Greece was the eye of the heathen world.

The man is the great Apostle of the Gentiles, St. Paul—St. Paul, the most laborious and successful Missionary the world has ever seen—St. Paul, who by pen and tongue has left a deeper mark on mankind than any born of woman, except his divine Master.

Athens and St. Paul—the great servant of Christ, and the great stronghold of old heathenism,—are brought before us face to face. The result is told us: the interview is carefully described. The subject, I venture to think, is eminently suited to the times in which we live, and the occasion which assembles us together.

Without further preface I ask you to observe three things in this passage:—

I. What St. Paul SAW at Athens.

II. What St. Paul FELT at Athens.

III. What St. Paul DID at Athens.

I. First, then, What did St. Paul SEE at Athens?

The answer of the text is clear and unmistakeable. He saw a "city wholly given to idolatry." Idols met his eyes in every street. The temples of idol gods and goddesses occupied every prominent position. A vast system of idol-worship overspread the whole place, and thrust itself everywhere on his notice. In short, the city, as the marginal reading says, was "full of idols."

And yet this city, be it remembered, was probably the most favourable specimen of a heathen city which St. Paul could have seen. In proportion to its size it contained probably the most learned, civilized, philosophical, highly educated, artistic, intellectual population on the face of the globe. But what was it in a religious point of view? The city of Socrates and Plato—the city of Solon, and Pericles and Demosthenes,—the city of Æschylus, Sophocles, and Thucydides,—the city of mind and intellect—this city was wholly given to idolatry. If the true God was unknown at Athens, what must He have been in the darker places of the earth? If men were so far gone from the light in a green tree, what must they have been in the dry?

Men and brethren, what shall we say to these things? What are the conclusions to which we are irresistibly drawn by them?

Ought we not to learn, for one thing, the absolute need of a divine revelation and of teaching from heaven? Leave man without a Bible, and he will have a religion of some kind. But it will be a religion without light, or peace, or hope. "The world by wisdom knew not God." (1 Cor. i. 21.) Old Athens is a standing lesson which we shall do well to observe. It is vain to suppose that nature, unaided by revelation, will ever lead fallen man to nature's God. Without a Bible, the Athenian bowed down to stocks and stones, and worshipped the work of his own hands. Place him by the side of an open grave, and ask him about a world to come, and he could have told you nothing certain, satisfactory, or peace-giving.

Ought we not to learn, for another thing, that the highest intellectual training is no security against utter darkness in religion? We cannot doubt that mind and reason were highly educated at Athens, if anywhere in the heathen world. The students of Greek philosophy were not unlearned and ignorant men. They were well versed in logic, ethics, rhetoric, history, and poetry. But all this mental discipline did not prevent their city being a "city wholly given to idolatry." And are we to be told in the nineteenth century, that reading, writing, and arithmetic, without a knowledge of the Scriptures, are sufficient to constitute education? God forbid! We have not so learned Christ. It may please some men to idolize intellectual power, and to speak highly of the debt which the world owes to the Greek mind. One thing at any rate is abundantly clear. Without the knowledge which the Holy Ghost revealed to the Hebrew nation, old Greece would have left the world buried in idolatry. A follower of Socrates or Plato might have talked well and eloquently on many subjects; but he could have never answered the jailor's question, "What must I do to be saved?" (Acts xvi. 30.)

Ought we not to learn, for another thing, that the highest excellence in the material arts is no preservation against the grossest superstition? The perfection of Athenian architecture and sculpture is a great and undeniable fact. The eyes of St. Paul at Athens beheld many a "thing of beauty" which is still a joy to artistic minds. And yet the men who conceived and executed the splendid designs at Athens were utterly ignorant of the one true God. The world now-a-days is well nigh drunk with self-conceit about our so-called progress in arts and sciences. Men talk and write of machinery and manufactures, as if nothing were impossible. But let it never be forgotten that the highest art is consistent with a state of spiritual death in religion. Athens, the city of Phidias, was a "city wholly given to idolatry." An Athenian sculptor might have designed a matchless tomb, but he could not have wiped a single tear from a mourner's eye.

These things ought not to be forgotten. They ought to be carefully pondered. They suit the times in which we live. We have fallen on a sceptical and an unbelieving age. We meet on every side with doubts and questionings about the truth and value of Revelation. "Is not reason alone sufficient?" "Is the Bible really needful to make men wise unto salvation?" "Has not man a light within, a verifying power, able to guide him to truth and God?" Such are the inquiries which fall thick as hail around us. Such are the speculations which disquiet many unstable minds.

One plain answer is an appeal to facts. The remains of heathen Greece and Rome shall speak for us. They are preserved by God's providence to this very day as monuments of what intellect and reason can do without revelation. The minds which designed the Parthenon were not the minds of fools. The men who conceived the sculptured friezes, which we know as the Elgin Marbles, were trained and intellectual to the highest degree. And yet in religion these men were darkness itself. (Ephes. v. 8.) The sight which St. Paul saw at Athens is an unanswerable proof that man knows nothing to do his soul good without a divine revelation.

II. And now let us observe, in the second place, what St.

Paul FELT at Athens. He saw a "city wholly given to idolatry." How did the sight affect him? What did he feel?

It is instructive to observe how the same sight affects different people. Place two men on the same spot; let them stand side by side; let the same objects be presented to their eyes. The emotion called forth in the one man will often be wholly different from that called forth in the other. The thoughts which will be wakened up and brought to birth will often be as far as the poles asunder.

A mere artist visiting Athens for the first time would doubtless have been absorbed in the beauty of its buildings. A statesman or orator would have called up the memory of Pericles or Demosthenes. A literary man would have thought of Thucydides and Sophocles and Plato. A merchant would have gazed on the Piræus, its harbour, and the sea. But an apostle of Christ had far higher thoughts. One thing, above all others, swallowed up his attention, and made all else look small. That one thing was the spiritual condition of the Athenian people. The great Apostle of the Gentiles was eminently a man of one thing. Like his divine Master, he was always thinking of his "Father's business." (Luke ii. 49.) He stood at Athens, and thought of nothing so much as Athenian souls. Like Moses, Phinehas, and Elijah, "his spirit was stirred within him when he saw the city wholly given to idolatry."

He was stirred with holy compassion. It moved his heart to see so many myriads perishing for lack of knowledge, without God, without Christ, having no hope, travelling in the broad road which leadeth to destruction.

He was stirred with holy sorrow. It moved his heart to see so much talent misapplied. Here were hands capable of excellent works, and minds capable of noble conceptions. And yet the God who gave life and breath and power was not glorified.

He was stirred with holy indignation against sin and the devil. He saw the god of this world blinding the eyes of multitudes of his fellow men, and leading them captive at his will. He saw the natural corruption of man infecting the population of a vast city like one common disease, and an utter absence of spiritual medicine, antidote, or remedy.

He was stirred with holy zeal for his Master's glory. He saw the "strong man armed" keeping a house which was not lawfully his, and shutting out the rightful possessor. He saw his divine Master unknown and unrecognised by his own creatures, and idols receiving the homage due to the King of kings.

Brethren, these feelings which stirred the Apostle are a leading characteristic of a man born of the Spirit. Where there is true grace, there will always be tender concern for the souls of others. Where there is true sonship to God, there will always be zeal for the Father's glory. It is written of the ungodly that they not only commit things worthy of death, but "have pleasure in them that do them." (Rom. i. 32.) It may be said with equal truth of the godly, that they not only mourn over sin in their own hearts, but mourn over sin in others.

Hear what is written of Lot in Sodom:—"He vexed his soul from day to day with their unlawful deeds." (2 Peter ii. 8.) Hear what is written of David:—"Rivers of waters run down mine eyes, because they keep not thy law." (Psalm cxix. 136.) Hear what is written of the godly in Ezekiel's time:—"They sigh and cry for all the abominations that be done in the midst of the land." (Ezek. ix. 4.) Hear what is written of our Lord and Saviour himself:—"He beheld the city and wept over it." (Luke xix. 41.) Surely it may be laid down as one of the first principles of Scriptural religion, that he who can behold sin without sorrowful feelings has not the mind of the Spirit. This is one of those things in which the children of God are manifest, and are distinguished from the children of the devil.

Brethren, I call your special attention to this point. The times demand that we look it fully in the face. The feelings with which we regard sin, heathenism, and idolatry, are a subject of vast importance in the present day.

Who does not know that there is around us a generation of men who regard heathenism and idolatry with apathy, coolness, and indifference? They care nothing for Missions. They see no necessity for them. They take no interest in the evangelistic work of any Church or Society. They treat all alike with undisguised contempt. They despise Exeter Hall. They never give subscriptions. They never attend meetings. They never read a Missionary Report. They seem to think that every man shall be saved by his own law or sect if he is only sincere; and that one religion is as good as another, if those who profess it are only in earnest. They are fond of decrying and running down all Missionary operations. They are constantly asserting that modern Missions do nothing, and that those that support them are little better than weak enthusiasts. Judging by their language, they appear to think that the heathen receive no benefit from Missions, and that it would be a better way to leave them entirely alone.

What shall we say to these men? They meet us on every side. They are to be heard in every society. To sit by, and sneer, and criticise, and do nothing—this is apparently their delight and vocation. What shall we say to them?

Let us tell them plainly, if they will only hear us, that they are utterly opposed to the Apostle St. Paul. Let us show them that mighty model of a Christian Missionary walking the streets of Athens, and stirred in spirit at the sight of a "city wholly given to idolatry." Let us ask them why they do not feel as he felt, about the idolatry of China and Hindustan, of Africa and the South Seas. Let us ask them whether 1800 years have made any difference in the nature of God, the sinfulness of idol worship, and the duty of Christian men. We shall ask in vain for a reasonable answer: we shall get none. Sneers at our weakness are no argument against our principles. Jests at our infirmities and failures are no proof that our aims are wrong. Yes! they may have the wit and wisdom of this world upon their side: but the eternal principles of the New Testament are written clearly, plainly, and unmistakeably. So long as the Bible is the Bible, charity to souls is one of the first of Christian graces, and it is a solemn duty to feel for the souls of the heathen. He who knows nothing of this feeling has yet to become a learner in Christ's school. He who despises this feeling is not so much a successor of St. Paul, as of him who said, "Am I my brother's keeper?"—even of Cain.

III. Let us now observe, in the last place, what St. Paul DID at Athens. What he saw we have heard; what he felt we have been told; but how did he act?

He did something. He was not the man to stand still and "confer with flesh and blood" in the face of a city full of idols. He might have reasoned with himself that he stood alone; that he was a Jew by birth; that he was a stranger in a strange land; that he had to oppose the rooted prejudices and old associations of learned men; that to attack the old religion of a whole city was to beard a lion in his den; that the doctrines of the Gospel were little likely to be effective on minds steeped in Greek philosophy. But none of these things seem to have crossed the mind of St. Paul. He saw souls perishing; he felt that life was short, and time passing away; he had confidence in the power of his Master's message to meet every man's soul; he had received mercy himself, and knew not how to hold his peace. He acted at once, and what his hand found to do, he did it with his might.

And he did what he did with holy wisdom as well as holy boldness. He commenced aggressive measures alone, and waited not for companions and helpers. But he commenced them with consummate skill, and in a manner most likely to obtain a footing for the Gospel. First, we are told, he disputed "with the Jews" in the synagogue, and with the "devout persons" or proselytes who attended the Jewish worship. Afterwards he went on to dispute, or hold discussions, "in the market daily with them that met with him." He advanced step by step like an experienced general. Here as elsewhere St. Paul is a model to us: he combined fiery zeal and boldness with judicious tact and common sense.

But what did the Apostle teach? What was the grand subject which he argued and reasoned out and discussed both with Jew and Greek, in synagogue and street? That he exposed the folly of idolatry to the ignorant multitudes; that he showed the true nature of God to the worshippers of images made with hands; that he asserted the nearness of God to us all, and the certainty of a solemn reckoning with God at the judgment day to Epicureans and Stoics—these are facts which we have recorded fully in his address on Mars' Hill.

But is there nothing more than this to be learnt about the Apostle's dealings with the idolatrous city? Is there nothing more distinctive and peculiar to Christianity which St. Paul brought forward at Athens? There is indeed more. There is a sentence in the 18th verse which ought to be written in letters of gold—a sentence which ought to silence for ever the impudent assertion that the Apostle of Christ was sometimes content to be a mere teacher of deism or natural theology. We are told in the 18th verse that one thing which arrested the attention of the Athenians, was the fact that St. Paul preached "Jesus and the resurrection."

Jesus and the resurrection! What a mine of matter that sentence contained! What a complete summary of the Christian faith might be drawn from those words! That they are only meant to be a summary, I have no doubt. I pity those who would cramp and pare down their meaning, and interpret them as nothing more than Christ's prophetical office and example. I think it incredible that the very apostle who a few days after went to Corinth, "determined to know nothing" but the doctrine of the Cross, would keep back the Cross from Athenian ears. I believe that "Jesus and the resurrection" is a sentence which stands for the whole Gospel. The Founder's name and one of the foundation facts of the Gospel stand before us for the whole of Christianity.

What, then, does this sentence mean? What are we to understand St. Paul preached?

St. Paul at Athens preached the person of the Lord Jesus: His divinity, His incarnation, His mission unto the world to save sinners, His life and death, and ascension up to heaven, His character, His teaching, His amazing love to the souls of men.

St. Paul at Athens preached the work of the Lord Jesus: His sacrifice upon the cross, His vicarious satisfaction for sin, His substitution as the just for the unjust, the full redemption He has effected for all who believe, the complete victory He has obtained for lost man over sin, death, and hell.

St. Paul preached the offices of the Lord Jesus: as the one mediator between God and all mankind, as the great Physician for all sin-sick souls, as the Rest-giver and Peace-maker for all heavy-laden hearts, as the Friend of the friendless, the High Priest and Advocate of all who commit their souls into His hands, the Ransom-payer of captives, the Light and Guide of all wandering from God.

St. Paul at Athens preached the terms which the Lord Jesus had commanded His servants to proclaim to all the world;—His readiness and willingness to receive at once the chief of sinners;—His ability to save to the uttermost all who come unto God by him;—the full, present and immediate forgiveness which He offers to all who believe;—the complete cleansing in His blood for all manner of sin; faith or simple trust of heart the one thing required of all who feel their sins and desire to be saved; entire justification without deeds of law for all who believe.

Last, but not least, St. Paul preached at Athens the resurrection of the Lord Jesus. He preached it as the miraculous fact on which Jesus himself staked the whole credibility of His mission and as a fact proved by such abounding evidence that no caviller at miracles has ever yet honestly dared to meet;—He preached it as a fact, which was the very top stone of the whole work of redemption, proving that what Christ undertook He fully accomplished; that the ransom was accepted, the atonement completed, and the prison doors thrown open for ever. He preached it as a fact, proving beyond doubt the possibility and certainty of our own resurrection in the flesh, and settling for ever the great question, "Can God raise the dead?"

These things and many like them I cannot doubt St. Paul preached at Athens. I cannot for one moment suppose that he taught one thing at one place, and one at another. The Holy Ghost supplies the substance of his preaching in that pregnant sentence, "Jesus and the resurrection." The same Holy Ghost has told us fully how he handled these subjects at Antioch in Pisidia, at Philippi, at Corinth, and Ephesus. The Acts and the Epistles speak out on this point with no uncertain sound. I believe that "Jesus and the resurrection" means—

Jesus and the redemption He effected by His death and rising from the grave, His blood, His cross, His substitution, His mediation, His triumphant entrance into heaven, and the consequent full and complete salvation of all sinners who believe in Him. This is the doctrine St. Paul preached. This is the work St. Paul did when he was at Athens.

Men and brethren, have we nothing to learn from these doings of the great Apostle of the Gentiles? There are lessons of deep importance to which I venture briefly to invite your attention. I say briefly. Time forbids me to dwell on them at any length. I only throw them out, as seeds for private thought.

Learn, for one thing, a doctrinal lesson from St. Paul's doings at Athens. The grand subject of our teaching in every place ought to be Jesus Christ. However learned or however unlearned, however high-born or however humble our audience, Christ crucified—Christ—Christ—Christ—crucified, rising, interceding, redeeming, pardoning, receiving, saving—Christ must be the grand theme of our teaching. We shall never mend this Gospel. We shall never find any other subject which will do so much good. We must sow as St. Paul sowed, if we would reap as St. Paul reaped.

Learn, for another thing, a practical lesson from St. Paul's doings at Athens. We must never be afraid to stand alone and be solitary witnesses for Christ, if need be,—alone in a vast ungodly parish, in our own land,—alone in Delhi, or Peshawur, or Benares, or Hydrabad, or Pekin, or Nankin,—it matters not. We need not hold our peace, if God's truth be on our side. One Paul at Athens, one Athanasius against the world, one Wycliffe against a host of Romish prelates, one Luther at Worms, these, these, are lighthouses before our eyes. God sees not as man sees. We must not stand still to count heads and number the people. One man with Christ in his heart and the Bible in his hands is stronger than a myriad of idolaters.

Learn, for one thing more, a lesson of encouragement to faith from St. Paul's doings at Athens. If we preach the Gospel, we must preach with perfect confidence that it will do good. Our eyes may never see it; our ears may never hear it; but if we preach the truth it will do good. That solitary Jew of Tarsus, who stood up alone on Mars' Hill, appeared at the time to do little or nothing. He passed on his way and seemed to have made a failure. The Stoics and Epicureans probably laughed and sneered as if the day were their own. But that solitary Jew was lighting a candle that has never since been quenched. The word that he preached in Athens grew and multiplied and became a great tree. That little leaven ultimately leavened the whole of Greece. The Gospel that Paul preached triumphed over idolatry. The empty Parthenon stands to this day, a proof that Athenian theology is dead and gone. Yes! if we sow good seed, we may sow it in tears, but we shall yet "come again with joy, bringing our sheaves with us."

I draw towards a conclusion. I pass from the consideration of what St. Paul saw and felt and did at Athens to points of practical importance. I ask this night what ought we to see, to feel, and to do?

(1.) What ought we to see? It is an age of sight-seeing and excitement. The eye is not satisfied with seeing. The world is mad after running to and fro, and the increase of knowledge. The wealth, the arts, the inventions of man are at this very time gathering myriads into the Great International Exhibition. Thousands and tens of thousands are daily gazing at the work of men's hands.

But ought not the Christian to look at the map of the world? Ought not the man who believes the Bible to gaze with solemn thoughts on the vast spaces in that map which are yet spiritually black, dead, and without the Gospel? Ought not our eyes to look at the fact that half the population of the earth is yet ignorant of God and Christ, is yet waiting for the tardy movements of the Church of Christ, is yet sitting still in sin and idolatry, because Christians do so little for Missions?

Brethren, the eyes of God see these things, our eyes ought to see them too.

(2.) What ought we to feel? Our hearts ought to be affected by the sight of heathenism, if they are right in the sight of God. Many indeed are the feelings which the aspect of heathenism ought to call up in our hearts.

Thankfulness we ought to feel for our countless privileges. Little indeed do the bulk of English people know the amount of their own daily unpaid debt to Christianity. Well would it be for some if they could be compelled to dwell for a few weeks every year in a heathen land.

Shame and humiliation we ought to feel when we reflect how little the Church of England has done for Missions hitherto. God has indeed done great things for us since the days when Cranmer, Ridley, and Latimer went to the stake, has preserved us through many trials, has enriched us with many blessings. But how little return we have made Him! How few of our 1500 parishes do anything worthy of the Missionary cause! How little zeal some congregations show for the salvation of souls! These things ought not so to be!

Compassion we ought to feel when we think of the state of the heathen, and the misery of the 500 millions without Christ. No poverty like this poverty! No disease like this disease! No slavery like this slavery! No death like this death in idolatry and sin! Well may we ask ourselves, Where is the mind of Christ, if we do not feel for the lost? Brethren, I lay it down boldly that the Christianity which does not make a man feel for the state of the heathen is not the Christianity which came down from heaven 1800 years ago, and is embalmed in the New Testament. It is a mere empty name. It is not the Christianity of St Paul.

(3.) Finally, brethren, what ought we to do? This after all is the point to which a preacher desires to bring a congregation. Seeing and feeling are well: but doing is the life of religion. What ought we to do? We ought to do much more than we have ever done yet. We might all probably do more. The honour of the Gospel, the state of the Missionary field, the faithfulness of the Society, all call upon us to do more.

Need we stand still and be ashamed of the weapons of our warfare? Is the Gospel, the old evangelical creed, unequal to the wants of our day? I assert boldly that we have no cause to be ashamed of the Gospel at all. It is not worn out. It is not effete. It is not behind the times. We want nothing new, nothing added to the Gospel, nothing taken away. We want nothing but the old paths—the old truths fully, boldly, affectionately proclaimed. Preach the Gospel fully, and it is still "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth," and nothing else called religion has any real power at all.

Need we stand still and be ashamed of the results of Gospel Missions? Shall we hang down our heads, and complain that this evangelical creed does no good? We have no cause to be ashamed at all. I am bold to say that no religious teaching on earth can point to any results worth mentioning except that which is called evangelical. What deliverance on earth have all the modern religious schools—which scorn our teaching—what deliverance have they wrought? What New Zealand, what Red River, what Sierra Leone, what Tinnevelly, can the high-sounding systems of this latter day point to as a fruit of their system? No, my brethren, if the question, What is truth? is to be solved by reference to results and fruits, evangelical religion has no cause to be ashamed.

Need we stand still and be ashamed of the Church Missionary Society? Shall we allow that it has acted on wrong principles, and missed its way? Never, for a moment! We have no cause to be ashamed at all of the Society. Imperfect, like every human institution—erring sometimes, perhaps, like every Society that is managed by man—still, in the main, the Society has been faithful and true to the backbone; faithful to Christ, faithful to the Church of England, faithful to the great principles on which it was first founded. Less faithful to those principles, the Society might have had an easier course, and enjoyed more of the praise of man. But faithfulness to the great leading principles which Pratt, and Cecil, and Scott, and John Venn, and Simeon, ever maintained, has obtained for the Society something far better than man's praises, even the favour and blessing of God. No! my brethren, we have no cause to be ashamed of a Society whose aim has ever been to glorify Christ.

What can we do now but humble ourselves for the past, and endeavour, by God's help, to do more for time to come. Let us open our eyes more and see. Let us open our hearts more and feel. Let us stir up ourselves to do more work—by self-denying gifts, by zealous co-operation, by bold advocacy, by fervent prayer.

Let us do something worthy of our cause. The cause for which Jesus left heaven and came down to earth deserves the best that we can do.

Let us do something worthy of our principles. Let us prove their Scriptural truth by being foremost in the holy work of spreading the Gospel throughout the world.

Let us do something worthy of the year in which we are assembled together. While myriads are gathering to admire the exhibition of the works of man, let us strive to make a noble exhibition of liberality in the cause of God. Let us endeavour to raise the income of the Church Missionary Society to a far higher point than it has ever yet attained. Our comparatively stationary position as to income is a shame and disgrace to the Church of England. Above all, let us resolve that the principles of the Church Missionary Society shall receive a fuller support from us than they have ever had yet, and that, whether in town or country, we will throw our whole weight into the cause of the whole truth as it is in Jesus.

REPORT,

&c., &c.

At the last Anniversary the Committee had the painful task of announcing a falling off in the receipts of the Society, and a consequent deficit of 6100*l.* They therefore pledged themselves to retrench their expenditure, and they invited their friends to enlarge the Society's income. By the blessing of God upon these measures, the equilibrium between the expenditure and the income has been more than restored. The Committee are now able to announce that the last year's deficit has been made up, and that the new financial year will be commenced with a balance in hand.

The financial statement is as follows—

INCOME.

General Fund—Associations, Benefactions, Legacies, &c.	135,205	12	10
Fund for Disabled Missionaries, &c. ...	1,693	1	1
Total Ordinary Income	£136,898	13	11

This income comprises an unusual amount of Legacies, and more than ordinary Benefactions; but the Committee have the great satisfaction of also announcing that it presents a large increase in the sums collected and remitted by the Associations throughout the country: these remittances have amounted to 105,530*l.* which is 3677*l.* above those of the previous year, though in that year they were higher than they had ever been before. The Committee have special satisfaction in noticing that the collections from Lancashire have not only suffered no diminution, but have contributed their full share of the increase.

It is also a cause of unfeigned thankfulness that the Hibernian Auxiliary has been this year equally prosperous, and has contributed more than its proportion of the increase of the ordinary income. The following extract from the Annual Report of that Auxiliary is remarkably in harmony with the statements of the Parent Society:—

In the Report which was presented last year by the Committee of the Hibernian district of the Church Missionary Society, they had to speak with regret of a falling off in the funds contributed through them to the great work of Missions among the heathen. They have now, through the good hand of God upon them, cause to speak in a very different strain. The funds collected through their means, during the year 1861, not only made up amply for the deficiency of the former year, but largely exceed any sum ever contributed in one year in Ireland to the cause of the Church Missionary Society. In the year 1859 there was collected 6000*l.* 1*s.* 1*d.*, which was considerably larger than any year before. In the year 1860, the income fell to 5577*l.* 14*s.* 8*d.*; and now, for the year 1861, it has risen again, through the Lord's blessing, to 7539*l.* 16*s.* 2*d.*, being 1500*l.* more than 1859, and nearly 2000*l.* more than last year. It is true that a considerable portion of this large increase is owing to two legacies which were added to the funds of the Society during the past year, and such additions cannot be reckoned upon as a part of the permanent income of any Society. But the Committee are thankful to be able to state, that, not even counting these additions, and deducting those of a like kind from former years, the ordinary income of the Society from Ireland is larger than it has ever been before. For this steady advance in its ordinary funds the Committee are peculiarly thankful.

The sum of 2583*l.* 4*s.* 3*d.* has been this year contributed to the Special Fund for India.

The late "Loo Choo Missionary Committee," upon being compelled to close their operations in those islands, made over the funds in their hands to the Church Missionary Society, amounting to 654*l.*, in the hope that this Society may at some future time be enabled to commence a Mission there, or in the neighbouring islands of Japan, and that the present gift may prove an inducement to do so, as soon as the way shall appear providentially opened.

The sums raised and expended in the Missions, chiefly in North India, upon the operations of the Society, have again reached the large amount of 20,000*l.*

The Committee desire to render their humble and hearty praise to the Lord of the harvest for these large means which He has entrusted to their administration. They also record their cordial thanks to those zealous friends and Collectors who have given such a liberal response to their appeal for increased exertions. They would especially acknowledge their obligations to those influential clergymen and laymen who have undertaken the office of Honorary District Secretaries, and who have exerted themselves with much success to extend the interests of the Society in their respective districts.

EXPENDITURE.

The expenditure of the year has been greatly reduced, chiefly through exceptional causes which will not affect the current year. After placing to the account of the Special India Fund a due proportion of the disbursements in India, according to the original intention of that fund (see Annual Report, 1858, p. 212), the expenditure of the year stands as follows:—

	£	s.	d.
General Fund, payments ..	116,452	1	7
Disabled Missionaries, &c. ..	3,948	1	4
Total Ordinary Expenditure,	£120,400	2	11

The excess of the ordinary income above the ordinary expenditure has enabled the Committee to replace in the Capital Fund the deficit of last year, viz. 6100*l.* 12*s.* 11*d.* and also to augment that fund by the sum of 5450*l.*, being the excess of legacies beyond the average of the last five years. When these two sums are added to the expenditure, the accounts stand thus:—

	£	s.	d.
Income of the year	136,898	13	11
Expenditure of the year..	131,950	15	10
Balance in hand ..	£4,947	18	1

This balance, however, the Committee cannot regard as an available sum, until it is ascertained that the exceptional causes already alluded to do not involve an additional expenditure in the present year.

In the course of last year the Committee appealed for an additional 20,000*l.* of permanent income, in order to keep up existing Missions on their present scale. They thank God that a large proportion of this increase has been realized; and they trust that they may reckon upon the continuance of the exertions of their supporters until the exigencies of the Missions shall have been fully supplied.

NEW MISSION HOUSE.

The New Mission House having been completed, the business of the Society was transferred into the new premises on March 7, 1862, on which occasion the Committee met for the last time in the old house, and, having united in prayer, adjourned to the new Committee-room, where addresses were delivered, and prayer offered up for the continued presence and blessing of God in the operations of the Society.

PATRONAGE.

The Bishops of Gloucester and Bristol, of Madras, of Columbia, of Sodor and Man, and of St. Helena (since of Colombo), have signified their acceptance of the office of Vice-Presidents of the Society.

TREASURERSHIP OF THE SOCIETY.

Since the last Anniversary, the Society has sustained the loss of its Treasurer. The Committee, on the intelligence of the event, adopted the following minute:—

This Committee record the death of the Treasurer of the Society, John Thornton, Esq., with feelings of deep respect for his Christian character, and with a grateful sense of the benefit which the Society has enjoyed for nearly half a century in his official connection with an important branch of its management. In the year 1815, upon the death of Mr. Henry Thornton, the first Treasurer, Mr. John Thornton was elected to fill the office. He was the representative of an honoured name in the history of the Society, being the son of one of the first Vice-Presidents, the nephew of the first Treasurer, and the grandson and name-sake of one whose praise is in all the churches, and who, in an earlier day, signally upheld the principles which afterwards prompted his sons and a few faithful associates to found the Church Missionary Society. Through a long career of active public employment, our late Treasurer sustained his high hereditary reputation, and has left to the Society an eminent example of one in whom were united habits of business, a high moral tone, and undeviating courtesy, with the faith and life of a true Christian.

The Committee elected in Mr. Thornton's place, for the remainder of the year, Capt. the Hon. Francis Maude, R.N., V. P., a long tried and active friend of the Society; and they submit his name to this Meeting for confirmation as Treasurer of this Society.

THE ISLINGTON INSTITUTION.

The Principal, in his Annual Report, states—

There are few features of special interest to be submitted to the Committee in the Report of the present year. Remarks made in former Reports, with reference to the general spirit and conduct of the students, might, almost word for word, be repeated on the present occasion. The number of students resident has been larger than at any preceding period in the history of the Institution. A similar statement has been made in three previous Reports, on each occasion an increase of six having been announced. The present increase is not equally large. The average is 42 against 40 last year.

The number of students resident in the College at the last Meeting of 1861 was 39, and the number admitted since April 1861 is 14: hence the total number of those who have resided in the College for a longer or shorter period during the past year amounts to 53.

MISSIONARIES' CHILDREN'S HOME.

The number of children in the "Home" on the 31st of March 1862 was 32 boys and 33 girls; total, 65. The health of the children, and their progress in their studies, continue satisfactory.

ORDINATION OF MISSIONARIES.

Sixteen of the Society's candidates have been admitted to Holy Orders during the year—five by the Bishop of London; two by the Bishop of Madras in London, acting under the commission of the Bishop of London; three European Catechists by the Bishop of Sierra Leone; two Native Catechists by the Bishop of New Zealand; two Native Catechists by the Bishop of Waiapu; and two Native Catechists by the Bishop of Rupert's Land.

NUMBER OF MISSIONARY LABOURERS.

Of the European labourers reported last year, five have been removed by death, viz. three ordained and two unordained; seven ordained Missionaries have been removed from the list, on account of the failure of health or other causes; ten ordained and two unordained labourers have been sent from home during the year. Three European labourers having been admitted to holy orders in the West-Africa Mission, the present number of European labourers sent from home is as follows—

Abroad—
Ordained European Missionaries.....	170
Unordained European labourers	24
European Female Teachers	10	—204
At Home—
Ordained European Missionaries.....	25
Unordained European labourers	4
European Female Teachers	1	—30
Total....		234

Showing an increase of three, in the number of ordained European Missionaries, and a decrease of four in the number of unordained European labourers, and of two Female Teachers. The result is a decrease upon the whole of three Missionary labourers.

The number of ordained Country-born and Native labourers is seventy-one, including the Native Pastors in Sierra Leone.

Transition of the Mission into a self-supporting Native Church.

For several past years the Annual Reports have expressed the hope that the Society's earliest Mission of Sierra Leone would soon be placed upon a self-supporting system, independent of the Society's funds. Through the great goodness of God that hope has been fulfilled during the last year. Preparations had long been in progress for the accomplishment of this great and blessed consummation of Missionary labours. The late venerated Bishop Bowen of Sierra Leone had urged upon the people to institute a Native-Pastorate Fund for the endowment of a native ministry; and the present Bishop, Dr. Beckles, has ventured to cast the native church in the colony upon its own indigenous resources.

The result has fulfilled the most sanguine anticipations. Nine native ministers, hitherto supported and directed in their labours by the Church Missionary Society, were, on the 1st of November last year, declared to be the pastors of nine parishes of the native church of Sierra Leone, to be thenceforth supported by the funds of the native church, and to be under the direct superintendence of the Bishop of the Diocese and a church council.

These native pastors have accepted their new position in a spirit of manly independence, united with a filial and affectionate recognition of their past obligations to the Society.

Their sentiments were expressed in an address which deserves to be recorded in this Report.

To the Rev. H. Venn, Secretary, C. M. S.

Freetown, Sierra Leone, January 21*st*, 1861.

Rev. and Dear Sir,—We, the undersigned, formerly agents in the service of the Church Missionary Society, desire, at the present stage of our work, humbly to tender our heartfelt gratitude to Almighty God for the many religious privileges we enjoy through the Society as the honoured instrument in the hands of God. We have witnessed a material change in the character of our work. The Sierra-Leone Mission, sustained for more than fifty years by the self-denying zeal and liberality of British Christians, has, during the last year, passed from a Missionary state into a settled ecclesiastical establishment under the immediate superintendence of the Bishop.

This is the day which many of Africa's staunch friends, who had served her in her day and generation, would have rejoiced to see. The change which has just recently taken place in the condition of Sierra Leone is too important, we conceive, to be allowed to pass by without some special notice on our part.

The period seems a very fitting one for calm reflection. We would pause and consider the way in which the Lord has led this Mission from infancy to comparative manhood. We would call to mind that the seeds of the rich harvest, which gladden the hearts of all God's people, were sown years gone by, in much weakness, in tears—yea, in the blood of a host of martyrs who counted not their lives dear unto them; that we ourselves have been gratuitously educated in the first place, and then employed in the work in which we are now engaged; and that the congregations we are now serving have been gathered and carefully tended for more than half a century by your faithful Missionaries. These are privileges which call forth our gratitude at this important juncture. We pray that a thousand rich blessings from above may, in return, descend upon you.

The separation, we hope, is merely outward: inwardly we shall still be united in the indissoluble bonds of the Gospel—on our part by respect, affection, and gratitude; on your part, we trust, by your prayerful sympathy, counsel, and guidance.

May the congregations now under our pastoral care not take any hurt or hindrance by our negligence; but may they continue to grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. It is with feelings of thankfulmess that we record the willingness of our people to come forward for the support of the native ministry. About 600*l.* are being raised among them for this object. But the chief difficulty in the way is the dilapidated state of almost all our churches. And our people, backed by Bishop Beckles (whom may God preserve), are making vigorous efforts towards the restoration of our places of worship.

We will not take up much of your valuable time by any lengthened remarks; but, commending ourselves and work to the sympathy and prayer of the Committee,

We remain,

REV. AND DEAR SIR,

Yours respectfully,

	W. QUAKER.	JOHN. H. DAVIES.

The Society retains, for the present, two churches in Freetown and two in the country district, viz. Wilberforce and Waterloo. One of the churches in Freetown will form "the Mission Church." Wilberforce is suitable as a sanatorium station; and Waterloo will be a basis of operations for the heathen district of the Quiah country, lately annexed to the colony of Sierra Leone.

Already the native church of Sierra Leone has manifested new life and liberality in providing the means for supporting the native clergy, and for repairing their churches; and, by a spontaneous movement, they have lately established a "Pastoral-Aid Society," for strengthening the hands of the Bishop and the native pastors, by the assistance of scripture readers and catechists.

Pastoral work within the Colony.

As the pastoral work within the colony of Sierra Leone has now ceased to belong to a Missionary Report, the Committee take their leave of this subject by inserting the following brief review, by a native clergyman, of the state of the native church when transferred to an independent ecclesiastical basis—"If well-filled churches, combined with a spirit of devotion among many of our people, be a test of the Lord's presence, then we must believe that the Lord is with us of a truth. For our congregations are generally large: out of a population of 1300, including children, we have on an average 700 or 800 attendants at church on Sundays. Our morning prayer-meeting, which was dwindling to nothing, has been well attended. The catechist has generally 100 or 130 early worshippers daily at five o'clock.

"Again, if voluntary social prayer-meetings be a sign, we must believe that the Lord is with us; for Friday is becoming a sacred day with some of our people. Many of them sacrifice their worldly callings on that day for the purpose of prayer and praise. In every village, I believe, there have been established such prayer-meetings. If properly conducted, they are the greatest blessing to any station. Among all my members, those are the best visitors of the sick and careless ones who are connected with such voluntary social prayer-meetings. At Charlotte the flame seems to burn secretly and steadily. There is an earnestness manifested among the Liberated School-children, and the people and children in the village, that cannot be mistaken. I thought it was time that our sluggish souls should be aroused; and at a Conference Meeting of the ministers, catechists, and schoolmasters in the district, we decided that a general prayer-meeting should be held at Charlotte on the 26th of September, and Christians from the surrounding villages be invited to attend. On the day appointed the church at Charlotte, long before the hour, was filled with serious and devout Christians from Regent, Bathurst, Gloucester, and Leicester. Mr. Attara (a native catechist) conducted the meeting. He gave out a hymn, which was sung with great feeling by the whole congregation: I then gave a short address. Then followed four hymns and prayers in regular order, relieved by short addresses from two experienced Christians. One of these made a touching allusion to the days of Johnson and Butscher (former Missionaries), when the people were so zealous that they were wont to collect together in the middle of the day and in the dead of the night in the fields and burial-grounds for prayer. The congregation was deeply affected; whilst Mr. Attara confirmed every word by saying 'I know the time: I was one of the number:' and very feelingly added, 'Where is our zeal and our love now?' The people separated much edified.

"I believe the Lord is ready to open the windows of heaven to bless us; but we ourselves need to be baptized first. Surely much good must result from this meeting. We, indeed, begin to see it. The services of the church on the following Sunday, in the different stations, were largely attended. I invited the Rev. Mr. Thomas, of Gloucester, (native clergyman), to preach a sermon to my people on the importance of prayer. The Lord was no doubt present with him and with the congregation. Such was the interest excited, and he preached with such power, that the people signified their assent and full concurrence to all and every sentence of the preacher by nods and by deep and audible sighs; and, to say all the truth, I was unconsciously also drawn by the universal feeling of the whole congregation. I pray the Lord may raise up His power and revive His work in our hearts.

"Once more, if the spirit of liberality be a good criterion, and the Missionary spirit, wherever it exists, be a good test of the healthy state of any people, then we ought to believe and hope that the Lord is with us. The noble manner in which the people of Regent have come forward to repair their church has been mentioned in my Report. At Charlotte I was invited to preside over a meeting for the repairs of the church; and 14*l.* was collected, besides large promises. At Gloucester, where there is a good church, praiseworthy exertions have been made in behalf of the Native Pastorate. Regent has now four men labouring in their fatherland—Henry Green at Ibadan, John Smart, Thos. A. John, and Alexander Day, on the banks of the Niger. The people look upon them as their representatives, and always remember them in prayer at their social meetings. May we not consider this as an honour God has put upon the faithful labours of Johnson, Weeks, and others?"

The Bishop of Sierra Leone gives this most encouraging account of a late visitation of the diocese—"20*th of October*, 1861—"I preached twice at Kent, and confirmed 53 candidates, and addressed them. On the 21st, we went to York, when I confirmed 44, and preached and addressed the candidates. On the 22nd, I confirmed 40 at Bananas, and preached. On the 23rd, I met the people of Kent, and spoke to them, as I had also done at each of the other stations of the Pastorate. The re-opening of Regent church, Freetown, took place on November 3rd, when I gave the communion to 444 persons, besides the four clergy. Last Sunday I preached at Wellington, and gave the communion to 271. We had 788 in the congregation, including 90 who were at the doors and could not get in." The Bishop goes on to express his deep interest in the care of his diocese, and adds—"Although it has its trials—yea, many and great—yet it is a precious work; and I certainly experience great comfort and delight in it. Only uphold my hands by your fervent, earnest, and united prayers for us, which, presented perfumed with the all-prevailing intercession of our dear Redeemer, will, I am certain, bring down abundant and continued blessing; and to your prayers add your support and aid, that I be not discouraged in my arduous work."

Education.

The Society will still continue to maintain its superior educational establishments, as much for the invigorating of the native church, as for sustaining Missionary operations in the regions beyond.

The Fourah-Bay Theological Institution is still suspended for the present, until the state of society in the colony and the needs of the Mission shall authorize its being re-opened.

The Grammar School is under a native Principal, the Rev. James Quaker, and is wholly self-supporting. It affords a good general education to the population of the colony, based upon scriptural instruction and principles. Mr. Quaker reports of it, in his annual letter at the close of 1861—

You will be pleased to hear that, under God's blessing, our work still continues prospering, both in a temporal and spiritual point of view. The desire for instruction is becoming greater every year, consequently many more pupils than those who are leaving are being admitted here quarterly.

The comparatively superior qualification for business, &c., and steady moral deportment, manifested in some of those youths who have come under our instruction are the means whereby many a father has been led to inquire of us.

The school now numbers 87 pupils, of whom 43 are boarders. The average daily attendance at school is 77. Our schoolroom, measuring 50 ft. by 30 ft. out and out, is every day becoming too strait for us. However, this difficulty is well met by having classes in another room.

Since November last I have formed a Theological class, consisting of five pupils besides the three assistants, reading the Greek Testament and Nicholls' Help to the Bible. The teachers are reading Paley's Evidences also.

The moral tone of the school, which I greatly lamented in my last Report, I am thankful to be able at this time to state has been much improved: in fact, every thing seems to bid fair just now; but knowing too well the instability of the youthful character, I rejoice "with fear and trembling." During the term, both scholars and masters have been now and then engaged, after the hours of school, in raising money, principally by donations and weekly subscriptions of one penny, for the establishment of the native pastorate. The sum collected amounted to upwards of 12*l.*

The Female Institution has been under the charge of Miss Kœnig assisted by Miss Bywater. Miss Kœnig reports—

There are at present thirty scholars connected with our school: twenty are boarders, maintained by the Society and European friends: only four are provided for by their parents.

It is much to be regretted that the parents of the girls seem so careless about their daughters' education: for the boys they do much more, yet the girls who have been so long neglected, require especial care. Educated women are necessary to our rising colony, but mostly women who have Christian principles, and who seek after the adorning St. Peter speaks of in his 1st Epistle, chap. iii. She who has not this inward adorning proves rather a hindrance to her husband, especially when connected with Mission work. Not that we can change the heart, as we too well know that those on whom good hopes were once set have proved afterwards useless for the work in which we are engaged, but we try to train all the children up aright, let their situation be whatever it may.

We cannot help saying, with humble gratitude to our prayer-hearing God, that our work now is a pleasure, instead of being a heavy, weary task. At the close of the half-year an examination was held: all the friends, parents, and guardians of the pupils were invited. The Rev. E. Jones, the Secretary of the Society, was kind enough to be present, the ladies of the Committee, also the native ministers and catechists, who took part in the examination: they expressed themselves satisfied with the progress the children had made, and many said they had never expected them to know so much. They were pleased with the fancy work and plain sewing, as well as with the hymns and songs sung on the occasion.

The Liberated-African Female School is under the charge of Mrs. Clemens, who has sustained her labours in Africa since her husband's death. She has transmitted an interesting Report of her charge at Charlotte, dated May 1861—"With satisfaction could I select and recommend 36 of their number for holy baptism; and the happy event took place on Feb. 10th, when Mr. Nicol from Regent (the native pastor) kindly came to perform the solemn act in the presence of a crowded congregation. Two days later our Bishop held a confirmation at Regent, and 17 of the elder girls were confirmed, and partook on Good Friday, for the first time, of the Lord's Supper. I cannot describe my feelings of deep thankfulness at being spared to see such days in Africa. Since the week of prayer in the beginning of this year, in which all the district joined so heartily, much fervency of prayer has been felt, both among our children, who met continually in groups among themselves for common edification, and among the village people, especially the younger classes. The work began gradually and very quietly, which is more to be valued among natives so generally excitable. A few began to hold prayer-meetings once a week in their own houses; by-and-bye the place was too small for them; they hired one of the larger houses, and separated males and females, choosing very properly the morning for the latter's, the evening for the former's, assemblies. A goodly number have been confirmed. Several made, in their meetings, confession of their sins. Many are the good fruits in their habits, daily life, and conversation, as we can with thankful hearts acknowledge. But we still hope for more: it is but the day of small things yet. May you also be refreshed by the cup of our blessings, and help us to pray more earnestly that the few droppings may soon turn into heavenly showers upon us and all this colony."

At the close of the year Mrs. Clemens writes in equally encouraging terms:—

The good hopes which I expressed in my last accounts I can, to the praise and glory of God, confirm. The work is a real and a growing one amongst my children and the village people. Prayer is answered exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think. In a few weeks I trust to have again about twenty children taken into the visible church of Christ by baptism: they have been long under preparation, and are very anxious for it. The meetings for mutual edification and prayer are not only kept up by those who first began them in this place, but they are mutiplied. Of late the people who take no part in the religious movement, as well as some remaining heathen, are visited by the others. A Young-Men's Christian Association has also been formed, which meets twice a week under the guidance of our two able schoolmasters. Is it not a great privilege to serve such a faithful, loving God? Have we not every reason to thank Him for his mercies, to work and pray to be instant in season and out of season, and to trust Him for the future? He has fulfilled in us the precious words, 'With favour will I encompass them as with a shield.'

Missions beyond the Colony.

The Sierra-Leone Mission will, the Committee trust, become henceforth a purely Missionary branch of the Society's operations. Already the Missionaries have undertaken exploratory tours into the surrounding country, and a Missionary settlement has been formed on the Bullom shore, the scene of the labours of one of the early Missionaries of the Society, Nyländer. A native teacher has been placed there. Many baptized Sierra-Leone people, it was found, had settled amongst the heathen, and had become scarcely distinguishable from them in their social and religious character. The native catechist writes, upon his first arrival amongst the Bulloms:—

Some of the Sierra-Leone people expressed their joy to see us. Many said that they have been here for a long time—some six to thirteen, fifteen, and twenty-five years—without a Christian teacher or guide to direct and teach them in the ways of religion, which they had once tasted, whilst in the colony, to be sweet and pleasant; being obliged, through want and necessity, to settle and remain in this country, where they could no longer enjoy the ordinances of the Lord's house, and join in his worship and service. They are now resolved, by the grace of God, to begin afresh in the work of their souls' salvation. I was truly cheered when I heard these words, and was inclined, from these statements, to hope that I am not altogether among those who are enemies to God, and strangers to the covenant, but that there may be some few, if not many, who have felt the power of religion in their souls.

The Committee add an interesting review of the first year's labours in this new Mission by Mr. Binns, the Missionary stationed at Pademba Road Church in Freetown; as they trust they may regard it as a pledge that the European staff in Sierra Leone will henceforth regard the work beyond the colony as an object for their zealous interest and co-operation—

On the opposite side of the river Sierra Leone, facing Freetown, about six miles distant, lies the low swampy shore of Bullom. Close to the beach is a town called Yongroo, which consists of about 40 huts with near 300 inhabitants. Here, many years ago, the Church Missionary Society commenced a Mission, but were obliged, after six years' labour, to abandon the station. Lately the local Committee at Sierra Leone have had their attention again drawn to this place, on account of the many Sierra-Leone people who have gone over to reside there for the purpose of farming, &c., and who were destitute of any means of grace: it is also a heathen town, and it was thought that an opening might be made there for the preaching of the Gospel. It was decided at the half-yearly conference of Missionaries held at Freetown in April last, that a deputation should go over and ascertain if the king and people were disposed to receive us, and how far it would be desirable to commence a Mission there. Accordingly, on April 22nd the Rev. E. Jones and myself went over. We had a most favourable reception from the king and several chiefs from the surrounding country, who happened to be at Yongroo that day, whither they had come to settle a palaver. Learning that we had important business to bring before them, they put off their own affairs till the following day. A regular court now assembled in the palaver house, a large building used for such purposes, which was simply a shed neatly thatched, supported by posts, and surrounded by a low mud wall, which answered the purpose of a seat. Besides the king and eight or ten chiefs, there were present from thirty to forty persons: some were Mohammedans, some heathen, and a few nominal Christians. As the business proceeded, many more crowded round the house. After a formal introduction, Mr. Jones stated, through an interpeter, the object of our visit—that we were representatives of the Church Missionary Society; that our desire was to seek permission of the king to send over an agent to reside among them, in order to teach their children and instruct the people in the word of God; and, in the event of their giving us permission, to grant us a portion of land for building purposes. After further conversation and explanation, the court retired to another house, in order to consult privately. They returned in about two hours, apparently pleased at the result of their deliberations, for they again shook hands with us. The king said—the chief of Modena acting as interpreter—that if we did not in any way interfere with their slaves we should be welcome. He explained, that although they kept slaves, it was not for the purpose of carrying on traffic in them, but merely to be employed as servants and labourers. He said, also, that he was willing to grant us a portion of land wherever we pleased. We readily assented to the proposals, and subsequently selected a large vacant space of ground convenient to the town. When leaving, the king and others accompanied us to the beach, and cordially bade us farewell. No time was lost in sending over a suitable native teacher to commence the work in this new sphere of labour. Mr. Boston, a teacher trained by the Church Missionary Society, and who had for some time been labouring at Bathurst, in the colony, was selected for the purpose. A dwelling-house was erected for him, and, until a suitable building could be made for holding services, school, &c., the king granted the use of the palaver house for this purpose. From the first a congregation of from thirty to forty assembled each Sunday to hear the word of God read and expounded: most of those who attend have had the advantage of Christian instruction in Sierra Leone, and can speak English. The natives of Bullom speak a language of their own: an interpreter was therefore needed, in order that they might hear the "good tidings of great joy." God has graciously raised up one suitable for the purpose in the person of the king's son, a young man who was educated at the Church Missionary Society's Grammar School, Sierra Leone. He can speak both languages well, and in other respects seems a most suitable person to act in concert with Mr. Boston in teaching the people. The king died shortly after our visit, and has been succeeded by one equally favourable to us.

For the last few months, among Mr. Boston's most regular attendants was to be found an old woman, who cannot be less than 100 years of age, since some of her great-grandchildren are grown up. Soon after Mr. Boston commenced his labours he visited this old woman, and tried, with the assistance of the interpreter, to induce her to attend the means of instruction. For some time all efforts proved unavailing. At length her mind seemed suddenly to change: she became not only willing, but eager for instruction. She promised to give up her heathen practices, to mind only those things that were taught her from the word of God: her idols she brought to Mr. Boston to destroy. She continued to attend the daily morning class, and it became increasingly evident, from her willingness to hear, and her conduct generally, that a change more than human was taking place. The nature of baptism was explained to her, and she expressed a wish to be baptized. Another incident took place at this time which is worthy of note. The chief of Modena, a Mohammedan, happened to be at Yongroo one Sunday, and attended the service; he was remarked as being very attentive throughout, especially during the discourse. The subject referred to king Ahab. When the service was ended, the chief shook hands with Mr. Boston, and thanked him for his discourse, and requested that he might be permitted to call on him the following day, to hear the same chapter read and further explained. He came accordingly, and after receiving the desired instruction, requested Mr. Boston to write out some portions for him, saying that when any one came to see him who could read English he would have it read in his hearing as a warning, that he as a king might not fall into the same sin as king Ahab. This is an encouraging and interesting fact. The Mohammedans generally will not listen to the word of God, and avoid every question and occasion for conversation on the subject of religion.

On Wednesday, November 13th, the Bishop, accompanied by Mrs. Beckles, the Rev. E. Jones, and myself, paid a visit to the Mission. Previous notice of his lordship's intended visit had been given, consequently the natives and people did not go to farm, but observed the day as a general holiday. We were received on the beach by Mr. Boston and a number of his congregation. On our way to the town we were met by the new king, who greeted us cordially, and accompanied us to the teacher's house. It was arranged that service should be held at eleven o'clock, and that also the old woman previously referred to should be admitted to the rite of baptism, since there was good reason to hope that she was, through grace, a believer in Jesus. The Bishop and Mr. Jones robed at the catechist's house, and proceeded through part of the town to the palaver-house, much to the astonishment, and, no doubt, admiration of the people. Mrs. Beckles also seemed an object of much interest, for many years must have elapsed since an European lady had visited the town of Yongroo. The house was filled with people: probably from 80 to 100 were present: several heathen stood round during the service. We were all much struck with the appearance of the old woman. She was dressed in white, with a white kerchief tied round her head in the usual manner, and was supported by a long staff. The questions and other parts of the baptismal service were interpreted for her. To the questions she responded in her own words, apparently with much feeling. When the Bishop was about to apply the water she kneeled down and removed the kerchief from her head, showing a head of hair perfectly white, owing to her extreme age. Its appearance was very singular, for she herself was particularly dark. Her conduct throughout was most becoming, evincing intelligence and an inward feeling of peace and solemnity. We were not unmoved. The service was unusually impressive and interesting, both on account of her remarkable age, and as she is apparently the first-fruits of the infant Mission. Two infants were also baptized. The Bishop afterwards preached a sermon, one well calculated, with God's blessing, to unite their hearts together, and make them feel that they had our sympathies and prayers. His lordship's text was, "Come, let us join ourselves to the Lord in a perpetual covenant that shall not be forgotten." (Lev. i. 5.)

Missionary tours have also been made in the Sherbro and Timneh countries; but no practical steps have yet been taken for the opening of Missions in those parts. Though a large tract of country called the Quiah country, in the midst of the Timnehs, has been added to the colony, the civil wars which prevail render it impossible at present to commence operations. Mr. Menzies visited the old Mission station of Magbeli, but found the town deserted and in ruins from the effects of the war.

General Review of the Yoruba Mission.

THE year under review has been a very eventful one in the Yoruba Mission. The civil war, mentioned in the last Report, has continued to desolate the country, to check all social advancement, and to excite bitter enmity between towns which had been but lately united together by a common interest in the message of the Gospel. The hostile armies of Ibadan and Abbeokuta were encamped before Ijaye. Many battles have been fought; till at last the army of Ibadan put that of Abbeokuta to flight, and destroyed Ijaye.

The destruction of Ijaye took place in March 1862, subsequently to the close of the year now under review. Thus a station of the Mission is lost on which much patient labour had been bestowed by a resident Missionary for years, and a little flock of native Christians has been dispersed or carried into captivity.

The Committee bow with humble submission to this afflictive dispensation which has visited the Yoruba Mission.

It has pleased God also to visit the Mission with several strokes of the hand of death. Mrs. Bühler died at the beginning of 1861, only a few weeks after her landing in Africa; Mr. Fladt, an European catechist, died in July; and Mr. Wilcoxon has been since taken away. Both were young men, who only left Europe two years ago. Mrs. Mann died at sea soon after her departure for Europe.

Another important event during the last year is of an encouraging kind. The island of Lagos was ceded by the king and chiefs to Great Britain on the 6th of August 1861. It has now become a British colony. As such, it will afford a sure basis of operations for the Yoruba Mission; and it will prove, it may be hoped, of great advantage to Africa, in the more effectual suppression of the slave-trade in that region, by affording a safe market and outlet for internal trade, and by otherwise promoting the pacification and civilization of the country.

LAGOS.

Mr. Maser has had charge of the station of Lagos during the last year, assisted by the native minister, the Rev. W. Morgan. Another native minister, the Rev. T. B. Macaulay, has charge of the Bread-Fruit Chapel, as well as being Principal of the Grammar School. The native Christians in connexion with the Mission are about 450. Mr. Maser writes, at the close of the year—

I have to be thankful to God for the zeal of some of the elders of my church, who, after having been called upon to help me in the work of looking after the congregation, have cheerfully come forward, and I perceive to my comfort that the Lord has worked upon their hearts. But I feel I want to be more diligent in bringing this congregation into a moving and growing state of life. The Lord delights to do this through the pastors of his flock. There must be line upon line, admonition and encouragement must be increasingly exercised. May the Lord grant this to his servants in this place. We can trace many improvements in the religious state of our town to the week of prayer which we held last year. May the Lord grant that some vigorous shoots of spiritual life may come out from the week of prayer we are now holding.

The Rev. T. B. Macaulay, in addition to his charge of the Bread-Fruit Chapel, is the Principal of a Grammar School in which a sound middle-class education is given to twenty-five pupils. The pupils pay fees for their education sufficient to cover the whole expense of tuition.

A public examination of the Grammar School was held in August, at which the acting Governor presided, and the pupils acquitted themselves with much credit in Euclid and arithmetic, English grammar and English history, and in the elements of Latin and Greek.

There are several vernacular schools, containing in all more than 200 children.

Badagry.

Badagry was the first station occupied at the commencement of the Yoruba Mission. More than one Missionary brother and sister sacrificed their lives to impart the Gospel to the people. The Committee are therefore unwilling to abandon the spot. The inhabitants chiefly consist of a tribe, the Popoes, peculiarly opposed to Christianity. The native teacher, Mr. Sam. Pearce, stationed at Badagry, holds divine service and superintends a school: his annual letter states—

Though I cannot speak of any manifest progress, yet there has been a measure of improvement which should not be overlooked. By virtue of the restriction in force, the Sabbath has been better observed than in any previous year. With regard to the Popoes, their case is truly distressing. "The harvest is past, the summer is ended and we are not saved," is very appropriate to them. Notwithstanding all our endeavours to reach their hearts, they are so stupified by the excess of superstition and lies that they will sooner die than part with their fetishes. So directly opposite are they to our expectations, that at the year's end only one consolation is left us, viz. we have done our duty to this people. Still that is no reason why they should be abandoned: their conversion must necessarily be a slow and gradual work. We need an equal measure of grace and patience to carry on the work, fully confident that "with God nothing is impossible." The great difficulty and drawback to our work here is the want of means to keep, as boarders under Christian training, some at least of their children, who will in course of time rise in place of their parents, and defend the Gospel. This is the only means of bettering the condition of the Popoes. The afternoon school on the Sabbath is more decidedly and regularly attended by fifteen adults and twelve children: these are domestic attendants to some of the congregation. The number of daily school attendants amounted to thirty-five last year, but we had to mourn the loss of one by death, and this has reduced our present number to thirty-four, all of whom are regular attendants. It is remarkable that of this number only one is a real Popo: of the rest, some are old boarders' children, a few from Brazilian emigrants, and the rest from abroad.

Porto Novo is a town lying on the lagoon, about fifty miles westward of Badagry. It has long been a famous slave-mart, in league with Dahomey. In the course of last summer a gun-boat from the squadron visited the place, but was immediately attacked by war canoes and by artillery from the shore. The fire being returned, the town was soon brought to submission, and a treaty was afterwards entered into by the king and chiefs for the suppression of the slave-trade. Mr. Maser immediately took advantage of the opening to propose to the king to permit Missionaries to establish themselves in Porto Novo. The permission was readily granted. It is hoped that this station may be soon occupied.

Otta.

The native minister, the Rev. James White, has continued in charge of this out-station during the last year. The number of Christians is eighty. He reports some progress in the congregation, though the unsettled state of the country has been a great hindrance to the Gospel. Some attempt has been made at this place to introduce an organization among the converts for mutual edification and co-operation in good works. Mr. White writes—

A Society has been organized by the leading members of our congregation, the object of which is to render relief to their sick and distressed brethren, who may deserve their sympathy and support, either by working the farms of such as are disabled, or by granting them money. The members also bind themselves to observe all the rules of Christianity, and to check any impropriety which may be discovered in each other. They hold a prayer-meeting generally after our Lord's-day evening service, when they engage in singing, reading, and praying, in imitation of the female portion of our congregation, who hold a prayer-meeting usually after the morning service, conducted by Mrs. White; at which times a few strings of cowries are collected for the poor and sick converts. Of late a subscription of twelve heads of cowries (twelve dollars) was made, and placed at my disposal for procuring medicines, native or European.

ABBEOKUTA.

Mr. Townsend left Abbeokuta in February 1861, on a visit to England. The European Missionaries who remained were the Rev. C. A. Gollmer, Rev. G. F. Bühler, Rev. J. Buckley

Wood, Dr. Harrison, and four catechists, Messrs. Lieb, Roper, Faulkner, and Wilcoxon. The town is divided into four districts, one of which is under the charge of the native Missionary, the Rev. Thomas King. The native Christians in Abbeokuta number nearly 1500. The communicants are more than 500.

Mr. Gollmer, the senior Missionary, has charge of the Ikija district and the out-stations on the west of Abbeokuta. He gives the following review of the year—

Our faithful covenant God has graciously brought us to the close of another year, praised be his holy name! Many and great events have taken place during the year, which will render it one much to be remembered and spoken of by posterity. The many deaths of great and influential chiefs at Abbeokuta, Ijaye, Jebu, and other towns, stand foremost on the page of history; and then follow the great alliance against Ibadan, the defence of Ijaye, the firm stand of the allies against the assaults of the Ibadan army, the rising of the Egbado people, the cession of Lagos to the British crown, and other important events; and last, though not least, the triumph of Christ our King and the increase of his kingdom.

Mr. Bühler gives the following review of the general state of the Mission during the last year—

The last year has been a most trying one for myself. The interior is still shut up to our operations—if not entirely, at least to a large extent. The contending armies are still in and around Ijaye: many a battle has been fought, many a life has been lost by sword, or slavery, or starvation; trade has suffered much, farming has been partly neglected; the mutual jealousy has grown into a cruel hatred; many who have in time of peace been traders in cotton and oil, are in the camp, and have largely defiled themselves with kidnapping, chiefly of those whom they ought to have protected; many a family has been ruined; many a soul has been hurried before the judgment-seat of God; many a little peaceable farming village has been broken up. West from Abbeokuta it is unsafe to travel: kidnappers from different towns infest the woods. To the north we cannot go beyond Ijaye, and even to that place only by joining an armed caravan: in that direction, and towards Ibadan, farms which have produced fine cotton and plenty of corn and yams are now a desolation.

During the second half of the year two human sacrifices have been offered up in Abbeokuta to procure the favour of the idols. The first was offered up with the sanction of the authorities, and in the presence of the king's representative; the second time—only a few days after the former treaty had been renewed, and in which human sacrifices were abolished, by English officers—the king denied participation, but nobody believes that. The king (or Alake), though in our favour, is nevertheless superstitious, and, in company with his elders or counsellors, will do a great deal for money. The priest who offered up the second human sacrifice died just a week after he had performed his horrible deed.

Our work has not been in vain during the last year. Though few adults have been baptized, yet there is a very considerable number of candidates for baptism in Ake. I have observed that prejudice against Christianity is gradually dying away: people come to Sunday school or church, and listen for half-an-hour or an hour, and go away again. I have never met with any opposition during the past year when preaching in the town. Hundreds have more or less knowledge of our holy religion, and are waiting for a more favourable opportunity to embrace Christianity publicly. Our Christians form a considerable body: persecution would not be an easy matter now. But Abbeokuta must still be more preached over. Thousands keep aloof who must be visited in their own houses or in their farms. Street preaching, as carried on hitherto, is not sufficient. Secular business occupies too much time with Europeans who are in charge of large stations, and have the superintendence of many native agents. Our native agency wants, in some measure, a re-organization; and, above all, an outpouring of the Holy Ghost, which alone will make our machinery effective. There are among our agents some who labour diligently; but there are some who pursue worldly business whenever a favourable opportunity offers itself. A want of self-sacrifice, of energy, of love for winning souls for Christ's sake, and of heavenly-mindedness, is what I deplore in many of them: anxious cares for the future, for making provision for their families, occupy the thoughts of some.

The progress of the work in Abbeokuta becomes still more manifest if the retrospect is extended a few years back. Mr. Wood, in an earlier letter, takes such a retrospect.

Notwithstanding all its tossing, the little church in this country is safely kept by its great Head. There are, to one who has been absent for three years, many indications that the work is still advancing with rapid steps. This is specially observable in Abbeokuta. Since I left, in the beginning of 1858, the new church at Ake has been in great measure rebuilt. The church at Ikija has been enlarged, also that at Igbein. The congregations at all these places are large: that at Ake is very large. To see this noble building, filled as it is on the Sabbath, would not a little refresh the hearts of the friends of Missions to the heathen, and the well-wishers of Africa. There are many evident signs of spirituality of mind; whilst there is reason to hope and believe that not a few are advancing towards "the knowledge of the Son of God unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ." Many, I believe, prove real Missionaries amongst those who are of their own circle. The leaven of the Gospel has in some degree leavened all Abbeokuta. All know more or less of the truths of Christianity. "White man's religion" is talked of by all parties.

Several of the Missionaries point out the indirect effects of the disastrous civil war as favourable to the progress of Christianity, especially by shaking the confidence of the heathen in their idols and idolatrous charms. Mr. B. Wood thus alludes to this circumstance—

I feel convinced that the number of idolaters has of late greatly decreased. It is one of the very few good results that can be expected from the civil war, that idolatry has been brought into disrepute—shaken to its very foundation. Its advocates, at the beginning of the war, promised much, and have done nothing; nay, less than nothing, for their promises caused a false security among those who went to the war, as well as those who remained at home. Defeat came when they were led to expect victory; hence they were regarded as deceivers. I believe many show an outward regard for the religion of their forefathers, feeling, at the very time, it is utterly false. Many have almost left the forms of idolatry, or use them only for their own convenience; and many there are who are convinced of the truth of Christianity who dare not, or are unwilling, to come out openly for fear of persecution. There never was a time when it was more necessary that the Gospel should be faithfully, earnestly, and prayerfully preached in this town than the present. A variety of circumstances have tended, but especially the "leaven" of the Gospel, to show the vanity of trusting in idols: many see this and feel it. Before such persons the Gospel of a crucified Saviour should at once be preached, and its claims urged upon them, for at a later period, the work, will in all probability, be more difficult.

In addition to these general views of the Mission, Mr. Wood thus describes the state of Ake church and congregation, which have been under his charge since Mr. Townsend's departure—

The first Yoruba service is held at 6. 30 A.M., the other at 4. 30 P.M.: the attendance at these is excellent, especially in the afternoon, when the church is quite filled to the doors, and some listen at the windows. We have also a week-day service every Thursday evening. In addition to these, a united prayer-meeting to pray for the restoration of peace and tranquillity in this country has, with two or three exceptions, been held every Monday afternoon during the whole of the past year. Besides which we have monthly prayer-meetings at the various stations in turn, also two meetings weekly in this station, more of a local character.

The class of candidates for baptism now numbers 95 adults. The increase during the year 1861 has been 64 adults—33 males and 31 females. Some of this number are the parents of young children, whom they are not only willing, but desirous to have instructed and trained in the Christian religion. In this class are to be met with many different characters and apparent degrees of sincerity. Some seem really in earnest, and give manifest tokens that the Holy Spirit is working in them. These are such as have passed through much domestic persecution from their heathen relatives, but have remained stedfast in their profession of the Gospel. In some cases they have been compelled wholly to separate themselves from their heathen relatives, and seek homes amongst the converts. Others have overcome open opposition, and are now tolerated as Christians: having thus dearly purchased the privilege of attending to their souls' eternal interests, they appear to value them proportionately highly. They afford much more hope and encouragement as a whole than those whose course has not been beset with the like difficulties, although some of these appear quite in earnest. The class of candidates for the Lord's Supper is in number 127. Many of them are young men and young women, who have been brought up in Christianity, but do not show that earnestness and heart-interest in it we earnestly desire. They were put into this class by Mr. Townsend, that their stedfastness might be tested, and also because their being in this class gives him more influence over them. I think the plan a very good one.

It is a question upon which the Missionary in this town cannot think without some degree of anxiety, What will our young men be? Like many young men in parishes in England, they have been for years under Christian instruction, the way of salvation by Jesus Christ alone is unceasingly set before them; but with some, perhaps not a few, it never seems to reach their hearts. There is no party in our congregations that so much need our earnest intercession that the Holy Spirit may be poured upon them—that the word preached may bring forth fruit abundantly. Their intelligence is considerably above the average of young men in this country. They have been, with perhaps some exceptions, in the Mission schools for years. Already they have a most important influence for evil or for good. We want to draw them to us closer. We want their co-operation with us in our work: if it can be gained, it will be of incalculable benefit, whilst their opposition would be a most serious drawback.

Mr. Lieb has charge of the Owu station, and reports that, upon his entrance on the station, in March 1861, the work had sadly fallen back, from its having been committed to an inefficient native teacher. He is himself only studying the language, and obliged, therefore, to employ an interpreter, but he speaks with much hope.

I feel truly thankful in being able to state that there has been a silent but steady progress of the Gospel around the Owu hill. It is up-hill work indeed, and my heart sunk a little at there being no inquirers for the truth, for the first few months of my labours here. The attendance on divine service has steadily increased, especially during the last quarter of the year. You perceive that I am not yet able to speak of considerable results of my humble labour, and if I could, I should do so with a little caution, as I have often the painful experience, that when we speak too much about the results of our work, it seems as if the blessing of the Lord would depart from it. The communicants meet weekly for instruction at one hour, and the candidates for baptism at another. Many of them make a satisfactory progress in religious knowledge, and are orderly in their conversation. Such tokens are cause for much thankfulness.

The native minister, the Rev. T. King, thus describes the effect of the word of God upon the people, in connexion with the completion of the translation of the New Testament—

The converts have now the great privilege of reading in our own tongue the whole mysteries of Jehovah's new dispensation of grace and mercy through the propitiation of a crucified Saviour for the redemption of a ruined world. I find it always a great comfort to the preacher, and unspeakable advantage to the hearers, to give lectures on those passages that are translated and become familiar to the people. Nothing is so profitable to the people as giving them lessons on the translated portions of the Scriptures, as well as reading the same for themselves when they return home. How much do I deplore my constant attacks of illness, by which I have been so often prevented from carrying on my translational labours with greater speed and promptitude, when Mr. Crowther was away.

Education.

Within a few years of the commencement of the Yoruba Mission, measures were adopted for the supply of well-trained native agents by the establishment of a Training Institution at Abbeokuta. Mr. Bühler undertook its management, and has very ably discharged his task. He wisely combines the three branches of education—sound and scriptural instruction, the knowledge of practical sciences, and the formation of habits of active usefulness. "The pupils receive instruction from nine o'clock till two in the afternoon; from three to five o'clock manual labour. Four of them receive one hour's medical instruction daily from Dr. Harrison. On Sundays they are all usefully employed as Sunday-school teachers." The instruction comprises reading and writing in Yoruba and English, grammar, arithmetic, geography, general history, natural philosophy, and daily study of the holy Scriptures. Mr. Bühler reports, July 1861—

The number of pupils I found on my arrival was twelve. One of them was soon afterwards handed over to the Baptist Missionary, the Rev. Mr. Philipps, at his special request, to teach about sixty Ijaye children, who were brought down on account of the war. I have admitted five pupils; so that the whole number under instruction is sixteen. On the 19th July we held our half-yearly examination in the presence of almost all the Society's Missionaries, European and native, in Abbeokuta and Osielle. The result was in every respect encouraging. Mr. Allen, my native assistant, has supported me faithfully. Messrs. Faulkner and Wilcoxon gave also their valuable assistance since February.

At the close of the year, Mr. Bühler is able to give this encouraging view of the Institution—

Respecting my Institution, I am glad to be able to report favourably. Sixteen pupils have been under instruction during the last year: one has been appointed, and some more will shortly be, appointed assistant schoolmasters. Several of them are well gifted, promising young men. They have conducted themselves well, and, as Christians, have laboured diligently, and, I may say, prayerfully: they have attended our weekly and monthly prayer-meeting, and had prayer-meetings, among themselves. Paley's Evidences have interested them highly, and I believe they have profited by it. On the whole there has been a steady progress in knowledge and Christian principles. Some have made very good progress, and give proofs of sincere piety.

Among other proofs of sincere piety, Mr. Bühler mentions the following interesting fact—

One of my pupils has been offered ten dollars (at 4*s.* 6*d.*) per month, by a merchant who wanted to engage him as a clerk, but he refused, though at present he gets only one dollar and a half per month for his subsistence, and when employed as a schoolmaster he will only get four dollars. His mother also would not have it, but said to him, "Oh, I thank God that you are privileged to work in God's vineyard." This shows, at least to a certain degree, that his heart is in the work.

Mr. Bühler also acts as a school inspector over all the schools of the Society in Abbeokuta, and reports a satisfactory progress. So earnest is the desire of the children to learn English, that he has been induced to lay down the rule that they must first be able to read their own native language, before they are advanced into the English class. He rightly judges that Scripture must always be taught in the mother tongue.

The education of the young men has happily excited a desire for female education of a superior character to that which is given in the vernacular day schools. The Committee are therefore anxious to establish a Female Institution upon the principle of that in Sierra Leone, as soon as a suitable European mistress can be found. The following notice in the journals of the Missionaries will show how well the Christian congregations are prepared to welcome and to assist in the support of such an institution—

On Monday, July 11th, at eleven A.M., a Church Missionary meeting was held in Ake church. The proceedings were in Yoruba, with the exception of two speeches, which were translated. There was a good attendance. The meeting lasted till three P.M., when there was a collection, which is expected altogether to amount to 25*l*. This sum is devoted to the Female Institution, which it is intended shortly to establish in Abbeokuta.

Mr. Lamb, in a visit to Ake, gives a pleasing notice of the Sunday school—

In the afternoon I accompanied Mr. Bühler to the Sunday school, of which he is superintendant. A great number attend. Near the door there is an inquirers' class, and when people passing by stop to listen, Mr. Bühler goes out and tempts them in. It was very amusing to see his gestures &c., persuading them, and I was reminded of the passage "being crafty, I caught you with guile." At the close several of the men and women repeat what they remember of the morning Yoruba sermon, which, the schoolmaster informed me, some of them do very well.

Osielle.

The out-station of Osielle has been, from its first formation, under the charge of a native minister, the Rev. William Moore. In his annual letter, Mr. Moore expresses his hope that the calamities of the war may prove in the end a benefit to the cause of the Gospel, which he illustrates by a Yoruba proverb, "that a man who is beaten, when the pain is over is a different man from one who has not been beaten at all." The number of native Christians under his charge is 130. The church being out of repair, Mr. Moore called his people together, and represented to them the need of their undertaking the repairs of their own place of worship. One of his congregation, a common Yoruba farmer, exhorted his fellow-Christians to respond to the call, by urging, that if our faith do not constrain us to love, and to action for Christ, it is dead, and we shall never gain any thing by it. He then referred to the Missionaries, the books, the clothes, which Christians in England sent to Africa, as a proof of their living faith, and called upon Africans to show the same life in their faith. The congregation cordially undertook the whole charge of keeping the church in repair.

The out-stations to the north of Abbeokuta have all been suspended through the ravages of the civil war.

ISHAGA.

The station of Ishaga, on the west, was sustained by a zealous native teacher throughout the year 1861, as the European catechist, Mr. Smith, was absent on a visit to England for recruiting his health. Subsequently to the close of the year now under review, viz. on March 5, 1862, this town, of 3000 or 4000 inhabitants, has been wholly destroyed by the wicked and cruel onslaught of the king of Dahomey. The place was invested in the night by an overwhelming force, and the whole of the population taken prisoners. One-third were slaughtered on the spot, and the rest carried away into the territory of Dahomey, some to become human sacrifices at a royal "custom," and some to be sold to the slavers which infest the coasts, notwithstanding the vigilance of the cruisers. Such are the horrible atrocities to which the foreign slave-trade invites the heathen chiefs of Africa! So active is Satan, the murderer from the beginning, in counteracting all the beneficial labours of the messengers of Christ! Nevertheless, we have the assured encouragement, that even these calamities shall work for the advancement of the kingdom of peace and righteousness; and that the Lord will interpose at the right time to check the fury of the oppressor.

The native teacher and the whole of the Christian community were involved in the common calamity, and their fate has not yet been ascertained.

IJAYE.

Ijaye has been a "doomed" city during the last year. The Ibadan army gradually encircled it, while the Egba army, by their professed assistance, served only to prolong a hopeless contest, and to consume the food in the town. Mr. Mann nobly remained at his post, sustaining, in a great measure, a neutral character, and often attending to the wounded on both sides. The death of the tyrant of Ijaye, Are, relaxed in some degree the restraints upon the profession of Christianity, but the people were too much distracted by fear and sufferings to listen to the preacher. Mr. Mann's encouragement was chiefly derived from the care and instruction of thirty children, some of them fifteen years old, who, by the death of their parents, had become wholly dependent upon the Mission, and who were forming the nucleus of a congregation, which was increased by twenty or thirty adults who regularly attended the services of the church. In his annual letter Mr. Mann writes—

I do not repent undertaking the charge of these orphans; in fact, it is the only encouraging part of our work. It was our pleasure to see boys and girls emerging out of heathen ignorance and darkness. Pride of knowledge may, even in African youths, grow up, though perhaps not rise into a passion. Boys and girls of ten or fifteen years learn to read the Scriptures tolerably well in from seven to nine months: the boys have advanced to writing and addition. All learn select passages, arranged according to the plan of salvation, and learn hymns composed here or translated. A blessing can hardly fail to rest on the congregation. The voice of praise is again heard in church, after a silence of two years, under the direction of Mrs. Mann. The secret of my uninterrupted health and strength is I think, early rising (which enables me to meet my congregation in morning prayers, mind and body always engaged) and the use of cold bathing. Thus in the midst of trouble we sing of the mercies of the Lord. (Ps. ciii. 1—5.)

Many Ijaye refugees, when they reached Abbeokuta, gave heed to the message of the Gospel, which they had heard in vain in their native town. Mr. Bühler writes—

Many more Ijaye people have joined the church in Abbeokuta, or placed themselves under instruction, during the last year, than during the last eight or nine years in Ijaye. Those who were too proud to listen to the word of God, and were ashamed to enter the house of God, humbled by misery and tribulation, have here sought the Lord as their refuge.

Though the destruction of Ijaye took place in the present year, it will be well to refer to it in this Report, in order to complete the narrative.

For many months before the catastrophe it was evident that the Ibadan army before Ijaye was becoming too strong for resistance. The Egbas, on the other hand, had lost their chief warriors by death, and their camp became weakened. Mrs. Mann's health was in a precarious state, and it was thought right that she should be sent to Europe. There was, however, much peril in the attempt of any large party to pass out of Ijaye. In this emergency, Lieut. Dolben, of H. M. S. "Prometheus," being on a visit to Abbeokuta, nobly volunteered to proceed to Ijaye, and to escort Mrs. Mann to a place of safety. Mr. Roper, the European catechist, accompanied him. They reached Ijaye safely.

Mr. and Mrs. Mann, with Lieut. Dolben, succeeded in removing from the town on the road to Abbeokuta. Mr. Roper volunteered to remain at Ijaye for the comfort of the native converts, until Mr. Mann should return from Lagos. The day, however, after the party left Ijaye, the Egbas were worsted in a fight, and abandoned their camp. The Ibadans, upon this, assaulted and captured the town. Murders and rapine raged on every side; and soon the town was set on fire. Mr. Roper remained in the Mission premises with the converts and orphan children. Several of the Ibadan warriors entered the premises. He was shot at, and frequently struck; but by patient and calm submission his life was mercifully preserved. The converts and the children were bound in his presence, and carried off as slaves, being regarded as the spoils of war. At length an Ibadan war chief of notoriously violent character took Mr. Roper as his captive, and treated him with much cruelty. The Lord, however, gave him favour with the man to whose charge he was committed, and he revived under the kind treatment. Mr. Hinderer, as soon as he heard at Ibadan of the circumstance, hastened to the spot, remonstrated with the war chiefs who had taken a white man captive, and at length, after the payment of a sum of money, obtained the release of Mr. Roper, on condition that he should remain on his parole in Ibadan, until a large ransom should be paid. The Committee return unfeigned thanks to Almighty God for his kind providence over their Missionaries in these times of imminent peril, and for the grace given to those Missionaries to sustain their lot with Christian heroism, faith, and patience.

IBADAN.

The Missionaries at Ibadan are the Rev. D. Hinderer and Mrs. Hinderer and Mr. Jeffries, an European catechist. The Mission, during the last year, has been sustained by mercies in the midst of judgments. The town has been in a state of extreme excitement on account of the civil war which has raged within a short distance. At such a time the bad passions of the people break out beyond the restraint of rulers, and often the overbearing but brave warriors are able to silence the voice of wiser counsellors. It was to be expected that the enemies of Christianity would take advantage of such a state of things to damage the Christian cause. Added to this, the war created a scarcity of the current coin, by shutting up all the roads of commerce, so that the Missionaries were left without supplies; and were forced to barter every article which could be turned to account. All these circumstances, however, did but serve to magnify the faithfulness of our God and Saviour towards those who put their trust in him. Only two opportunities have occurred in the course of more than twelve months of communicating with the tried and faithful Missionaries in Ibadan. Their letters have not, therefore, conveyed the regular reports of Missionary operations, which have been sent in more quiet times, but rather heart-stirring reports of divine interpositions, and deliverances in the hour of extremity.

In the early part of the year an attempt was made to fix upon the Christian teachers a charge of kidnapping two young women. Mr. Hinderer and his converts were summoned to answer the charge before the commander-in-chief in the war camp. This chief, however, detected with great acuteness the falsity of the charge, and the contradictions of the witnesses, and then dismissed the case by remarking upon the absurdity of charging the Christians with a crime which it was evident they were incapable of committing, since they made themselves a host of enemies by preaching that men should not go to war, nor catch and sell each other. "If the white man," added the chiefs, "would but change his song, and preach to us the way of war and kidnapping, he would soon have plenty of converts, more even than the Mohammedans.". "Thus," says the Missionary, "we are indeed troubled on every side in this sad time of confusion, but the Lord stands by us graciously, so that we experience what is said of the holy prophets and patriarchs, "Touch not my anointed, and do my prophets no harm:" and unworthy as we are of all his care and favour, how sweet it is to be able to thank Him in the midst of and for our troubles, and to take courage under these same circumstances."

Under the straitness of the necessaries of life, the chiefs made very liberal presents to the Missionaries, and the converts contributed out of their poverty. Such as had children in the boarding school not only took them home for their food, but also offered to take other children off the hands of the Missionaries during the time of war.

In the early part of March 1861, after the roads had been long shut up, and the Missionaries had exhausted all their supplies of European food, clothes, and medicines, Mr. Hinderer was compelled to try to reach Lagos, by travelling, with only two attendants, through the hostile tribes of the Jebus. He was not aware when he set off that these tribes, who had never admitted white men into their country, were enraged at the Ibadans for receiving them, and had determined, if possible, to take their lives. Mr. Hinderer reached Lagos, however, in safety, passing through the less-frequented roads without being observed. There he was siezed with a dangerous illness, which detained him many weeks, and he was thus prevented from returning to Ibadan, as he had intended, by a caravan, which was attacked by Jebus, and many of them were slain; and the king of Jebu had given special orders that the white man, if amongst them, was to be destroyed. Mr. Hinderer, after his recovery, returned to Ibadan as he had travelled before, unarmed, with only two native boys; and his escape from the Jebus was regarded as miraculous. "I met," writes Mr. Hinderer, "upon my arrival at Ibadan, with such a reception as I never had before in my life: for I seemed to them to be alive from the dead. Our house was filled with visitors for several days, both heathen and converts, who came to salute me. My dear wife could hardly believe I was at home. I was to have returned in three weeks, whereas eight had elapsed without any tidings of me. During this time all kinds of reports were circulated as to what the Jebus would do to me, on my way back to Ibadan." Mrs. Hinderer has proved herself a true Missionary's wife. She has sustained with heroic constancy her heavy personal trials, and the anxiety about her husband's health and life; and she has helped to support his faith and patience by her own cheerful reliance on the presence and grace of the Saviour. Mr. Jeffries has proved himself a worthy associate of the Hinderers.

In a letter written by Mrs. Hinderer, after her husband's safe return from Lagos, she gives this beautiful description of the spirit of the native converts:—

It was a time of trial to us all, but I am sure it has been for good. A love has been drawn out from all our people for their minister which they were hardly aware of before: then it has called forth a spirit of prayer, which must and does bring good. There were many little gatherings together for prayer in the week, but in secret from me, lest I should suspect (what they knew of) my husband's danger; and now they have found such a full and ready answer to their earnest petitions, which has caused a joy and thankfulness which can be seen in their faces even, and much more in their expressions. There is a good deal of earnest prayer, I believe, called forth in Ibadan in this war season: the natives regularly hold a daily meeting at six o'clock. This, of course, is always and everywhere; but there is a tone and spirit in it which there was not before. Then there are the Monday-evening meetings and our monthly prayer-meetings, and also on a Wednesday afternoon our teachers all meet, with a few of the most earnest and true of the converts; and what gives us comfort and hope in their being heard is, that the spirit is so different to what it was at first. At one time it used to be painful to hear certain individuals pray, it was so entirely for what they individually wished; but now it has come round so entirely to, "Do thou, O Lord, what seemeth to Thee best: make all to work for good to this whole country, and for the coming of Thy kingdom."

In a letter written by Mr. Hinderer, at the close of the year, he reviews the circumstances of the Mission, and says in conclusion:—

Disappointment has met me on every side, of which I may say the war is the chief cause. I hope it humbles me, and shows me thoroughly my nothingness. I sometimes have a hope that when all our plans shall have been completely frustrated, then He will arise, and build his living temple in a way that we little thought of; that his name may be exalted, and that we, poor insignificant mortals, may stand, and look, and wonder, and adore.

The Coral Fund.

The Editor of "The Coral Missionary Magazine," Miss Barber, of Brighton, generously devotes the profits of the publication, under the name of the Coral Fund, to the assistance of Missions, in those branches of their operations which cannot be properly supported by the funds of the Society: especially the support of boarding-school children. The Abbeokuta Mission has been largely indebted to this assistance. Mr. Gollmer writes respecting it—

The friends of the Coral Fund have continued to render us essential aid in our work. The Coral Reef has considerably grown in our Mission during the year. The number of children connected with our Mission as boarders, and maintained by the Coral Fund, has increased by about 36—the number being now 98. Mr. Mann, at Ijaye, is very thankful to Miss Barber for receiving no less than 19 of his children on the Coral Fund this year, and thus helping him much in his present distress on account of the war. Much good is thus being done and I trust our friends will take courage and go on.

Translations of the Scriptures.

During the last year the translation of the Scriptures has been carried forwards by the two native ministers, the Rev. S. Crowther and the Rev. T. King. By their exertions the whole of the New Testament has been translated, and is in a course of printing. Of the Old Testament, several books, including those of Genesis, the Psalms, and the Proverbs, have been translated and printed. In a late letter Mr. Crowther writes:—

The book of Leviticus is in manuscript. Although the country is at present in a most deplorable state through war, which proves a serious detriment to the progress of Missionary work, yet the preparation of translations of the word of God in the native language is a formidable weapon, with which, when the war is over, the soldiers of the cross will have to make a most impressive attack upon the already shattered kingdoms and strongholds of Satan in this country. The book of Leviticus containing numerous laws and regulations of sacrifices according to God's command to Moses, is very much calculated to meet the priests and priestesses, and those who resort to them for sacrifices; that all they can do in that respect is nothing near the purity and strictness of the Bible sacrifices,—which were, after all, mere shadows of good things to come, but the body is Christ whom we preach unto them.

Mr. Gollmer thus mentions in his journal the use made of the Yoruba translation of Dr. Barth's Bible stories:—

March 8—Arrival of the second box of Yoruba Bible Stories, containing 500 copies. The first supply of 400 copies being exhausted (i. e. sold at 8*d.*, with the exception of those presented to our Missionary friends, European and native), we were glad to receive another quantity. In our Sunday school, Ikija, the book is now a regular class-book, and the first classes of men and women have read it through.

NIGER MISSION.

For two years the native teachers occupying the stations in the Niger were isolated from all communication with each other, or with the mouth of the river, in consequence of the hostility of the Delta tribes. At length, in July 1861, H.M. gunboat "Espoir" ascended the river, in company with a trading vessel, to the Confluence. Mr. Crowther took advantage of this opportunity. He found the native teachers, both at Onitsha and at the Confluence, maintaining their Christian character and position, under great privations from want of supplies, or the means of buying provisions for their necessary food, yet discharging their duties as catechists and schoolmasters. At each station they had gathered together a few inquirers, who assembled for divine worship on the Lord's-day. The teachers, who had been thus so long separated from their families, returned to Sierra Leone, while others, who accompanied Mr. Crowther, took their place. Mr. Crowther writes:—

I was very glad to meet the native-Christian teachers at their stations in good health. That they suffered trials and encountered many difficulties there can be no doubt. To be repeating each particular circumstance is to repeat what others have again and again repeated, as common in the beginning of a new Mission among the heathen, but which all have overcome by faith and patient labour in the strength of the Lord. How could these stations be given up without doing the greatest injury imaginable, both to the converts who are just coming forward, and to the population at large, who are just becoming acquainted, by daily observation, with the principles of the Christian religion?

As a large party of native teachers and mechanics arrived at the mouth of the river too late for the ascent with the "Espoir," Mr. Crowther wisely determined to establish a station at that point which might prove a basis of the operations in the upper course of the Niger. Such a station has been established at a place called "Akassa," where the Rev. J. C. Taylor and the rest of the Missionary party have resided, waiting the opportunity for ascending the river.

It is a point of special interest in the Niger Mission that it is conducted wholly by native agency, and chiefly by humble but pious and self-denying scripture readers.

In a letter, dated March 8, 1862, Mr. Crowther thus reviews the position and prospects of the Niger Mission:—

At present the chief difficulty in keeping the Nun and Delta stations is want of food, but which may be grown to any amount if only set about properly, and the example set before the natives, at the same time as we introduce Christianity among them. It is what the late Sir Fowell Buxton used to term 'the Gospel and the plough.' Some of the Society's lay agents may particularly be instructed to pay attention to agriculture as well as other mechanical arts, as carpentry and sawyering. Since we have taken up Akassa station at the Nun, and seed, rice, and yams were shown to the inhabitants, that we grow them in due season, several of the natives have expressed a wish to be supplied, though they doubted whether we would succeed, because, as they said, "The ground no will," that is, the soil being sandy, is unproductive. Though there is some truth in this at the mouth of the Nun, where the soil is sandy, yet we believe that were it better cultivated, and that by men instead of by poor weak women, who barely scratch the soil with their knives to put the cassada sticks in among the bushes, the attempt would be successful. We cannot, however, persuade them in any other way than by proving to them that the ground is willing to yield her increase if properly cultivated by those who ought to do so. The inhabitants of Akassa knew not what a hoe was, to dig the ground with, until I brought some from Abbeokuta for our use at the Nun, at which they were surprised, and they handled them most awkwardly.

The sandiness of the soil is not applicable to Angiama, or to any other upper stations or other towns at the Delta, where the soil is a rich tenacious, reddish dark, loam; in which yams, rice, and Indian corn may be grown to any quantity, both for food and for sale to the natives themselves, and to palm-oil merchants in the rivers; instead of which these merchants send to Fernando Po to buy these native products. With agriculture the rearing of cattle and stock will naturally follow; so that, instead of having to purchase a small goat for 3*l.* or 4*l.*, and a chicken for 3*s.*, because these creatures are rare, there would be abundance, both for use and to spare for sale to others, for the support of the Mission.

If the Society can encourage and create this as a new trade among the natives of the Delta, we shall have the co-operation of palm-oil merchants, and the goodwill of the natives themselves, among whom such industrious habits may be introduced, combined with Christianity; and I believe, in God's good providence, the Delta of the Niger will ultimately be opened to Christian Missionaries, as the benefactors of the river. The lay agent may, in the mean time, create other trades among the natives, for which there is room.

I hope the Committee will not think this is too tedious a way and too expensive a beginning of the Niger Mission. I think it will be found in the end to be most beneficial; and when once the free navigation of the Niger is obtained, and safe communication from one station to another is secured, we shall not regret the trouble taken to carry out the plan. The main point under consideration is to lay a stepping stone to attain the upper stations.

The most reliable, willing, humble, and devoted Christian teachers the Committee can send up the Niger at its commencement, are those simple Christians selected from among the congregations in the colony of Sierra Leone, of whom Messrs. Thomas and Newland, late of Gbebe, and Smart and Romaine, of Onitsha, were fair examples. These men have given themselves to the work of God in the midst of active ordinary labour in life: they being accustomed to labour for their own and their families' support, do not think any work beneath them: being inured to hardness, privations, &c., they do not think it strange when their lot is so cast in the work of God from uncontrolable circumstances; and being tried Christians, having weighed the matter well before they presented themselves to the work of a Christian teacher,—which even holds out to some of them less pecuniary advantages than the work they had given up for it, they feel a noble principle within them, which they will not soon sacrifice, so as to disgrace the holy cause to which they have devoted themselves. With these humble, but well-grounded qualifications I would appreciate more the labours of such simple Christian teachers, than those of conceited, educated, young men, on whom we cannot rely, and who, at any unexpected moment, may desert the work, and leave one in the lurch.

Akassa.

Akassa is situated at the mouth of the River Nun, and is now numbered among the stations of the Society. A Mission house has been built, a school opened, and the public worship of God has been commenced. There are several villages within easy reach of the Mission, containing several hundred inhabitants each. But the general character of the people on the coast, where they are contaminated by the slave-traders, is far from encouraging. The chief of Akassa, however, received the Christian teachers in a very friendly way, and one intelligent native acted the part of an interpreter, and inquired diligently into the truth. Both the chief and the interpreter were, however, removed by sudden deaths, and a suspicion remains that they were poisoned on account of the favour shown to the Christians. The Rev. J. C. Taylor has paid monthly visits to the large commercial community in the Brass River, and has held divine service with the European merchants and sailors.

The prospects of the Niger Mission have been clouded over by the death of Mr. Macgregor Laird, which put an end to the contract with the Government into which he had entered, to keep open the navigation of the river for five years. It is not yet decided whether any other party will take up his noble enterprise of opening that river to civilization and Christianity. The position at Akassa is also, as it will be seen, precarious. Under these circumstances the Committee commend the Niger Mission to the prayers of their friends. They may be encouraged by the spirit of simple faith and prayer in which the native teachers have entered upon the work, as evidenced in the first Resolution placed on record in a local Committee held at the Nun, Oct. 29, 1861, viz.—

That the direction of the God of Missions, who would have all men to be saved, be sought in this perplexed and critical time of their most important movement.

EAST-AFRICA MISSION.

European Mission Establishment.

Rev. John Rebmann (m), 1846.

THE Committee have to announce, at the close of another year, that the East-Africa Mission is still represented by a solitary Missionary, at a single station. They are desirous of strengthening the Mission by another ordained Missionary, but circumstances have hitherto prevented them from accomplishing this desire. In the mean time several providential circumstances seem to encourage the Society to persevere in their endeavours to impart the Gospel to East Africa. One of these encouragements is the free permission granted by treaty stipulation to Protestant Missionaries to reside in the territories of the Imam, which line the coast. This permission was hitherto only conceded to one or two favoured persons, and the threat of its withdrawal was continually held over the Mission. But the country here, as elsewhere, has been now thrown open to Protestant Missions, in consequence of the efforts of the French to secure free ingress to Roman Catholics. This induced British authorities to claim for Protestants the same liberty. Mr. Rebmann has also had some encouragement in the admission of a few converts to baptism. These circumstances are thus referred to by Mr. Rebmann, in a letter dated Mombas, April 22, 1861:—

Important intelligence was indicated in a letter of the English Consul, February 12—

"I forget whether I told you of the colony of Jesuits, Sisters of Charity, &c., brought here by the French Commodore. I demanded that the same concession be granted to any English subjects who might wish to come here, and the Sultan acceded to my demands; therefore, any Missionaries or schoolmasters who may wish to come and settle in any part of the Zanzibar dominions have a right to do so, without asking the Sultan's permission; and I hope that Pastor Harms will speedily send a Mission here."

Thus the full daylight for doing the Lord's work in East Africa is now come. Hitherto we had to work, as it were, in the twilight. Our position was a doubtful one: it depended upon the favour of a Mohammedan government, whose very essence is the deepest animosity against Christians, and which only seems to grow more intense as its power has to yield to that of the "Unbelievers."

I myself had not been fully aware of the true nature of our former position until I saw, in 1854, the Hanoverian Missionaries prohibited from setting foot on the continent. At the same time we seemed to labour in vain. The most anxious doubts then took possession of my mind, whether we had not preceded instead of followed the openings of Providence; or, in other words, whether we had not come too early to Eastern Africa. My doubts were removed by our being bidden to quit the station. The command to do so was given by the death of the Imam, and the inroads of the Masai, in 1857; and, to human eyes, the East-African Mission seemed to have come to an end. But out of destruction and death the Lord bringeth a new and more glorious life. Macedonian voices called me back, and a Christian Consul, instead of a Moslem ruler, gave me the passport. But this also was still a mere favour; for, at the same time, Hanoverian Missionaries were again refused admittance to the continent, though allowed to stay on the Island of Zanzibar.

I have to raise, in this letter, an Ebenezer, both of the providence and grace of God. The latter consists in the baptism which, on Easter Sunday, I was privileged to administer to the four candidates mentioned in former letters

Dena, who had early begun to join Abe Gonja, but was never really decided until judgment was executed by the Masai, was baptized by the name of Joseph.

Mua Zuia, and Lugo, whose many troubles I described to you last year, were baptized by the names of David and Jonathan.

Zuia, the first Mnika who showed his respect by gently bowing before me, on my coming back from Zanzibar for a visit to the station, received the name of Johannes (John).

On the morning of their baptism I had still some struggle in my mind whether I should really receive them as members of the Church of Christ, they appeared to me so weak and ignorant, so deficient in conviction of sin, and appreciation of Christ as their only Saviour. I went out into the open air, and looked up to heaven; a rain was just then preparing from the east to descend on the thirsty ground; the freeness of the grace of God was brought forcibly to my mind. I felt I must no longer withhold the means of grace with which, as a minister of Christ, I was entrusted.

In a letter, six months later than the preceding, Mr. Rebmann speaks of the Christian consistency of these converts, though they were still feeble in attainments. He had admitted them as communicants. He hoped that their example was beginning to tell upon the more thoughtful heathen.

East Africa is attracting the interest of scientific travellers. Another English expedition has been sent out to investigate the reports made by the Missionaries respecting snow mountains and an inland sea. The existence of snow mountains, though once doubted by men of high scientific reputation, has been already verified. Travellers, also, from other countries, are engaged in the same investigations. Mr. Rebmann writes in the same letter:—

We received a pleasing visit while at our station, on the 24th of February, from the Baron Van der Decken, who came to ask my advice about a journey to Jagga. He had been deserted and robbed by his own men, who had engaged to take him to the lake Niàsa. "The Arabs," says Colonel Rigby, with reference to this treatment of another unfortunate traveller, "are making a last kick against the increase of European influence." This treacherous conduct may throw some light on the murder of poor Dr. Roscher. The Baron stayed with us for three days, and intends, as soon as the rains are over, to start for Jagga by way of Mombas. On taking leave upon returning to Zanzibar he requested me to give him what assistance I could in setting out on his journey, which I promised to do.

Of the English travellers, Speke and Grant, we have no intelligence whatever at present.

A still more important prospect of benefit to East Africa has been opened by the vigorous efforts of the British cruisers to put down the slave-trade upon that coast. The new Consul of Zanzibar has lately liberated nearly 5000 slaves, who had been employed as forced labourers by British subjects; and several slave ships have been taken upon the coast, and carried to Bombay and to the Mauritius, where the slaves have been liberated. The Missionaries at each of these Missions have willingly taken charge of the liberated African children, in the hope that some of them may, after a Christian training, and instruction in useful arts, be sent back to be employed as Missionary agents by the Missionaries on the East Coast.

Turkish Mission.

CONSTANTINOPLE.

First occupied, 1819; relinquished, 1821; re-occupied, 1858.

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. Charles Gottleib Pfander, D.D. (m), to Persia, 1825; to India, 1839; to Constantinople, 1858: at home.

Rev. Sigismund Wilhelm Koelle, Ph. D. (m), to Africa, 1847; to Palestine, 1856; to Constantinople, 1862.

Rev. Robert Henry Weakly (m), 1860.

THE Society's Turkish Mission has been sustained during the last year in Constantinople, the metropolis of Islamism. Two Missionaries have resided there, assisted by a native agent; and a bookshop has been opened, which is already the resort of many inquirers. Two of the three celebrated controversial works of Dr. Pfander have been translated into Turkish, and have been put into quiet circulation. Dr. Pfander was obliged through ill-health to spend part of the year in Germany. Mr. Weakly has resided in the Mission throughout the year. Dr. Koelle is about to join the Mission. Mr. Weakly writes at the close of the year:—

Our rooms are now well known, (a circumstance which deters many from coming to us who would otherwise be glad to do so,) and many Mussulmans have visited us during the past year. Some come again at long intervals; others are strangers, whom, perhaps, we may never see again; while a few, perhaps fourteen or fifteen in number, come more or less frequently. The visits of the second class I have mentioned always impress me with a sense of the great importance of a Mission in this city. Our influence through this channel, as the number of strangers here is very great, extends to distant provinces quite beyond our reach, and, in some cases, where a Missionary would not be permitted to reside. Thus, during the past year, more or less, we have had persons from Fez, Egypt, Arabia, Teheran, Damascus, Kurdistan, besides those from places such as Adrianople, Sivas, and Erzeroum, who have heard somewhat about the truth as it is in Jesus, and some of whom have carried back to their homes the New Testament, or some Christian book. Why may we not hope that, under a renewal of the Pentecostal blessing in measure, men from the above nations, as they were represented in Jerusalem, may carry back to their own lands the glad tidings of what they have heard in Constantinople of the wonderful works of God? We want to know but three languages to embrace them all—Turkish, Arabic, Persian; but most of those whom business or pleasure bring here speak the first more or less perfectly. Our Mission cannot be confined to the Osmanlis only; it must embrace a great part of the Mohammedan world.

Among those who come frequently, are two who appear to have not only utterly forsaken Mohammedanism, as indeed many have, but also to have embraced the Gospel of Christ. It has been my pleasant task to read the Scriptures with them for some months past. Both are intelligent and well-informed men, and one of them possesses solidity of character and clearness of judgment in a degree not often met with here. They are desirous to be baptized; but although there is no other ground for hesitation, it is thought well that they should thoroughly weigh the consequences which may ensue, and likely enough will ensue, on their profession of faith in our Lord Jesus Christ.

I am quite of opinion that, with the increased circulation of our books, the number of visitors will shut out the possibility of doing any thing beyond receiving and conversing with them in the rooms; for I must not omit to mention that a Turkish visit is always long, two, four, six hours, or even the whole day, being nothing remarkable; while a favourite habit of theirs is to come in the evening and stay the whole night!

Dr. Pfander takes this sober view of the Mission at the close of the year 1861:—

Though there is no particular movement going on among the Mohammedans, yet there is the fact that they continue to visit the Missionaries. Some come to Mr. Herrick, the American Missionary to the Turks, now settled at Galata; a few come to our rooms at Constantinople, attending our Scripture readings; and others visit the Turkish services lately established at Pera by the Propagation Society. Also many copies of the Miftah, in Turkish, have been readily bought by them. Three of the Turks attending our Scripture readings have expressed a wish for baptism. Another encouraging circumstance is, that they are printing, with the sanction of Government, a reply to the Mizan ul Haqq, as I was told two weeks ago by one of the Turks connected with the movement. This proves that the Persian copies distributed since the establishment of our Mission have met with such attention on the part of the Persian-reading Turks, that the priestly, or orthodox party, have found it necessary to do something in order to counteract its influence. And it further shows that Government, though aware of the object of our labours, have no idea, at least at present, of using force against us. All these are encouraging facts, bidding us to be of good cheer, and to go on in our own work.

Our work is indeed but small as yet: still I am thankful that some progress has been made during the year, and, above all, that the translation and printing of the "Miftah" and the "Mizan," through God's help, has been accomplished. May this small beginning prove the commencement of a work of the Lord, whose foundations are laid deep and well, and upon which hereafter a living temple may be raised, abounding to the glory of his holy name.

Greece.

SYRA.

(Mission first commenced, 1830.)

The Syra Mission has been long confined to a single female school, under the superintendence of the Rev. F. A. Hildner, whose age and state of health do not allow his undertaking more laborious employments. The school has long formed, in some measure, a normal school in Greece, by training up many schoolmistresses, now employed in various parts of Greece. Mr. Hildner also holds service in German and English. He has lately married a Greek lady, long accustomed to the work of the school.

The Rev. J. T. Wolters lately had occasion to revisit Syra, at which place he was once stationed. He was encouraged by the change which had taken place in Greece during the period since his removal to Smyrna. In his journal, under date Jan. 5—17, 1861, he remarks as follows:—

There is a visible change for the better in Greece, at least as it regards education and civilization. I was struck by the change at Syra, and agreeably surprised. But, alas! the religious aspect of the country is still a dark one. The Greek church is dead in superstition and ignorance; while, it is to be feared, a great number of the more educated of her members have imbibed principles of infidelity. The priests being mostly uneducated men, are entirely unfit for the office they bear, and therefore unable to meet the spiritual wants of the people with that which alone can supply them, namely, the Gospel in its simplicity and purity. There is one hopeful and encouraging circumstance, however, which is, the free circulation of the Holy Scriptures. "The word of God is not bound" in Greece. It has free access also to the schools. In Mr. Hildner's schools it is freely taught. This is a great point. The word of God is a living seed, and has the promise that it shall not return void. I fully believe that the long and faithful labours of our dear brother Hildner and other Protestant and faithful Missionaries in this country, have not been and will not be in vain. The great day of harvest will make it manifest.

SMYRNA.

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. J. T. Wolters (m), to Persia, 1832; to Syra, 1837; to Smyrna, 1842.
Rev. T. F. Wolters, 1860.

The Rev. Messrs. Wolters, father and son, have carried on the Mission at this station during the last year. Mr. Wolters, writes in his annual letter:—

With regard to the Moslems I am sorry to say that they have been less accessible than under the reign of the late Sultan. The present Sultan being known as a man of stricter religious principles than those held by his predecessor, the more fanatical Turks, and especially the body of Mullahs and Oulemahs, were encouraged to look forward to a revival of Islam. Their feelings towards Christians were no longer friendly, and their countenances seemed to express them. I believe, however, that the difficulty in finding access to them will gradually pass away. The Turks are forced to see that their present Sultan is hardly able to keep his empire standing, and that any effort to bring back the olden time of independent and arbitrary rule must prove fatal. In humble dependence upon the Lord's guidance, we hope that, during the present year, our access to them may be easier and more frequent. Occasional conversations with Mussulmans on religious subjects have been held during the past year.

Our work among the Christians, both native and European, is in some respects more encouraging, though the number of native Christians connected with our Mission has not increased. The Greek service, regularly continued every Sunday in the year, has, on the whole, been well attended. The congregation is mixed, consisting of native, English, and Dutch Protestants, and Greeks, the latter sometimes entering the chapel, but mostly standing at the open door, and listening to the reading of the word of God and the sermon. My son takes part with me in this service alternately, and it gives us both pleasure to have an opportunity of preaching the unsearchable riches of Christ in a language understood by nearly the whole Christian community in this town. As soon as we can secure a few regular attendants, and other circumstances may permit, we hope to begin again a service in the Turkish language. The sale and circulation of Holy Scriptures, books, and tracts, in different languages, has suffered some check by the closing of our public book-store. But this measure was necessary in order to limit in some degree the expenses of the Mission. The store is now united with the Missionary rooms, and we hope that, as it becomes more known, people will come and ask for books, and give us the opportunity to converse with them on religious subjects.

The number of Holy Scriptures, either whole or in part, in various languages, which have been sold during the past year, are 190 copies; religious books and tracts 1651 copies; total 1841 copies.

Our native helper Mr. Montesanto, at Cassaba, writes to us from time to time. He is always zealous to make known the truth to the benighted inhabitants of that large and populous place. A public book-store on a small scale is kept open there, and serves as a place to meet the people, to read the Scriptures and converse with them.

Mr. Dalessio's health has been very weak during the year, and we often wonder how he is still sustained under the serious infirmity (spasmodic asthma) from which he is suffering. His zeal in the work is unabated.

Mr. Wolters, after twenty-five years' labour among Oriental Christians, is compelled to draw this melancholy picture of the state of the community.

The Greek Church is dead—dead in trespasses and sins. Patriarchs, bishops, priests, deacons, monks, and people, are far gone from Apostolic points of doctrine and practice. May the Lord have mercy upon the souls thus perishing for lack of knowledge! A Missionary living long among them cannot but feel deeply for their spiritual welfare. Many of the people would listen with pleasure to the preaching of the Gospel, if it were possible to reach the masses. I am thankful that the "word of God," and Christians books and tracts, are finding their way into their houses. May they also, by the Spirit's power, find their way to the hearts!

Mr. Wolters, jun., has been mostly engaged in perfecting himself in the Turkish and Arabic languages. He writes in his annual letter:—

In conversing with Mussulmans it is impossible to avoid controversy. But I feel that this is not productive of much good. I have rather endeavoured to give a practical turn to the discussion, giving prominence to the fact that we are sinners, and pointing out the way of salvation through Christ. But here I still feel my weakness in the language, especially when Arabic theological and philosophical terms are made use of.

Palestine.

(Commenced at Jerusalem 1851. At Nazareth 1853.)

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. F. Augustus Klein (m) 1851.
Rev. John Zeller (m) 1855.
Dr. Charles Sandreczki (m) first joined the Society at Syra 1838; to Palestine 1851.
Mr. James Huber (m) to West Africa 1850; to Palestine 1853: at home.

The Palestine Mission has been reduced by the return home of Mr. Krusé after thirty-eight years of labour in the East, with little prospect of being able to renew those labours. The Missionaries at Jerusalem are Mr. Klein and Dr. Sandreczki.

Mr. Grühler, an European catechist engaged in the Mission, resides at the out-station Ramleh, and visits Jaffa occasionally. Mr. Zeller is at Nazareth.

JERUSALEM.

Mr. Klein was absent on sick leave for a visit to Europe last summer. He returned in the autumn, and reports:—

Owing to the impossibility of travelling at the present season, my labours have chiefly been confined to the care of the Arab congregation of this place, the regular services on Sundays, Bible meetings on Wednesday evening, the intercourse with such of other denominations as I can get access to, and the continuing of my studies of the Arabic language. No material changes have taken place in the native congregation. Two families have, during the course of the last few months, been added to the same, one from Aleppo and the other from Salt. The joining of this latter family, consisting of three brothers, one of them married, appears to me to be an encouragement to us to continue in the prosecution of our work. The inhabitants of Salt (on the other side of Jordan) may almost be considered as heathen: still the word of God proclaimed there has in several cases proved the good seed sown in a well-prepared land; and it is owing to their love of the word of God, their desire to be more fully instructed in the same, and their desire to conform to its doctrines, and profess the same openly, that this family have left their own native place, and begged to be received as members of our congregations. On the whole, I am much delighted to observe in several of my congregation a progress in the knowledge of the truths of the Gospel, and a growing in spiritual life, notwithstanding the weaknesses which still cleave to them.

In the Moslem world no changes have taken place which would encourage enthusiastic hopes; but if here we had the necessary means (a well-qualified native helper, suitable tracts and books, and a convenient place where to receive Moslems disposed to converse on religion), I am still inclined to think that the way might gradually be prepared for a more direct and open Mission to them.

A good work has begun in this place: it is as yet small in comparison with the brilliant success in more extensive regions; but since, in God's providence, we have been placed here, let us patiently continue to work, and fervently pray to the Lord of the harvest, and He will not leave it, but carry it on, and bring it to a glorious issue.

Dr. Sandreczki, who acts as lay Secretary of the Mission, is a proficient in the Arabic, Turkish, and Greek, as well as in the Italian and other European languages: he has therefore many opportunities of religious conferences with the numerous visitors at Jerusalem. During Mr. Klein's absence in Europe, Dr. Sandreczki held Bible classes in Arabic with the congregation. He also frequently attends at a book-shop in the city, for the sale of Scriptures. "Our best customers (he writes) have hitherto been the Russian pilgrims: Greek and Armenian priests also have sometimes purchased the New Testament."

Out-stations of Ramleh and Jaffa.

Mr. Grühler labours at the out-stations of Ramleh and Jaffa. Mr. Klein bears testimony to his work in these words—"He continues to labour with his usual zeal and energy in the schools, the congregations, and wherever he can get access among Christians and Moslems."

Mr. Grühler writes:—

Since the departure of Mr. Krusé I visit Jaffa every week. The school there is not in a flourishing state. It is visited by about six or seven boys, who begin to learn reading. I do not know whether I guess rightly, nor do I know whether it is right of me to say it: however—I cannot help saying it—I think we could have a nice school there, if the schoolmaster was as zealous as he is avaricious. Our school here at Ramleh is going on as formerly. The children have decreased on account of their living in their gardens in summer, and some have at present only fifteen attendants. The schoolmaster continues to be a faithful and zealous Christian, and if he is, perhaps, less clever than the one at Jaffa, he makes up for that by being faithful, zealous, and content. May the Lord bless him for it!

NAZARETH.

The Rev. J. Zeller meets with no inconsiderable encouragement at Nazareth, though he and his people are exposed to much insult and opposition. Respecting the insults heaped on himself, he says, "As such are the only decorations a Missionary can receive, why should I complain of them in the place where our Lord and Master lived and endured much more?" Under the date of July 19, 1861, he writes:—

Our congregation is gaining an inward life. The regularity of the attendance at divine service on the Lord's-day, and at the Bible and prayer-meetings is a sure sign of it. The irregularity of the attendance at our Bible meetings was formerly with many a great hindrance to growth in knowledge and grace. By it the people were prevented from obtaining an insight into the connexion of the different parts and doctrines of the word of God, and thus a principal profit of this kind of instruction was lost. But now about a dozen young men most regularly attend twice a week my Bible meetings, because they have felt the profit derived from a connected explanation of the Holy Scriptures, and the influence exercised by this way of instruction upon their hearts and understanding. It is a great pleasure to me to see with what earnestness these young men fix their attention, even on the most sultry evenings, not only to hear, but to read, to mark, to learn, and inwardly to digest the word of God. It is joy to see what surprise and delight is expressed in their countenances, if, by a direct and striking application of the Word of God, new light is suddenly dawning in their hearts, or thrown upon certain relations of life. The Acts of the Apostles, which we are reading at present, are much calculated to rouse their inward life to action in the darkness which surrounds them, by following the example of the Apostles and first Christians.

The private prayer-meeting on Sunday night is regularly attended by the same number of young men. We realize the presence of the Lord in the midst of those who are gathered together in his name. It is felt that the prayers of these young men do not proceed from their lips or their heads, but that they come from their hearts, and from a desire to draw near unto Christ, the Saviour of sinners. God be praised that the purpose and result of our labours is not only the enlightening of sinners, but that it is their conversion to the Shepherd and Bishop of their souls.

As necessary as it is to spread the knowledge of the truth far and wide, through preaching, through schools, through distribution of the Holy Scriptures and tracts, so necessary is it constantly to guide and instruct the inquirers; especially as the connexions and relations in which they live, and the bad examples and temptations by which they are surrounded, are mostly too much calculated to destroy the impressions they have received, and the resolutions they have taken to lead a new and godly life. The more the Missionary sees the vastness of his duties and the insufficiency of his strength and endeavours, the more is he here urged to pray, Veni Creator spiritus!

In his annual letter, December 31, 1861, Mr. Zeller says—

The experience of the past year shows that the Lord has not only vouchsafed to preserve the Missionary and the congregation at Nazareth, in their tribulation and persecution, but that He also decidedly has led us a step further in our work. The number of inquirers has increased, and is still increasing. Several members of the congregation give proofs of spiritual life; the services on Sundays have been attended by about 80 men, the Bible meetings on week-days by about 20 to 30, and the knowledge of the truth is slowly but gradually extending in the villages of Galilee. Though many may profess Protestantism from impure motives, yet it has been brought home to every one of our congregation by most striking facts, that "the Lord has his fan in his hand, and will throughly purge His floor, and will gather the wheat into his garner, but the chaff He will burn with fire unquenchable." The truth begins to take root in the hearts of some, that they must be baptized, not alone with water, but "with the Holy Ghost and with fire," in order to be fit for the kingdom of Christ.

I have had this year much private intercourse with Mohammedans, especially the influential ones of the country, also with some Druses. However, there does not as yet appear an opening for the reception of the Gospel among them: on the contrary, their hatred against Christians and Christianity seems, if possible, to increase: and direct Missionary work is highly irritating to them, and excites their fanaticism, as I have experienced in cases where I have distributed Dr. Pfander's controversial books.

Our schools at Nazareth, Yafa, and Reneh have been carried on, and were attended not only by the children of Protestants, but also by those of Greeks, Latins and Moslems. The school-rooms at Nazareth and in the villages are used as chapels on Sundays, and for the meetings of the people as often as the Missionary visits the place. From other places, as, Burkin, Malool, Abelin, Rameh, Ain Labbun, Toran, Kefer-Kana, &c., I receive constantly most urgent appeals to send them teachers.

General Remarks.

The Committee have been unable during the last year to strengthen their Mission in Western India, notwithstanding that one of the younger Missionaries, Mr. Hofer, has been compelled to return home and to resign Missionary work, on account of the failure of health; and Mr. Goodall, a trained schoolmaster at Kurrachi, was sent home from the same cause, but died at sea. Stations have been thus left dependent upon a single Missionary; whilst the supply of native agents is also very inadequate. These are additional causes of discouragement beyond those which arise from the smallness of the success hitherto granted to the Mission.

The liberality of the friends in Bombay has been this year proved by the local funds having risen from 1151*l.* to 1784*l.*, a special effort having been made for the efficient support of the Nasik Industrial Institution.

BOMBAY.

The Mission work, as distinguished from educational, in the city of Bombay, has rested upon two ordained Missionaries, the one an European Missionary, Mr. Deimler, whose special department is the Mussulman population; the other an Indo-Briton, Mr. Wilson, who has charge of the Christian congregation and the vernacular schools. The native Christians in Bombay are a scattered and fluctuating body, numbering about 46 adults and 88 children. They assemble for divine worship in a room in the Robert-Money school house. Mr. Wilson, also, devotes a portion of his time to preaching to the heathen in the public thoroughfares, and to classes amongst the young men who are employed as clerks in public offices and houses of business.

Mr. Wilson reports:—

The native congregation consists of about 134 members, old and young, who assemble on Sundays at 8. A.M., in one of the rooms of the Money School, for Divine service. The congregation is a mixed one, containing Tamulians, Mahrattas, Africans, and Portuguese among its members. Hence arises the insurmountable difficulty of making oneself understood to all these people. The service is conducted in Mahratti; but my addresses from the pulpit have been partly Mahratti, partly Hindustani, and at times I have put in a word or two of English. Connected with the congregation there are about 35 communicants.

Hindustani Mission.

Mr. Deimler describes the Mussulman population, to which his attention has been specially directed, as composed of a great variety of travellers from different countries, and speaking different languages:—

> There are the swarthy and stolid East African, the fair Persian, the sturdy Arab, the man from Agra, Delhi, and Lucknow; again, the merchant from Sindh, Punjab, Kashmere, and Cabul, stout fellows with long black hair; then the Mohammedan population of Bombay and the vicinity, the Khojas, the Memons, the Bohras, the Koukharries, and the Dekharries. The Mohammedans and the visitors amount to the number of 130,000, speaking Hindustani, Guzeratee, Persian, Arabic, and Kisuaheli. Hence the importance of the position of Bombay, and the blessed result Mission work may have on foreigners, and, through them, on many parts of the world whither they will go. I would say, let us bring well-combined Missionary action, in different ways, to bear upon the Mohammedans of Bombay; let us evangelize and christianize them, and we shall have evangelists bearing the word of God to every quarter.

Neither Mr. Deimler or Mr. Wilson are able to report any instances of hopeful inquirers during the past year. Towards the close of the year Mr. Deimler was able to secure a small bookshop in one of the bazaars, in which a native Christian is placed for selling portions of the Scripture and religious tracts. It also serves occasionally as a preaching station, and inquirers are referred there for further instruction. Mr. Deimler has also succeeded in finding three promising young men from East Africa, who are under training at Nasik, and who he hopes may be hereafter made useful among their countrymen in connexion with the East-Africa Mission.

Education.

The Robert-Money School.

The Robert-Money Institution is conducted by the Rev. R. Galbraith. He greatly needs assistance, and the Committee are inquiring for a suitable coadjutor in his work. He gives the following particulars in his Annual Report of the School:—

> With regard to the number of the boys, and their attendance during the past year, there were, on an average, every day present in school 340: of these, 55 were in the Mahratti department, 285 in the English department, and we have just now on the roll, in all, 380.
> Of the boys, 135 are Christians, including 20 Protestants and 115 Roman Catholics: the remaining 245 consist of 207 Hindus, 14 Mussulmans, and 24 Jews.
> The average length of time which each boy remains in this school is nine months: this is not, of course, the whole time they spend in school; but they are fond of wandering from school to school. Again, some come from up country, where they have already received some education, and come to Bombay to get a finishing touch. Some few boys, however, remain in school three or four years.

Short, however, as the time is which most of the boys remain here, it would be still shorter if not for the scholarships which there are. They amount in value to 69 rupees, or 6*l.* 18*s.* monthly, 37 coming from the Farish and Townsend scholarship fund, 32 given by the Bishop, aided by some friends. For such kind helps to us we are most grateful. These scholarships aid much in attracting boys to the school, in keeping them longer than they would otherwise remain, in encouraging diligence, and drawing out talent, and bringing them, at least outwardly, more closely and longer in connexion with Christian influence than it would otherwise be.

I have, in all, sixteen teachers: of these, ten are heathen, six are Christians. Among them there is great variety as to the amount of talent, of Christian, English, and general knowledge, possessed by each; some being able to do little more than teach the lowest class in reading; others able to teach much more advanced subjects—English, and some of the principles of natural philosophy, history, translation into English, and evidences of Christianity.

Of these sixteen teachers, ten were educated in this school, and at any rate they give me more satisfaction than the others. While writing of teaching, I may mention that five of the Protestant boys aid in the daily work of teaching the Scriptures, and the four Protestant teachers, along with one of the Protestant boys, in turn, address the heathen in Mahratti, at the close of each day, for about ten minutes: in this work Mr. Wilson occasionally helps.

With regard to the school, I regret to say that still I continue to have little to record that is likely to excite your deepest interest. I see no evidences that the hard crust of unbelief has been broken up to let the good seed sink into the heart. I see no symptoms that it is about to be broken up in the minds of any.

Certainly little has as yet been visibly effected in Bombay by this and similar institutions; yet I believe that those who have become Christians in connexion with schools, few as they are, are more in number than those who have become Christians through bazaar preaching.

Vernacular Schools.

Six vernacular schools are under the superintendence of Mr. Wilson, which he reports to be, on the whole, "in a satisfactory state." He adds:—

Once a fortnight I have a class of all the teachers and assistant teachers of all these schools at my house, when conversation is carried on connected with the interests of the schools, and hints are given to them on education. After the conversation they read a chapter from the Epistle to the Romans, which I expound to them.

Female Education has been carried on with much success. Mrs. Jerrom has, in an orphanage, 70 girls. Fourteen liberated Africans, who were able to answer for themselves, were baptized in February 1861, and several other baptisms took place in the course of the year.

Miss White continues to carry on her schools with her accustomed zeal and ability. She reports:—

Five schools are under my superintendence, containing, boys 28, girls 156: girls from fifteen to five years old; boys from seventeen to five. I have to add, that many of the girls who came when only five years old are yet at school, though past the age of fourteen, though the custom is not to let girls of that age remain at school. So it is a great comfort to see how the prejudices and customs, of both old and young, are breaking up, from their children being taught daily the word of God.

I can truly say that your Society is carrying on a very great work, and it is very evident that the seed is spreading in the hearts of the heathen, and will ere long bring forth abundant fruit to the glory of God. The heathen themselves have said to me that there is no life or mirth in their festivals, as in former years: they have said that their festivals are fast breaking, and they know that they will come down. I asked them the reason why they thought so. I give you their own words, that "the Christian religion is spreading everywhere." My intercourse with the natives is not as in former years: old and young women, Hindu, Mussulman, and Parsee women, now come to me in my own place, and speak freely. All this is great encouragement for me to go on in faith and hope that the Lord will give success to his holy word, by the teaching of his Holy Spirit.

NASIK.

The station of Sharanpur near Nasik, has been under the charge of Mr. Isenberg, with the assistance of Mr. Appaji, the native minister, and other native teachers. The number of native Christians connected with the station is 274, of whom 78 are communicants. This congregation has undergone many fluctuations during the year. Some have been dismissed for misconduct; one, a person of some station and influence, has apostatized; 18 have removed to other stations; 6 have died; 17, who came originally from Aurungabad and its neighbourhood, returned as soon as a Missionary was stationed there, with the view of strengthening his hands, and exerting their influence amongst their own connexions in favour of Christianity. Thus the congregation lost 50 of its members in the course of the year. But this number was more than made up by new accessions from other parts, and by 16 adult baptisms. Mr. Isenberg writes:—

In March last we had the privilege of welcoming our dear Bishop and Mrs. Harding here, who spent four days, which were days of great refreshment to us. I was permitted to present to his lordship fifty-six candidates for confirmation. This solemnity was performed on Saturday evening, March 19th, the Bishop giving an affectionate address to the candidates, which was translated by Mr. Appaji into Mahratti. Next morning the Bishop preached to the native congregation, Mr. Appaji acting as interpreter, and administered the Lord's Supper; and in the evening he preached to the European congregation. But the Bishop and Mrs. Harding, during their stay, entered fully into the state of this Mission, and subsequently dwelt much upon it in his triennial charge, and advocated so successfully in a sermon at Mahableshwar, that a sum of 1700 rupees was collected in behalf of the Industrial Institution.

The desire of extending the Gospel among the heathen led Mr. Price and his native helpers, in April 1857, to the formation of the Nasik Native Missionary Association. From that time forward monthly meetings have been held, and the sums collected on those and on other occasions for the same object, have been spent on such local Missionary efforts as the Bombay Corresponding Committee had not provided for. Colporteurs and Scripture-readers are maintained out of this fund.

Concerning the Orphanage, I am thankful to add that it is working satisfactorily, under the care of Him who is the Father of the fatherless. The female branch continues to be effectually superintended by Miss Dowman, and the male branch, connected with the younger boys of the African Asylum, by Mr. and Mrs. Sorabji. Both these parties, under the maternal supervision of my dear wife, discharge their duty faithfully and lovingly, and are cheered by many tokens of the divine favour resting on their work. Three of the late orphan girls were, in the course of the year, suitably married.

The Industrial Institution has, during the past year, gone through severe trials, but it has also experienced remarkable help. In its pecuniary distress the Lord raised willing hearts and hands towards its relief; and when the European manager left, He inclined our worthy catechist, Sorabji Kharsedji, to undertake the management until a European manager was found to relieve him. Thus we have been enabled, not only to pay off nearly the whole of the borrowed capital (of which only fifty-two rupees is yet unpaid), but also to improve our stores. By the help of our German friends at Mangalore, we have been enabled to get our weaving establishment into a good working order. These friends, at my request, kindly allowed Mr. Haller, the originator and superintendent of their excellent weaving establishment at Mangalore, to come here for two months to organize the weaving department of our Industrial Institution, which we had begun last year, but were not able to bring it into a satisfactory state, because the native weaver, who commenced it, was addicted to the use of intoxicating drugs and liquors, and, after six months' blundering, secretly left us. The very considerate and generous manner in which our Bâsle friends came forward to help us entitles them to our sincere gratitude. It is another and a very decided manifestation of that spirit of holy union, which ought to bind together all evangelical Missions, of whatever Society. May the Lord abundantly reward their liberality, and prosper all their efforts for the spread of his kingdom in India, and in all their other Missions.

From the balance-sheet it appears that, during the last six months, the Industrial Institution has made a profit of 820 rupees, equal to 136 rupees per month.

The African Asylum, which was added to our Institutions here on November 29, 1860, is, though supported by Government, so entirely of a Missionary character, and may be hereafter of so much importance to the Society's East-Africa Mission, that it deserves more than a passing notice here. The number of African boys here, supported by Government, is twenty six, besides which there are three whom the Rev. J. G. Deimler sent here to learn a trade at the Industrial Institution. These twenty-nine boys belong to the following eleven different nationalities, viz. 7 are Gallas, of different tribes; 10 Wahiao, from the neighbourhood of Lake Niasa; 3 Maqua; 1 is a Mnika, of the tribe among whom Mr. Rebmann works; 1 Mindi; 1 Mbesa; 1 Zallia; 1 Mangiado; 1 Mninda; 1 Mtinda; 1 a Mozambique youth.

Most of these boys and youths have retained a certain amount of knowledge of their own native languages, and generally converse in them among themselves, especially in Galla, Kihiao, and the Zanzibar languages. Twelve of them, including Mr. Deimler's three youths, are apprenticed at the Industrial Institution, viz. five as blacksmiths, five as carpenters, and two as weavers. The other seventeen are still attending the elementary Mahratti school, and an hour and a half daily all of them, including the apprentices, form an English class, which is conducted by Mr. Ruttonji. I am thankful to say that, as a body, these Africans conduct themselves well, and a few of them give very good hopes of future usefulness. Of two or three of them I have reason to believe that a work of grace has begun in their hearts, and they exercise a good influence upon the other boys. Is it too much to hope that they may in future materially assist in the spread of the Gospel in their native country?

In the third charge of the Bishop of Bombay, delivered April 2nd, 1861, the Bishop alludes, in encouraging terms, to the Christian village of Sharanpur. He thinks the system one which would not have been discountenanced in Apostolic times, adding—

I cannot but think that we have in India a state of things so unlike what was known in the Apostles' time, and in the lands they visited, that we may be warranted to resort to other modes of action than those which they employed. Where was there any thing with which they had to contend to be compared with that which is the grand antagonist to Christianity here—a tyrannous and anti-social caste, holding millions upon millions in one iron band, and making the man who inclines his ear to the Gospel of Christ an alien and a horror and a pest, in his city, his village, and his home? It is this which seems to me to necessitate, at least in districts where caste is strong and bigotry runs high, some protection for our infant Missions. At Sharanpur, as is well known among the people round about, it is an established rule that "if any one will not work neither should he eat;" and I ascribe not a little of the success which God has given us there to the stern good sense which has guarded that place from becoming the resort of the indolent and the insincere. Such, if they have come thither, have soon found that it was no home for them. Nor, so far as our experience has gone, do I think that we have reason to count the Christians of Sharanpur a sickly growth. Certainly the way in which the word of the Lord seems to have "sounded out" from among them into the villages around bids us hope for better things. It is yet an early day among them, and we would not speak too confidently. But I must own, that having watched that settlement now for seven years, and visited it twice, I am strongly of opinion, that where caste is violent, as it is in that neighbourhood, and the converts are few, we do well to give them a place of refuge, provided that every thing be so ordered as to prevent abuse, and to foster only a sincere, industrious, self-reliant, and virtuous community. Of course we should much prefer to see Christian converts abiding from the first wherever the Gospel found them, to "shine as lights in the world." But the next best thing we believe to be the Mission settlement, because, under certain circumstances, the most practical and most beneficial mode of attaining our grand object—the gathering together of the people of Christ.

Preaching to the Heathen.

Mr. Isenberg reports respecting the evangelistic labours at this station:—

The monthly Mahratti journals of our catechists and scripture-readers show that each of them has preached to between 300 and 400 heathen during each month, on an average. I have not been able to attend to this work myself as much as I could have wished. The reception of the Gospel still varies. Generally it is heard with indifference; sometimes the heathen listen with attention and respect: often they start objections and questions which have been repeatedly answered. "Often have we returned," writes the native minister, "with an aching heart, wondering whether we shall be spared to see the day when these Indian Jannes and Jambres, who now withstand us, shutting their mouths, shall fall prostrate before the cross of Christ."

Mr. Frost wholly devotes himself to itinerating within a prescribed district, so as to bring the Gospel before the whole population at stated intervals of time. In his annual letter he writes:—

In compliance with the desire expressed in the usual circular, that I would furnish to the Society my annual letter, I sit down to comply, reminded of the rapid flight of another year, for it appears but a few short months since I wrote my last. I am led thus to recal with thankfulness that I have been spared to enter upon the ninth year of my residence in India, compassed with mercies on every side. The reflection that I have, during so long a time, enjoyed such continued health of body and cheerfulness of mind, while some have been removed by sickness, or depressed in spirits, I would here acknowledge as a special mercy from the Lord, who alone has been my sustainer. The consideration that I left my country at the age of thirty-five—a period when the European constitution does not so readily adapt itself to the changes of the climate, and the diminished pliancy of the mind renders more difficult the acquisition of new languages, but that notwithstanding I am enabled with some vigour to itinerate, and, I trust, intelligibly to proclaim the glad tidings of salvation,—surely this consideration ought to give great encouragement to my younger brethren at home to offer themselves joyfully to the Lord for his work in India, and enter, in the freshness of their days, upon the great field here ripening for the harvest. With youth and a prospect of a longer period of labour than I can in the natural course expect, what fresh zest would be added to every endeavour to acquire more perfect knowledge of the language, and more perfect facility of adaptation to the peculiar turns of native thought. Often, when making these endeavours, do I think, amid the enjoyment of my work, "Would that I had devoted the beginning of my strength to this holy cause; that now, instead of my eighth year, I might be recording with thankfulness the close of a twentieth year of ripened experience and enlarged usefulness." But it is past, and I can only humble myself for lost opportunities, and adore my heavenly Father, who caused me to look beyond Christian England, and gaze with compassionate desire upon the myriads of my fellow-creatures sitting in darkness and in the shadow of death.

In carrying on the plans which I have already laid before the Committee, I am encouraged by finding some of the results I had anticipated. The general nature of my work is tolerably well known, even in parts which have not as yet been visited. Frequently I meet with natives from places where I have preached in previous years, who had made the people acquainted with my object, and often greet me kindly. I think, too, there is at times traceable an increased sense of the importance of a word which, in the name of the supreme God, is being thus seriously proclaimed from place to place. Many times have the people said to me, on entering their villages, "We heard of your preaching last year at such a place, and wondered whether you would visit us." I have, too, of late been frequently struck with the way in which the Gospel has been received by those who have only heard that a new Shaster is being published to the people. I have felt a thrill of delight at the instinctive homage paid to the word of God, in such sudden exclamations as these—"This is indeed a great Scripture, a mighty word. None of our religious teachers have such a word as this." The other day, after preaching to a large assembly, on rising from a large slab of the temple where I sat, the people cried out with surprise, "Scorpions!" On turning round I saw two large scorpions I had been all but sitting upon. The people abated their surprise at my not being stung, by saying to each other, "How could they sting him who proclaims such a Scripture!" How has my heart ascended at such exclamations, with the fervent desire that God would cause the word of his grace to sink into their hearts, and bear fruit to the Redeemer's glory!

Through the kindness of my brethren in Nasik, I have been enabled to bring out with me a Christian household, which gives me not only the happiness of daily family worship, but removes one frequent occasion of reproach from the natives, who have hitherto said, "You go about continually proclaiming your religion, but who embraces it?" This reproach has ceased; and I hope that the presence with me of so many native Christians may help to shed more rays of light on the darkness around.

It is a great encouragement to think that there is at this time much prayer for the aid of the Holy Spirit in the hearts of both preachers and hearers. This thought of itself sustains labour, animates hope, and increases our expectation of results hitherto not experienced. I feel more and more the beneficial effects of a deepening interest in the work of others; in the consideration of the many other vast fields of labour, and our brethren there bearing in like manner the burden and heat of the day, and in the contemplation of the wondrous unfolding of the divine purposes of mercy as traced in Scripture and in history.

Mr. Frost has forwarded a map of the district contiguous to Nasik, about sixty miles by fifty, indicating his successive itinerations between 1855-61, either alone, or in company with the two native clergy, the Rev. Appaji Bapuji and the Rev. Daji Pandurang. He has hitherto refrained from appealing for another helper in consideration of the far more populous and extensive fields of Bengal: he adds—

Still time passes over my head; and though I trust I may yet be spared some years to sow the seed again and again throughout my district, and to water it too, I should rejoice if I could see any who would, in the event of my removal, reap that on which I am bestowing labour. I think it is clear, from the map, that even a solitary Missionary could declare the Gospel once in every four years in every town and hamlet of this district; but how great the advantage had I one likeminded in plan with myself! Then every other year might the Gospel trumpet give its silvery sounds throughout the whole. My plan involves a good deal of patient continuance in well-doing. One who sees the map does not see, behind the scenes, the miserable roads, the confusion of striking and pitching tents, the carts upset, tent-furniture broken and torn, and all the concomitants of this life that tend to ruffle the temper, while they always so much disturb the quiet so essential, if attainable, to one's peace of mind in the Lord's work. Still, with all its discomforts, it is a most happy work. The occasional rudeness, or even pelting, only makes the quiet hearing of the Gospel more sweet to one's feelings; and I only wish I could be closeted for a short time with some of our younger brethren who may be hesitating whether or no to join themselves to this work, and I think I could tell them of so much varied happiness in it as (if a man's word could do it) would make them decide at once to come and help us.

JUNIR.

The station of Junir has long continued an unproductive field of labour, and one in which a Missionary peculiarly needs the comfort and aid of a brother to share his toils and anxieties. Such a fellow-labourer, Mr. Hofer, was associated with Mr. Schwartz for two years, but, in the mysterious providence of God, just at the time when Mr. Hofer had acquired the language, and was able to take an efficient part in the work, he was compelled, through the failure of health, to leave India, and Mr. Schwartz is again labouring without the comfort of an European brother. His wife's health has also obliged her to return to Europe for a time. In addition to these trials, Mr. Schwartz has been grieved by the defection of one or two members of the native flock, which does not exceed eleven souls. Nevertheless, upon hearing that the question was to be brought before the Committee, whether it was not the duty of the Society to withdraw its Missionaries from a locality in which so little fruit had been reaped, he addressed to the Committee this Christian and animated remonstrance:—

Junir itself, which forms the sphere of our work, is not even the chief part of it. The question is, shall we relinquish the whole of this district, of which Junir is the centre? shall we give up as hopeless the 500 villages which group round Junir, in a circle not extending above five-and-twenty miles?—villages, in most of which the Gospel of Jesus is preached from time to time, and in many of which the Missionary is looked upon at least as an acknowledged and welcome friend. Are we entitled to flee from the people, as long as they assemble together to hear the word of God? I never believed that our work was without effect. "One soweth, the other reapeth," and both rejoice at the time of harvest. Indeed, we are nothing, the Lord is all; therefore, unto us belongeth patient perseverance and trust in God, that in his good time He will lay bare his arm. It is easy to hang back, but difficult to press vigorously onward. Our lot is cast among a most idolatrous, ignorant, and stubborn people; but the deeper they are sunken in darkness and sin, the deeper we must descend to rescue them, and this at the cost of much protracted labour. The Lord forbid that the Society should give up this field. I this day plead for a people which cannot yet plead for itself. I am now closing my seventh year among them: methinks they are merely days, and I am willing to live a long life, if it please God, among this people; and should I be but a sower I still will rejoice with the future reaper. Let us, then, rather occupy the field, and put our force in proportion to the requirement of the same.

The Rev. J. Bunter, native minister, has been stationed at Junir, in charge of the small native flock and eighteen adjacent villages, in order that Mr. Schwartz may be at full liberty to itinerate throughout the district as long as the state of the season will allow. Mr. Bunter writes:—

I go very often among the villages: in each week I visit three villages. The villages are poor and ignorant: there is not one among them who can read or write, and they cannot understand the Gospel truth when they hear it. In some villages the people say to me, "Why do you come to us so often? We are quite tired of hearing the name of Jesus Christ. The Koolkurnies are the persons who can read well in the villages, and lately, according to the Bible Society's direction, I gave a few copies of the New Testament to the Koolkurnies, that they might read them to the villagers.

MALLIGAUM.

Mr. Mengé and Mr. Rogers have continued to labour at Malligaum. It was stated in the last Report, that the congregation at Malligaum had received a large accession from the railway labourers, who had come from the neighbourhood of the American Missions in Ahmednugger, some of whom had been already baptized, and others had been acquainted with the truth, before their arrival at Malligaum. During the last year the whole of these labourers, amounting, with their families, to thirty-three souls, twenty-five of whom were baptized, returned to the Ahmednugger district. The numbers of the congregation have been partly made up by the baptism of nine adults during the year, and by the accession of a few inquirers; so that, at the close of the year, the number of native Christians in connexion with the station was thirty-two. Mr. Rogers writes:—

Monthly Missionary meetings have been regularly kept up. At these meetings collections are made, and all the native Christians contribute something. Most of them give, I believe, to the extent of their ability: 57 rupees have been collected, and, what is far more important, the habit of giving to the cause of Christ has been formed.

At Wadneir, Santosh's native village, a room has been built, which is used for divine worship, and also for a school. Shankur Nana or I go there on Sundays as frequently as we can, and I hope soon to have service there every Sunday. Santosh's wife and daughter, and a youth about 16 years of age, have been baptized there during the last year. Besides Santosh's family, from ten to fifteen persons usually assemble for worship. They are not all, I fear, really in earnest, but they profess to have entirely given up idolatry, and willingly come for instruction. Santosh goes to the villages round to converse with those who were formerly his disciples.

Mr. Mengé notices in his report the encouragement he has received from the chief military officer in Malligaum:—

It gives me great pleasure to state that the commanding-officer last year encouraged me and my colleague to preach the Gospel in the camp-bazaar, in order to give the Sepoys and others an opportunity of becoming acquainted with the way of salvation. This I think has never been attempted before, from fear of giving offence to the authorities. We accordingly hired a room in the bazaar, and regularly preached the Gospel every Thursday since the rains. Many people in the bazaar, and among them also Sepoys, came and listened quietly and respectfully to the preaching of God's holy word. What the effect of this new effort for disseminating the truth of Jesus in the camp-bazaar will be we do not yet know, as the regiment has lately left for Dhoolia. I am thankful to be able to add that the commanding-officer is not likely to hinder us in this good work.

We have also regularly preached the Gospel every Friday, being market-day, in our hired room in Malligaum, where we sometimes had attentive hearers to the number of 50 or 60, or even 100. In this way many Hindus who come to Malligaum on that day have been made acquainted with the truth as it is in Jesus; so that when we are itinerating in the districts we meet with individuals who have heard the Gospel in Malligaum on the market-day.

Vernacular Schools.

The number of children in the vernacular schools is 170. Mr. Rogers remarks:—

The boys pay a small sum for admission, and also a monthly fee. This shows that parents value the education which their children receive. The sum paid in fees by the scholars in all our schools last year amounted to eighty-three rupees, six annas, and six pies. Some years ago the Hindus would not send their children to school to be instructed by native-Christian teachers. That time has now passed away, and an effort ought to be made to introduce truly pious and well-trained native-Christian schoolmasters into all Mission schools. Some of the orphans in our schools, and the children of native Christians, might well be set apart and prepared for this work. Anand and Priti, an orphan boy and girl, whom we have under our care, are employed a short time every day in teaching, and appear likely, in due time, to become competent teachers. A gentleman in Dhoolia has very kindly given us the means of supporting them.

Preaching to the Heathen.

Both the Missionaries spend the seasons in which itinerating is possible, in visiting different parts of the province of Candesh; and, while at Malligaum, there is daily preaching in the bazaars. Mr. Rogers writes respecting this department of their labours:—

I find it difficult to form an opinion respecting the real sentiments of the bulk of the people of this country towards Christianity. We do, indeed, at times meet with strong and decided opposition, and hear the name of our blessed Saviour blasphemed; but this is not generally the case. Numbers come most regularly to hear, and some appear to listen with great interest to our preaching. They enter into conversation, ask questions about Christianity, laugh at the absurdities of their own religion, and appear to despise their Gurus. And yet there is no decided movement towards the truth; no real concern about their souls' salvation. It seems as if the outpouring of the Holy Spirit were the only thing needed. As we are brought by itinerating into closer intercourse with the people, we see, even more and more, how greatly God is dishonoured in this land; and how almost every tenet of Hinduism tends to debase and pervert all the feelings of the human heart.

Mr. Mengé thus states his experience in the work:—

With regard to my itinerating labours, I am happy to say that I was much encouraged by noticing that the villagers listened to the preaching of the Gospel last year with greater intelligence than they did on former occasions. I have been in certain villages half a dozen times, and have found that the number of my hearers rather increased than diminished, which latter is generally the case where people do not wish to hear, and come together the first time from sheer curiosity. I conclude, therefore, that their interest in hearing the blessed truth is on the increase, in proportion as they better understand and feel what God has done for them in the love of his Son. Having had no assistant to relieve me when tired, I was often obliged to go away with a heavy heart, being quite exhausted from speaking, when there were still large crowds assembled, and apparently anxious to hear more of the way of salvation. I am convinced that our Mission among the Mahrattas will continue to remain in a crippled and unsatisfactory state, so long as we have no zealous and self-denying native helpers.

AURUNGABAD.

Aurungabad appeared for the first time in the Report of last year as a station in the Society's Western-India Mission. A spirit of inquiry had sprung up without the presence of a Missionary. The Rev. A. Davidson was sent to foster and direct the movement, and before the close of that year he had admitted many to baptism. Mr. Davidson has continued his residence amongst them for another year. The nature of the movement is scarcely yet sufficiently ascertained, but it is full of interest and hope. Mr. Davidson acts with a very proper caution, yet he has admitted, since the last Report, more than thirty individuals to baptism, so that the number of the baptized already amounts to seventy-two. The number of inquirers it is not attempted to specify. The following carefully prepared report of his labours has been sent by Mr. Davidson for the year 1861 :—

It is my privilege to communicate to you, that in the part of the country where I have been permitted to labour this year, God seems to be opening a way for the progress of his blessed Gospel. After making large abatements, we may certainly conclude that He has prepared the hearts of many to receive the word spoken, not as the word of men, but as it is indeed—the word of God. It is a cause of deep joy and gratitude that such an unworthy instrument as myself should have been employed in this encouraging work of sounding the Gospel silver trumpet in the ears of willing hearers, and we will rejoice the more to see God's strength perfected in weakness.

My itinerations this year have been over a large extent of country, chiefly comprised in the triangle formed by Aurungabad, Jaulna, and Booldana. Sufficient information and providential indications were afforded me to enable me to economize time and travelling, by going principally to those places in which persons favourably disposed to the truth lived. I found, in most instances, that the way had been paved for me by the influences mentioned in my last year's report. I found a great many very desirous for admission into the Christian church; though, at the same time, a most inadequate conception of the nature of such a step, its requirements and consequences. It is quite clear to me, that of those who professed a desire for baptism, a large majority were influenced by unworthy motives—some by dubious ones; but I hope and believe fully that most of those who have been baptized are constrained by the love of Christ. Not that it would be correct to say that they have made any high advancement in spiritual gifts or graces, for in this respect they are far behind what we should wish to see them. The habits of thought and action induced by a lifetime spent in idleness, untruthfulness, and amidst the mischievous influences of idolatrous superstition, we seldom see entirely eradicated from the adult. Much remains that we deplore; but then I think many of these converts see and deplore it likewise themselves—the eyes of their understanding have been so far enlightened, that they see the evil nature of their former course, and desire deliverance from what is felt to be so. They have felt that they are sinners exposed to the righteous judgments of God, and having found that Hinduism provides them with no Saviour such as their case requires, they have turned and fled for refuge to the Lamb of God, who taketh away the sins of the world. I really think that the language of the inmost feelings of the hearts of many is, "None but Jesus can do helpless sinners good." I believe that they trust in Him, and in Him alone, as their one and all-sufficient Saviour, without whom they are lost; and that many of them love Him because He loved them, and gave Himself for them. We are disappointed at not seeing a fuller gush of love towards their Lord, but we must not ignore what there is: the little flickering flame has been kindled, we fully trust, by the Holy Spirit, and He can increase it. I look with much cheerful confidence to the intercessions of God's people, which are now being offered so frequently and unitedly for this special object. May the Lord send a gracious rain upon His inheritance in these parts!

When we apply to the little flock here the trying test, "by their fruits ye shall know them," there is much that encourages. The converts (with a few exceptions) have gained nothing by the change: this they distinctly understood from the first. I do not think those who have been baptized were influenced by the hope of improvement in their temporal circumstances. Several saw plainly that they would be pecuniary losers by the change, as in fact they have been to a very serious extent: they firmly persist in refusing to play musical instruments before the village idols, and, in consequence, they have lost their hereditary "hakk," or per-centage of produce, for performing certain village duties.

Some of them are in extreme destitution on this account, but the depth of poverty does not shake their resolution to have nothing more to do with idols.

In another respect they have exhibited a most cheering strength of right principles, which will be most appreciated by those who are most intimately acquainted with the working of the Hindu social system. The universal custom of the early betrothal of children is well known, and the infraction of this agreement exposes the retracting party to more obloquy than almost any thing else. Parents indeed consider themselves and their children most fortunate when this betrothal is settled, and hardly any thing would induce them to break off the match. When our people were baptized I foresaw what a snare this would prove, for when the time for the consummation of their children's marriage comes, the son-in-law or daughter-in-law being generally heathen, would of course require the marriage to take place according to the caste rules. Thus the Christian parents would inevitably become involved in the attendant idolatrous rites, and, in some cases, even baptized children might be married as heathen. I therefore, in all cases, insisted on the parents publicly annulling these betrothals, both because they would thereby become involved in heathenish practices, and also because such compacts are, according to English and Christian law, deficient in the very essence of what constitutes marriage, namely, the mutual consent of the two parties. This proved a most searching test of their sincerity. Many, of whom I hoped well, drew back from this, and wished to be baptized without making any such promise. But this reservation seemed to me a clear sign that they had not given themselves and their families to the Lord with full purpose of heart, and were therefore not worthy candidates for the holy rite. But the consent of those who did agree to it, and the sacrifice of what they clung to most closely, gave me additional confidence in their sincerity.

In several instances our converts have been exposed to much vexation and anoyance from heathen malice, but I am glad to be able to say that they have not been deterred.

There is much of interest both connected with the present and future prospects of the infant church in these parts; but I fear this letter is already too long. I anticipate much trial and sifting of the wheat in the coming year. It is well that it should be so: we know that the plants of the Lord's planting can be plucked up by no enemy. In conclusion, I beg to thank the Committee very much for permitting me to prosecute my work so far from my formerly appointed sphere. A year or two more will show how far it is desirable to make any permanent establishment in these parts, and if so, what will be the best locality. I am glad that nothing as yet has been decided upon the point. I commend this infant church, and my own labours connected with it, to the Church Missionary Committee's kind interest and prayers, and to the care of the great Head of the church whose work I trust it is.

KURRACHI.

At this station the Rev. James Sheldon has had to sustain alone the whole burden of the Mission in its pastoral, evangelistic, and educational departments. The number of native Christians is twenty-two. The Committee hope soon to be able to strengthen his hands. In his annual letter, at the end of the year, he writes:—

The congregational services in the Mission school have been regularly held on Sundays. The conduct and attendance of the native congregation have been generally encouraging. During the year two converts from heathenism have been added to its members. As the native congregation is on the increase, and demands more of my time on Sabbath, I have been compelled to suspend the English service on Sunday evening. In its place I have a Bible class for my native Christians. With great reluctance I made this change, for my heart yearned towards the little (English) flock to whom it was my privilege to minister.

The Mission school has been wholly under my charge during the year, not having been able to secure, or even support, a schoolmaster. The only alternative was to adopt the monitorial system, and make my first-class boys monitors of the lower classes, reserving to myself all the Scripture lessons. This plan answers admirably. The scholars are always employed, and the discipline of the school is maintained; while the monitors themselves, being instructed as pupil teachers, are becoming efficient teachers; my extremity will, therefore, I trust, prove God's opportunity. The senior boys, who would have left the school in search of employment, and possibly would have been lost sight of, are now kept within the hearing and influence of the Gospel, at an age when it is most likely their knowledge will lead to conviction, and conviction to conversion. Notwithstanding the increased scriptural character of the school, and its proximity to the Government school, the attendance in the year has increased from 78 to 112. This branch of the Mission work has necessarily occupied my undivided attention five and a half hours every day. It is, however, a most cheering part of my work, and is surely preparing a way for greater and more decided results. There is, it must be confessed, one cause for apprehension: my monitors are as yet professedly heathen. This is a weak element, which needs great watchfulness, lest it should become a dangerous one. The young men are, however, my own pupils, are constantly under my own eye, and in reality more Christian than heathen, both in their views and conduct: two of them attend the Sabbath services. May they be given to us as chosen vessels of salvation to others!

In the bazaar, the book-shop has been kept open at a small annual cost. The demand for native publications, and the Scriptures in the native language, has been greater than in former years. This is to be accounted for by the more than usual number of kafilahs which have come in from Candahar and Cabul. Men belonging to these have frequently visited the book-shop, held conversations, and carried away our Christian books. I have always found these strangers, who are all Mohammedans, more impressible and less bigoted than their co-religionists in Kurrachi. Pilgrim Jews, on their way to Jerusalem, and Hindu Jatrees, en route to Hinglaj, have also purchased our publications. With many of these strangers I have conversed, and have induced some of them to attend our morning services at the Mission school. Another interesting class of the inhabitants of Kurrachi are the Cutchees. These men are skilled artisans, who are attracted to the province by the high wages given for their labour in the various public works. Most of them read Guzerathi, and to them, perhaps more than to any other class, have our Scriptures and books been sold.

Our lithographic press has been idle during the year for want of the necessary superintendence.

HYDRABAD.

Mr. Burn has laboured at this station throughout the year. He cannot report the accession of a single convert; but his native agency has been increased by two valuable catechists. Measures have also been taken to open an English school. The disposition of the native population towards the Mission is more favourable. In his annual letter Mr. Burn writes:—

Mohkam, a convert from Mohammedanism, has joined us, with his wife and child, from the American Mission in Loodhiana, where he had been employed as Scripture reader. He came to us to supply the place of our Bible-seller, Saudagar, who died in the beginning of the year. Though nominally the convert of another Mission, he owes his conversion, under God, to our catechist, Abdoolah, when he was for a time with the American Missionaries in those parts; and it was his attachment to Abdoolah which brought him to us. He has proved a valuable agent. He has a good knowledge of his Bible, and preaches statedly once a week for us in the bazaar, when he gives such clear and forcible expositions of Scripture, as gain the marked attention of the people, and make him almost the best preacher amongst us, though inferior to Abdoolah in discussion. During the day he occupies a shop in the bazaar for the sale of the Scriptures, and receives also many coming to make inquiry. He is chiefly supported by the liberality of the Bible Society: the rest of his salary (8 rupees) being drawn from our local funds.

We are much encouraged to hope, from the frequent inquiries of the natives, that our school will be well supported by them, although there is already a flourishing Government English school established. One attraction with them will certainly be the non-requirement of fees (at first), but the expectation that a native-English Missionary will superintend it is the chief inducement. Such superintendence will indeed be our only reasonable hope of success: it will, at the same time, make large demands on our time and energy.

The duties resting upon Mr. Burn at Hydrabad did not allow of his taking Missionary tours as in former years; but the Catechist Abdoolah was sent into Upper Sindh for a few weeks at the close of the year, and he has furnished this brief notice of his tour, which proves that the faithful preaching of the Gospel in those parts has not been in vain.

In my journey, through Upper Sindh (concluded four days ago), many came forward to confess that Christ was the only Saviour. One of them was a prince, who is in the receipt of a pension of 62 rupees a month from our Government; and another a near relative of the Resaldar-Major in Jacob's cavalry, who gets 500 rupees a month: the others are of less note, but well off in their circumstances. I left them all for better preparation, and brought with me only one, who has experienced conversion as well as conviction. The prince ate and drank with me openly, and confessed that Christ was the only Saviour; others were less bold, though bold enough to say plainly what they thought.

A remarkable feature, in the reports just reviewed, is the appearance of natives, who, having embraced more or less of scriptural truth, set themselves up as leaders of new sects, and gather many followers, to whom they propound only partial views of the truth, but yet sufficient to shake their confidence in their old religions. Similar instances have occurred in other Missions. Such was Ramaya, of Chakia, near Benares, who had for ten years acted this part before he became himself a convert to Christ, and was received by baptism into the Christian church.

Mr. Mengé has mentioned a person named Bhulsa Boa in former years: he again refers to him in the following extract from this year's journals:—

Nov. 15, 1861—I paid a visit to Bhulsa Boa, the spiritual guide of a number of disciples among the Mahars. He received me in a friendly manner. It is the same man whom I met two years ago at Wudneir, where Santosh, one of our converts, now resides. Bhulsa Boa still continues to teach people to read, and to use our Christian books, but he evidently prefers the honour of men to the honour of God; and while he speaks against idolatry, and thinks the Christian religion to be the religion of God, he continues a heathen, and advises inquirers not to be baptized. I spoke to him with all earnestness, but at the same time with love, in the hearing of many Hindus. He took it in good part, and promised to pay us a visit. At parting I gave him the tract entitled, "In whom shall we trust?"

In this instance Santosh, one of the followers of the guide, has embraced the truth before his master, and remains a stedfast and useful convert.

Another instance occurs in the same journal of Mr. Mengé, though in a different locality in the neighbourhood of Malligaum:—

Jan. 27*th*, 1861—Three of my native helpers were engaged all day at Chudanpori, preaching the blessed Gospel to hundreds of their fellow-men, who were steeped in superstition and idolatry. It was remarkable that they were assisted by a Gossain, who is but partially enlightened, but seems to take pleasure in preaching Christ. I had met this Gossain once or twice before in camp. He is an intelligent young man, whose disciples number, according to his own estimation, about 1500 souls.

A third instance is that of the first Afghan convert from Mohammedanism, Mirza Bakir, who embraced the truth, and was baptized by Dr. Pfander at Peshawur in 1856.* He afterwards left Peshawur, and was lost sight of; but he has again been met with in a new character, as the following extract from the report of Abdoolah, the Sindh catechist will show:—

* See Annual Report, 1856-57, p. 105.

To my great surprise I found Mirza Bakir in the city of Shikarpur. He had left Peshawur and come there. A great Hindu has given him a good house to live in, and many gladly support him with excellent food and raiment. Gentlemen and ladies of the city were almost worshipping him, but this they did in private: he has, he told me, altogether about 14,000 persons in Khorasan and India who are secretly his listeners or followers. I found no dangerous doctrine in his preaching, but his mode of preaching I do not much like: he preaches, for the most part, in figures and hints, and he does not attack errors in their first peep, and cuts not the root of errors in the very beginning. Perhaps he is wanting in ability to do this.

It is impossible not to notice, in such instances as these, the signs of a coming movement in the native mind, which the Christian church must prepare to meet, and, by God's grace, to guide in a right direction. They show that when once the leading minds in native society are imbued with divine truth, converts may flock into the church of Christ "as doves to their windows."

General Review.

The North-India Mission has lately sustained a great loss in the death of the Rev. G. G. Cuthbert, its able and zealous Secretary. The following "minute" expresses the feelings of the Parent Committee on the occasion:—

The Committee have heard with deep regret of the sudden and unexpected death of the valuable Secretary of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, the Rev. G. G. Cuthbert, M.A. He was on a visit to his native land, and expired near Dublin, Oct. 22nd, in the prime of life. In the year 1845 he declined the offer of preferment at home to devote himself to the work of a Missionary abroad. Upon his arrival in India he qualified himself for the Secretaryship of the Corresponding Committee by going out for the first year into the Mission field, and labouring as a Missionary. For thirteen years he conducted the business of the Society in North India with untiring energy, with strict fidelity to the trust committed to him, and with the cordial and uncompromising maintenance of those scriptural principles upon which the Society rests its claim for public support, and all its hopes of a blessing from above.

In the Annual Report of last year the Committee referred to the part taken by the Missionaries in behalf of the oppressed native indigo cultivators in the Kishnagurh district, and to the full vindication of their conduct by a Government Commission appointed to investigate the indigo question, as well as by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal. This controversy has issued in a painful event, of which the influence and effects will spread far beyond the limits of the province in which it occurred. The Rev. James Long, one of the oldest and most zealous of the Missionaries of the Society, has been indicted for a libel, convicted, and imprisoned in the common jail of Calcutta. Mr. Long was employed by the Secretary of the Bengal Government to procure, for the use of the Government, a printed translation of a native satire upon the European indigo planters, in respect of their oppression of the native cultivators. It was thought important to show to those interested in the welfare of India, at home and abroad, by means of this satire, the working of the native mind upon a much agitated social question. An association of indigo planters threatened the printer of the translation with a prosecution for libel upon the whole body of indigo planters! The printer gave up Mr. Long as the party who brought him the manuscript. Mr. Long nobly took upon himself the responsibility, and stood his trial. So great was the excitement amongst the European population in Calcutta, that Mr. Long found it difficult to obtain counsel to defend his cause. Under that excitement a Calcutta jury brought in a verdict against Mr. Long, as legally guilty of publishing a malicious libel; though he was universally allowed to have acted from the best motives, and the object of the prosecutors was to reach other parties beyond Mr. Long. The judge passed a sentence upon Mr. Long of a fine of 100*l.* and one month's imprisonment. The payment of the fine was immediately tendered by several native gentlemen of high position in Calcutta, and all the expenses of the trial were amply covered by the same parties. During his imprisonment Mr. Long was visited by representatives of the best European, as well as native society. Addresses of respect and sympathy from all his Missionary brethren, as well as from natives, in various parts of the country, were presented to him; and he was universally regarded as a sufferer for his fearless and faithful support of the just consideration of the native races. Thus the result, under the overruling providence of God, has been greatly for the furtherance of the Mission cause.

CALCUTTA.

The operations of the Society in the city and neighbourhood of Calcutta have been carried on, as in former years, by the Rev. Messrs. Sandys, Long, and Vaughan. The painful circumstances in which Mr. Long has been placed have necessarily interfered with his Missionary duties. The Rev. E. C. Stuart has ably discharged the duties of Secretary of the Corresponding Committee. The Rev. J. Welland, having only lately arrived in India, has been engaged in the study of the language. The native minister, the Rev. M. S. Seal, late of Kurrachi, has been permanently attached to the Calcutta Mission.

The whole number of native Christians in connexion with the Calcutta Mission amounts to 1120, and the communicants to 321.

The chief congregation assembles at Trinity church,

Mirzapore, and is under the pastoral charge of Mr. Sandys, who reports:—

Divine Service is held on the morning and afternoon of Sunday in Bengali, and has continued to be pretty well attended, although many of the people, living at a distance, attend only once in the day. The church is well filled on Sunday mornings, from 200 to 310 being the attendance, and throughout the past six months the number of native communicants has ranged from 50 to 70. The general conduct of most has been in accordance with their Christian profession. The benefits of education are becoming more abundantly evident among the rising generation of native Christians, who, in many cases, obtain respectable situations and employments, and become well able to support themselves and their families. Individuals now frequently proceed to distant stations, where they obtain employment and good pay, and the spirit of dependence which formerly seemed a characteristic of the Bengal Missions has now to a great extent, if not entirely, passed away. The native Christian is now no longer spurned as formerly by other classes as an outcast, but is enabled to make his way as an independent and useful member of the community.

Divine service is held also in English in Trinity church on Sunday evenings, with a view especially to the benefit of the inmates of the Alms House of the District Charitable Society in the vicinity. The attendance is usually from 100 to 120.

Mr. Vaughan is chiefly employed in preaching to the heathen. His visits to various parts of the city bring under his notice many outcast Christians, of whom he thus writes:—

Calcutta is perhaps, of all places, the most trying to a Missionary pastor. Besides the ungodliness and loose morality which are characteristics of all large cities, Calcutta is, and has been for years, the receptacle of the very worst Christians of the Mofussil stations. It is a regular cave of Adullam, to which the vilest of the vile—yea, even the outcasts of Kishnagurh, betake themselves, and find shelter. Such characters do not generally show themselves to the Missionaries, but settle down in little colonies in different parts of the city, living in a state of practical heathenism, many of them being more depraved even than the heathen around them. The effect of all this upon the heathen need not be told. Of course those poor people are known by all to be Christians, and the inconsistencies of their lives are placed to the discredit of the religion which they profess. Thus to a great extent our efforts for the conversion of the population generally are nullified.

For a long time back I have been striving, with the aid of my Readers, to get an influence over these reprobate Christians. It is a work most difficult and discouraging. The fact is, they have never been any other than nominal Christians. Their case is not that of backsliders, who have fallen from grace received.

They have always been dead—spiritually dead—never quickened, and the circumstance of their being baptized, and to some extent instructed in Christianity, appears to have rendered them "twice dead." Nevertheless, the Word is often stronger than our faith. I have often found it so, and even amongst those poor people have I seen this illustrated. There are some now who do come to the house of prayer who never came before; there are those, also, who show some liking to the reading of the Scriptures and prayer. In the case of not a few there is, I think, a perception of the evil of their way, and of their duty to reform, which is, to a great degree new to them. Besides, the simple fact of their knowing and feeling that they are still thought of and looked after, at once awakens some kindly emotion within them, and also exercises a wholesome restraint upon them. I have found, in more instances than one, that they are amenable to discipline; and it is clear that they can understand and appreciate the motive which prompts its exercise. A little party of these outsiders gather in my verandah every Sunday morning after service, for a little friendly chat, and it is hard to say who is best pleased, they or myself, by these social conferences. Of one thing at least I am more and more convinced —though I once did not think so—that love and gratitude may be felt, ah! and strongly too, in the heart of a Bengali.

In the same letter Mr. Vaughan thus bears testimony to the genuine Christian character of those converts who are regular members of the Mission congregations:—

It is pleasing, however, to know, that amidst all the chaff there are a few very precious grains of wheat. Oh yes, we have at Mirzapore some of whom it may be said, "Ye are washed, ye are sanctified, ye are justified;" some in whose hearts dwells the love of God, who live by faith on Jesus, and daily endeavour to walk even as He walked. It is refreshing to hold converse with this little flock, and to unite with them, as I do once or twice a week, in reading the word of God and in prayer. I shall never despair of this Mission as long as it retains a few righteous men within it.

I am of opinion that very much attention should be given to meetings of a social kind amongst our people—Bible and prayer meetings. Private interviews are also of great importance. I fear our Sunday services alone will effect very little. I have altogether four meetings weekly for prayer and the study of the Scriptures: I believe they are not without a blessing. One of these I established a few months ago. It is for the women of the village: the suggestion, indeed, came from themselves. It consists of twelve or fourteen, all married women, nearly all mothers. I feel that an influence for good gained over our Christian women cannot be over-estimated in importance.

At Kidderpore, the native minister, Mr. Seal, has been stationed for the last year, where he has charge of a small native congregation, to which he ministers in Bengalee and Hindustanee. He speaks of a remarkable spirit of inquiry at the village of Panchla, where a single Moslem family was baptized a few years ago.

At Christ Church, Agurparah, a small congregation of native Christians assemble for divine service, which is conducted usually by Mr. De Rozario. This station has been visited by Mr. Sandys on alternate months, for the purpose of holding divine service and administering the Sacraments: about 40 assemble, and the communicants are about 12. It is in contemplation to have this station again occupied by a Missionary of the Society.

At Kistapore, on the east of the Salt-water Lake, are 139 native Christians. The Christian reader is Mohesh Mondol. Raj Kista Bose usually goes to hold divine service on Sunday, and Mr. Sandys visits periodically, to hold divine service and administer the Sacraments. The usual congregations and communicants are much smaller than they ought to be, the former being between 30 and 40, and the latter 12 to 15.

At Kamerghatee and Ucholahor, further to the east, are 53 native Christians in 13 families, under the instruction of Solomon Gayn, a native reader. This place has been visited only once during the year by Mr. Sandys, and it is believed that if more time could be devoted to the work in the eastern districts it would much increase in that direction.

Mr. Long has had charge of the Mission at the Christian village of Thakerpuker, south of Calcutta, at which he has usually spent three days each week, devoting the rest of his time to investigation and inquiries on subjects connected with Missions, and to intercourse with the educated and influential classes of Hindu society. He has furnished the Corresponding Committee in Calcutta with the following valuable report, which contains many important suggestions; and which will, at the same time, show the character of the man whom the Association of indigo planters thought fit to persecute even to fine and imprisonment:—

I avail myself of this opportunity, when I am quitting the shores of India, to review the Missionary experience of fourteen years. I must first express to the Corresponding Committee my conscientious convictions on the following point. I have been connected with the Corresponding Committee in Calcutta for twenty-one years. During that period I do not recollect a single line of unpleasant correspondence that has passed between us; and I entertain the highest respect for the kind and considerate treatment I have invariably experienced from them and their Secretaries; and I believe the working of the Corresponding Committee has been most useful in economizing funds, and advancing the interests of Missions.

The last has been an eventful year to me: during the first six months of it my duties had been carried on in the usual routine, namely, in the cold season itinerating with native readers and catechists. I have visited Baraset and the surrounding villages. It was while there in tents the 'Nil Darpan' was forwarded to me by its author, through the deputy magistrate of the district. I then proceeded to visit the Vaishaet and Tantook sects near the Ganges, and after that I spent some time among educated natives a little distance from Calcutta, where I witnessed the dreadful effects of European infidelity and rationalistic works, on the native mind.

On my return to Calcutta I was occupied with my duties during the hot weather and rains, namely, teaching and examining schools, along with subjects relating to vernacular literature, and the spending three days weekly among the peasantry in the Thakerpuker district, where I was pleased to witness the social improvements going on among the people working along with other changes, denoting that the days of superstition were numbered.

But this pleasant and agreeable course of things was abruptly brought to a stand-still, by the events connected with the 'Nil Darpan' affair.

On my way now to England to recruit my health, which has been injured owing to the intense mental excitement and anxiety connected with this case, I have to thank God that he has caused the wrath of man to praise Him. My trial and imprisonment have called forth an amount of sympathy on the part of natives throughout Bengal, Allahabad, Bombay, Madras, which I never expected, and which will, I trust, show the importance of Missionaries keeping themselves free from race prejudices, and the natural pride of the conqueror, and will show natives that genuine Christianity recognises the principle of Catholicity in raising its followers above the prepossessions of race and country. And may the Christian public in England be awakened to the following truth—that the preaching of Missionaries in India will not have its full effect on the natives as long as the lives of many Englishmen in India indicate to the native mind that Christianity is a fine theory, beautiful in a book but not realised in practice.

The warm sympathy expressed in my case by the Missionary Conference of Calcutta, the Missionaries, Chaplains, and leading natives of Madras, the Church Missionary Society of London, the Peace and Aborigines' Societies of England, the great Anti-Slavery Society of France, besides leading members of the press and eminent dignitaries of the Church, have afforded me much consolation, and have encouraged me with the divine blessing to persevere in a course which I have pursued for the last twelve years, namely, the making known to Europeans, both in England and India, native views as revealed in the native press, as one of the surest guides towards adopting suitable measures for ameliorating the social and and spiritual condition of the people of India.

Experience in Calcutta having convinced me that a large city was not the best ground for training up agents raised from the people to work among the people, and circumstances presenting an opening for an experiment of this kind at Thakerpukur when I took charge of the Mission in 1849, I resolved to work it on the following plans—

(1) To act as superintendent, not as pastor, to teach the teachers and readers, and, through them, to work on the adult Christians, thus training the former to independent action, and accustoming the latter to native agency: this included settling their differences by a panchayat of their own members. The plan has succeeded in all but one point—the catechists require training in pastoral visitation.

(2) Teaching entirely through the vernacular, with the elements of Sanskrit in its relation to the vernacular, and as a key to native feeling.

The plan of conveying scientific knowledge through the vernaculars was at first thought visionary by many, but it is not thought so now. I gave a course of lectures for two years on the indigenous plants of Bengal. They were subsequently published in an English form by the Agra Horticultural Society of India. The elements of botany also formed another course—all designed to lead the pupils to the study of God's great book of nature. These were tests of the capabilities of the vernacular, for I had to draw all my terms from indigenous sources, and from the Sanskrit. I compiled at Thakurpuker, to facilitate this object of popularizing science and theology in the vernacular, a Dhátú Málá, or list of Sanskrit roots incorporated into the Bengali language. This little work has passed through seven editions, and has been very useful in various schools.

I have given courses of lectures for several years on the emblems of Scripture, as illustrating in an agreeable and interesting way to the masses the doctrines, morals, and history of the Bible, similar to our Lord's system of illustrating abstract truth by parables. I found these lectures pre-eminently adapted to the Oriental mind. After the research into more than 100 authors, European and Oriental, I prepared works expanding these emblems, illustrating them by Bengali and other proverbs, and by parallel passages from native writers. Notes were taken of these lectures which served as a basis for teaching and preaching in the villages.

I have been successful in teaching Bengali reading by the Pestolozzian, or sounding system, as adapted by Mr. Bomwetsch; and in imbuing the minds of Hindu lads with Scripture facts by means of Bengali poetry composed by a native convert, and set to native tunes; as also in instructing common peasant boys to draw and describe the common plants of the country, of the shape and uses of which they are very acute observers.

The Government grant-in-aid system has worked well in my schools, though defective in not sufficiently meeting the wants of the masses. The Government Inspector, H. Wooden, Esq., is an unwearied friend to vernacular education. My own experience coincides fully with his, that the Guru Meheshay, or village system of schools, is the only practicable basis of education for the masses in Bengal, as respects cheapnes and efficiency, supplementing it, of course, by a good teacher. I have spent more than fourteen hundred rupees in attempts to supersede this, but in vain; for, after all, the great things the masses want are reading, writing, and arithmetic, with a knowledge of geography from maps, and oral explanations of God's great books of nature and revelation.

The plan of teaching I have found most successful myself, and best adapted to the people, was to teach from notes rather than from books, requiring the class, at the end of the lesson, to recapitulate, either orally or by writing. I have aimed at impressing the doctrines and duties of the Bible on the young, by making them commit to memory emblematic texts, whose meaning is unfolded. I have encouraged a taste for reading among teachers and senior pupils, by lending them, from the library, vernacular books, a précis of which they were to make out for me in writing. I have found the magic-lantern, with suitable pictures, and descriptions of them in the vernacular, eminently adapted to instruct and interest adults; much information on the salient points of the Bible might be given through this medium. I have found the plan adopted during the last few years of having three of the teachers come up weekly from Thakerpukur to Calcutta all the year round, to give instruction to junior boys in the English school under my own eye, very useful: they have taught the boys orally from notes of lectures given by me on Biblical and natural-history subjects. This walk of twenty miles weekly has served to train them to that necessary qualification for village itinerants, the use of their legs, and has brought them into contact with a sharper class of boys than they meet with in the villages, who were encouraged by this plan of oral instruction to open their minds out more freely on religious subjects,—many of them relating what they had heard from their mothers in the zenana, who tutor them well in Hinduism at the early age of five.

With regard to the utility of English schools, like the one at Mirzapore, with which I have been so long connected, much depends, I believe, on the attention the Missionary pays to having religious instruction given mainly through the vernacular,—the key to the heart, chiefly in an oral form. If the aim be to cram a few boys for the University entrance examinations, the result may make a fair show; but the religious instruction of the mass of the boys is likely to be sacrificed to those few. This class of English schools has the tendency to sacrifice to the mechanical acquirement of an accurate pronunciation of English, the higher object of conveying a knowledge which will train the pupils to think and observe for themselves.

I compiled at Thakurpuker, to facilitate this object of popularizing science and theology in the vernacular, a Dhátú Málá, or list of Sanskrit roots incorporated into the Bengali language. This little work has passed through seven editions, and has been very useful in various schools.

I have given courses of lectures for several years on the emblems of Scripture, as illustrating in an agreeable and interesting way to the masses the doctrines, morals, and history of the Bible, similar to our Lord's system of illustrating abstract truth by parables. I found these lectures pre-eminently adapted to the Oriental mind. After the research into more than 100 authors, European and Oriental, I prepared works expanding these emblems, illustrating them by Bengali and other proverbs, and by parallel passages from native writers. Notes were taken of these lectures which served as a basis for teaching and preaching in the villages.

I have been successful in teaching Bengali reading by the Pestolozzian, or sounding system, as adapted by Mr. Bomwetsch; and in imbuing the minds of Hindu lads with Scripture facts by means of Bengali poetry composed by a native convert, and set to native tunes; as also in instructing common peasant boys to draw and describe the common plants of the country, of the shape and uses of which they are very acute observers.

The Government grant-in-aid system has worked well in my schools, though defective in not sufficiently meeting the wants of the masses. The Government Inspector, H. Wooden, Esq., is an unwearied friend to vernacular education. My own experience coincides fully with his, that the Guru Meheshay, or village system of schools, is the only practicable basis of education for the masses in Bengal, as respects cheapnes and efficiency, supplementing it, of course, by a good teacher. I have spent more than fourteen hundred rupees in attempts to supersede this, but in vain; for, after all, the great things the masses want are reading, writing, and arithmetic, with a knowledge of geography from maps, and oral explanations of God's great books of nature and revelation.

The plan of teaching I have found most successful myself, and best adapted to the people, was to teach from notes rather than from books, requiring the class, at the end of the lesson, to recapitulate, either orally or by writing. I have aimed at impressing the doctrines and duties of the Bible on the young, by making them commit to memory emblematic texts, whose meaning is unfolded. I have encouraged a taste for reading among teachers and senior pupils, by lending them, from the library, vernacular books, a précis of which they were to make out for me in writing. I have found the magic-lantern, with suitable pictures, and descriptions of them in the vernacular, eminently adapted to instruct and interest adults; much information on the salient points of the Bible might be given through this medium. I have found the plan adopted during the last few years of having three of the teachers come up weekly from Thakerpukur to Calcutta all the year round, to give instruction to junior boys in the English school under my own eye, very useful: they have taught the boys orally from notes of lectures given by me on Biblical and natural-history subjects. This walk of twenty miles weekly has served to train them to that necessary qualification for village itinerants, the use of their legs, and has brought them into contact with a sharper class of boys than they meet with in the villages, who were encouraged by this plan of oral instruction to open their minds out more freely on religious subjects,—many of them relating what they had heard from their mothers in the zenana, who tutor them well in Hinduism at the early age of five.

With regard to the utility of English schools, like the one at Mirzapore, with which I have been so long connected, much depends, I believe, on the attention the Missionary pays to having religious instruction given mainly through the vernacular,—the key to the heart, chiefly in an oral form. If the aim be to cram a few boys for the University entrance examinations, the result may make a fair show; but the religious instruction of the mass of the boys is likely to be sacrificed to those few. This class of English schools has the tendency to sacrifice to the mechanical acquirement of an accurate pronunciation of English, the higher object of conveying a knowledge which will train the pupils to think and observe for themselves.

The boarding schools, necessary at present, I have found here, as they have been elsewhere, foster a spirit of dependence, and tend to produce a class of boys degenerate and denationalized—quasi Protestant Portuguese. They encourage idleness, also, and have here, as in other places, sent out some who may well be called Christian vagabonds. I have required the boys to work in the garden two hours daily, to check this; but to carry out an industrial system is an expensive thing. We require for our Missions one large industrial school, to which boys might be sent who are intended to earn their livelihood by manual labour. The girls' boarding School has answered my expectations in training a class of girls socially suited for the district. I have endeavoured to the best of my ability, to act on the principle of doing nothing for native Christians which they could do for themselves; even to prefer work imperfect, if the result of native agency, to something more complete, if the result of direct European agency. It was on this ground I several years ago committed the preaching to native Christians into the hands of catechists: not that I was inactive myself, for I prepared materials for these men to use in their sermons. The collecting and communicating these cost me more labour than if I had preached myself. But it has set me more free on Sunday for the heathen and for out-stations, and has tended to make the adults look more to a native pastorate.

I deeply regret that as yet I have no native agent raised up in the district from the people suitable to place as a native pastor there, though the Bishop consented to receive as a candidate for orders any such person whom I might present. There is a man, however, whom I have in view, and who, with a few years of riper experience, may, I think, be qualified for the position.

One of the most difficult parts of my work I found to be checking the tendency of the adults to refer every matter to the Missionary, instead of settling it themselves with the catechists or by panchayat. I have found it equally difficult to rouse the native Christian agents to a sense of their duty to preach the Gospel to the Hindus and Mohammedans of the districts, hitherto little reached, owing to the want of fit agents: but now, as I have pressed the duty on them, I hope their motto in my absence will be dharma bistár, "spread the faith." For keeping them up to this they require a leader, and training. Regular meetings with the adults for conversation on, and instruction in, practical religion, are most desirable. I have held such occasionally, and have a high esteem of their value.

As to the question of the people maintaining a native pastor, the system, which equally pervades other bodies, of spending money so lavishly on native Christians, as well as the low social condition of the people, have presented great obstacles. We need an infusion from the wealthier classes of native society for our native churches; but above all, we require an outpouring of God's Holy Spirit, without that, all will be vain.

Preaching to the Heathen.

Mr. Vaughan thus reports his labours among the heathen in bazaar preaching, and in the Mission chapels:—

Preaching to the heathen has been carried on regularly in conjunction with my native helpers. In consequence of the failure of my voice, I have been obliged to do less in this way than formerly. I do feel most strongly that no Missionary ought to neglect this department of labour. I would not undervalue any portion of our operations. I am a sort of Missionary universalist in sentiment. Preaching is good—I was going to say necessary—for a man's own soul. It stirs up his Missionary unction and spirit, which, without it, are apt to become very tame. And it is certainly good for the cause we have in hand. We must not ask, "How many converts do you get by preaching?" but "What is the effect of it in a general way upon the people?" I have no hesitation in saying, that amongst the many things which are working together towards the annihilation of superstition and idolatry, and the preparation of the minds of the people for a purer and a sounder faith, preaching is one of the most important. My experience in this city has led me to this conclusion.

In addition to preaching to the heathen generally, two native brethren, together with myself, have been employed in visiting the Medical College Hospital and the Lepers' Asylum. In both these departments God has graciously given us visible tokens of good. In the hospital I have had the happiness of baptizing two Hindu women. A lady, now in England, first visited and read to them. After her departure we carried on their instruction; and I sincerely hope that both were united to Christ, not by the outward rite only, but by simple faith. One has since died, and the other is not likely to recover.

Amongst the Lepers we have been much cheered and encouraged. Last year seven of these poor and unhappy sufferers were brought into the fold. All these, I am happy to say, have held fast their profession, and, upon the whole, their walk has been satisfactory, allowing for certain weaknesses of character, which time and increasing grace will remedy. In addition to these, seven other new converts have been made during the present year —six Hindoos and one Mussulman. The conversion of the latter is peculiarly interesting. Two years ago he was in the Medical College Hospital, whilst one of our Christian boys was there. The poor child used to go to the bedside of the Mussulman to read the Bible to him, endeavouring in his simple way to lead him to a knowledge of Christ. After a while the boy died; but his works followed him. The Mohammedan could not forget what he heard from his lips. During the past two years he has been studying the Bible without any human teacher. The result has been, his hearty and entire belief in Jesus as the only Saviour of the world; and he has, I quite hope, simply and entirely reposed his soul on Him for salvation. He was lately admitted into the visible church. He is the fourteenth convert recently gathered out from amongst those poor benighted sons and daughters of affliction. To God be all the praise!

Education.

There are sixteen schools of various grades—male and female, infants', Anglo-vernacular and vernacular—containing about 1500 children, of whom about 200 are girls.

On the subject of female education, the Calcutta Church Missionary Association makes the following remarks:—

After the preaching of the Gospel no branch of Mission labour can be more important than the attempt to instruct and enlighten the native females, who, from the general state of ignorance in which they have been generally brought up, are usually the great upholders of the native superstitions and idolatries which prevail in the land. It seems that the Missionary and the Bethune Female Schools have gradually, but surely, to some extent influenced the native mind in reference to this important subject, so that instruction is now more sought for females than it was formerly; and not only do some respectable people send their daughters to school, but there are many taught in their own homes, on periodical visits being made for that purpose, both by lady and native-female teachers.

BURDWAN.

The Rev. B. Geidt and the Rev. A. P. Neele have had charge, for another year, of this station. Both are now, however, on their way home, for recruiting their health.

Mr. Geidt reports—

In looking back on my time of labour, I feel there is much, very much, to be thankful for. The Lord has preserved and kept me for many years in this country, notwithstanding my many shortcomings; and though nothing of a stirring nature has occurred, yet I trust we have, under His blessing, not been without some success. Since I took charge of this Mission, after Mr. Weitbrecht's death in 1852, there have been added to this congregation, by baptism, 199 souls: 39 of them were grown-up persons.

Every man in this Mission must honestly earn his livelihood, and maintain his own family; and this plan has been carried on here for some years. The same rule has been observed with regard to inquirers and new converts: each inquirer coming to me, and being able to work, has to do something for the little support he receives. Though I have had the privilege of instructing and baptizing five Brahmins, and some other men of good caste, during the last few years, yet none of them has ever got more than three rupees a month for his maintenance, and this only for a short time.

Some men have even been satisfied to take their meals with the orphan boys. It is very necessary to exercise such caution when inquirers come, as so many of them have only worldly motives, and wish to better their condition.

As it is essential to have efficient, practical agents in the Mission, the catechists, reader, and vernacular teachers attend a class in my house twice a week. I trust this has been with good results.

We have been permitted, through God's mercy, to make known the Gospel of Jesus Christ all the year round. In the cold season I was out with two of our men for about three months. In many places a great change is seen in favour of Christianity since the last ten years. Where we formerly were hardly allowed to speak, the people now hear us gladly. We firmly believe that God's own good time will come, when hundreds will embrace the Gospel. The sacrifices which are now to be made by single individuals in a village in coming forward appear to the people too great. They say, "We are willing to follow you if others were to join us." Though Brahminism, caste, and the old idolatrous habits exercise still h eir baneful influence, yet there is growing over the minds of many in this district the settled conviction that Christianity will certainly prevail amongst their children. Thus people are reconciled by degrees to the change.

Two colporteurs circulate the word of God all the year. Having been out a month, they return, bring their accounts and little journals of their work, take a fresh supply of books, and start again on another tour; so that now hundreds in our zillah hear the Gospel, and have the opportunity of procuring it. For each single copy of a Gospel they pay now two pice; for the Psalms, one anna, and so on. We have thus collected here, for portions of the Scripture sold, the amount of rupees 236.2.6 since 1855. At the beginning of their work a colporteur could but collect half a rupee a month; but the last few years one man has sometimes realized as much as four rupees, and, on one or two occasions, even about five rupees a month.

Mr. Neele has charge of an Anglo-vernacular school in Burdwan: he also spends much time in preaching to the heathen, especially at an out-station, Myramee. He reports, in his annual letter—

The Anglo-vernacular school in the town of Burdwan has been, I think I may say, in a flourishing condition: it has never been so full any previous year of its existence: it has occupied a good share of my time, and has yielded to me a certain measure of satisfaction. The Scriptures have been taught throughout the school, and I have always had a class of youths whom I could constantly instruct in the truths of divine revelation, whilst in their secular studies, also, the pupils have attained a respectable status. Last year one of the pupils successfully passed the examination for entrance into the Calcutta University, and two have this year likewise succeeded. The school went on thus successfully until the time when its financial resources were so considerably curtailed in consequence of the Society's reductions in expenditure. This occurred at the latter end of the year. In the hope of keeping up the existing staff of teachers and standard of study, I increased the schooling fee to eight annas per boy. In the presence, however, of another powerful school, and that entirely free, the attempt failed: the number of scholars was considerably reduced, and the school fund is now nearly eighty rupees in debt.

The school and other work in the out-station at Myramee have been carried on as formerly. My work in connexion with Myramee I have likewise looked upon as very important, since it affords an opportunity of proclaiming the Gospel throughout the year in regions beyond the immediate neighbourhood of the Sudder station. The school at this out-station had, towards the middle of the year, considerably increased; and it therefore became needful to increase the staff of teachers. In order to effect this, I sought, and have obtained, a Government grant-in-aid; it came into operation only a few days before my departure, and its management, together with that of the other departments of my work, will now devolve for a time upon my successor.

KISHNAGURH.

The changes in the European agency of this Mission during the last year have been far greater than usual in our Indian Missions. Out of seven European Missionaries at the commencement of 1861, three were removed, two to occupy other districts, and one returned to Europe to recruit his health. Mr. Bomwetsch removed to Calcutta, Mr. Hasell to Burdwan, and Mr. Schurr returned to Europe. Mr. Greaves, who had charge of the Santipore Training College, was placed at Kapasdanga upon the removal of Mr. Schurr. Messrs. Linké, Blumhardt, and Dyson have remained in the stations they have occupied for some time past. These changes have prevented the arrival of the full accounts of the Mission, as in former years.

At the close of the year the Mission was visited by a far heavier discouragement. Soon after the return of Mr. J. Stern from Europe, to resume his charge of the Santipore Training Institution, a discovery was made that a native Christian agent, who was much trusted, had been carrying on a system of peculation and immorality, which had so deeply affected the discipline and the habits of the students, that the Corresponding Committee wisely determined to suspend the Institution, and to send home the students to their parents and friends. When the Training Institution is re-commenced, it is the general opinion that a more eligible locality may be selected in one of the Christian villages of Kishnagurh, than that of Santipore.

These changes and trials in the Mission necessarily create a tone of discouragement in the reports of the Missionaries. They speak of no improvement in the Christian condition of the people generally, and of no accessions from the heathen. The necessity of closing some of the vernacular schools, when the finances of the Society appeared to be falling off, caused some discontent amongst the parents. But a still deeper cause of discontent lies in the withholding the temporal emoluments which, in former years, had been injudiciously distributed among the converts in the gratuitous feeding, clothing, and boarding of their children, and in occasional gifts to the adults. One of the senior Missionaries, in his report of the last year, gives the saying of one of his people as only a specimen of the mercenary spirit which had pervaded the people—"If the Sahib would give me but four rupees a month I would not only go to church myself regularly, but would make all the people of the village go too. I would see to it that none should stay away if I got four rupees a month for that purpose."

There is, however, a brighter prospect for the Kishnagurh Mission. The older and more experienced Missionaries are fully convinced of the need of throwing the converts generally more upon their own resources, and of seeking to influence the heathen through the revival of religion in the hearts of the spiritual members of the flock. "Our native catechists and readers," writes Mr. Linké, "all feel more or less the disadvantage under which they address the people, from the fact of their being paid for their work. I have heard them say, 'We wish we could do our work without being obliged to take a salary. We should be so much more successful. Our message would be more easily received, and people would esteem us all the more for it.' It has been often found that a conversation on religion by one not an agent of the Society has been much better listened to than an address made by one appointed to preach. Therefore, if the majority of our people were what they ought to be, Christianity would with God's blessing, soon spread and propagate itself." Mr. Blumhardt, having mentioned in his report his disappointed hopes in the case of some who applied to him for Christian instruction, but turned out to be mere mercenary hypocrites, and having also reiterated his complaints of the cold and lapsed condition of the mass of his native Christians, says, in the conclusion of his report—

It is our firm belief, that, notwithstanding all these discouragements, the Lord has his chosen people in my congregations. He knoweth them that are his,—some who love Him, and whom He will, at the last day, acknowledge as his own redeemed, and present them before God as "brands plucked out of the fire." The weekly prayer-meetings, which my people established some years ago among themselves, have been regularly kept up, and I believe they do good. They are held in town at all the teachers' houses, with strict discipline among themselves: those only are considered members of their prayer-meetings who attend regularly the means of grace, and are consistent in their walk and conversation. They have also established a Poor Fund among themselves, and relieve their poor brethren out of it, as they consider it needful.

The Committee regard these voluntary associations among the converts with interest, as very hopeful signs of spiritual life; but still more so as important indications of the direction in which efforts should be made by the Missionaries towards placing the native church upon a self-supporting and self-extending system. Hitherto the whole system of the Kishnagurh Mission has been too much dependent upon European ministrations. The congregations need a spiritual revival, which may call forth the spontaneous energy of the people.

The Committee had the opportunity of discussing this subject with the Rev. F. Schurr, upon his return home after fourteen years' labour in Kishnagurh. Though he could give many proofs of a decided advance in the morality and intelligence of the people, yet his main hope for the future, he said, rested upon such movements as one which lately took place at his station named Rotonpur, though he had not written respecting it, lest it should not prove permanent, and lest undue honour should be given to man. A catechist, when speaking to the Hindu scholars of the school there, and pressing on them the reception of Christ, became himself deeply affected with a vivid conviction of sin and his need of pardon through the Saviour. Meetings for prayer were held among the native Christians for several nights in succession; and the whole body of readers and catechists were most active in pressing home on individuals their need of salvation. When Mr. Schurr visited them, they said that the fire had kindled there, and would come to Kapasdanga too. At this latter place, similar prayer-meetings, not initiated by the European Missionary, were held every night for two months, and often prolonged till day-break. The words most constantly on their lips were, "This is the accepted time, this is the day of salvation." During that period one of the catechists composed eighty hymns to native tunes, which were widely used, the chief burden of them being, "I am a sinner; but Jesus Christ died for sinners." Seventeen of the converts went out to preach, most of them at their own expense. The excitement, Mr. Schurr added, has now ceased, but there are solid results in converted souls, and several even of the catechists confessed that they never knew before that Christianity was life as well as doctrine.

BHAGULPORE.

The Rev. E. Drœse continued in charge of the Mission at Bhagulpore till the close of 1861, when he was obliged, after twenty years' labour in India, to return to Europe for the recruiting of his health. Mr. Erhardt was removed at the commencement of the same year to assist in the instruction of Jay Narain's College at Benares. Owing to these changes the Committee have not received the usual Annual Report at the close of the year. There were 260 native Christians connected with the Bhagulpore Mission, by the last return, of whom 40 were regular communicants.

The Santal Mission.

Upon the failure of the health of Mr. Hallett at the commencement of the year 1861, the Rev. E. L. Puxley undertook the charge of the Santal Mission. He immediately visited the various Santal villages, and remained in the midst of them to acquire the language, and to cultivate an intercourse with the people. He continued at his post until the failure of his health obliged him to leave the district for a season. In a letter to a friend dated July 1861, Mr. Puxley gives the following comprehensive view of his field of labour:—

If, first, the extremity of ignorance, if, secondly, the prospect of a large return for our labour, and if, thirdly, great opportunities, fast slipping by, are motives amongst Christians for extending to a particular locality a more than ordinary amount of their sympathy and support,—then the following statements will prove that the Mission to the Santals has (to say the least) very great claims upon them.

The district inhabited by the Santals is called the Dáman-i-Koh, and is an irregular figure, formed by a group of mountains, the greatest length of which is seventy miles, and the greatest width thirty miles, the area contained within it being 1366 square miles. The original inhabitants of the Dáman were Paharis; but as these people will live nowhere but on the very summits of the hills, the Government, not many years ago, permitted some wandering Santals to clear the valleys of the jungle, and settle in the land repudiated by the hill-men. These Santals have been continually increasing, not only in the Dáman itself, but also in every direction around it; and I have been informed by one who was well acquainted with this country, that he could not estimate the present Santal population at less than 200,000 souls. The moral and religious state of this tribe may be conceived from the fact, that, with the exception of a vague traditional belief in some great spirit, the whole of this vast multitude have no religion at all. . . . .

If we turn to the hopeful prospects which this Mission holds out, we shall find additional cause for zeal and liberality.

The Santals are naturally a quiet, teachable people. They are very intelligent and quick at learning (most of the men in my neighbourhood speak a little of the Hindustanee, Hindee, and Bengalee languages as well as their own), they are easy of access, and willing to follow the advice and teaching of those to whom they look up. This the wonderful success with which God has blessed the efforts of the German Missionaries at Chota-Nagpore, among another branch of this same Santal people, fully proves. Unlike the Hindu and the Mussulman, the Santal has no methodized system of religion to oppose to the preacher of the Gospel. He cannot, like the former, appeal to Shastras written hundreds of years before our New Testament; nor, like the other, has he a religion which has certainly had its share of glory, and which has taught him a violent hatred against those of every other belief. There are here no bigoted priests, urged, both by fanaticism and interest, to maintain error. We have not, in fact, to begin by clearing away the jungle before we can sow our own good seed, as is usually the case, but may at once begin on clear, unoccupied ground. The empty vessels stand ready to receive the water of life, if there were but hands to pour it into them. These are no small advantages; and surely every one who has the Redeemer's cause at heart will gladly contribute his mite towards improving them.

There are, too, reasons why we should at the present moment be doubly anxious to improve all the opportunities in our power of spreading the Gospel in this district. Many opportunities and advantages have been already lost, and all of them are fast slipping by. Strange to say, the Bengalees have taken the lead in the work of Missions in the present instance, having already established themselves in the Dáman, and made some easy converts to their own religion. The only case of opposition made to a Christian school was offered by a perverted Santal, who had sunk from bad to worse, having exchanged his own simple and comparatively harmless ignorance for the abominable superstitions and bigoted idolatry of the Hindu. There is now rising up throughout the Santal country a tendency towards Hinduism; and unless some strenuous exertion be made at once to counteract the influence of the Bengalees, future Missionaries will have, in addition to the present difficulties, to encounter a violent opposition from these perverts to idolatry, led on by superstitious and interested priests. Nor is this the only reason why the present moment demands more than ordinary exertions. Until lately the Santal felt the greatest reverence for the European; but contact with the latter, especially in some works which the Government, for the last few years, has been carrying on round three sides of his country, has tended greatly to diminish his esteem for his English rulers. A few words spoken by an Englishman some years ago would probably have produced more effect than weeks of earnest labour would now be able to excite; so that it is manifestly our duty not to wait till the last remnant of respect for Europeans has left the Santal's breast, but to take immediate advantage of what still remains.

Moreover, the people are becoming richer; and, with prosperity, a less simple spirit is entering among them. Commerce has necessarily brought them into closer connexion with their neighbours of the plains; and their improved circumstances, by making them fitter objects of the Bengalee's rapacity, have induced many of the latter to settle in their country. While they were entirely without civilization, they possessed the virtues as well as the vices of a barbarous people. They were formerly celebrated for their honesty and love of truth. A magistrate has even informed me, that, after the Santal rebellion in 1855, when many of them were brought prisoners before him, he always placed more confidence in the Santal's simple word, even in his own case, than in the oaths of the Bengalees. Fidelity, honesty, truth, &c., were then universally and deservedly ascribed to them; but since they have been brought into contact with their neighbours of the plains (who were never celebrated for these virtues) they have imbibed many of their bad qualities; and it is a pitiable sight occasionally to see their simple efforts at cheating and lying, the very shallowness of these efforts proving that it is a lately-acquired habit, and affording hopes that the stream may be stopped among the hills, before it is totally lost in the deep river of the plain. The Bible can restore them to even a purer and more healthy state of morality than formerly, for the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth has lost none of its power since the time when it brought health to Æneas and life to Dorcas; but if the Santals are now left in their helplessness and simplicity, from dupes they will themselves probably become, in self-defence, the cheats, and the obstacles to their evangelization will be greatly increased.

Any assistance which you can get for me will be applied partly to schools, and partly to scripture readers. Much as it is to be wished that every Mission should in time support itself, and that future Missionaries should be the countrymen of those amongst whom they preach, in the present case the dangerous climate of of these hills makes such an end absolutely necessary. That you may form an idea of the nature of this climate, I will quote an extract from Captain Sherwill, the Government Surveyor's Report in 1854:—"To the natives of the plains the climate of these hills is most fatal, jungle fever carrying them off in a few hours. The bad season commences with the westerly winds in March. The suddenness of the attack is most appalling. As long as there is no wind, the healthiness of December, January, and February, is prolonged to March; but the first high wind arising in March is the messenger of death to the natives of the plains. The months of April, May, and June, are also unhealthy to the lowlanders, but September and October are deadly."

From this extract from the Report of the Government Surveyor, it is evident that if our work here is to be permanent, we must train the natives themselves to be the future teachers and pastors of their countrymen. All our resources for the future must be drawn from themselves; for it is almost vain to hope that the honour of bearing the glad tidings and publishing peace on these mountains will be reserved for European messengers. Each Missionary, in the words of one who has lately gone to his rest, must be the ear of corn which, falling into the ground, dies, and brings forth fruit. In order that our work should be lasting, we must establish schools among the Santals, from which we may take the best scholars, or those whom we judge most fitted to be hereafter schoolmasters, scripture-readers, and perhaps pastors. To these we must again give a still higher education, and, if the blessing of God attends our efforts, send them back again to their own people, bearing the precious seed in their hearts and hands. This, of course, will be the work and labour of years; but it will only become the harder by being postponed. This is not merely my own opinion, but also that of those who, from their position, must know this people well. In a letter received a few days ago, from one whose high position, and still higher character, entitle his opinion to the greatest respect, the writer expresses exactly the same views, and states, that though, where God is Himself the workman, unexpected success may attend the feeblest efforts, yet humanly speaking, a far greater number of labourers will, at a future time, meet with less success, comparatively, than they would probably now obtain; and that the training up of future teachers should therefore be the chief work for the present.

ALLAHABAD.

The Rev. Brocklesby Davis removed to this station in March 1861, and has commenced preaching in the bazaars. He takes part with the native minister, the Rev. David Mohun, in the Sunday services to the native-Christian congregation. This congregation numbers 353: it has been somewhat reduced lately by the return of several families to Secundra, where they have set up a printing-press on their own resources and for their own support.

Mr. Davis reports favourably of the Christian behaviour of the native converts. He has commenced a Sunday school, and vernacular schools for boys and girls. The schoolroom serves for a preaching station, where he is assisted by a valuable native catechist. "The audiences have been generally good, often exceeding 100 in number, and little opposition seems to have been called forth. The catechist has also gone by himself to different spots in the outskirts of the city, to read to little knots of hearers from day to day."

The native pastor reports—

> The conduct of the Christians has been, upon the whole, very satisfactory, though now and then instances occur which give me pain, and even make me despair: yet I see encouraging features amongst some of them. I can truly say that many of them show the grace of God in their lives and conversation. I am happy to say that this year our people came forward very liberally to help the heathen in their bodily and spiritual wants: we had three collections, one for the Missions, one for the famine, and one for the Bible Society. The collections were liberal, and more than I expected. I was very much pleased the other day to receive from one of our Christians five rupees, who told me that he had an increase of salary, and he thought it best to offer the amount as a thank offering for the propagation of the Gospel. I took the money with great pleasure and gave it to Mr. Davis. May the Lord raise up more such men who may thus feel the privilege of aiding in the civilization of India.

JUBBULPORE.

The Rev. Elias Champion has had charge of this station during the last year. Under date October 1861, he writes—

The Gospel has been daily proclaimed in the bazaar, with various results. Sometimes wanton and malicious opposition is offered, while at other times the truth is listened to with quiet attention, and even assent. I have recently hired a shop in the bazaar, where our books are exposed for sale, and where I have had a good deal of unformal and friendly intercourse with the natives. Here they argue without their pride and anger being aroused as in the public street; and the desire to display their knowledge before a crowd of their admiring countrymen does not stimulate them to fruitless opposition. I much approve this method of preaching (for such it really is,) and hope to test its power for good to a much greater extent in the course of the next year. I have been surprised, also, at the number of New Testaments and Gospels disposed of, which have always been sold at rates sufficient to secure them from premeditated and wilful destruction.

A considerable number of inquirers have from time to time presented themselves. Some were such, that they did not take the trouble to conceal their persuasion that the bare saying they wished to become Christians was fit to be rewarded by money, situations, &c. Happily there have been others, some of whom have been brought to me by an intelligent and pious native Christian, who has taken great pains in instructing them after his daily work. Three, I hope, will ultimately be baptized, but until I know them more thoroughly, I cannot yield to their pressing wishes in this respect.

Mr. Champion pleads for the addition of another Missionary to the station, alleging, among other reasons, the following—

The extent of the work here demands another Missionary. There are hundreds of villages within thirty miles of Jubbulpore in which the Gospel has never yet been preached. At best we can only visit a few in the too short cold season; and how much more must this work be interrupted if the central station and its cares are in the itinerating Missionary's hands. Then there are the Gonds, after whom my heart yearns, but whom I have been unable to visit once yet. From them, as from the Coles, an abundant harvest might be reaped, I feel confident. Meanwhile they are becoming gradually Hinduized, and assume the thread and idolatrous marks of the Brahmins of the plains; and a Roman-Catholic priest has lately settled amongst them at Mandhla; while our Mission, which has existed here four or five years, has not even approached this interesting people. I will leave these facts to speak for themselves.

Education.

Mr. Champion reports:—

The city school numbers 240 boys, and the English department has made very satisfactory progress under the able teaching of the new head master, Babu U. C. Ghosh. The Bible is read in all the classes which are sufficiently advanced, and, I have reason to know, with great attention in some of them. The estimate of the school formed in the city is satisfactorily indicated by the fact that thirty rupees are contributed monthly in the shape of school fees.

BENARES.

Many changes have taken place at this station during the year 1861. Early in the year the Rev. R. E. Clarke removed to the Punjab, the Rev. E. Champion to Jubbulpore, and the Rev. W. B. Cole, through the failure of his health, was compelled to return to Europe. In April, the Rev. A. P. Lockwood removed to Azimgurh, and the Rev. B. Davis to Allahabad. The remaining Missionaries at this station, the Rev. Messrs. Smith, Fuchs, Hubbard, and Dæuble, have continued their zealous labours in the several departments assigned to them. Their hands were strengthened by the return of the Rev. C. B. Leupolt with two German brethren, trained schoolmasters, and by the transfer of the Rev. J. Erhardt from Bhagulpore to Benares.

Mr. and Mrs. Leupolt were accompanied from England by three ladies of independent means, who bear their own expenses, with the noble purpose of devoting themselves to the Christian elevation of the female population of Benares. They will reside in one of the Mission houses, assist in the superintendence of schools, and cultivate Christian intercourse with the respectable native ladies to whom they may have access.

Native-Christian Church.

Messrs. Leupolt and Fuchs have had charge of the congregation at Sigra. "The state of the congregation," Mr. Leupolt reports, "is about the same as it was two years ago, when I left for Europe." "Our native Christians," writes Mr. Fuchs in his annual letter, "as a body, in their every-day life and practice, are far from being in a satisfactory state." The number of native Christians in Benares and the out-stations has continued stationary; for though eight adults, and twenty-nine children have been baptized, the addition has been counterbalanced by deaths and removals. The native Christians at Sigra and in the city number about 250, and in the out-stations of Gharwa, Chakia, and Chunar about 100 more.

Education.

The Training Institution.

The chief event in connexion with this department, during the last year, is the establishment of a Training Institution for Native Teachers. The want of such an institution has been long felt at Benares and throughout the North-west Provinces. A benevolent lady in England generously gave the sum of 2000*l.* for its establishment. This sum has been augmented from the special fund for India, by which means very suitable premises have been purchased, near the Sigra church, and a building has been erected containing apartments for two married European masters, and the necessary number of class rooms. The students will not reside in the school-house, but in small native houses in the compound. A building for the female department will be very shortly commenced.

Mr. Leupolt has not waited for the completion of the new building before opening the Training Institution, he writes:—

> Meanwhile the training of the young men and young women has commenced. Up to the 1st April, five lads, from sixteen to eighteen years old, were admitted. Since then five more have been taken on the list, and also three girls from twelve to fourteen years old, so that at present we have in all thirteen pupils. The Rev. J. Fuchs has Bible lessons with both classes. The pupils will first receive a course of training for schoolmasters, but it must be of a nature that they may also be able to instruct inquirers. The training some of them for catechists will follow. Their course of instruction will not be fully settled till they have entered their new schoolhouse or training college. Terah Munshi is my right hand, both among these lads as also among the orphans. The first class act as monitors for one hour daily, in order to learn to teach. In future they will go twice a week to the bazaar with the Missionaries, in order to see practical Mission work in the city.
> The girls are under the care and instruction of Mrs. Leupolt, and have commenced reading Hindee with Terah Munshi.

The Institution will be open to pupils of other denominations

if the Missionaries of such Societies are willing to avail themselves of its benefits.

Jay Narain's School and College.

This Institution has been under the charge of Mr. Hubbard assisted by Mr. Erhardt. It is satisfactory to state that the post of head master has been permanently filled by Baba Timothy Luther, who has been labouring with great energy in the superintendence of the school department. During the year 239 boys have been admitted and 236 have left: the number at the close of the year was 443, including 70 at the branch school.

Mr. Hubbard reports:—

The annual examination was held, as usual, in December, Pandit Nehemiah N. Goreh kindly undertaking the examination of the Sanskrit Classes. The distribution of prizes took place after the vacation, when W. Edwards Esq., Judge of Benares, presided. The college was visited in February by the Hon. George Edmonstone, Lieutenant-Governor of the North-western Provinces, accompanied by the Commissioner and Magistrate of Benares. His Honour inquired particularly into the nature and amount of grants received from Government, and, by various questions, manifested his interest in the work of the institution. In his inspection of the various departments he selected the Persian class to read the 53rd chapter of Isaiah, and after praising their accent and pronunciation, expressed his surprise at the knowledge of the Holy Scriptures possessed by the boys. One of them having proved, from various passages of the Old and New Testaments, that the prophecies contained in the chapter could only refer to Christ, was asked by the Lieutenant-Governor whether he believed what he was saying, to which he replied at once "be shak"(undoubtedly,) when His Honor immediately inquired if the boy were a Christian, and seemed surprised to learn that he was not. The College was also visited in the same month by H. S. Reid, Esq., Director of Public Instruction, N.-W. P., accompanied by R. H. Griffith, Esq., M.A., Inspector of the Benares Circle and Principal of the Government College, who, after examining the senior English students, expressed their pleasure at the promising appearance of the first and second classes.

In March the Rev. W. Smith commenced his scriptural addresses to the entire school, and has continued them, on alternate Saturdays, to the present time. The history of Joseph, which has formed a promiment subject in these addresses, was listened to with great attention by the boys.

Two of the students have embraced Christianity during the past year. One of them, a Bengalee of humble origin, had been but a few months in the school. The other lad, who was a Mahrasht Brahmin, had been upwards of two years in the institution, which he had left a few months before his baptism, to become a teacher in Mrs. Smith's girls' school. He had originally come, with an aged female relative, on a pilgrimage to Benares, and being desirous of learning English, but too poor to pay for his schooling, was sent by Mr. Smith (to whom he had applied for assistance) to the Mission school, where he was supported by the contributions of the schoolchildren of St. Mark's, Brighton, to whom his case had been made known.

These two cases are all that have occurred, in connexion with the school, of direct conversion to Christianity during the year, although there are good grounds for believing that several of the pupils are thoroughly persuaded of the truth of our religion, who are yet, from various causes, kept back from openly professing it.

Before concluding this Report, I will mention one very marked change I have observed in the conduct of the boys, regarding the truth of Christianity, and of their own religious system, as compared with their manner between seven and eight years ago, when I first commenced teaching in the college. It was then a common occurrence in our daily reading for the boys to raise objections against the doctrines and facts of the Bible. They would frequently come prepared with questions on the most difficult passages, not at all connected with the subject we were reading, and, with the evident sympathy of the whole class, ask, with well-feigned humility and earnestness, for an explanation. Now the case is quite altered, and so far from raising objections to our religion, they very rarely stand up for their own.

There are also Orphan Institutions in connexion with the Mission, under the charge of Mr. Leupolt and Mr. Fuchs. The number of boys is 40. The only trade carried on is book-binding; but all the boys are engaged for one or two hours daily in manual labour. "Most of the boys (writes Mr. Leupolt) are supported by friends in Europe, and I rejoice at this especially, as, besides the support, they are thereby special objects of prayer to those friends." The number of girls is also 40.

Mrs. Smith has a large Heathen Girls' School in the city, numbering 100 on the roll, but rarely as many as 70 are present on any one occasion. Two branch schools, numbering respectively 30 and 17, are in connexion with it.

Out-Stations.

The out-station of Chunar is under the pastoral care of a native pastor, the Rev. D. Solomon, with occasional visits of Mr. Fuchs, who writes:—

Having the superintendence of the Chunar Mission, I go there every alternate month. The Rev. D. Solomon is working there faithfully and to the best of his abilities, and, I trust, not in vain. The Mission school is well attended, and the progress of the pupils very fair. He has also, at my suggestion, commenced a school for those women of his congregation who are not able to read. He himself will give a brief statement of his operations during the past year.

Rev. D. Solomon reports:—

This congregation amounts to seventy souls, of which twenty-eight are communicants. In April I commenced with a few of the women and girls from the lower barracks, reading Hindee, Roman and Urdoo, so that they may be able to read the Bible with ease. I was unable to give more time to this than four hours a week on four different days. As to the preaching here, what can I say! I return home very glad, when there are attentive hearers, but sad and tired when I have no good audience. Oh! as Chunar is a stony place, so appear its inhabitants to me. May the Lord bring his word soon home to their hearts, and give us strength and courage to sow in hope and with a ready mind. My work in the school is the same or more than before. With the exception of the hot weather, I am not less than five hours, sometimes I have been seven hours, daily at school. The number of boys on the books is 111, the average attendance 88, and the progress and behaviour of the boys, I think, has been good.

Gharwa and Chakia are under the superintendence of Mr. Leupolt, who reports of them:—

The number of Christians residing at Gharwa is twenty-two. They are at present under Catechist David Thakur. I have visited them several times since my return, and am much pleased with the spirit of our people. I was also cordially welcomed by the villagers round Gharwa.

In Chakia there are fifteen persons located: among these is Ramaya and his wife. Ramaya has built himself a Chauni, i. e. four rows of houses, each containing four fine rooms, inclosing a court-yard. The row in which he lives has two stories: the upper is used for a prayer room. Outside, in the front of the house, he has built a large verandah, which I found full of Zemindars, who had come on business to Chakia, it being the Rajah's chief place, and whom Ramaya instructed. I spoke to a number of them: some were almost Christians. He is an extraordinary man, and may prove a great blessing to his followers. I was much pleased with the way in which he spoke to his people. "I am no longer," he said, "your Gooroo, or spiritual guide: one is your Gooroo, and that is Christ: I am your brother. I am not above you: we are both equal. You must cease to look to me as your mediator: one is your mediator, and that is Christ. Hitherto you have looked to me: you must now look entirely to Christ." The prospect before us seems promising. May God give us wisdom to guide and direct Ramaya aright; yea, may the Lord himself direct and guide him by his Holy Spirit! May the work be of the Lord! Brethren pray for us and these people.

Preaching to the Heathen.

The Rev. W. Smith devotes his labour chiefly to the work of preaching in the city, and itinerating during the cold season amongst the chief towns of the district. Mr. Smith reports:—

I have again to express my satisfaction with the interest which Babu Timothy Luther manifests in the Lord's work in the city. Besides his onerous and responsible post in Jay Narain's College, he has, with his son John, charge of the bookshop, and has sold a great many copies of the sacred Scriptures, &c., besides secular works. He has opened a branch girls' school, in which his daughter teaches, in connexion with Mrs. Smith's school. He assists the catechist at Daunria Bear on Tuesday evenings in preaching, &c., and on Saturdays meets with the catechists, readers, &c., in the city, for reading the sacred Scriptures and prayer, and has been of use to me in revising, and in various other ways. The Lord grant him a great reward, and make him more and more spiritually-minded.

In conclusion, I would reiterate what I have so often stated before, that we require more Missionaries and native preachers. Had we them in sufficient number, and of the right stamp, I should not hesitate to say (and any thing like exaggeration or colouring, I greatly deprecate from every consideration) that our prospects would comparatively be encouraging. Within the last six months upwards of one hundred rupees' worth of sacred Scriptures and tracts have been sold, while 500 copies of the book of Common Prayer, printed last year, have been sold. I am extremely gratified and thankful that we have been able to commence the selling system, feeling perfectly assured that whatever the natives buy they will make good use of.

Mr. Leupolt states as his experience in this department of the work:—

Benares has not changed in a Missionary point of view. The people seem to be the same as before the mutiny, and the congregations much the same as in previous years. Our Mission has, however, advanced a step. The permanent location of catechists in the city is as it ought to be.

The Rev. C. G. Dæuble reports:—

My work has for the last year been confined to the city. I have rented a house in what may be called the aristocratical part of the city, where I spent, until the beginning of the rains, regularly three whole days of the week, having conversations with occasional visitors, and making excursions into the neighbouring streets and river-side. The remaining days of the week I went to other preaching-places in the city.

In February Mrs. Dæuble nearly succeded in getting up a girls' school for the better classes in the house of a respectable Hindu, when the plan had to be given up, the owner of the house being threatened with excommunication. This is in no way astonishing, if we consider that Benares is a gathering-place for the most bigoted Hindus from all parts of India, and has been so for centuries perhaps. Most of those families from other parts retain their own language and dialect in their houses, which will considerably retard the influence of female Missionaries in visiting the families, even if they once succeed in finding entrance to them. But just for the above reason the evangelization of the holy Kashi is of the utmost importance for the whole of India, and cannot be too well supplied with Missionaries. The natives know too well, "that, let Benares once be won for Christianity, and India will not long hold out!"

JUANPORE.

This station has been occupied by the Society for thirty years, and a large Anglo-vernacular school has been maintained; but very few converts have been given to reward the zeal of the successive Missionaries who have laboured amidst a Mohammedan population wholly set against the truth. At the mutiny the Missionary and all the European settlers were driven away at the risk of their lives, and the Missionary buildings were ruined. It has been thought right to attempt to revive the Mission, and especially the Anglo-vernacular school, and the Rev. W. J. Ball has therefore been stationed there in the course of the last year, as a temporary measure.

AZIMGURH.

At Azimgurh there was, before the mutiny, a very flourishing school conducted by the Society, under a native superintendent. The disposition of the people was also so favourable towards a Mission, that the Calcutta Corresponding Committee determined upon adopting the place as a station of the Society, and the Rev. A. Lockwood was removed from Benares to Azimgurh, April 1861. He has entered with zeal upon the work of renewing the school, and opening a Mission to the heathen, but he has deferred his report of the station until the work shall be more established.

GORRUCKPORE.

The Rev. C. Reuther has been the only Missionary at this station during the last year: he writes, in his annual letter at the close of the year:—

The Mission work at Gorruckpore during the past year has been chiefly of a reformatory character among the native Christians. There were two or three great evils in this Mission. One was carelessness with regard to religion; the other a tendency to intemperance in strong drink; and of these two followed a third—a great deal of quarrelling and abuse among each other. We could not but feel this state of things very deeply, and we resolved, with the help of God, to put a stop to it. In order to rouse the native Christians from their worldly security, we instituted daily prayer, with reading and exposition of the Scriptures for all the native Christians; and, thank God, we have now reason to believe that this has done a vast deal of good. A number of our native Christians begin to value their Bibles, and a few appear to seek their souls' salvation with fear and trembling. We have indeed often prayed for an outpouring of the Holy Spirit, such as has been vouchsafed to some Missions in Southern India; but with a general awakening we have not been blessed. Our ways are not the Lord's ways. Still we would humbly praise his holy name for the numberless mercies we have received, and we would go on opening our mouths wide till He shall be pleased to fill them.

The Christian village at Basharatpur is slowly increasing in the number of its inhabitants. We have now some 140 souls there, and I hope to see the time when every acre of that large grant shall be cultivated, not by heathen, but by Christian cultivators only.

Our bazaar preaching department has, during the past year, not been neglected, but we have not been able to do as much for it as we should have done. The labourers have been too few in number. We have been pretty regularly three or four times a week in the town of Gorruckpore for making known the Gospel to the heathen, and we have made, also, one or two small excursions into the district; but what is this to the amount of the work? This district contains nearly three millions of inhabitants, and we should be enabled to go abroad from place to place, and this not only in our own district, but we ought, and we could act upon Nepaul also, if there were a sufficient staff of labourers kept here.

We have at present seven schools open, with some 450 Christian and heathen children under instruction. Our annual examinations have come off very creditably. The children have evinced a large amount of scriptural knowledge.

Mrs. Reuther's orphan girls' school is doing good. It has furnished some good and useful teachers, and it contains now several hopeful girls. At present we are making an effort to establish a 'zenana' in the town of Gorruckpore: if we can succeed in it, then we hope that this school will furnish for it the necessary teachers. This is a matter of great importance, but it is as difficult as it is important: it requires great wisdom, and much straightforward Christian principle, and who is sufficient for these things?

LUCKNOW.

At the commencement of 1861 the Rev. Messrs. Mengé, Storrs, and Wheeler were labouring at this station, but Mr. Wheeler's health failed before he had spent his first year in India, and he was compelled to return home. The Rev. Townsend Storrs joined his brother, the Rev. W. T. Storrs, as a fellow-labourer at Lucknow last autumn. Mr. Storrs takes the oversight of the Christian congregation. Mr. Mengé, a Missionary of twenty years' experience in India, devotes himself to the work of preaching to the heathen.

The Native-Christian Congregation.

The native Christians in Lucknow number seventy-five souls, of whom half are adults, and regular attendants at public worship. The congregation, though so small, has been wisely encouraged to make contributions for the sake of the Gospel, which have amounted to 155 rupees in the course of the year. Two adults have been added to the church by baptism during the year. A Moulvie, also, of considerable attainments in Persian and Arabic, and who knows the Koran by heart, was for some months an inquirer at Lucknow, under the instruction of Mr. Mengé. Mr. Mengé did not feel satisfied with his sincerity, and declined to admit him to baptism. The Moulvie shortly afterwards removed to Allahabad. There Mr. Mengé saw him, and found him still pursuing his study of the Bible, and with a more humble and earnest desire to make a public profession of the Christian faith: he was therefore encouraged to proceed to Benares, where he was baptized, in Sigra church, in September last. He appears to be a very promising convert, and it is hoped he may soon become useful in the Lucknow Mission.

There are several small vernacular schools in the city and orphan schools for boys and girls, comprising in all about 120 children under education.

Mr Mengé reports:—

There is a peculiar feature in bazaar preaching here which one does not meet with elsewhere, and one which can hardly be explained in accordance with the common principles which actuate mankind if destitute of the grace of God. I refer to the attention daily given by crowds of people to the preaching of the Gospel. We have more especially two preaching-places, where several persons assemble before we come, who wait for us, and feel disappointed if at any time we should be prevented from preaching on the accustomed day. Moreover, we have often addressed large congregations of Mohammedans and Hindus, more than 200 in number, who listened with such decorum that they may be favourably compared to many congregations in Europe, as far as good behaviour is concerned. When, three years ago, we began preaching the Gospel in the city, it might have been said, and that not without reason, that fear (a great many looked upon us at first as Government servants) or curiosity, or both, induced large numbers of the inhabitants to listen to what we had to say; but now they are not afraid of us, but often talk kindly to us, and many begin to understand what our real object is; and, notwithstanding this, they listen to the Gospel with attention. We hope and trust that God has a large number of his people hidden in this great and wicked city, whom He prepares for the full reception of the Gospel, by causing them to hear it, and sending his Spirit into their hearts to enable them to understand what they hear. For instance, there is an able and clever Munshi residing in this city, who often visits me, and in whose house my wife and myself have met several of his friends, who are willing to converse about the sacred Scriptures. Mrs. Mengé has read the Gospel and conversed with a good many women in his house, and I have met with several Moulvies, Munshis, doctors, and others, with whom I have conversed about the Scripture prophecies and their fulfilment, &c. Some months ago, this Munshi said to me that none could have an idea of the wickedness of Lucknow before the English took possession of it; that even now he did not see any marked signs of repentance. But he likewise acknowledged that many of the inhabitants are anxious to know something of the contents of the Old and New Testaments. Formerly, he said, this was not the case; the people generally considered the Bible, in the hands of Christians, as a mere human fabrication, and, as such, despised it; but that now many of his friends and acquaintance ask him to lend them the books I have given him, in order to obtain some knowledge of the Christian religion.

Since June 1861 I have, besides publicly addressing congregations, begun to visit a number of persons in their houses, going from house to house, in certain streets as far as it was practicable.

Another, and a very important part of our work, is itinerating in the district of Oude. During the last cold season we have been out in the direction of Roy Bareilly and Sultanpore. Samuel Pundit was with us the whole time, and Mr. Storrs accompanied us for four weeks. We visited fifty villages, bazaars, and melas, and preached the Gospel to thousands of attentive Hindus and Mohammedans, and numbers visited us in our tents, and conversed with us for hours about the truths of Christianity. Portions of the sacred Scriptures and numbers of tracts have been given to those who could read. In three villages my wife was able to collect large numbers of women, to whom she spoke of the way of salvation through Christ.

Samuel Pundit, who accompanied me into the Oude district, has assisted me during the past year in preaching to his countrymen. He has also, of his own accord, visited a great many shopkeepers in the bazaar, and in every respect he has shown a great desire to be useful in the Mission.

Mr. Mengé writes, at the conclusion of his annual letter:—

There are many indications to show that the knowledge of the truth is spreading in Oude. I have always made it a point to visit as many of the Talookdars as I could, when I heard that any of them were on a visit to Lucknow, or when I was near their estates in the district; and have given tracts and copies of portions of the New Testament, and sometimes whole New Testaments in Urdoo or Hindui to those who I felt persuaded would not make a bad use of them, and was much pleased when I read an extract from a native newspaper called "Somacher Hindostani," printed under the patronage of the Oude Talookdars, which may be rendered—"As regards the subject of religion, it is our opinion that every man has a right to act in accordance with the religion he does profess. We are persuaded of the great goodness of the Christian religion, and also esteem its teachers highly, and are very grateful for the benefits we may receive on account of their instructions, but as they wish us to be we cannot become."

AGRA.

General review of the Mission.

The Rev. F. E. Schneider has had charge of the congregation in the city, and he has continued at his post throughout the year. The Rev. H. W. Shackell had charge of St. John's College, Agra; but in consequence of his election to a fellowship at Pembroke College, Cambridge, he was obliged to come to England in April; he returned, however, to India again before the close of the year. Upon his departure from Agra, the Rev. J. Barton took his place in the college; the Rev. W. Wright, who had ably assisted in the duties of the college from its foundation, having returned to Europe through the very serious failure of his health. The Rev. T. G. Gaster was also compelled to leave Agra early in the year, in consequence of the failure of his own and his wife's health.

The Committee of the Agra Church Missionary Association, which had been in abeyance since the dispersion of its members by the mutiny, was revived in the early part of the year; and the operations of the Society have thus had the great advantage of the counsel and assistance of the highest officers of the local Government.

It will be remembered, that before the mutiny of 1857 there were orphan institutions, and a Christian village, with a large printing establishment connected with the Agra Mission, at Secundra. The property was devastated by the mutineers. The printers and their families were removed to Allahabad. A few orphan children only remained under the care of the Missionary at Agra, amounting to thirty-four in number. At the close of 1860 a terrible famine afflicted large tracts of the country, in the North-west Provinces, and great numbers of orphans were thrown upon the world. The Missionaries of the Society nobly determined to receive under their charge as many as they might be able to procure. Encouraged by the magistrates of the district, and by pecuniary aid from the famine subscriptions, and from other sources, they repaired the old premises in Secundra. As soon as the buildings were prepared, orphans were sent to them by the magistrates from the famine-stricken districts; so that, at the close of the year, no less than 560 had been received. The Rev. C. T. Hœrnle, and Mrs. Hœrnle were at Agra, on their way to Meerut, at the time of the decision being taken to re-open the Secundra orphanages, of which they had been formerly the superintendents. Mr. Hœrnle rendered great assistance in the preparation of the buildings for the reception of the orphans; and Mrs. Hœrnle, with great self-sacrifice, remained at Secundra for many months, in order to organize the establishments.

Industrial employments, such as carpentering and tailoring, have been introduced for the elder boys, and suitable employment for the girls; and the Agra Committee were very greatly encouraged by a proposal made by the printers in Government employment at Allahabad, who formerly belonged to the Agra orphan press, to set up a printing press at their own cost and risk at Secundra, and to give employment to as many of the present orphans as their work would allow. This press has been established with every prospect of success, in a part of the premises at Secundra, belonging to the Society. Such an effort for self-support on the part of native Christians is very satisfactory, and full of hope for the native church.

A Christian village has been re-established at Secundra. The church has been restored and re-opened, under the charge of the Rev. C. G. Dæuble from Benares. Mr. Steller, also, lately employed in the Simla Mission, has the superintendence of the orphanage. Thus the reproaches of the heathen over the ruins of the Christian settlement at Secundra, have been happily reversed, and the native church rests upon a safer and a surer foundation than before.

The Native Church.

The Christian congregation at St. John's church, in the city, comprises 126 adult members. Mr. Schneider thus writes respecting it, in his annual letter:—

The care of the congregation entrusted to me occupies the greatest part of my time and attention. In the past year I had no one to help me in the services; but our gracious God assisted me in my weakness, so that I could perform the two services on Sundays, and one service on Wednesday morning, without interruption. I had long felt the necessity to have also a weekly prayer-meeting in the church, in which one of the catechists should give an address in turn, for which he had to prepare himself by putting down his thoughts and showing his written address to me before the delivery. This meeting has been established, and I expect that much benefit will be derived from it by the catechists, as well as by the congregations.

I have also commenced with the catechists, readers, and teachers a Bible lesson on Saturday afternoons: we read the Acts of the Apostles, and by putting questions to them about what we are reading, I find much opportunity to apply the word of God to their particular circumstances. I am thankful to say that these lessons have been much appreciated by all, and that we have often enjoyed the presence of our blessed Lord.

This experienced Missionary makes the following wise remarks upon the admission of inquirers into the Christian church by baptism:—

In no previous year have I had so many inquirers as in the past. In most cases, however, the motives for embracing Christianity were chiefly the desire to find employment, and to have their bodily wants provided for, which were much increased by the pressure of the famine. It is only in a few instances that the wants of the body have been the cause to lead souls to Christ, to embrace Him as the only Saviour from sin and its evil consequences. Experience has taught me not to be in a hurry in baptizing inquirers, but to have them first properly instructed, and to inquire well after their motives; for it is a fact, that many new converts have, after their baptism, not adorned their Christian profession by a becoming walk and conversation: and so have even proved great offences and stumbling-blocks to the cause of Christ. There is also this idea becoming very prevalent among converts, that, when they are once baptized, the Padre, or the congregation, must also provide for them. I have almost come to the resolution not to baptize an inquirer till I know how he may be able to support himself in an honest way, for if his bodily wants cannot be supplied, he will only be a burden and disgrace to the church.

Among eleven adults whom I was permitted to baptize, two were Brahmins, one, an aged man, who had formerly been in the army, and knew a good deal of the Christian truth: he left me, as I had no work for him. The other was a young man who had been for some time an inquirer in the Benares Mission: he is still with me, and I am thankful to say that he is helping me in the girls' school, and in bazaar preaching.

Education.

The Rev. John Barton, B.A. Christ's College, Cambridge, kindly undertook the charge of St. John's College, upon the departure of Mr. Shackell. He has been greatly assisted by Mr. R. J. Bell, formerly Master in the Free School, Calcutta, and by Mr. W. Sandys, a native of Burmah, who was for a time a student in the Islington Missionary College.

The number of pupils has varied from 310 to 360. The annual examination was held at the close of the session of 1861, and scholarships to the aggregate value of 60 rupees were adjudged to those who showed themselves most proficient in English literature and mathematics, as well as in Hindee and Persian. The Rev. J. Owen, of the American Presbyterian Mission, kindly assisted in conducting the examination in the vernacular languages. The following are extracts from the annual report of Mr. Barton at the close of 1861:—

The experience of ten months only could hardly justify one in arriving at any thing like a settled opinion with regard to the position which education occupies as a branch of Missionary labour;—still I have already seen enough to make me believe that our college is exercising a most important influence for good in this part of India. It cannot be denied, that, so far as actual conversions are concerned, the results hitherto have been very small. Our college has now been established nearly ten years: it has not had, like its sister college of Jay Narain's at Benares, the disadvantage of a constant change of Principals, for, during the first six years of its existence, it was nurtured up under the untiring efforts of Messrs. French and Leighton, and, since their departure to England, it has been presided over by my friend and predecessor, Mr. Shackell, who only made it over to me on his leaving for England in February. And yet, in spite of all these outward advantages, there have only been, to my knowledge, two converts from amongst our students. Many, indeed, there have been of whom we have entertained bright hopes; many who have not only listened with evident interest and attention to our expositions of doctrinal and practical Christianity in the course of our daily Bible reading, but whose hearts have also been evidently influenced by a power from on high, and smitten by the "sword of the Spirit." And yet they are still, like Agrippa, only "almost persuaded" to be Christians. Gladly enough would they become Christians if it involved somewhat less of a sacrifice; but to give up father, mother, brothers, wife, sisters, houses, lands, every thing, for the Gospel's sake, this as yet they have not the courage to do.

Yet, I believe we have results to show—results which are most encouraging. In the first place, we find our older scholars thoroughly acquainted with both the doctrines and precepts of Christianity, so much so as almost to make one blush at times for our own professedly Christian countrymen. Secondly, what is far more important, we see that this knowledge does really influence their outward life and conduct: their whole moral tone is raised to a striking degree; they acquire a regard for truth and honesty, and show themselves worthy of our confidence. Some of our older scholars become so attached to us, that they prefer to remain with us as teachers on a far lower salary than they could obtain in Government employ. Indeed, with the exception of the one point of their being still unbaptized, there is little or nothing in their outward profession to make one realize that they are not Christians. It is sometimes said by those who are opposed to giving secular education to heathen boys in our Mission schools, that our scholars only consent to receive our scriptural instruction as a distasteful pill in consideration of the secular education that accompanies it. Such objections as these only show how very little practical acquaintance with the work of teaching heathen boys those persons have who make them. I have not the slightest hesitation in saying that such ideas rest on no solid foundation whatever. Our Bible lesson is one of the most popular, if not the most popular lesson of the day's course of study; indeed I often have to reprove some of my pupils for listlessness or want of attention to their secular studies, whose interest never flags during the Bible lesson. Soon after assuming the charge of the college, I was anxious to put this very opinion to a practical test, and accordingly I invited any of my first-class scholars who might like to attend to a Bible class, to be held at my own house on Sunday mornings. I told them plainly beforehand that I wished them to come or not just as they felt inclined, and that my object in having it was solely to benefit those who might wish to gain a deeper acquaintance with the principles and doctrines of Christianity. This class has, from the first, been attended by at least three-fourths of the scholars in my first class, and half of them have come most regularly. I do not attach any great importance to this circumstance, but it at least shows that the Bible is not an unpopular book, when a number of young men are willing to come from a considerable distance, through the burning sun and hot wind, simply for the sake of reading it.

I have been the more pleased with the marked attention paid to our Bible instruction, because, now that the studies of our senior scholars are all directed to prepare them for the entrance examination for the Calcutta University, they might naturally look upon this first hour as lost time, since scriptural knowledge does not tell at all in the examination. I have, however, good reason to believe, that although we devote an hour less to secular studies than the students of the Government colleges, our students are in no way the losers.

As, however, I felt that our scriptural instruction ought not thus, as it were, to be thrown into the shade, or thought of less importance, I have been very desirous for some months past to raise a fund sufficient for the permanent endowment of two additional scholarship of five rupees each, to be given to those two scholars who show the most thorough acquaintance with the doctrines and principles of Christianity. I propose that these may be held together with the existing scholarships now given for proficiency in English literature or mathematics; so that the two first students in the college, if industrious, may be in receipt of fifteen rupees a month each. This I feel sure will greatly help us in two ways; 1st, by imparting an increased interest to our scriptural studies; and 2nd, by enabling our senior scholars to remain with us longer than they would otherwise be able to do. I am glad to say that the project has been warmly supported by several Christian friends in England, and, through the kind recommendation of E. Wigram, Esq., Treasurer to the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, a grant of 50*l.* has been made by the Committee towards each scholarship, on condition that the remaining 75*l.* in each case shall be made up from other sources, and that the whole be properly invested in Government securities. I trust to be able to raise the whole additional amount required for one scholarship (rs. 750,) in England; for the rest I must look to the liberality of the friends of Missionary education in this country.

Another matter has also occupied my attention during the last few months, materially affecting the usefulness of our college, and that is the improvement of our library. Whatever books it once possessed, together with a valuable scientific apparatus, were destroyed during the mutiny, and this loss has only been very partially restored. We greatly need useful books of reference, such as Encyclopædias, standard historical works, &c., together with interesting and instructive books, which our scholars may take to their own homes. I asked the Christian Knowledge and Religious Tract Societies to assist me in supplying this latter want, and they have liberally responded; especially the former, by a grant of 20*l.* worth of books, which I hope to receive in the course of a few months. This report may fall into the hands of some friend who may possess such works of reference as I have alluded to, and who may be intending to part with them on going home: should such be the case, I must beg to put forth a plea on behalf of the St. John's College library.

In connexion with our work in the college at Agra, I must briefly allude to the branch school, which was re-established rather more than a year ago at Muttra, and which has been progressing as favourably as could be expected. It has suffered from a change of masters: the head master, whom I engaged in February, having proved unworthy of the confidence I reposed in him, I was obliged to dismiss him at once. I have now in his place one of my own teachers, once himself a pupil in our college under Mr. French, and have had every reason to be fully satisfied with him. Every one, indeed, of the English teachers, as well as the Persian munshi, has been trained by ourselves. Thus our college is already beginning to answer the end for which it is so well adapted, i. e. to serve as a training school for our Missions generally in the North-western Provinces and Punjab. Until within the last few months our three Mission schools at Umritsir, Peshawur, and Mooltan, were each supplied with a head master from our college: the last of these has returned to Agra, and is now engaged in the college itself.

Preaching to the Heathen.

The reduced number of Missionaries has prevented much being done in bazaar preaching or Missionary tours.

Mr. Schneider reports:—

I regret very much I could not be more out in the district, as I had no one to perform my duties at the station. I managed, however, to spend four weeks in the villages, and to visit the melas at Goberdhun and Batesar, and was thus only two Sundays absent from the station. I found these little Missionary tours in October and November very beneficial to body and soul; and the opportunities of making known the Gospel truths to large and attentive assemblies were numerous and encouraging.

MEERUT.

In the last annual report the Rev. Messrs. Medland and Archer were the Missionaries at this station: both were re-removed at the commencement of the year now under review. The very experienced Missionary, the Rev. T. Hœrnle, was appointed to the charge of the station, and a young Missionary, the Rev. W. B. Cole, was to be his assistant; but within a few months of his arrival at Meerut Mr. Cole was obliged to return to Europe, through the entire failure of his health. He had only been one year in India, but so great had been his success in the acquisition of the language, that he had begun to preach in the bazaars with much facility. Mr. Hœrnle therefore has remained the only European Missionary; but his intimate knowledge of the native Christians has enabled him to select and to employ native agency with so much advantage, that he has been able to provide for the instruction and pastoral care of four separate congregations, three of which are at out stations, together with the general oversight of an extensive Mission. The following extract is from Mr. Hœrnle's valuable report at the close of the year 1861:—

The Mission has been called upon to experience, in an extraordinary measure, the instability of human life, and all earthly things; but He in whom there is no change, who is the same "yesterday, to-day, and for ever," has remained faithful to his cause. By his grace the work has been not only steadily carried on with the assistance of the native fellow-helpers, the able and active assistant, Joseph Jacob, and the catechists at Maliyána and Kunker Khera; but also blessed with a considerable increase of the number of converts, and the addition of another out-station at the village of Agwánpore, twenty miles east of Meerut. The strength of native labourers has likewise been increased by two experienced catechists from Agra, Alexander and Jeremy. The former will assist in the duties of the Sudder Station, and the latter has taken charge of the new congregation at Agwánpore. Whilst heartily rejoicing at this increase, we would ascribe all honour and glory to Him who has given it.

The Native Church.

A native-Christian congregation has assembled in a church, on the Mission premises in the cantonments of Meerut, for nearly fifty years; at first through the zeal of the Company's chaplains, Messrs. Fisher, Whiting, and others; subsequently under the charge of resident Missionaries. But so little aggressive or influential have these native Christians been, that this long-standing congregation in the midst of a dense heathen population only numbers 126 members. Since the mutiny, however, a spontaneous movement has sprung up in three or four out-stations, which, in three years, number nearly 200 converts. Of the congregation in the city Mr. Hœrnle has not reported any matters of special interest. Hindustanee services are held regularly twice on Sundays, and once on Wednesday mornings, at which the attendance is good.

There are two small vernacular schools for boys and girls; and one large Anglo-vernacular school in the the native town, of which Mr. Hœrnle reports:—

The Anglo-vernacular school in the native town has continued to prosper under the able and intelligent management of its master, Joseph Jacob; the number of scholars from the Hindu and Mohamemdan classes of the population having risen to 200, with a satisfactory average of daily attendance. It has had likewise to undergo a change, one, however, for the better. In consequence of a new street and bazaar being constructed in the locality of the old rooms, originally granted by Government, the school had to be removed to another site. Advantage has been taken of this circumstance to erect, with the concurrence of the magistrate of the district, a larger and more suitable building, capable of affording accommodation to 300 boys, which will be opened, D.V., in the beginning of the year 1862.

The chief interest of the Meerut Mission is in the out-stations, of which Mr. Hœrnle furnishes the following report:—

Out-stations.

1. Maliyána.—This congregation, we deeply regret to say, is in a very unsatisfactory condition. The causes, which were referred to at length in last year's Report, still exist, and, indeed, have been aggravated rather than lessened. It is therefore unnecessary to do more than refer to them here. The uncalled for interference of the Baptist Mission of Delhi, in spite of constant remonstrances, and the evident injury thereby occasioned to the spiritual growth of the native Christians, as well as the bad example set before the heathen, has been steadily maintained; they having now formed a congregation of their own, and built a chapel only a few steps distant from our own. The progress of the Lord's work has, by this violation of the principle of mutual amity and non-interference, been greatly hindered, only a few adults having been baptized, and these had come from another place. It should be mentioned here that the village of Maliyána is a small place, which can be easily circumambulated in five minutes, containing about 500 inhabitants, certainly too small a field to be occupied by two Societies of opposite principles in doctrine and practice.

2. Kunker Khera.—This out-station, established almost simultaneously with that of Maliyána, but where happily no such interference has taken place, has steadily continued to realize the promise which it presented at first. The people are, with the exception of one or two families, very poor, earning a precarious livelihood as day-labourers in the neighbouring cantonments; but they are, upon the whole, industrious, and do what they can in maintaining themselves. It is hoped, if God grant another favourable rainy season, more families will be enabled to engage in agriculture, and thus gradually become independent; a position to which most of our Christians in this and the other out-stations have not yet attained, but which we must steadily keep in view. This congregation has had a considerable increase in number, twenty adults and seventeen children having been baptized, and several inquirers are now under instruction.

3. Agwánpore.—This is a new out-station, twenty miles east of Meerut. The work, which was commenced in July, is one of the results of the famine, and is thus an illustration of how the Lord can bring good out of evil. Christianity having become known in that part of the district through Mr. Lamb's indefatigable labours, several families in a neigbouring village embraced the Christian faith some years since, and were advised to remove to the incipient colony of Martindale, in the Dhoon. Many did so, and are still there. At Agwánpore there were also a few inquirers, who could not make up their minds to confess publicly their faith in Christ by receiving baptism, and were perhaps also afraid of having to go to the Dhoon; but they renounced idolatry, and, under the guidance of one of their number, a sober and steady Hindu, by the name of Sahiba, they used to worship the true God in the name of Jesus Christ the Saviour. While thus circumstanced, the famine overtook them, and soon reduecd them, with many others, to starvation. After gradually selling their cattle and household property, they were compelled to leave their homes in search of food. As they wandered about, many succumbed to the hardships they had to undergo. Amongst them was poor Sahiba. He died from the effects of starvation before he could enter the good Shepherd's fold by receiving baptism; a warning example how dangerous it is to delay to make sure of the salvation of our souls. The rest at last came to Sirdhana, were received by the Romish priest there, and employed in the field of that establishment, receiving daily rations of food for their work. Their sufferings were now so far at an end, yet they did not feel satisfied. They had gone there (as they expressed themselves) in hopes of not merely finding nourishment for their bodies, but also the bread of life, the word of God and Christian instruction. This being withheld from them, they determined to leave that place, and thus came to us at Meerut. They were advised to return to their own village, and promised a teacher, who would remain with them, and instruct them in the word of God. On their arrival being reported, Alexander was sent to commence labouring amongst them, and, in the name of the Lord, to open a new out-station at Agwánpore. The inquirers seemed earnest in their desire, but famine had reduced them to great destitution. It was therefore necessary to assist them in resuming their agricultural pursuits. On application, the Meerut Relief Committee paid each family fifteen rupees, towards the purchase of bullocks, ploughs, and seed-corn. The remaining sum required was added from a sum of money placed at our disposal by friends in England. Favoured by abundant rains, they have now every prospect of success before them. After due probation, fourteen families and three widows, in all fifteen men, sixteen women, and nineteen children, were baptized in an old branch of the Ganges, to which the Hindus now attach no superstitious sanctity. Immersion was adopted on this occasion, with a view to preventing the interference of the Baptists, as some of their agents had already been in the village trying to disturb the minds of the converts on the subject of baptism. A catechist is now permanently located there, to take charge of the little flock, and nourish it with the bread and water of life. A teacher for the instruction of the children is associated with him; and a place of worship, a school-room and house for the catechists, are in course of erection. May the Lord of the vineyard be pleased to bestow an abundant blessing on this our feeble planting and watering.

4. Pabla.—As regards this village, which has been mentioned in former reports as the scene of some Missionary labour, carried on by an old Christian Pundit in connexion with this Mission, nothing more can be stated than has been mentioned in last year's report. He occasionally comes into Meerut to give information respecting his work, from which it appears that he continues to visit the villages round about his residence, and to make known to them the way of salvation through Jesus Christ by reading the sacred Scriptures, and conversing with the people on the one thing needful. He is generally well listened to, and seems to exercise a good influence over them, but none have as yet decided for Christ. The fear of men seems to keep them back. It has been our intention to visit the place before the end of the year, aud closely to examine the result of the old man's labour; but the unexpected extension of the work in the direction of Agwánpore, and other causes, have hitherto prevented the visit. It will be made, D.V., in the beginning of the ensuing year.

P. S. Since the above was written, the old man has unexpectedly been called away from the scene of his labours, to enter, as we have reason to hope, into the rest of his Master above. His corpse was brought into Meerut, and interred in the Station cemetery.

Christian Colony in the Dhoon.

Our accounts of the native-Christian settlers there are favourable. Like a young tree, the colony is steadily striking its roots downward, and beginning to bear fruit upward. The famine, indeed, has been a hard time with many of the poor farmers; but whilst their kind and parental friends, Major and Mrs. Rind, nobly exerted themselves to alleviate their temporal wants and trials by advice and timely assistance, their indefatigable native pastor, Tulsi Paul, continued to administer to them the bread and water of life, and the consolations of the Gospel. Thus the colony held together, and even increased in number, at a time when so many poor people of the same class of agriculturists were dispersed, or cut off by the calamity. A temporary church and school have been erected, where the adults regularly meet for divine worship, and the children for instruction. A benevolent lady in England, interested in the growth of the colony, has contributed a handsome donation of 500 rupees towards a larger and more substantial building, to be erected when required. We avail ourselves of this opportunity to express our sincere thanks to our unknown friend.

III. The Punjab.

The Punjab Mission comprises five principal Stations—Umritsur, commenced 1852; Kangra, 1854; Peshawur, 1855; Mooltan, 1856; Dejerât, 1861.

General View of the Mission.

In the last year's Report the Committee had the satisfaction of announcing an increase of labourers in the Punjab. In the present they have the melancholy task of reporting a decrease, through the failure of health of the Rev. James Leighton, a Missionary of eight years' standing, and through the death of the Rev. Robert Braithwaite Batty before he had been twelve months in India, but not before he had given the promise of great usefulness. Mr. Batty had obtained the highest honours in the University of Cambridge, and was a fellow and tutor of his college; but in pursuance of a desire formed before he entered the University, he devoted all his acquisitions, and sacrificed temporal advantages, for the sake of the Missionary cause. The Committee have just sent out two new Missionaries to occupy the new field of the Derajât; the older stations of the Punjab Mission remain in a weakened condition.

UMRITSUR.

Three Missionaries, Messrs. Keene, Strawbridge, and Bruce, able to preach in the native language, and Mr. Brown, who is studying it, have resided at Umritsur during the last year. The number of native Christians is about fifty. Mr. Keene has the pastoral charge of the native church. It has been thought that the Mission is so far advanced that a church should be built for the use of the native congregation: funds have been collected for this object by the exertions of local friends, and the building is near its completion.

Education.

Mr. Strawbridge's time and labour have been chiefly devoted to the superintendence of a large Anglo-vernacular school containing 200 scholars. During the famine of last year so many orphans were thrown upon his care by the magistrates in the famine district, that he felt himself called in providence to enlarge his female orphanage to the number of thirty-seven children, and to commence an orphanage for boys. The orphanages are supported by funds independent of the Society. Mr. Strawbridge has had, during the year, some very promising cases of inquirers connected with the school, but there have as yet been no baptisms. He writes, at the close of the year—"We are greatly encouraged: our upper boys especially have afforded me much grounds for thankfulness during the past year." The children of the orphanages at this station are not admitted to baptism, as a general rule, until they are of age to understand and consent to the profession of Christianity. Industrial employment is found for the children; and as Mr. Strawbridge has been providentially provided with pious and efficient helpers in the work, the institutions present an encouraging aspect.

Out-Stations.—Jundialah.

Mr. Strawbridge has lately undertaken the charge of the out-station of Jundialah, which is a town within a short distance from Umritsur. There is a school and resident catechist, and Mr. Strawbridge proposes to spend two days a week in the place, visiting and preaching in the surrounding towns and villages.

Narowal.

The out-station of Narowal is under the charge of Mr. Bruce, who visits it occasionally, and has erected a bungalow with a view to prolonged visits. He writes—

Our school is daily increasing, and I can see a marked change in the manners and feelings of both teachers and boys in it. The reverence with which they always mention our Saviour's name, and the complete absence of a cavilling spirit, present a great contrast to what I remember a year ago. There is as great a transformation in the feelings of the people. When first the school was opened no one would be seen to salute me in the streets: some who would give me a friendly meeting at night carefully turned away their faces when I passed them by day. Now nothing can surpass the friendliness of the people: they gladly invite me to sit down in their shops and to read to them. How such a change is to be regarded I know not. I believe it is partly caused by a feeling that Christianity is not so bad a thing as they thought it. Yet I have no doubt that if God enabled any one to confess Christ bitterness and enmity would be soon stirred up by the relatives.

Preaching to the Heathen.

Mr. Bruce chiefly devotes his time to itinerating in the district. He cannot record, however, any marked encouragement during the past year. He mentions an interesting occasion when the Missionaries of different Societies united their labours at a great Hindu fair. "Our party at the Jualla Mukhi fair consisted of five Missionaries and four native helpers, and most of us preached three times a day. The concourse lasted more than a week. We all assembled daily for prayer in the Urdu tongue at two o'clock. I never felt more the help of God's Spirit in our work."

KANGRA AND KOTGHUR.

The Rev. J. N. Merk has carried on the Mission at KANGRA, and has occasionally visited and superintended the Mission at Kotghur. There is a small congregation at Kangra, numbering twenty-six souls, and schools for about 100 children of both sexes. One intelligent Brahmin and three orphan girls of an age to answer for themselves have been received into the church by baptism.

Mr. Merk reports:—

The congregation has enjoyed the means of grace as in former years, and I hope some of our people have made progress in knowledge and grace. The boys' school has been under Mr. Steller, whom the Corresponding Committee have lately removed to Agra.

The girls' school has been steadily carried on, and the difficulty of collecting and keeping together the girls has been somewhat overcome: not only has the number of pupils increased, but also some young women of better caste—Brahmins—are coming daily to school, and sit down willingly with the low-caste girls. Thus we are not quite without encouragements, and we have many reasons to be thankful.

Mr. Merk has spent much time in preaching to the heathen at Kangra, and during Missionary tours. In his annual review of his labours he writes :—

I have often wished to find out whether the natives talk at all among themselves of what they have heard in the bazaars. On this point I have received information through a very respectable old man, a descendant of the royal family of the Kasoihis, once so famous in our hills. He came to my tent with the intention of having some religious conversation with me, because he said he had heard from the people that we were preaching in the bazaar. The old man mentioned that the people had said our's were good doctrines. In another place several people heard gladly the Gospel and accepted some of our books. I have since met them again, and one man in particular seems in a measure sincere and inquiring after truth. He has evinced this by having read our books and discussed them with his family.

I have also to report on the KOTGHUR Mission, which I visited last February. The work there was carried on by the late Mr. Somnitz and the native catechist Kadshu, who divided between themselves the duties of the school and pastoral work, nor did they neglect preaching to the heathen. I found both boys' and girls' schools in a satisfactory state under the joint care of these two labourers. But in August last it pleased the Lord of the vineyard to call to his rest one of them, and we have to deplore the death of Mr. Somnitz. The Kotghur Mission has thereby sustained a grievous loss, for Mr. Somnitz's heart was in his Master's work, and he was well qualified in every respect for the task that had been assigned to him. Since Mr. Somnitz's death the Mission has been carried on by Kadshu. Kadshu has endeavoured to keep the little congregation together, and to feed them with the bread of life. On my last visit to Kotghur I baptized an orphan boy about fourteen years old and two infants.

Mr. Rebsch has been placed at Kotghur.

PESHAWUR.

Three Missionaries, the Rev. Messrs. Tuting, M'Carthy, and R. E. Clark have, laboured at Peshawur throughout the year 1861. Mr. R. E. Clark having removed from Benares at the commencement of the year, Mr. R. Clark has been stationed near Attock, to minister to the Muzzabee Sikhs.

The number of native Christians is very small. At the close of the year they only numbered nine, three having been baptized in the course of the year. Several of the earlier converts at this station have removed to other places.

Mr. Tuting reports, in his annual letter at the close of the year:—

In respect of the relative importance of the languages required in Peshawur, there are quarters in the city where Hindustanee commands an understanding audience, nearly all the members of which could take part in the discussion: there are quarters again where Pushtoo is most useful, and all would understand it; if Punjabee were preached, it too would attract its understanding audience; but Persian would never reach even the mass of those who might listen on any particular day. On one occasion the preaching went on continuously for about an hour and a half in Pushtoo, Persian and Hindustanee; when the relative importance seemed to be Pushtoo, Hindustanee, Persian. Not a word of Persian was heard till one or two knots of Persian-speaking strangers (merchants) came up. A Hindustanee then broke in upon the conversation, and the preaching went on in that language; but it was interrupted with "We do not know Hindustanee: speak Pushtoo."

Mr. R. E. Clark, upon joining the Mission, took his part in preaching in the bazaar. He was at first much struck with the difference between the respectful attention paid to the preaching in Benares, compared with the violent opposition and occasional fanaticism exhibited by some classes in Peshawur. But he adds, "The more simply the Gospel is preached, and the more we hold up the Bible as our authority, the more marked is the quiet attention of the people. Larger crowds are collected by the excitement of an argumentative discussion, but under such circumstances the prospect of doing good is much diminished."

Murderous attempt upon the Missionaries providentially frustrated.

In the month of July 1861, a savage attempt was made to assassinate Mr. Tuting while engaged in preaching to the heathen, in company with Mr. R. E. Clark, from the steps of a preaching chapel in the city of Peshawur. An Affghan, who had been three years in the Guide corps, of the most fanatical tribe, called the Afridis, rushed through the crowd who were listening to the Missionaries, with a tremendous weapon in his hand, the Affghan knife, being a heavy sword two feet and a half long: he reached the step above Mr. Tuting, and threw back his arm for the fatal stroke. At that moment a servant of the chapel threw his arms round the Afridi, and they rolled down the steps together. This was a critical moment for showing whether the crowd would sympathize with the fanatic, or with his intended victim. The same almighty Power which protected the life of the Missionary swayed the hearts of the people. They all took the part of the Missionary. The native police seized the assassin, and a native magistrate soon arrived and took away the prisoner. The people remained quiet and orderly after the man had been removed, and Mr. Tuting read the latter part of Matt. v., and commented upon it for five or six minutes before dismissing the audience and returning home. In recounting these events Mr. Tuting writes to the Secretary—"You will rejoice with me at this marked interposition of God's hand. And oh! redouble your prayers for this land, darkened with the soul-destroying shadow of Islamism."

Education.

Mr. M'Carthy has had charge of the large, and important Anglo-vernacular school at Peshawur for the last four years. The school is thus noticed in the last Report of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee.

The school at Peshawur numbers 200 boys. Mr. M'Carthy has worked energetically and successfully; and in spite of the many native prejudices he has had to contend with, the school prospers and is attracting even the bigoted Affghans. The public examination last December passed off extremely well. There was a large assemblage of native and European gentlemen present. Captain James, the Commissioner, gave the prizes, and delivered a suitable address in Hindustanee to the scholars. On the occasion of the visit of the Governor-General to Peshawur in the early part of the year, Lord Canning himself, together with Lady Canning and Lord Clyde the Commander-in-Chief, visited the school and exained some of the boys assembled before him.

At the close of 1861, Mr. M'Carthy requested to be released from the charge of the school, that he might devote himself more entirely to evangelistic labours, as he has acquired a considerable facility in the use of more than one of the vernacular languages required in the Punjab. It was thought right to comply with this request, and the Rev. Roger E. Clark undertook the superintendence of the school, until a new Principal can be found. The local Committee of the Peshawur Mission, comprising all the highest officers of the Government, have united in appealing for an able Principal in the following emphatic terms:—

A man of high University education, and possessed of tact, firmness, and gentleness, would find that, as superintendent of the Peshawur Mission school, he was in a position where his attainments and gifts had ample room for exercise, and by however high an ambition he might be animated to do the utmost good in his power, would possess, in the possibility of supplying Christian education to a district inhabited by more than 850,000 people, as wide-spread a prospect as he could desire.

Twenty-fourth Regiment Punjab Native Infantry.

The Christian movement in a regiment of Muzzabee Sikhs has been alluded to in preceding Reports. It was stated in that of last year, that, for the encouragement of this spirit of inquiry, the Rev. R. Clark had been stationed at Khairabad, near Attock, where a church and schools had been built. Mr. Clark remained at this station throughout the year, assisted by the native minister, Dauod. The number of converts has been somewhat increased, and now amounts to sixty-two, of whom nineteen are Sepoys. "Numbers," writes Mr. Clark, "are under instruction." "The native Christians are amongst the best soldiers in the regiment. They are but weak and ignorant, but in spite of falls and sins, I believe they are improving, both in knowledge and in the practice of the truth." Schools for boys and girls have been built, and the education of the children is carried on with success. The expenses of the Mission are liberally provided for by friends on the spot, by a government grant to the schools, and by the contributions of the converts, amounting to 32*l.* The whole sum thus contributed during the year was 330*l.*; being enough to cover all the expenses of the Mission beyond the salary of the Missionary.

MULTAN.

This station has been, during the last year, in charge of the Rev. George Yeates, who, as a new Missionary in the country, has been obliged to devote half his time to the study of the language. There are only two native Christians. Some, who had received baptism at Multan, have removed to other stations, one has, alas! relapsed into Mohammedanism. Mr. Yeates visits each week the villages round the city, and always finds attentive listeners amongst the few who can understand Urdu, the language which he employs. Two have received baptism during the year.

The chief feature at present at this station is an English school, to which the Missionary devotes his daily attendance.

Proposal for opening a new Mission in the Derajât.

At the period of the year 1861 when the finances of the Society appeared to be in a declining state, and the Committee were anxiously considering the best means of retrenching their expenditure, a proposal came unexpectedly upon them to open a new Mission in the Punjab. The suggestion appeared, in the first instance, almost in the light of a temptation to desert the older Missions for the sake of novelty; but the circumstances under which the proposal was made soon convinced the Committee that it was rather to be regarded as an encouragement from above to "go forward," relying in faith upon the Lord for the supply of all our need. The proposal came from Colonel Reynell Taylor, the Commissioner of the province, accompanied by a munificent donation of 1000*l*. It was supported by the recommendation of Sir R. Montgomery, Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab; it was enforced upon the attention of the Committee by the personal appeal and explanations of Sir Herbert Edwardes, who was well acquainted with the district, and who has thus described the locality, and the claims it presents upon the Christian liberality of England.

The Derajât is that long reach of the Punjab frontier which lies between the right bank of the Indus and the eastern slopes of the great Solimanee range, which separates British India from Affghanistan. It extends from the Salt range, which is the southern limit of the Peshawur division, to the north-eastern frontier of the province of Sindh, and may be more than 300 miles long, by 50 or 60 broad. Derah Ghazee Khan and Derah Ishmael Khan are each the head-quarters of a British district, and derive their commercial importance from the fact, that each stands opposite mountain passes on the border, through which the products of Central Asia are poured down into the Punjab and Hindostan, and the products of Hindostan and England are pushed up into Central Asia. The carriers of this trade are among the most remarkable people in the world, and are well worth telling of. They are the Lohanee merchants of Affghanistan. For several months these enterprising merchant tribes, to the number of perhaps 2000, are every year encamped in the Derajât, and brought within our influence for good or evil; then leave, and carry their experience of Christians into the distant strongholds of Islam—Cabul, Ghuznee, Candahar, Herat, Bulkh, Bokhara, Khiva, and Kokan.

The settled tribes who inhabit the Derajât are hardly less interesting than their Lohanee visitors, and have still stronger claims on us as our subjects. Common gratitude demands that we English should do all we can for this people; for in two great struggles the people of the Derajât have come to our assistance, and fought nobly on our side. In the war of 1848-49 it was the whole length of the Dejarât border which gave us those levies of wild swordsmen, matchlock-men, and cavalry, which enabled us, in a season adverse to the march of European troops, to shut up the rebel Dewan Moolraj in his fortress at Mooltan, and wrest from him one of the most fertile divisions of the Punjab. When the next struggle came, in the terrible sepoy mutiny of 1857, the chiefs of the Derajât instantly took up arms, raised horse and foot, and hurried to our aid. From Peshawur to Bengal these loyal men were once more found fighting our battles, in spite of the taunts of the Mohammedans of India.

It cannot but strike your Committee as very remarkable that this proposal to found a new Mission comes from one who is responsible for some 300 miles of the farthest and ruggedest frontier of British India; and that he who bids the proposal "God speed" is responsible for the province whose manly races helped the English to reconquer India in 1857-58. The Punjab, indeed, is conspicuous for two things—the most successful Government, and the most open acknowledgment of Christian duty. Surely it is not fanaticism, but homely faith, to see a connection between the two? So long as the Punjab is ruled in the spirit of Colonel Taylor and Sir Robert Montgomery, a blessing will surely rest upon it. As one whose lot is cast in with theirs, I felt thankful even to read their letters, and to carry such plans before you; but I am doubly thankful to your Committee for yielding to their appeal in the midst of your world-wide difficulties. Even during the hour that I was with you, I was struck at hearing of appeals from the heart of the Sikh country, from Rajpootana, from Sindh, from North-west America, from Japan, and from several other places, while a falling-off was reported in your income. May these difficulties be lessened, not increased, by your answering this call from the Derajât! Walking by faith, and not by sight, may you be followed into new territory by the increased sympathy of all who know whose inheritance the heathen are!

Col. R. Taylor, in a letter to Sir Herbert Edwardes, communicating his munificent offer for the establishment of the Mission, wrote:—

I should wish to put the matter entirely in the hands of the Church Missionary Society. I like its connection with our own Church ; and I believe it to be in every way entitled to confidence and honour, both as to motives, and means employed ; and therefore we can never do better than put ourselves in its hands.

Sir R. Montgomery, in conveying to Col. R. Taylor his warm recommendation of the Mission, stated: —

We have held the frontier for twelve years against all comers, and now, thank God, for the first time, we are at peace with all the tribes. There are indications of a better state of things for the future: they seek more to come amongst us: now is the time to hold out the hand of friendship, and to offer, through the Missionaries, the bread of life. It is not the duty of Government, or of their servants, to proselytize: this is left to those who have devoted their lives to the work. But I rejoice to see Missions spreading; and Derah is a fitting place for the establishment of one.

After these heart-stirring representations, the following Resolution was passed at a meeting of the General Committee, October 14th, 1861:—

That this Committee, having received an appeal to take up a new station or stations in the Derajât of the Punjab, as links between Peshawur and Mooltan, and with a view to bring the influence of the Gospel to bear upon the Affghan tribes inhabiting that district, as well as those who visit it annually from beyond the Suliman range in great numbers ; and that appeal having been enforced by a munificent offer of pecuniary help from the Commissioner or Chief Magistrate of the district, and by the strong recommendation of the Lieutenant-Governor of the province, together with a donation on his part also of 100*l.* for each of the three Mission stations as they may be taken up ; cannot but regard such an appeal as a special call, in the providence of God, upon the Society, to send at least two Missionaries to Dera Ishmael Khan as soon as the Committee shall have the suitable agents at their disposal.

The Committee have been since enabled to send out two Missionaries to commence the Mission in the Derajât, under the able guidance of the Rev. T. V. French, who was for ten years the Society's Missionary in Agra, and was about to return to India. Mr. French nobly undertook to give the new Mission the benefit of his long Indian experience at its first establishment, by accepting the superintendence of the Mission, for the first year at least, until it might be desirable that he should return to his former sphere of labour in the North-west Provinces.

MADRAS AND SOUTH-INDIA MISSION.

(European Missionaries first arrived 1814.)

I. Madras, commenced, 1814; II. Travancore and Cochin, 1816; III. Tinnevelly, 1817; IV. Telugu Mission, 1841.

THE Committee regret to state that the European staff in the South India-Mission has been weakened by the death of one Missionary, and the return home of five through the failure of their health; whilst only three new Missionaries have been sent out, and one older Missionary has returned to his labours in restored health.

Appointment of the Rev. Dr. Gell to the Bishopric of Madras.

In the last Report the Committee had to lament the loss of their revered and zealous friend, Bishop Dealtry, of Madras: they have now to notice, with thankfulness to God, the appointment as successor of a friend of the Society, who has hereditary as well as personal attachments to its cause; and who had already manifested a deep interest in the Society's South-India Mission, by having for many years acted as Secretary of a Committee of the late and existing pupils of Rugby School, of which he had himself been one, for the "Henry Fox-Memorial Fund;" which fund supports a teacher at the Anglo-vernacular school, Masulipatam. In resigning his Secretaryship of this Committee, Dr. Gell expressed "his thanks to God for having stirred up so wide an interest in the work, and such a spirit of liberality towards it, that in the course of twelve years not less than 2850*l.* have been contributed through the Fox-Memorial Fund to Missionary purposes. He believes that it would be difficult to find a Missionary object on which the money could be better expended than on the institution of which Mr. Noble is the head. He hopes, if God grant him life and health, to visit Masulipatam, and report upon the school to the friends of the Fox-Memorial Fund." It is a fact of much additional interest that Dr. Gell was accompanied to India by a young Missionary appointed by the Society to assist Mr. Noble, that Missionary having been a Rugby scholar, like Fox, and afterwards, like him, a graduate of Wadham College, Oxford.

Proposed sub-division of the Diocese of Madras.

Upon the appointment of a new Bishop of Madras the question was brought under the consideration of the Committee whether they should petition Her Majesty's Government for the sub-division of the diocese, and the erection of a new diocese for Tinnevelly. Your Committee were decided in their judgment that the time was not arrived for such a sub-division, but that it was equally for the best interests of the native church in Tinnevelly, and for the Missions of the Society, that they should remain for the present as part of the Diocese of Madras; and that the healthy development of the native church in Tinnevelly was, under the present system, so far advanced as to bring into the question the remote, but yet most important contingency, of a native bishop for the native church.

Your Committee must add a passing allusion to various unjust strictures, some friendly but mostly unfriendly, which have lately been launched against the Committee, as if it were opposed to the extension of the Episcopate. Your Committee have ever shown themselves ready to promote the extension of the colonial Episcopate when such extension is called for by the circumstances of the case, and can be wisely accomplished.

Statistics of the South-India Mission.

The statistical returns for the year 1861 exhibit a very satisfactory result. The European agency in the South-India Mission has not been increased, but slightly diminished in efficiency, but the native agency has been increased, and the native church has been greatly enlarged. The additions to the native Christians in 1860 amounted to 2892, being nearly as large a number as the aggregate of three previous years. In 1861, the addition did not reach the amount of the former year, being 2377, but this is in itself a very important result. The whole number of native Christians now connected with the Society in South India amounts to 42,509 souls. There has also been a proportionate increase during the last year in the two items which may be regarded as the criteria of the vitality of the native church, namely, the number of communicants, and the amount of contributions from native converts for the cause of the Gospel. The communicants have been increased by the addition of 430 during the year. They amount to 6832, which is a very large proportion of the Christian population. The contributions have risen from 1190*l.* to 1433*l.*, which is a very considerable amount for a labouring community, subsisting on such slender earnings as those of the Tinnevelly Christians.

Rev. John Bilderbeck (m), East Indian.
Rev. Henry Harley (m), 1836.
Rev. Peter Sorenson Royston, B.A. (m), 1855; Secretary: at home.
Rev. William Gray, M.A. (m), joined in India, 1858.
Mr. George Walker (m), 1855, Master of the Harris School.
Theodore T. Ford Esq. (m), 1858, Lay Secretary.

The Missionary operations in Madras have been conducted during the last year by Messrs. Bilderbeck and Gray, with native assistants, the former taking the northern division of the work and the latter the southern. The number of native Christians reported in connexion with the Society's Mission is considerably below that reported last year, owing to the fluctuation of the inhabitants of Madras.

No events of a remarkable character are reported. The labour of the Missionaries has been divided between pastoral ministrations, in which it has been their endeavour to raise the tone of religion in the native congregations, and preaching to the heathen. Mr. Gray has devoted also much time and labour to the theological instruction of his native catechists, in the hope of rendering some of them capable of undertaking the pastoral charge of the native congregations. In these labours he has met with much encouragement.

Hindustani Mission—Harris School.

A half-yearly public examination of the Harris School occurred at the close of 1861, soon after the arrival of Dr. Gell, Bishop of Madras. His lordship kindly consented to preside, and the following succinct review of the origin and progress of the institution was presented:—

The Missionary efforts put forth in Madras have met among no class with so much discouragement as among the Mohammedan portion of its population. The apparent impracticability of establishing a Mission among them, and, doubtless, the Hindus offering one for more successful operations, led those who were engaged in these efforts to abandon almost entirely this field. With many discouraging circumstances in view, the Church Missionary Society, in 1854, was moved to commence an educational work, as a preliminary to opening a way for their agents to preach the Gospel to the people. Although the Society's agents were engaged as early as 1854, the work may scarcely be said to have been begun until the opening of the building in 1857. The work then progressed so slowly, and the advantages of this Institution were so little appreciated by the people, as to confirm apparently the predictions of some, that this Mission would meet the fate of others which had been attempted for the welfare of the Mohammedan.

This slow progress, however, was anticipated by the Committee, who, on appointing one of the agents, told him not to be discouraged even if he only obtained seven scholars in seven years. They therefore persevered, and the result has been what is here seen to-day—a number of pupils equal to that provided for in the furnishing of this room. The numbers on the books and in average daily attendance since 1857 have been as follows :—

At the close of the year just mentioned (1857), in which the school was opened, the number on the books was 11. The following year, 1858, it had risen to 40, but the average daily attendance was less by one half. In 1859 there were on the books 44, of whom the average daily attendance was 33. At the close of last year (1860) the number on the books was 68, of which the average daily attendance was 41, being a less proportion of attendace than the previous year. This year the number on the books is 74 and the average attendance 59, which is an increase of 30 per cent. of the previous year in respect of attendance, and 80 per cent. of the number on the books.

Since the last examination circumstances have rendered it advisable to adopt the monitorial system. The advantages derived from it exceed what was expected, and as the monitors become more efficient in the way of teaching, the plan will doubtless recommend itself more effectually to the notice of the Committee. The monitors, who are naturally interested in the well-being of the school, will consequently produce a better impression of it, and of its operations, on the minds of parents, to whom they afford the best medium of communication. By them the sick are visited and sympathized with ; information as to the cause of absence obtained ; every scholar regularly and constantly employed, and consequently proportionately improved ; better discipline acquired, and the masters' wishes and plans more fully carried out.

The monitors have all been trained in the school, and their attachment to it has been lately testified in a very pleasing manner. Three of them have been severally invited, by a native master of a neighbouring school, to accept a situation under him at a much increased salary. Although assured that no addition could at present be made to the salary here, they all refused.

It need scarcely be said that the instruction given here is esentially based on the word of God, and that petitons are daily offered at the throne of grace, in the presence of the boys, that the Saviour of sinners may be revealed to them. But no work can be more convincing that the efforts of man are ineffectual in influencing the soul for good, without the special power of the Divine Spirit.

Death of the senior Missionary in Tinnevelly.

During the last year death has made its inroads upon the band of faithful labourers. The senior European Missionary of the district, and one of the native pastors have been taken to their rest and reward. The Rev. P. P. Schaffter died at Palamcotta on the 15th of December last, having been thirty-four years a Missionary in Tinnevelly. In his last letter, written about a fortnight before his death, a passage occurs, in reference to an allusion made by the Madras Corresponding Secretary, which will show the spirit in which this excellent man laboured. After deprecating any parallel between himself and St. Paul, he continues:—

In a few particulars I have certainly some similarity with the great Apostle. Like him, I have been called by pure grace to preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ. Like him, I feel some desire to bring poor souls to the cross of Christ. Like him, I feel also that He assists my great weakness, and enables me in spirit and conversation in some degree to forget the things that are behind, and to stretch forward towards the things that are before—towards the prize of our high calling in Christ Jesus. Bnt this I believe is the portion of every Missionary called by the grace of God. As to the other good and excellent gifts which shine so conspicuously in the Apostle, I know myself too well to lay any claim to them; and as I do not wish to think of myself higher than I ought to think, neither do I wish others to think so of me. I have a very merciful Saviour, and He enables me to walk in his ways. This is all I can boast of.

Testimony of a former Missionary to the progress of the work in Tinnevelly.

The Rev. Septimus Hobbs having removed about eight years ago from Tinnevelly to commence a Mission in Ceylon amongst the Tamil Coolies, lately re-visited the scene of his former labours, in order to seek assistants for his present Mission. In this he was happily successful, and his success is a speaking testimony to the progress of Christianity in Tinnevelly. The following extracts from a letter dated Kandy, Sept. 19, 1861, will give also a most encouraging view of the state of the Tinnevelly Mission:—

There were many volunteers for the work of the Cooly Mission amonst the senior catechists in Tinnevelly, a large proportion of whom were occupying such important positions in their respective districts that they could not be spared. I mention this fact, because it is a most gratifying proof, to my mind at least, that the motives which have influenced the catechists in offering themselves to this work are not such as have been attributed to them in some quarters. It can scarcely be supposed that men holding such high positions in the church in their native country could have thought that they should improve their finances by becoming ordinary catechists of the Cooly Mission. It is satisfactory to know that the native church in Tinnevelly deserves to be more highly esteemed, and is evincing the true Missionary spirit, which is one of the most reliable signs of spiritual vitality.

At Nallur I arranged to go and see all the principal congregations in the district, and having found my old congregation-book I took it with me. That book contains the names of all the Christian professors (men, women, and children) at the time of my being compelled to leave the district from the failure of my health, seven years and three-quarters since. It distinguishes the unbaptized, baptized, confirmed, and communicants; with an account of the "memoriter" lessons acquired by each, and other particulars. In every congregation that I visited, I called over the old names, in order that I might not pass over any of my old friends without a word to each individual. The stedfastness of the people was thus put incidentally to a very severe test, and I rejoice to say that the result exceded my most sanguine expectations. The relapses to heathenism have been very few indeed, but the accessions from heathenism very numerous. The people who were baptized before I left answered immediately to their names. But when I called the heathen names of those who had not been baptized before I left, there was hesitation in most cases until the individual replied, "That is not my name now: I am baptized." In some cases the heathen names were so completely forgotten, that the individual intended could not be distinctly made out. I met with the utmost cordiality and kindness everywhere, and from everybody; but the crowning point was that I witnessed advancement everywhere. Increase in the number of professing Christians, advancement in knowledge, advancement in efficient machinery, and, above all, reliable indications of advancement in spirituality. That there is still room for improvement I admit; but dull indeed must my heart be if it did not glow with gratitude to God for such mercies bestowed, not only on the obscure corner of the province in which it was once my privilege to labour, but also, and much more abundantly, on the labours of my beloved colleagues.

Encouraging testimony of the senior Missionaries.

The two senior Missionaries now resident in Tinnevelly, are Messrs. J. T. Tucker and Sargent. The following extracts from their last reports will present an encouraging view of the work in the more advanced districts of South Tinnevelly.

Mr. Tucker writes:—

The Committee will perhaps remember that I was permitted to receive, in the year 1860, upwards of a thousand new converts. This last year six hundred and twenty-three souls have been added to the list of native Christians. Many of these, however, joined us in 1860, and have since proved satisfactory disciples, and been admitted into our list. Besides these, there are about three hundred more persons who have cast away their idols, and placed themselves under Christian instruction, but on whom, as yet, I have not sufficient confidence to place them in our congregational list.

It is with much gratitude to God that I am permitted also to record that the converts of 1860 have, with few exceptions, shown, by their subsequent conduct, that they really intend to be Christians. The majority of them were won over by the exertions and zeal of Christians of the district; and wherever there has been persecution, or a tendency in any individual to backslide, old experienced native Christians have come to the aid of their afflicted brethren, and given good advice to those who appeared unstable in their ways. The hundred and forty new people at Moottachikoodeye-rappoo, and the few converts at Nattatti, have, during the past year, experienced all the persecution that it was possible, under British rule, for their enemies to perpetrate, but, through God's providence and mercy, they have resisted all trials, and stood firm, until their very enemies became tired of vexing them. The Committee can scarcely imagine the anxiety a Missionary feels sometimes when his poor, timid, and ignorant people, are so severely tried. It is a part of the care of the churches. Thanks be to God, at present we are at peace, in almost every village throughout the district.

In superintending a Mission district one great thing to be sought is the confidence of the natives in the goodwill of the Missionary, and this can be obtained by great kindness, bowels of mercies, together with firmness. The carrying out necessary discipline will sometimes cause a few evil spirits to murmur or leave us. There was an attempt by two or three such, a short time since, to lead some of the people to join the seceders in the south, but, through God's mercy, it turned out a failure.

We have made a few inroads upon the dominion of Satan during the year, in having demolished twenty-two demon or devil temples: I mean, new people, in coming over, have destroyed the idols of so many temples with their own hands, and given over the lands to the Mission. To prevent future law-suits on these cases, I require a Goverment stamp paper, upon which is written their conveyance of the property to me.

The village of Odiackullum contains about sixty slaves* of the Pallar caste, belonging to a Brahmin of Trichendore. They had heard again and again the Gospel, and at last made up their minds to give up their idols and build a little prayer-house for themselves, and place themselves under instruction. Their Brahmin master, being a little more wise than Brahmins generally, called them, and said that as long as they did his work he did not care whether they were heathen or Christians, only he demanded that if they became Christians they must still work for him as before. To this they agreed. They have now been under instruction for seven or eight months, and show much zeal for their new religion. The Brahmin has so much confidence in them now, that instead of coming himself to the village to receive his crops at the harvest, he sent to say that he should be quite satisfied with what they sent him, if the catechist affirmed that it was correct. The Brahmin has since called to see me, and I had a long conversation with him on Christianity.

In another village, called Pottalpachary, there are two hundred and forty slaves who have also placed themselves under Christian instruction. They smashed their idols all to pieces, pulled down their devil temple, and, with the timber, erected a temporary prayer-house, catechist's house, and schoolmaster's house themselves. In this case, in addition to the hearing of the Gospel, their masters, the Brahmins, advised them to become Christians, and even allowed them to omit doing their work on Sundays. It is impossible to believe that all these two hundred and forty are sincere. A great many of them are children, and the wives have followed their husbands, and even many of the men have only come over because the leading men among them did so, and wished all to join. I have placed a faithful reader and schoolmaster among them, and have good hope that the majority will remain firm. The women as yet are rather irregular in their attendance upon church. I have paid four visits to the village, and with much pleasure preached to them the glad tiding of salvation. These are not yet in my list of native Christians.

* Slavery has been abolished in British India since the year 1843. It lingers, however, among the people themselves, as a kind of voluntary bondage, not in any degree recognised as an institution of the country, but one against which, for various considerations, the slaves themselves do not care to avail themselves of the remedy provided by law.

Mr. Sargent reports—

If the faith which the Gospel requires as necessary to salvation were merely an assent of the mind to certain opinions or statements, we might long ago have assured our Christian friends and supporters of the conversion of a very large number of Hindus, and rejoice over them as having passed from darkness into light. But, taught by the word of God, we know that true faith is something more than this; that it affects not only the mind, but the heart and affections; that it not only assents to certain dogmas, but commits itself to certain practices and habits, and it is, in short, a "faith that worketh by love." Hence it is that we have many around us who are intellectually, but not spiritually, convinced and converted;—many who will talk and argue against heathenism, and in favour of Christianity, but who cannot arouse themselves to the effort of taking up the cross and following the Lord Jesus, and the millstone around the neck which forbids their rising is caste, with all its distinctions and observances. Within half-a-mile of my house are several young Hindus who meet almost daily for the purpose of reading the Bible and praying for light, and who, if allowed to maintain caste would apply for baptism to-morrow. One of them did make a weak effort in the right direction and came to me, as he said he could no longer remain in the unhappy position he had been; but being told that his mother was sick and dying he was enticed home, and immediately removed to a place some thirty-five miles away. Still it cannot be denied that all this affords us ground of hope and encouragement. In this part of India our respectable youths are so far instructed in the Bible, that when they learn to despise their gods and idols, it is not to take up with atheism or deism, but to have the mind exercised with views and influences of Christianity. Even many who have not received an English education are more or less affected in the same way. But here the weakness of the native character shows itself, and there seems a looking about on all sides for some man of influence and position in life to take the lead, and then there is no saying what a day may bring forth, and where the movement will end.

During the year we have had accessions from the heathen to the several congregations connected with the Palamcotta district amounting to 201 souls. The baptisms during the year were 117. When Alvarneri was separated from Palamcotta, and formed into a district of its own, in 1856, we were left with only 843 professing Christians in the Palamcotta district. Now our whole number amounts to 1419, and the Alvarneri district has likewise proportionably increased.

In the majority of our village congregations there is much to encourage and make us thankful. The simple piety of many of our people is evident in their regularity of attendance on the means of grace, their patience under affliction, their endeavour after a consistent walk, and their self-denying efforts to supply means for sending the Gospel to the heathen, and also for supporting in part their own teachers. Under the pressure now laid upon us by retrenchments in the usual grants from the Home Committee, I have been beyond expectation cheered by the ready way in which the people have responded to this new call; so that, sitting among them at their meetings, and knowing how poor many of them are, I could not but feel reminded of the Apostle's commendation of the Macedonian church, "how that, in a great trial of affliction, the abundance of their joy and their deep poverty abounded unto the riches of their liberality." My plan has been to appoint a day in each circle of villages for a general meeting for this special object; and one great argument which I have found most effective is the following, because it is at once most intelligible to them as being that which is everywhere carried out in domestic life. One congregation has been formed fifteen years ago, another seventeen, another perhaps twenty. So after laying before them all the blessings and privileges which they enjoy under the Gospel, I tell them that the fathers of the Church Missionary Society have, as it were, sent me to ask where are the children that were born to them in this place fifteen, seventeen, or twenty years ago, as the case may be—what are these children doing for the common good of the family? Are they still lying on their mother's laps or rocking in the cradle? or are they, like strong, healthy, good youths, doing what they can to increase and secure the interests and substance of the family, and so provide for the household when the fathers shall no longer be able to do the needful? To such appeals I have never heard a dissenting voice. In addition to Rs. 355 . 12 . 8 raised by collections in pots for sending the Gospel to the heathen, the contributions raised for supporting their own teachers has amounted to above 400 rupees. This sum has been forwarded to the Secretary of the Church Missionary Society for the expenses of 1862, being about half the amount of salary payable to the native teachers in the Palamcotta district for one year. Returning one evening from such a meeting as described above in one of our villages nine miles from Palamcotta, and passing on to a village in the neighbourhood to have prayers with the people, I fell in with the headman in the fields, and as he led the way to the village, I said (referring to the Missionary meeting), "Well, you have been happy to-day." "Yes, Sir," he replied. "But I am always happy," he added in a most unaffected manner. I believe he spoke what he felt. His humble piety, and cheerful face, whenever I see him, assures me that the Gospel has made him what heathenism with all its idols, torches, music, and processions, could never effect—a happy man; for "blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven, whose sin is covered: blessed is the man unto whom the Lord imputeth not iniquity, and in whose spirit there is no guile."

North Tinnevelly Itinerating District.

Missionary operations in the North Tinnevelly district were first commenced by the devoted Ragland and his companions, upon the itinerant system. After a few inquirers had been baptized, and other native Christians had been discovered, who had removed into the district from other parts, a station Missionary was appointed to the district, to whom the care of the native Christians was committed; so that the itinerant system might be continued without interruption. Two successive station Missionaries were removed by death, and thus the whole work was cast upon the itinerant Missionaries. But during the last year the separation has again been effected of the itinerant branch and the station duties. One Missionary, Mr. Meadows, assisted by three native ministers, has charge of the native Christians in the North Tinnevelly district. The district has been divided into three parts: each part has been placed under the pastoral care of one of the native ministers. Mr. Meadows superintends the whole. Messrs. Fenn and Macdonald, together with a staff of itinerant catechists, devote themselves wholly to the work of preaching the Gospel to the heathen within the district. The Committee watch with deep interest the results of this double agency throughout the extensive district of North Tinnevelly. They have reason to anticipate an increasing development of those results in large accessions to the church of Christ.

Mr. Meadows gives the following very encouraging report, of the state of the district at the close of 1861:—

The statistics of the district form a very encouraging feature to be remarked upon. The number of registered Christians is 1912, which is nearly an increase of 300 within the last half-year, and more than double the number in 1856. The communicants have increased in the like proportion. There are, besides, 700 persons under instruction, whose stability has not yet been tested, and whose names have therefore not been added in the returns. May we not look at this large increase of Christians and inquirers, and at the general disposition throughout the district, of persons of different castes to become Christians, as the result of the itinerating which has been going on now for eight years?

At the close of the year Mr. Fenn reviews the work in his department, under an encouraging light. The numbers of itinerating catechists associated with him throughout the whole year had been thirty; and every one of the 1300 villages, comprised in the itinerating districts, had been visited at least once in the course of the year. He writes:—

We have been cheered by larger accessions from heathenism during the last year than in any that preceded it. Nor is it simply the great increase in numbers that encourages us, but also that the new comers are, in several instances, from different and higher castes than those which have hitherto furnished the bulk of our North Tinnevelly Christians. There are now in five or six villages, what we so long looked for in vain, instances of Naiks professing Christianity. It will be remembered that we have often, in our journals and letters, spoken of the Naiks as the prevailing class of farmers—well-to-do in outward matters, and ranking high as a caste, but apparently illiterate and unaffected by all our preaching. And yet our itinerating method seemed more adapted to come home to them in their country villages than to affect the traders of the large towns. Besides these large accessions from heathenism, which are mostly in the neighbourhood of existing congregations, there are indications of a great preparedness of mind and feeling among the heathen in parts quite removed from them.

General character of the Native Agents in the Tinnevelly Mission.

The Rev. A. Dibb has charge, in the absence of the Rev. J. Thomas, of the Mengnanapuram and its associated Districts. He writes in his annual review:—

The congregations comprise in all no less than 11,278 individuals, men, women, and children, and the work of instructing the minds, and leading the public devotions of these, is entrusted to fifty catechists, under the superintendence of four inspecting catechists, the native clergy, and myself. There are many congregations which I have not had it in my power to visit once during the year. But my lack of opportunity for visiting every congregation has been in some measure supplied by maintaining constant intercourse with the catechists, meeting them regularly once a month for the inspection of each congregation's report, and more frequently still for the purposes of study and devotion. On these occasions the Bible, church history, the XXXIX Articles, and Elliott's Horæ Apocalypticæ, have been the subjects in hand. I have concluded each of these days with a sermon, or expository lecture, or some portion of the Minor Prophets, and in this way have gone through Joel, Obadiah, Jonah, Nahum, and Habakkuk. Of course there are varieties of character among the catechists, and different degrees in their spiritual growth, but, as a whole, they are a body of men with whom I feel it a privilege to be connected.

Mr. Meadows reports of the agents under his superintendence:—

The catechists continue to receive weekly instruction at the houses of myself and my three native brethren. Their wives generally come once a month, and, in Mr. J. Cornelius' division, some come once a week, to be taught and encouraged by our wives. Mrs. Meadows, indeed, is not yet equal to teaching them, but she is able to sympathize with them, and to help them in various ways. I have every reason to believe that the spiritual agents of the district are generally conscientious, painstaking, and, in most instances, effective men. The congregations are undoubtedly improving in tone, in knowledge, and in intelligence, as they are also in numbers, under their vigorous and prayerful efforts. But there is much still to be amended in them. Their want of conscientiousness in reference to getting into debt; their failure to encourage their wives to labour for the spiritual good of the women of their flocks; their occasional timidity in reference to speaking the exact truth; and, in some cases, their too much thought about their salary, when a question of extra work is discussed;—these are defects, which, to speak generally, we still discover in them. But, if I might, I could mention several in whom the opposite excellencies shine brightly. Some are altogether free from debt; one wishes to forego his salary altogether, and was quite grieved with his wife for some complaining remarks she made on the subject. They labour hard, with but few exceptions, not only in visiting their two and three and four congregations, but in preaching in the heathen villages which have been allotted to them.

I can speak very highly of the spiritual qualifications of several of the schoolmasters. Those who have lately come from Mr. Spratt's Institution are vastly superior to the others in powers of teaching. We endeavour to excite them onward by requiring some one of them, once every two months, to give a model lesson before all the other masters, to be criticised by them.

Influence of the exemplary life and conduct of the native Christians upon their heathen countrymen.

In a report of one of the native Ministers labouring in North Tinnevelly, the following interesting notice occurs:—

This morning Mr. Meadows and I started together to visit some of the congregations in the western part of my section. The first place we went to was Mela Vayali. We put up in the rich Maravar's kúdam, where we had several opportunities of preaching to the heathen. An influential Brahmin—the Merasdar of Kéla Vayali—was one of the hearers. His testimony to the conduct of a Christian neighbour was very pleasing. The Brahmin said, "I am a Brahmin, and I think there is hardly a day passes when I do not tell a lie or commit some sin or other; whereas Annamalei Retti (for that was the Christian's heathen name) has not uttered a lie or committed any injustice to his neighbour since he became a Christian. There is nobody here to be compared with him as far as truthfulness is concerned." All the people in the village. and those of the neighbourhood, give the same character of him, But for a Brahmin to say so much of a Christian is very remarkable.

Invigorating effect of persecution upon the native converts.

A native minister of the Nallur district notices the course adopted by the Missionaries of allowing the new converts to be subjected to the persecution of the heathen, upon their profession of Christianity; instead of as in the earlier days of the Mission, defending their cause before the magistrates, or giving the sufferers relief and protection. In former days the benevolent intentions of Missionaries too often induced bodies of insincere men to profess themselves Christian inquirers in order to obtain temporal advantages; and even in the case of sincere inquirers, the wholesome exercise of self-reliance was too often discouraged by injudicious temporal aid.

Formerly the heathen in these parts would fear to do any violence to Christian converts: Christianity was to them a terror, and to the converts a shelter from all molestations. But now, on the contrary, the moment a man embraces our religion he is exposed to all sorts of persecutions from the neighbouring heathen of all ranks. I may mention one or two instances. A short time since a man from Chettiur came over to our religion. No sooner had he taken this step than the Number-karnam, the Merasdar, and the people of the village, combined together to persecute him, by severely beating him, unjustly delivering his cattle to the pound-keeper, and making him pay a heavy fine. He endeavoured to obtain justice from the authorities, but his opponents managed, by one way or other, to get his case dismissed. When he failed to obtain redress, I asked him what he was going to do further. He said in reply, that he had tried to obtain justice; but since he could not get it, he had determined to bear persecutions. He remains firm in his profession, and seems to be earnest in seeking the means of grace. Another new Christian, from Kíla-Pavúr, has been similarly hated and persecuted by the heathen, but he stands firm. Where the profession of Christianity is attended with trouble, it is not likely that any one will come over unless he is influenced by a desire to obtain the salvation of his soul. On this ground I trust that those who have embraced Christianity amidst such troubles will remain steady.

A similar statement occurs in another native report:—

The congregation at Vellalankulam is an orderly one. In no place throughout this part of the district have the Christians suffered more than these people have at the hands of the Merasdar, the village Munsiff, and others of their party. They have deprived them of their lands (their only means of living) and have in various ways reduced them to poverty. With all this, however, they are firm and sincere in their profession. They have often remarked, "Though we have been deprived of all our property, yet, as we know Christ as the fountain of all riches, we have not gone back. We have been deprived of our lands; but even if we were to be deprived of our lives we would stand firm in our faith." I have every reason to be satisfied with this congregation.

Activity of voluntary Missionary agency in Tinnevelly.

The journals already referred to bear testimony to the operation of voluntary Missionary agency in bringing converts under the instruction of the Missionaries. Native Associations have also long existed for supporting native pilgrims in preaching to the heathen. A Missionary from North India, the Rev. H. W. Shackell, who lately visited the Tinnevelly Mission, was much struck with this feature in the work, of which gives the following illustrations:—

There are two villages which are remarkable instances of voluntary agency, Pudhur and Kurudikulam, in each of which a more advanced member of the congregation acts as unpaid catechist to the rest, and teaches them in the evening after he and they have come home from work; and also in each the people assemble in a prayer-house built by another member of the congregation on his own premises, and at his own expense. That at Pudhur was a beautifully neat place, strewn with clean mats, and used also as a school.

Two chucklers (or shoemakers, one of the very lowest castes in North Tinnevelly), after becoming Christians themselves, went (like our Mehtars at Agra, but to a very much greater distance) to preach amongst their neighbours, preaching to their own caste in all the neighbouring villages to the distance of three days' journey, taking about with them their leather and tools, and working as they went. They have since been joined by a third.

State of the congregations affected by the Revival of 1860.

The district of Nallur is contiguous to the scene of the revival which was reported last year. The Rev. W. Clark is now in charge of it, assisted by two native clergymen, whom he deputes to examine the congregations and schools, and to report upon their state to himself from time to time. The following extract is from Mr. Clark's report, June 30th, 1861:—

It is gratifying to be able to report, that, during the past year, real good, in no inconsiderable degree, has been done in those congregations which were most affected by the revival of the previous year. Parvadhipuram has been much benefited by it. Twenty, of different ages and both sexes, seem, from their evident improvement in many respects, to have been savingly converted. Sixteen others also, who were much influenced for a time, and who are still in a greater or less degree under the influence of the first awakening, though not so satisfactory as the former, still afford reason to hope that they have received the Spirit of grace. Their conduct in various particulars is faulty; but they may still become firmly settled in faith, love, and holiness of life. At present, however, there is more reason to hope than to anticipate that they will. At Kattappuli, Venkalappottel, and Ilanji, similar happy results, though not to much extent, have followed the revival. In these villages, as well as in Parvadhipuram, drunkenness, which, as usual among people of that class, was not unfrequent, has, for the present at least, been quite abandoned; and not only among those awakened, but among others also, the practice of drinking toddy and arrack has almost totally ceased. At Kaliyanipuram also, where quite a different class of people reside, a gracious change has been wrought. At Nallur some who were awakened have continued, with occasional faults, to maintain a consistent walk; but many have gone back, and now show by their lives that the change they manifested was not genuine. There has thus been a good work evidencing the presence of the Spirit of God among us, notwithstanding the many objectional circumstances which attended the revival. Some were really stirred up, and have turned unto the Lord. May we have much larger and longer-continued blessings. Should it please our gracious God to visit us again with his grace, as we hope and pray, we shall all be better prepared both to check what is bad, and to encourage and strengthen what is good.

Mr. Meadows, who has several of the revived congregations in his district of North Tinnevelly, gives this decisive testimony, at the close of the year, respecting its beneficial results:—

The revived congregations hold on still, and adorn their profession: they comprise our best and most satisfactory Christians: indeed, the great majority of true Christians in the district, I think, are to be found amongst them. This is the testimony of the native ministers, and my own experience confirms it. Nor has the work of revival ceased in this part of the district: persons are almost daily being gathered in. Bodily emotion has almost wholly ceased, for it has, in all cases, been discouraged by us. There is a return to the old state of deadness in some; but, I am thankful to say, very few instances throughout the villages influenced by the revival can be found of persons as dead as they were before, whereas those who shone as bright Christians a year ago shine brightly still.

Similar testimony to the permanent results of the revival occurs in the journal of one of the native ministers who labours in North Tinnevelly, in a district contiguous to the first scene of the movement:—

Since the revival a great many heathen and backsliders have joined us at Koteimadakki, and the present church, though one of the largest ones in North Tinnevelly, is scarcely enough to hold all the people who attend divine service on Sundays. Many people are obliged to sit outside the church. Though we had intended to begin the building three months ago, we have postponed till the beginning of next year, when we hope to have all the money —1000 rupees—and materials we may want.

At Kallikulam a good many young men and women have, since the revival, met together every night, immediately after they return from their daily toil, and learn to read by lamplight, till the second bell is rung for the evening service. Several of them can now read pretty well.

These notices of the blessed effects of the revival are well supported by the testimony of a Missionary from another Mission, Mr. Hobbs, of Ceylon, in his account of his late visit to Tinnevelly. He writes:—

I went to several of the villages where this influence had been felt, and saw many of the people who had been the subjects of it. All extraordinary excitement has long since ceased; but the solid effects remain to this day in the renewed life of many who had been notorious evil livers, but are now, through grace, consistent and exemplary Christians. It was much more extensive than I had supposed, and was not confined to Christian professors. I am of the opinion that we heard more about the extravagances and excitement than those things deserved; that the work itself was of God, and does and will remain.

Education.

The various educational establishments in Palamcotta have all been in active and efficient operation throughout the year.

Mr. Sargent gives the following able, wise, and candid report of the Preparandi Institution for the year 1861 :—

In reporting on this Institution, I have nothing to say that is new or striking. God, whose we are, and whom we desire to serve, has preserved the teachers in health, and enabled us to hold on the even tenor of our course without interruption. The ready mind of those associated with me, in faithfully carrying out all plans proposed for the improvement or stability of the work, has rendered my position a comparatively easy one. On the part of the students, also, I may, with a good conscience, testify to their generally consistent and exemplary conduct. There is manifest in the majority a spirit of prayerfulness and true piety, and, with very few exceptions, in all a good moral tone. The only exceptions have been dealt with by expulsion; one for appropriating the books and cloths belonging to others, and the other for practising deception in the delivery of his lessons. The latter student was only on probation; the other had been in the Institution above three years. Three other students left the Institution, dissatisfied with their duties here, or being inefficient students. Twelve have been sent out during the year as teachers, of whom ten are employed as assistant readers and one as a schoolmaster in this province, and the other has been sent to Ceylon to be employed in the Cooly Mission. There are fifty-four students still prosecuting their studies.

The class of students that gives less satisfaction than others is that of the married students. We have nine such students, and, generally speaking, their attainments and efficiency as students are behind the average standard. Men who join us as married students do improve, but not in the same proportion and at the same rate as those students who are unaffected by the cares of a family. Circumstances have arisen, in which it has seemed desirable to allow a young man to marry after he has been here some time, and while still prosecuting his studies; but all such instances have more or less disappointed us, as far as further progress in class is concerned.

While it affords me sincere pleasure to testify to the high Christian character of the present staff of teachers, I must also remark that they are but men of very moderate ability, and that it would be a great help to further improvement, if a good European assistant could be found, to take part in this branch of education. He need not necessarily be a clergyman. As a layman he would find ample field for the occupation of his time and talent, and a work which, if viewed aright, would please and cheer the mind.

In the private interviews I have had with students, especially when offering themselves as candidates for the Lord's Supper, I have had reason to thank God that there seems to be a spirit of prayer pervading the Institution, and that the word of God, as read in private and as preached in public, is working upon the hearts and consciences of many, who, when they came here, were only recommended as, well-behaved, good men. We have students from seven or eight different castes, but here no difference is observable in any shape whatever: goodwill and peace is hardly ever interrupted in such a way as to call for the interference of the teachers.

It is a goodly and encouraging sight, every half-year, when the agents come in from the several districts to attend our Anniversary Meetings, to see those who have gone out as teachers, taking a meal with the present students; after which they all meet in the hall for a few words of exhortation and prayer. Last time our company amounted to 120.

The Palamcotta Vernacular Training Institution has continued to prosper under the able superintendence of the Principal, the Rev. T. Spratt. An examination took place in July 1861, at which time there were seventy-nine students, and twelve were reported as ready to be employed. The Rev. J. T. Tucker, who presided on the occasion, writes—"You will see that the Institution continues in a very satisfactory state. There is much cause for thankfulness to God that He has permitted, in his providence, such a means of instruction for our schoolmasters to be established." The Rev. D. Fenn examined in two of the historical books of the Old Testament, and reports—"Out of twenty-one students present in this class, there was not one who did not show a good knowledge both of the facts of the history, and of the collateral subjects necessary to its elucidation. Two or three displayed much thoughtfulness and readiness in their replies. The result of the examination appeared to me thoroughly satisfactory in every respect." The Rev. P. P. Schaffter, who has since entered into his eternal rest, bore this, his last testimony, to the value of the Institution in a letter to the Principal—"Your labour, dear friend, is of very great importance for this province. May the Lord continue his help, and bless it more and more!"

Mr. Hobbs, of Ceylon, writes respecting his visit to Palamcotta—"I formerly resided for four years in charge of the Preparandi Institution. The advance which has been made since then is most striking and gratifying. Indeed I have never seen elsewhere Mission establishments so complete as the Preparandi and Training Institutions here."

The Sarah-Tucker Institution for training schoolmistresses. The new building is not yet finished, but Miss Richards, who was sent out to prepare herself for the work, has been so successful in acquiring Tamil, that she was able to commence the Institution in a temporary building, with the scanty accommodation of two rooms and a verandah. At the close of the first half-year she had eight schoolmistresses, and eleven daughters of native clergymen under her charge, together with a practising school of sixty-five scholars. At the close of the year the numbers were slightly varied. The pupils were examined by the Missionaries, and the results of the examination were very encouraging. Mr. Sargent, who has the general superintendence of the establishment, bears this most just testimony to the memory of the excellent lady, the late Miss Tucker, whose name the Institution bears.

"If there be a name ever to be remembered by the female portion of our native converts in Tinnevelly, and endeared to the hearts of our old Missionary families by substantial aid to their work, in funds, Christian and courteous encouragement, and counsel in correspondence, it is that of the Christian friend whose name is commemorated in this Institution. The liberality of friends, who have embalmed her memory on their hearts, has here set on foot an institution for training Christian schoolmistresses, and educating the daughters of our native clergy; and we have every reason to feel thankful for the commencement now made, and the promise it affords of future extensive usefulness. When the building, now in course of erection, is completed, and all the appliances of the training system in full practice, this will be, we believe, the most efficient Institution of its kind in South India, if it please God to continue the health of those to whose management it is confided.

"Knowing how powerfully female Christian education must act for good on the masses of the people, this is an Institution every way deserving the prayers and support of all who desire the extension of the Saviour's kingdom."

The Anglo-vernacular schools at Palamcotta and at Strivilliputthur have been carried on with much efficiency and success. The whole number of schools throughout the Tinnevelly Mission is 328, and the number of boys under instruction is 5446, of girls 2889; total 8335. The number of schoolmasters and schoolmistresses is 380.

Remarkable movement amongst the Syro-Romanists in Travancore and Cochin.

For more than three centuries the Church of Rome has maintained its usurpation over a portion of the Syrian church. It has ruled by European bishops, enforcing upon the people the dogmas of the Romish church. But since the Bible, and the witness of a purer Christianity, have been introduced, the Syro-Romanists have begun to assert their national independence; and at length a deputation was sent by a portion of them to Mesopotamia for a "Chaldean" bishop. One of the deputation having been consecrated to this office, has returned to Travancore, and declared for a separation from Rome. The Romish bishop has failed in his attempt to maintain his authority or his claims over Church property. In answer to his assumed prerogative over the native members of his church, he has been told that the native kingdom of Travancore guarantees toleration to all its subjects, and that where the people secede they carry the church with them. Messrs. Hawkesworth and Beüttler, in their Missionary tours, in localities remote from Missionary stations, had many opportunities of observing the progress of this movement.

The following extracts are from Mr. Hawksworth's account of his tours, in a letter dated July 26, 1861:—

At Angumala we found a very old man who remembered the visit of Claudius Buchanan, whose name is reverenced by Syrian Christians throughout the country. Everywhere we found the Romanists, i. e. Syro-Romanists, anxiously expecting a Chaldean bishop, who has since arrived. Priests, and especially the people, were evidently discontented with the Italian bishop. I do not think we saw more than one who would approve of Bible burning. At one church it sounded strange to hear a Romish priest say, in the presence of a large number of his people and before other priests, that they had heard of the Roman Catholics of Italy beginning to declare that the Pope was Antichrist. It seemed as if the shock of the Italian earthquake was being felt even at this distance. The priest betrayed neither anger nor sorrow, and the people evidently wished for full and exact particulars of what was occurring in Italy. We endeavoured to fix their attention on the happy effects of Bible reading, and the grace and immutability of the one only Saviour, the sinner's friend. The approach of a burly priest in black habiliments—all the rest were clothed in white, according to local usage—threw a reserve over all. He was a representative of the Anti-Native or Italian party. He did not seem in a fit state to give or receive instruction, so we returned to the boat.

At a later date Mr. Hawksworth writes:—

Mr. Koshi and I went to a church where we found three priests, one a young man, another middle-aged, and the third in feeble old age. They were delighted to hear that Government had declared the people at perfect liberty to receive the newly-arrived Chaldean bishop if they pleased. We called at four Syro-Romish churches on our way down the river, and were everywhere struck with the change that has passed over the Romanists. Their former bitterness seems swept away. Almost every large congregation in the country has broken away from the Italian party, and welcomed the new bishop, who, according to the people's own account, allows them to read the Bible. Those who were known as Romanists now declare that they are "Chaldean" Syrians: they wished to know all I could tell them about the Chaldean bishop. I asked them if they did not think me a heretic. They said the Latin party might but they did not. I then opened the Testament and read and spoke to them of Jesus and his complete salvation, the resurrection and the day of judgment, and they listened attentively so long as I could stay.

Respecting this movement Mr. Beüttler cautiously remarks:—

Whether any good will result therefrom it would be premature to say. To judge from the present appearance of things all the Chaldean churches will give in their adherence to the new bishop, whereas the Latin churches (churches using the Latin service), of which there are not a dozen, will remain under the superintendence of the Vicar-Apostolic of Malabar.

General progress of the work—Favourable testimony of the late British Resident.

The progress in the Travancore Mission has been, during the last year, of a very marked and satisfactory character. The Missionaries are six European and eight native; they have all been enabled to remain at their work. During the year 1861 the number of native Christians in Travancore and Cochin rose from 6749 to 7919. New and successful efforts have been made to draw forth the contributions of the people for the support of the Gospel, and some remarkable converts of the highest caste have joined the Christian church.

The Mission has been greatly indebted to the Christian sympathy and wise counsels of the late British Resident in Travancore, F. N. Maltby, Esq., during his too brief term of office, of only two years. Amidst many important political measures and improvements introduced into Travancore by Mr. Maltby, the following incident, recorded by Mr. Andrews, of Pallam, will show the interest he took in the native Christians, even of the lowest class:—

One little incident I must not pass over. When our excellent Resident paid us a short visit last February, some scores of the slaves, including a few from the east, had occasion to come to me. Seeing the palankeen and peons coming, they took to flight, but, after a time, mustered up courage to come near. Mr. Maltby, on hearing who they were, requested me to call them close, and on learning what would be most acceptable to them, gave such as could read either a Prayer-book or a Bible, to their great joy. The moral effect of this condescension, on the high-caste natives, has been very great.

Upon his return to England Mr. Maltby visited the Committee, and bore testimony to the efficiency and Christian fidelity of the Missionaries, nearly all of whom he had seen at work in their respective stations.

Reports of the different Districts.

Mr. Peet has charge of the Mavelikara district. He thus reports the state of ten congregations under his superintendence:—

With one exception I am well satisfied, and deeply thankful for the grace bestowed upon them. The whole Mission is under my active supervision; and I am most happy to be enabled to testify to the rightheartedness and zeal of both my colleagues, our native clergymen: they go two Sundays every month to out-stations, to preach and adjust differences, and, altogether, labour with satisfactory and exemplary diligence. As to our people, from famine, cholera, and similar distressing visitations, they have suffered much in deaths and straitened circumstances, but have kept firm to their Christian integrity, and have evinced their attachment by subscribing for Missionary purposes a sum of 477 rupees; more than half of which was collected at their several prayer-meetings. This, taken in connexion with the fact that every heathen that has joined us has had to suffer a good deal of pecuniary deprivation, affords evidence of life and healthy feeling among the people.

Mr. Peet has been greatly cheered by the remarkable conversion of a Brahmin family consisting of ten persons—a father, mother, three grown-up sons, a mother-in-law, and the wife of one of the sons, and three younger sons. They are a family of superior intellectual attainments, especially the mother, and very highly esteemed throughout their neighbourhood. The father received his first impressions of divine truth from the conversation of Syrian Christians, and from portions of the Scripture and Pilgrim's Progress which they put into his hands. The mother, from her childhood, had suspicions of the truth of the Brahminical religion: but neither spoke to the others upon the subject, for some time, till, at length, the husband read to his wife some scriptural stories; upon which she exclaimed, "That is the truth I have been seeking." The enlightenment of their own minds and of their sons' was thus carried on by the Holy Spirit independently of Missionary agency, till at length they were visited by a native teacher, and introduced to the Missionary, who found them fully prepared for baptism, and admitted them into the church of Christ. They have since stood firm under the severe tests of persecution and the loss of worldly wealth.

One of the native ministers thus speaks of the event:—

While several countries have been distinguished lately by the gift of the Holy Spirit, Travancore has not been excepted. As the blessed Spirit descended upon a heathen family in Cæsarea, in the apostolic days, so it has here descended invisibly, and converted a whole Brahmin family, who lived in a benighted locality, in a respectable house which a wealthy Sudra built, and presented it and the lands attached to it to this family as a donation and propitiation for his sins. The news of their baptism has rung through the length and breadth of Travancore. Time will reveal its effects. Such an event, with all its circumstances, has no parallel in the history of the Travancore Mission.

Mr. Hawksworth has charge of the Tiruwella district, and reports of the work:—

The Lord's work has, I humbly hope, decidedly progressed. The congregations have steadily increased in my district, chiefly among the slave or Pilaree class. The complete renunciation of heathenism and every form of superstition by these converts, the total reformation of their lives, and their continued consistency, are in some instances beginning to tell on the classes immediately above them, and indeed upon some much higher in the social scale, who have felt and acknowledged the influence of this living Christianity. Lately, when visiting one of the schools, a considerable number of these long-despised people gathered round me, I was surprised to see a wealthy high-caste agriculturist come in, and stand amongst the men, whom I should have expected that he, being a heathen, would have regarded as utterly polluting. We were soon engaged in conversation: many subjects were touched upon, and, amongst others, the work of instruction amongst these poor people. He was told that our object was to inculcate the fear of God, and effect an entire reformation, so as to make these men humble, obedient, honest, and respectable; not proud disobedient, and idle, as the farmers and others had greatly feared, who had therefore opposed us for a while. The Nair quietly pointed to one of the converts, and said, "This man is a proof of what the teaching has effected." He was requested to state what he knew of the convert. His brief reply ran thus—"This man was a wretch, and the terror of all who knew him, and now he is a gentleman." What a testimony to the grace of God. It seemed as if the very words of Scripture were literally wrought out before my eyes, "He raiseth up the poor out of the dust, and lifteth up the beggar from the dunghill, to set them among princes, and to make them inherit the throne of glory." (1 Sam. ii. 8). The opportunity was seized to explain the nature of the Gospel, and its fruits. Next day this wealthy Nair received a copy of the Gospel from the hand of the man in whom its transforming power has thus been shown."

During Mr. Baker's absence from India, the Mundakayam district, which comprises the Hill Arrians, was placed under the superintendence of Mr. Oxley an European Catechist, and the native minister, the Rev. Jacob Chandy, with the occasional visits of the Rev. R. Collins. Mr. Oxley's health compelled him to leave Travancore in the early part of the year. Mr. Chandy reports the number of converts to be 939 souls, settled in six villages, of whom only 95 have not yet been admitted to baptism: the communicants are 289: there are 5 scripture readers and 5 schoolmasters employed: during the last year there has been an increase of nearly 200 converts, and a perceptible progress in religious knowledge and consistent Christian behaviour amongst the congregations.

Mr. Andrews has charge of the Pallam district, and superintends that of Allepie, at which the native minister, the Rev.

Oomen Mamen resides. During the early part of the year Mr. Andrews suffered much from fever; but he adds, "if trials have abounded, consolations have also much more abounded. No previous half year has been so abundant in fruit." His chief encouragement has been derived from the progress of the work among the slaves. He thus speaks of the baptism of a large number of adults at North Pallam:—

At Pallam (north) the prayer-house has been thronged. In a former report I traced this deeply-interesting work of the Spirit amongst those who were once so callous. I have now to add that 79, nearly all adults, have been admitted into the visible church during the past month. Although, from weakness, I was unable to go to them, I found that they could come to me thrice a week, thus giving me an opportunity for a careful examination of them. I was quite astonished as I went deeper into the character of the work that had been carried on in their hearts. I remarked that their realization of the necessity for continual dependence on the Holy Spirit, and a great desire and carefulness to avoid sin in any shape, formed a very prominent feature in the work. They all had a very clear idea of the necessity and of the intensity of Christ's sufferings, and of a very simple filial trust in God as their loving Father. Little more than a year ago these same people had the very lowest ideas of the distinction between right and wrong: now they exceed in spiritual apprehension many of the old members of the congregation here. All the candidates have learnt the Lord's Prayer, Creed, and Ten Commandments, and the explantion of them as contained in the Church Catechism. Many have learnt to read very fairly, and all will, I hope in time, be able to do so. They buy all the books they wish for, and have shown in other ways a most hopeful independence.

In his annual letter at the close of the year Mr. Andrews laments the cold and unfruitful state of many of the older congregations, whom he has endeavoured to rouse to a sense of their Christian responsibilities by the example of the converted slaves. He writes:—

Already this new spirit has begun to pervade and influence the old work. I can point to the new congregations as examples sufficient to shame certain converts of long standing, as well as to show what fruits real Christianity ever brings forth. Three new churches have thus been formed, frail and wretched as yet, as regards the outward building, but containing all the elements of union, power, and ultimately of entire self-support. At present they give half of the pay of their teacher, chosen from amongst themselves, a thing unknown among the long-established congregations. Of the poor eastern slaves a few have been received to baptism. Their course has been, as expected, hard and fiery indeed, considering the great power and despotic character of their cruel Nair masters, whose will for ages has been implicitly obeyed, whose influence has been too great for the weak arm of the law to reach them, and whose contempt for the poor leaf-clad slave can hardly be understood by an European,—regarding them as very dogs, literally "the off-scouring of all things."

Education.

Cambridge Nicholson Vernacular Institution at Cottayam.

The Institution was commenced in August 1859, with funds contributed by the friends of the clergyman whose name it bears, who were desirious of testifying to the value of the services rendered by him as the Society's Association Secretary in the University of Cambridge. Since that time it has been gradually developing, and promises to be of great service, under the Divine blessing, in preparing duly-qualified schoolmasters and catechists for the Malayalim Mission. The number of students is twenty-seven. Attached to it is a Model School of sixty children. The whole is under the charge of the Rev. J. Hawksworth.

An annual examination took place in August 1861, of which the following report has been furnished by the veteran Missionary, of forty-three years' experience in Travancore, the Rev. Henry Baker.

Having been present at the examination, during the past week, of the students in the Institution under your charge, I have much pleasure in expressing to you the satisfaction I felt at the progress which has already been made in preparing them for the important work to which I trust, in due time, God will call them.

The first class passed well in the four first centuries of church history, especially when it is considered they have no book on the subject in the native language. Their answers were readily and correctly given to all the questions put to them. The same may be said of their examination in the history of India. They appeared to have mastered well a considerable portion of the book now used in the Government schools. The knowledge acquired on this subject will be of essential use to them hereafter. The examination of the whole assembled classes on various subjects connected with natural philosophy, geography, general and Scripture history, showed that much trouble had been taken with them, and that with very favourable results.

Their knowledge of Scripture showed that their principal attention had been directed to its acquirement, which is as it ought to be.

Cottayam College.

The Cottayam College remains under the superintendence of the Rev. R. Collins. At the examination in September 1861, there were fifty-three scholars, boarders, in the college, of the ages of from eleven to twenty years. There is also a school attached to the college containing eighty-five pupils, of whom forty are also boarders. In the college the instruction is given in the English language, in the school in the Malayalim. The Theological class has been instructed in Bible History, Church History, the XXXIX Articles of the Church of England, extracts from Pearson on the Creed, a portion of Paley's Evidences, and part of St. Matthew's Gospel in the Greek.

The following report of the examination by Mr. Peet, who took part in it, is peculiarly valuable, as coming from one who has had the experience of nearly thirty years in the Mission:—

Having been requested to take part last month in the annual examination of the youths educated in the Church Mission College at Cottayam, I am happy to be able to bear testimony to the general and decided improvement in all the departments that came under my more immediate inspection. I have long known that Institution, and sympathized in its manifold changes, trials, and successes; and, not having been present at its more recent annual examinations, am the better fitted to know and speak of its actual progress since the period of my former examination. My impression will be best understood by friends who have carefully watched the progress of education, and tested the qualifications of its various teachers in this Presidency, by a reference to the labours of a much-honoured and deservedly-esteemed teacher, now with Christ, John Anderson. I have witnessed the examination of Mr. Anderson's youths, which proved him to have been great, and, in his own line, unapproachable by every-day men; but I left our college examination with the belief that John Anderson would have felt justly gratified if he could have numbered our college youths among the many who had the benefit of his own judicious, able, and zealous instructions.

There are more than one hundred vernacular schools in the district, with 2700 scholars.

The printing press has been kept at work throughout the year, upon useful and religious works for publication and sale.

COCHIN.

The Rev. C. Collins, who has been appointed British Chaplain at Cochin, takes a zealous and friendly interest in the Mission work at this station, which is carried on by the native minister, the Rev. G. Curian. The native Christians number 384, which is an increase of forty upon the last year. There are three small schools in Cochin, and one at a Syrian village twelve miles distant. One scripture reader and two schoolmasters are employed in the work of instruction. There is also a native colporteur employed by the Bible Society, under the superintendence of Mr. Curian, who is actively engaged in circulating the Scriptures.

TRICHOOR AND KUNNANKULAM.

The Rev. Messrs. Beüttler and Wilkinson have remained throughout the year in charge of these districts, and report favourably of the progress of the Mission, though no striking events have occurred. Mr. Beüttler writes:—

With gratitude I would state that the conduct of the congregation has, on the whole, been satisfactory, and in some respects improving. I can safely say that I have had less trouble and more joy in my work than any previous year.

The Gospel has been made known in various ways from Chowghaut, near the seashore, to Chélakarry in the Eastern Ghauts. Though comparatively few heathen are coming over to us, an underground work is going on which will sooner or later spring up into light. I know many families who have given up all outward connexion with heathenism, and when asked why they do not profess Christianity openly, their reply is, "We are only waiting till more people have joined your church." The Lord must make them ready; his Spirit must come and break the fetters with which they are tied: the Missionary, with all his plans and schemes, must go more to the background, and all results and all the glory be ascribed to Him. In proportion as we decrease will He increase.

Constancy of the native Christians under trying circumstances.

Mr. Beüttler gives the following proof of the constancy of the native converts under the visitation of a fatal epidemic, which the natives generally regard with superstitious dread, and strive to counteract by various charms and idolatrous ceremonies. In his report for the Kunnankulam district, for the half-year ending June 30, 1861, he writes:—

It is with heartfelt gratitude to Almighty God that I can report the departure of that dire disease—small pox—from amongst us. For nine months it made its ravages throughout the district. Throughout this severe trial our people have walked consistently, as far as the outward appearance went. There were no cases of backsliding, no taking refuge in heathenish or Syrian superstitions, neither has there been any outburst of those grosser sins which are so often found in young and mixed congregations.

During the half-year eleven souls were received into the church by baptism, seven of which were from heathenism. Taking the deaths during the same time into account, and also that several families left, to settle at other Missions, there is a slight falling-off in the strength of the congregation. The same is the case with the schoolchildren on my list. These, however, are now recovering their former strength, and by the end of next quarter will be in full working order again. It is somewhat remarkable that all the adults that died were converts, baptized by me two or three years ago. The last victim was a lad of twenty years of age, who had only been baptized six months. I would here particularly mention, that throughout the prevalence of small-pox an old reader rendered me much assistance. With great devotion and much perseverance he daily visited the sick and dying, and directed them to that Physician who alone can heal all the wounds of body and soul.

V. Telugu Mission.

The Mission comprises three stations, viz. 1. Masulipatam, 1841; 2. Ellore, 1854; 3. Bezwara, 1858.

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. Robert Turlington Noble, B.A., 1841.
Rev. John Edmund Sharkey (m) } Educated in India.
Rev. Thomas Young Darling (m) }
Rev. Charles Tanner (m), 1857.
Rev. F. W. Nassau Alexander, B.A., 1857.
Rev. Walter J. Edmonds (m), 1860.
Rev. William Ellington (m), 1860.
Rev. John Sharp, B.A., 1861.
Mr. Francis Goodall, 1856, Trained Schoolmaster.

MASULIPATAM.

The prominent feature of the Society's operations in Masulipatam is the Anglo-vernacular school, which has been for more than twenty years under the able superintendence of the Rev. R. T. Noble, and has long maintained its position as one of the most successful educational establishments in South India. The number of pupils at the close of the year was 218. Mr. Noble has been assisted by an English schoolmaster, Mr. F. Goodall; and the Committee have had the satisfaction of associating with Mr. Noble this year the Rev. J. Sharp, whose interest in Masulipatam had been cherished while he was a boy at Rugby school, as well as afterwards at Oxford, by its association with the name of Henry Fox.

The native-Christian congregation at Masulipatam, and the Missionary operations throughout the district, are under the charge of the Rev. J. E. Sharkey. No circumstances of special interest have been reported during the year under review.

There are eight vernacular schools in connexion with the station, containing 167 children, boys and girls.

A female boarding school has also long been maintained by Mr. and Mrs. Sharkey, the expenses being defrayed by local funds: it contains fifty-nine girls. An annual examination took place Dec. 5, 1862, at which Col. M'Leod, H.M. 42nd Reg. N.I., presided, and, in his report of the examination, stated that he felt unable "to convey to others in writing the interest and satisfaction he felt himself on the occasion;" adding—

> I must here express my opinion of the suitableness of the subjects selected for study, viz. Bible, Bible history, geography, the simple rules of arithmetic, and singing. I think this is neither more, nor less, than should be taught to children of their humble station of life. The pleasing, modest, and, at the same time confiding demeanour of the elder girls, no one can sufficiently appreciate, except those who know the wretched, corrupt, and slavish state of existence of native females in general.

G. Thornhill, Esq., magistrate, who took part in the examination, wrote in the following terms to Mr. Sharkey:—

> I have much pleasure in recording the gratification I experienced on attending the public examination of your girls' school at the beginning of this month. The girls seemed, one and all, to have a good knowledge of the subjects in which they were examined: their singing seemed to me, as well as to others of the company, wonderfully correct and good; and, I may add, the general air of happiness and cheerfulness which was observable in all struck us very forcibly, and showed that they had found under your roof a happy home, as well as sound instruction both in religious and temporal matters.

Itineration.

Early in January Mr. Sharkey visited the Kolair Lake, about twenty-four miles north of Masulipatam, which covers an area of about twenty-two square miles, and contains numerous islands, somewhat densely peopled with fishermen. There is a vernacular school at a village on the east bank of the lake, called Prattipad. Mr. Sharkey represents the people as in a most degraded condition, but willing to receive instruction.

Mr. Sharkey visited the Koï country in June, and had many opportunities of preaching in Telugu to large numbers of the heathen. During the festival at Bhadrachalam, he writes:—

Crowds thronged to listen to us, who came from various and distant parts, and had perhaps never heard the Gospel before. We were indeed grieved that so many of both sexes had, in the ignorance and darkness of their hearts, come to pay their homage to a dumb and dead idol. Here was spiritual death in all its naked horror, but there was in it a life of wickedness which idolatry emphatically is. There is much truth in Swartz's observation. "St. Paul," he remarks, "enumerates idolatry among the works of the flesh; and corrupt nature does indeed derive support from it, in more ways than one. If it were only an error of the understanding, the greater number of the heathen would already have forsaken it, but being a work of the flesh, and Christianity requiring its crucifixion, they stop there. May Divine power rescue them from it, through Jesus Christ!"

ELLORE.

The Mission at Ellore is divided between the general Mission duties of the station under the Rev. F. N. Alexander, and a native-English school under the Rev. C. Tanner. The work is still in the earliest stage of Missions. The converts are between twenty and thirty, and the English school contains fifty-six boys. No late reports of the station have been received. During the greater part of the year Mr. Edmonds resided at Ellore, and assisted in giving Bible lessons to the elder boys.

BEZWARA.

The Bezwara station has been under the charge of the Rev. T. Y. Darling. It has three out-stations, and the whole number of converts exceeds 100. The last annual reports have not been forwarded.

There is an Anglo-vernacular school containing from forty to fifty boys. A public examination took place at the close of the year, at which Mr. Noble presided. Most of the English residents were present, "in whose opinion, as well as in that of the more experienced persons present, the results were highly satisfactory."

KOÏ MISSION.

Mr. Sharkey visited the Koï country in the month of June 1861. He travelled from Ellore, for about 100 miles in a northerly direction, to the banks of the Godavery at Bhadrachalam, the seat of a famous superstition, and an annual festival of great resort, which was held at the time of the Missionary's visit. He afterwards visited Capt. Haig, the resident Engineer and the zealous promoter of the Koï Mission, at Dumagudiem, sixteen miles further north. Respecting the Koï people, Mr. Sharkey reports:—

On our way to Bhadrachalam we visited a Koï village at Jaggavaram, in the very heart of the jungle. The countenances of the people were very peculiar, rough, irregular, and wild. They believe in the existence of a Supreme Being, but they worship an idol to propitiate the wild beasts of the forest. They are exceedingly ignorant and superstitious. We were told that the Koïs in general erected their cottages in unfrequented parts of the jungle, where they live intermixed as it were with the brute creation. We saw large numbers of the Koïs at the festival of Bhadrachalam, and I had also the pleasure of conversing with some whose villages lie in the very heart of the Koï country near Bustar. They knew little or nothing of Telugu. Their countenances were very repulsive, and they looked more like a set of brigands than a company of honest citizens.

I have no doubt that the Koï language in its purity is spoken without the help of Telugu near Bustar and its neighbourhood. The Koïs seem to be a semi-barbarous people, ignorant and superstitious to the last degree. Their frequent intercourse with the people of our district, of whom there are now hundreds at Dumagudiem, affords but little encouragement, I think, to Missionary enterprise; and I should say there is more hope of success in the interior of the Koï district than in those parts which border on the Telugu country.

The history of this people is a mystery. Are they an aboriginal nation distinct from the Hindus? What is the extent of their country? What are their numbers, and what their language? The Gonds have separated themselves into a great variety of classes: to which of them do the Koïs belong, or are they altogether a separate people?

At the close of the year 1861, Mr. and Mrs. Edmonds removed to Dumagudiem, where they found a bungalow ready to receive them, erected and prepared by the kind care of Captain Haig. Mr. Edmonds wrote, a fortnight after his arrival, to say that he was much encouraged by finding a native in a very lucrative and influential position, who had already embraced Christianity through his intercourse with Capt. Haig. This convert had collected together a small body of inquirers, and had built a shed for assembling them for Christian instruction. "I think," writes Mr. Edmonds, "that we should very much rejoice that there is a little church here already which will, I believe, increase." The number of native Christians was fourteen, of whom eight were baptized. Mr. Edmonds notices that the Telugu language is almost as essential as the Koï language, even for work amongst that tribe. The Mission station is within fifty yards of a Koï village. The Missionary received a warm welcome from the Christian officers connected with the public works in the Godavery. "Whatever the trials of the Mission may be," he writes, "want of sympathy will not be amongst the number."

The station is at present one of peculiar interest, from the fact that one thousand coolies from all parts of the Telugu country are for the present congregated near the station, and accessible to the labours of the Missionary.

Mr. Ellington, who is designated to this Mission, is obliged to remain for the present at Ellore, on account of the illness of his wife.

CEYLON MISSION.

(Commenced 1817.)

Division of Mission—I. Colombo. II. Baddagama. III. Kandy. IV. Jaffna.

I. Colombo.

Cotta commenced, 1822; Colombo, 1852.

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. Isaiah Wood (m) 1847: at home.
Rev. Christopher Cyprien Fenn, M.A., (m) 1851.
Rev. John Ireland Jones, B.A., 1857.
Rev. Josiah Herbert Clowes (m), 1861.
Rev. William Edward Rowlands, B.A., 1861.
Mr. Stephen Coles (m) 1860.

COLOMBO DISTRICT.

The district of Colombo has suffered during the last year by its loss of experienced labourers. The post in Colombo, left vacant by the death of Mr. Whitley, could not be filled till the close of the year; and the district was therefore under the care of Mr. Fenn. Early in the year Mr. Wood was obliged to return to England, and to resign the superintendence of the Cotta district. To supply his place, Mr. Jones removed from Kandy.

The Rev. C. C. Fenn makes these important general remarks upon the indirect Missionary influences which are in operation in Ceylon:—

The reports of this station do not, perhaps, indicate any very marked progress from year to year. Notwithstanding this, very great changes are really proceeding around us, and changes are, to a considerable extent, affected and even effected by Missionary labours. There is a powerful, though very gradual, Anglicizing, and, to a certain extent, Christianizing process going forward. To illustrate it, from a desire to imitate the English the Singhalese Modliars of Colombo are, aided by a grant of 1500*l.* from Government, spending about 2000*l.* of their own money in building a Protestant church, which will be one of the most ornamental buildings in the town. This Anglicizing and Christianizing process, Missionary efforts tend not so much to accelerate as to purify. Our duty is to hold up the standard, and proclaim the necessity of true and vital godliness. I believe there has also been a religious revival during the last six or seven years, of a higher and purer kind, among the burghers and European descendants. Certain it is that the number of attendants at public worship and of communicants among the European descendants is much greater than it used to be. Thus God carries on his own designs in his own way, often without our instrumentality. Still it is our duty and privilege to pray, "Prosper thou the work of our hands upon us, O prosper thou our handiwork." And this prayer will, in some way or other, be certainly heard.

The charge of the Mission church at Colombo, and the superintendence of the Mission connected with it, were undertaken during six months by Mr. Fenn, who charged himself with these labours in addition to his superintendence of the Cotta institution, and the district attached to that post. The Rev. George Parsons, on his return from Europe, had the charge, for a short period before he proceeded to Baddagama. The Rev. W. E. Rowlands was appointed to Colombo by the Parent Committee, and arrived there towards the close of the year. It is hoped that vigorous efforts will be again made to sustain the Mission in Slave Island, and among the Tamil population, and to cultivate the Missionary spirit in the congregation worshipping at the Mission church.

COTTA DISTRICT.

Missionary operations in the Cotta district have been somewhat disorganized, in consequence of the failure of health, and subsequent departure for England, of Mr. Wood; except in the Talangama sub-division, under the care of the native Missionary, Mr. Jayesinghe. It was necessary, therefore, to supply the place of Mr. Wood by a Missionary of some experience, acquainted with the language, and of sufficient health to stand the fatigue and exposure incident to the supervision of so large a district. Mr. Jones therefore removed from the itinerating district near Kandy, on which he had just entered with hopeful prospects of enccuragement.

Advantage was taken of Mr. Jones's experience in education to commence a plan for training native teachers. He formed a class of "Preparandi" students to reside at Cotta, whose education will be exclusively carried on through the medium of the Singhalese language, and whose studies will be directed to the special object of fitting them for the duties of preaching the Gospel to their countrymen. Mr. Jones gives, at the close of the year, the following review of his labours in this district:—

So far as I can learn, there has not been any marked change in the district during the year. The reductions rendered necessary by the Parent Committee's financial difficulties led to the closing of several schools; but my impression is that the so doing is an advantage rather than otherwise. The schools and congregations of the district seem to me so close together that concentration is very desirable. Fewer, and more efficient schools, would, I believe, have nearly as many pupils as there are at present; and I think a similar remark would apply to the congregations.

We have at present seven young men as students, our funds not allowing a larger number than eight. So far I have fair reason to be satisfied with them. May I ask your especial prayers for them, and for me, that I may have grace and wisdom, to train and teach them rightly. I feel much depends upon them. A Preparandi Institution is a thing the want of which has long been felt. May God make it a rich blessing now. We have still a great want—a Training Institution for schoolmasters: it is exceedingly difficult to find men at all qualified to conduct schools, particularly vernacular schools, and we can hardly look for such until an Institution is formed for their instruction.

Education—Cotta Institution.

The various changes in the Ceylon Mission have affected this branch of the work, by obliging Mr. Fenn, the Principal, to reside at Colombo, and to devote only one or two days in the week to the Cotta Institution. This has naturally caused a falling off in the upper classes, which were more immediately under the teaching of the Principal. The local report mentions as another cause of the falling-off in numbers of these classes, "the very flourishing condition of the Government Academy in Colombo, now called Queen's College, and the very high reputation which it deservedly enjoys under the conduct of its pious and able Principal, the Rev. B. Boake."

The education given in the Institution is quite as high as it has ever been. The subjects studied by the first class during the last term have been, the Epistle to the Hebrews, Lectures on the Articles of the Church of England, Virgil's Æneid, Lib. iv., Euclid, Algebra, Practical Geometry, Perspective, History, &c. A first-rate Pundit is also employed for those students who wish to study the Singhalese classics. The number of students is 140, of which forty are boarders. The design of the institution is to impart a superior general English education on Christian principles to the children of the wealthier natives. Mr. Fenn bears this high testimony to the character of his assistant, Mr. Coles, a trained schoolmaster from Highbury College:—

Mr. Coles is fully competent for his post, abundant in Missionary zeal, and strenuous in aiming directly at the genuine conversion and spiritual edification of those placed under his care. May his earnest prayers and labours be graciously owned by the great Head of the church. We both of us feel that all disappointments of any other kind would be amply compensated if we might but see more spiritual work in the hearts of the young people under our care. Two students, have left during the year, to take employment under the Society in other districts; and one heathen student has been baptized.

On Wednesday, the 18th Dec. 1861, the annual delivery of prizes took place at the Cotta Institution, the Hon. Mr. Justice Temple presiding. Some of the classes were examined in one or two subjects, and the drawings and maps of the students were exhibited for inspection. The performances of the pupils in these respects seemed to be generally regarded as thoroughly satisfactory. But what was especially gratifying to the European and native visitors was the very satisfactory way in which several simple English airs were gone through. Mr. Coles, the tutor, who has been the teacher in this branch, has thus furnished a practical disproof of the assertion that the Singhalese are incapable of music.

II. Baddagama.

Baddagama commenced, 1819; Bentotte, 1861.

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. George Parsons (m) 1849.

The work in this district comprises, first, the pastoral charge of the village of Baddagama, which is situated in the southern extremity of the island, and Missionary labours among the surrounding heathen; and, secondly, itinerating work among the inhabitants of the sea-coast villages between Point de Galle and Colombo. For nearly six years the only resident labourer has been the native minister, the Rev. Abraham Goonesekera, stationed at Baddagama. Mr. Parsons has now returned to take the superintendence of the district; and he bears this honourable testimony to the labours of his native brother:—

I thank God that the work of his servants at Baddagama has been so far blessed by Him, that it appears to have vitality sufficient to continue without the constant watching of a European. I believe the state of the congregation of Baddagama church is as promising now as it was six years ago. From the time I have known it, it has always been small, but the members generally are, in outward conduct at least, satisfactory Christians. The number of adult Christians enrolled as members of Baddagama church is 53, of whom 48 are regular communicants. The average attendance at divine service throughout the year has been 31 adults and 72 children. This is, I think, as satisfactory as the attendance has been for the last twelve years, and, if so, it shows that the work at that station can at least be kept up by a native clergyman.

A congregation of fifty-three adults is indeed but a small result after forty years unremitted labour. In the villages there are about 200 more who attend cottage lectures. One hindrance to the spread of Christianity amongst the people has doubtless been the mistake of providing religious instruction for them and for their children at the cost of the Society, and giving them also many pecuniary advantages. This system, in every Mission, fosters a weakly and torpid Christianity. Here, as well as elsewhere, the system is now happily abandoned. Mr. Parsons writes:—

At every service a small collection is made, although generally the people are very poor. The result of the collections at Baddagama amounts to 2*l.* 16*s.* 1*d.*, in addition to a similar sum contributed to the Pastoral-Endowment Fund, a few shillings contributed to the Tract and School-book Society, and a portion of the expenses of the repairs of Baddagama church. The aggregate of these contributions, though small, is by no means discouraging, but rather a hopeful sign, when we consider the great difficulties in the way of raising native subscriptions, arising from poverty, false impressions of the wealth of Europeans, and the habit of having, until very recently, every thing gratis. That they must pay for the support of Christianity themselves is a lesson the Singhalese everywhere are slow to learn.

Mr. Parsons devotes his chief attention to the sea-coast villages, paying only occasional visits to Baddagama: he writes:—

My plan of operations, then, at present, is simply to make Bentotte, Balipitty, Modera, Hikkoduwa, and Kittolampity, the centres, where a staff of Christian teachers reside, and whence they may work out into the surrounding country, and thus carry the Gospel into the homes of the people. They preach to individuals, to families, and to any number of people they meet with. I advise them to declare the truths of Christianity, and when objections are brought forward, to meet them with as much wisdom as they can, otherwise to avoid mere controversy as generally unprofitable. I frequently go out with them, both for the purpose of engaging in the work myself, and to instruct and encourage my native helpers in the work.

Mr. Parsons gives an encouraging account of the improved character of the native schoolmasters:—

The present staff of village schoolmasters is far superior in attainments and mental activity to our former staff. And what is of great importance, they are all well acquainted with the truths of Christianity, and are, at least outwardly, conforming their life to the truth. Many of them give me so much promise of being hereafter more usefully employed in Mission work, that I have been induced to shorten the school hours, and give each a certain amount of visiting, scripture reading, tract distribution, &c., to do. They have entered very heartily into the work, and I have every reason to hope it will be a blessing to themselves and to others, and be the means of raising a staff of Christian teachers for the adult heathen around. One difficulty, however, has to be met: I find much patient labour necessary to convince these young men that it is against the citadel of the heart, rather than the head, that their attacks are to be directed. They are required to keep journals of all visits, conversations, and readings.

Mr. Goonesekera, in his annual letter, gives a touching notice of the death of his mother, an aged Christian:—

Every time I visited her during her illness her faith in Jesus Christ was found clear and strong. She loved the Saviour most, and often prayed for pardon and salvation. When I consider the happy state of mind wherein she, her husband and daughter, departed this life, I cannot help feeling grateful to God and the Ceylon Church Mission, for the latter was instrumental in their conversion, and the former was gracious in keeping them in true faith to the end of their pilgrimage.

Mr. Parsons notices:—

Strenuous endeavours have of late been made to fortify Buddhism, by establishing village heathen councils and heathen schools, by exacting heavier contributions of labour and money than heretofore, and by binding together to obey its precepts, and to punish delinquents. But these movements, though they retard our present apparent success, are, I hope, rather in favour of ultimate and real progress, when it shall please God to pour out his Spirit, and to remove the covering spread over their faces. The principles of self-support and self-government, so necessary to the vitality of a Christian church, and so deficient among our Christians at present, are thus being fostered. The Buddhist theories taught in their assemblies will be met with counter instruction; and though the result will be, perhaps, nothing beyond mere cavilling at first, yet we hope the sluggish, dark, and captive mind of the Singhalese will at length begin to feel its power, and struggle for freedom.

III. Kandy.

Kandy commenced, 1818; Tamil Cooly Mission, 1855; Itinerating Mission in Kandian Districts, 1858.

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. William Oakley (m) 1835.
Rev. Septimus Hobbs (m), to South India, 1842; to Ceylon, 1855.
Rev. Edward Thomas Higgens (m) 1851.
Rev. Robert Burchell Tonge, B.A. (m), 1858.
Mr. Henry John Barton (m), 1853.

The Rev. W. Oakley has charge of the native congregation and Mission in Kandy; the Rev. S. Hobbs superintends the Tamil Cooly Mission; and the Rev. E. Higgens conducts the Itinerating Mission in the Kandian districts.

KANDY.

Mr. Oakley states, in his annual report October 1861, that he ministers to three regular congregations on the Sunday, comprising about 300 native Christians. He writes:—

My work, as in former years, has been chiefly among those who are nominally Christians—those whose parents and ancestors were Christians, and who, therefore, for the most part, were baptized in their infancy.

In the midst of many disappointments and discouragements we are cheered with the hope that a few of our people have embraced the Gospel with the heart and affections, and that they will be kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation.

The catechists—one of whom lives in the town, the other at Ratmewela—are actively and usefully employed in visiting and examining the schools, visiting in the town from house to house, instructing candidates for baptism and the Lord's Supper, and assisting in conducting the services on the Sunday.

The total subscriptions which have been raised at this station amount to 108*l*. One of the itinerating catechists in Mr. Higgens' district has been entirely supported, at an expense of 30*l*. by the Kandy congregation. In the continued liberality with which the members of my congregation meet any demands made upon them for objects connected with the Mission I feel much encouraged.

The schools of the district comprise about 300 children.

THE TAMIL COOLY MISSION.

The Rev. Septimus Hobbs has continued to conduct the Mission to the Tamil coolies who work upon the coffee estates near Kandy. In a report published in the early part of 1861 he states:—

The number of persons who have, with apparent earnestness, expressed a desire for further instruction, has been and is very great. The difficulty of communicating to them the course of Christian instruction which is desirable, is apparent, seeing that there are only six catechists to visit 500 estates, and preach to upwards of 100,000 people, scattered over a mountainous country upwards of 3000 square miles in extent. The difficulty is enhanced by the migrations of the people, because many of the new inquirers return to their country before the catechist can pay them a second visit. The total number of Tamil Christians on the estates in 1856 was 381; in 1860 they were found to be 777, rather more than double. But the numbers afford little, if any, criterion of the effects of this Mission, in consequence of the continual ebb and flow of the tide of immigration.

At the close of the year 1861 the number of Christians amounted to 1071, and the number of communicants to 118.

In the town of Kandy a congregation is formed, the average of attendance of which is about sixty or seventy.

The congregation in the Kalabokka Valley have increased in number to about two hundred, the Christian conductors having returned and brought many other Christians with them. The number of catechists being so small, and both they and the superintendent of the Mission having suffered so much from ill health, it has been found impossible to pay the amount of attention to these congregations which their importance required, but the want has in some good degree been supplied by the gratuitous services of Christian conductors.

A congregation has also been formed in the Knuckles Proper, which would amount to upwards of fifty if they were sufficiently near to be brought together in one assembly. A Christian conductor in this locality has made considerable efforts to supply the place of a catechist.

The congregation at Pusillava has the advantage of being near a church and a resident catechist, connected with the Gospel Propagation Society. There are about ninety Tamil Christians in the surrounding estates, near enough to avail themselves of this advantage.

The rest of the Tamil Christians on the estates are widely scattered abroad; but in several other places also they meet together on the Lord's-day for prayer and reading of the Scriptures.

One interesting feature connected with these congregations is the Tamil Christian's Friend Society. It is supported by the Tamil Christians themselves. It is, however, a rule of that Society that the superintendent of the Cooly Mission for the time being shall always be the President of the Society. It was thought that the friends of the Mission would be pleased to hear of such a benevolent and truly-Christian movement amongst the Tamil congregations connected with it, and it is believed that they will be gratified to hear of its continuance and prosperity. The Tamil Committee have relieved every indigent Christian who had any claim upon their Society according to the rules, and several others to whom the rules would not have admitted a right, but yet did not restrict the (Tamil) Committee from giving as a matter of bounty. Also, on hearing of the distress arising from the famine in Northern India, at their next meeting they unanimously voted a grant of 4*l.* for the relief of the sufferers; in addition to which, collections and subscriptions were made in the Tamil congregations, to the amount of 3*l.* 15*s.* more; so that they had the pleasure of transmitting the sum of 7*l.* 15*s.* to the Famine Relief Fund in Calcutta. They held their second annual meeting on the 25th December 1860, having chosen Christmas-day because they could anticipate a larger attendance than at any other season. There was a good number present, and the speeches made on the occasion were very interesting. They still have a balance of about 30*l.* in their treasury

The catechists are courteously received by all classes of the people. From the European gentlemen residing on the estates they receive unvarying kindness. The conductors, canganies, and coolies continue to be well affected towards the catechists, although they know, and by this time thoroughly understand, what their object and desire is; for there is nothing which wins the respect of the Tamil people more than a courteous and candid straightforwardness. The genuine feeling of the Tamil people towards the catechists is strikingly illustrated in a department of the Mission, small indeed, compared with the rest, but of growing importance and great interest, namely, the native estates in the neighbourhood of the town of Kandy. Within a circuit of about three miles round the town of Kandy, there are now as many as sixty small estates owned by natives, Singhalese, and Tamils, all employing Tamil coolies, varying from seven or eight to fifty in number. As there are no Europeans connected with these miniature estates, it cannot be supposed that the coolies think to please masters by listening to the catechists, and yet some of the most interesting incidents which have transpired during the year have been on these native estates. The catechists are welcomed in almost all of them: the tracts are received and read with avidity, and, in several instances, conviction of the truth has been the result.

In the journal of Mr. Hobbs the following interesting notice of baptism occurs:—

Sunday, June 30*th*, 1861—Baptized six adults and an infant. It is an interesting fact that the above six persons have been instructed, not by a catechist or Mission agent, but by a Christian cooly on the estate; their teacher being also a man who first heard the Gospel on a coffee estate in Ceylon, and was baptized by Mr. Schrader at Pusillava. There are many other candidates for baptism; and it is remarkable that amongst those who profess a conviction of the truth and a wish to be baptized, there are three Mohammedans (besides the one at Colombo, connected with the Slave-Island station), in all, four Mohammedans. It is indeed remarkable that in this great dearth of human agency the arm of God seems to be revealed in a peculiar degree. It is, however, a blessing on human agency which has been exercised, and a call, I believe, to increasing effort. Many of the new converts require instruction, and live at great distances, some ninety or a hundred miles from Kandy. Native catechists are urgently required, and I hope to be in Tinnevelly within about a fortnight from the present time, seeking suitable agents; and trust that it may be my privilege to return with a good supply. Truly "the Lord hath done great things for us already, whereof we rejoice." To Him be all the praise! May He be pleased to shower down blessings on this and every other Mission, for His dear Son's sake!"

In the course of the autumn Mr. Hobbs visited Tinnevelly, with a view to engage additional catechists. His reception in his former field of labour was very gratifying. Some account of it has been given in the report of the Tinnevelly Mission. Mr. Hobbs was able to enlarge his number of catechists from six to nine, together with two readers and two schoolmasters. It requires some time, however, to train new agents to the peculiar work in Ceylon; so that, at the close of the year, owing to the long absence of Mr. Hobbs, and to the weakness of his health, as well as to the comparative inefficiency of the new agents, the Mission wore a less encouraging aspect than in the earlier part of the year, though, as already noticed, the number of native Christians had largely increased.

Mr. Hobbs' visit to Tinnevelly afforded proof of the beneficial re-action of the Mission in Ceylon upon the Mission in Tinnevelly.

One thing I must not omit, which is, that every one who has spoken with coolies who have been in Ceylon and returned to their villages, speaks of them as having gained very much Christian knowledge from the preaching of the catechists of the Cooly Mission, and as being very well affected towards them. Some have embraced the truth since their return to their country.

ITINERANT BRANCH IN THE KANDIAN DISTRICT.

The Rev. E. Higgens carries on the itinerant branch of the Mission. He was assisted during six months of the year by the Rev. Ireland Jones. Mr. Higgens reports:—

The itinerating work now extends over nearly the whole of the Kandian country, which is divided into districts, each of which is placed under the charge of a native chief or headman, called a Ratta Mahatmaya. The districts are subdivided into Korles, each Korle being under the care of a second-class headman, called a Korāle. The Korles again are subdivided into Wassams, each of which consists of one large or two or three small villages. Each Wassam is under the charge of a petty headman, called, in high-caste villages, a Vedane or Duraya. Taking advantage of this system of organization, our mode of operations from the commencement of the Mission has been to visit each Wassam throughout the whole of every district, or part of a district, taken up. By this plan of working a regular system of visiting has been kept up, and each separate Wassam throughout the whole extent of country at present occupied is visited as often as possible, either by the Missionary or by catechists.

The station at Hangurangkettia has been formed during the past year. The district in which it is situated has been visited in the course of my itinerating journeys for the last five years, and occasional services held at other times also in the place itself, for the benefit of native Christians from the low country residing in its neighbourhood. As those services were generally well attended by the resident native Christians, and as some of the Kandians were often present also, the place seemed to present a favourable opening for 'settled work.' A catechist of considerable experience was accordingly appointed to reside in the Hangurangkettia as the chief place, in order to hold regular services on the Lord's-day, carry on a boys' school, and preach as occasion offered to the surrounding heathen. The Korāle of the district, though a heathen, took great interest in the movement, and gave a residence for the catechist, and a verandah for the school to be held in at his own place. Hitherto the result of the undertaking has been most cheering, and a large amount of divine blessing seems to have rested upon it. There are now four services held every Lord's-day by the catechist, assisted by three well-educated native Christians, members of the congregations, who voluntarily gave him their help. The whole average attendance at the four services is about fifty, consisting partly of resident native Christians from the low country, and partly of heathen Kandians. The school contains forty-two children, with an average attendance of thirty; and the catechist, in addition to his school and Sunday duties, has had opportunities of preaching the Gospel to about 600 heathen from the surrounding districts.

The Rev. I. Jones thus writes respecting his six months' labour in the itinerating Mission:—

The six months I was permitted to spend in carrying the tidings of salvation to the Kandians was a season of much happiness, and, I trust, of usefulness also. It deepened my feeling of the need of the work, of its complete practicability, and of the probability of success attending it. Six months was too short a trial to enable one to speak with very much confidence, but I feel that the encouragements were such as to lead one to hope for great and real results, were the plan on which I was working regularly carried out. It gives opportunity to the people, by frequent hearing, to understand the blessed truths of the Gospel, and also of inquiring at the residence of the Missionary with regard to their doubts or fears.

Jaffna District.

Nellore commenced, 1818; Chundicully, 1842; Copay, 1847.

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. Robert Pargiter (m), 1843.
Rev. Charles Chapman M'Arthur (m), 1858; at home.

The Jaffna district was provided a few years ago with three European Missionaries. For the last few years only two have been labouring within it; and for the last year Mr. Pargiter has been alone in charge of the three stations, owing to the failure of the health of Mr. M'Arthur. Mr. Pargiter takes the following review of the work of the year:—

The routine of Mission work at the two stations during the year has been of the same character as in former years—Sabbath services, attention to schools, and direct preaching to the heathen. The former has engaged a considerable share of my attention, as I have been anxious to make the services of the house in God as acceptable as possible, and profitable to all sorts and conditions of men. There is not, however, very much of a definite character to report on. Both here and at Copay the congregations have kept up their numbers, principally Christians and the elder children of the schools. I trust there is in some a growing desire to become more intimately acquainted with the power and enjoyment of inward religion. It gave us all very much pleasure, after being deprived for four years of a sanctuary in which to worship God, to open the new church at Chundicully, so liberally erected by Government, on the 11th of December. It will seat about three hundred, including children.

The catechists, I am thankful to say, have diligently pursued their work; and although there has been no very marked success in the conversion of the heathen, yet a vast amount of Gospel truth has been made known. Evening meetings have been addressed, wherever an audience could be assembled, and visits from house to house have been made.

Our school operations have been carried on much as usual, although the reductions required to be made necessarily obliged me to close some of the schools, and to discontinue the Tamil Institution at Copay. We have, however, a sufficient number of teachers for the schools in operation and for those which may be opened for some time to come. The improved character of these vernacular schools has enabled me to introduce the system of fees into all of them some months ago, and into those at Nellore since September. And although the fee required is but small at present, it is a commencement in the right direction, and, if persevered in, will eventually assist us in our educational operations.

Since the charge of the Nellore Station has devolved on me, I have given as much time to it as possible. The girls' boarding school has given satisfaction, under the care and tuition of Mr. and Mrs Gomes. The boys' English day school, with which was connected a few boarders, has been discontinued.

The Committee are aware of the difficulties in which I have been placed with regard to the English seminary at Chundicully, in consequence of the School Commission withdrawing their grant for education. This grant has been continued to the Mission for seventeen years; but the Commission having, during the year, insisted on the introduction of new rules into every school receiving a grant, and such rules having a direct tendency to deprive the schools of their Missionary character, by confining religious instruction to the first hour, during which attendance was to be optional, and by restriction in respect to the books used and instruction given, the grant was sacrificed, rather than the principles of the Gospel.

Liberal grants-in-aid have been made by the Government of Ceylon for many years past to the schools of the various Missionary Societies, but hitherto no interference has been attempted with the teaching, or with the books employed, in such schools. Revised rules were, however, introduced, Feb. 5, 1861, to which Mr. Pargiter refers. The objectionable rules are the following:—

1. That only the first hour of tuition on each day shall be devoted to religious instruction.
2. That the religious instruction shall be confined to a simple explanation of the Bible, and the leading tenets of Christianity, and shall be conducted in such a spirit as to avoid, if possible, the exclusion of any scholar on grounds of denominational teaching.
3. That no books other than those approved by the Commission shall be used in the school.
4. That any child, whose parent or guardian shall object to his receiving religious instruction, shall be permitted to stand out of the class during the first hour.

These rules, upon their first promulgation, were somewhat more stringent; but in their present form the Committee regard them as quite incompatible with Mission schools, the main object of which is to give religious instruction to all the scholars; whereas, by the operation of the fourth rule, a whole school might decline to receive it. The restrictions in the first and third rules appear also to the Committee objectionable. The second rule might exclude the teaching of the Church Catechism.

The Committee have therefore approved of the conduct of the Missionaries in declining Government grants-in-aid so fettered. They regard the application of these restrictions to schools of the Church Missionary Society as an act of great injustice, after every encouragement had been given to the Society for many years, by free grants-in-aid, to enter largely upon the education of the native population.

MAURITIUS MISSION.

(Commenced in 1856.)

Division of the Mission: 1. Tamil-speaking Coolies; 2. Bengali or Hindustani-speaking Coolies.

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. Stephen Hobbs (m), to South India, 1839; to Mauritius, 1856.
Rev. Paul Ansorge (m), to Bengal, 1845; to Mauritius, 1857.

General view of the Mission.

THE following general view of the operations of the Society in the island is given by the Bishop of Mauritius, in a letter dated March 22, 1862:—

Times like those through which we are passing bring out in their true proportions the blessings of Missionary work. The mention of Mauritius in the last Annual Report scarcely gives an adequate idea of what is being done.

First of all, A church is being built up, to which Christians from India coming hither can join themselves, and into which converts from the Mohammedans and heathen can be gathered.

Secondly, Many of the youth of both sexes are being reclaimed from the darkness and vices of ignorance, and taught the truths of Christianity.

Thirdly, Itinerating visits are regularly made to many parts of the island, when the seed of life is sown with marked blessing.

Fourthly, The claims of the heathen on members of our church of English and French origin are steadily impressed; and have been responded to much more fully than the mere subscription list would appear to show; as appears from:—

(1.) The gift of the Government of a very valuable piece of ground for church and Mission premises in the eastern part of the town.

(2.) The gift, by Captain Ireland, of a piece of ground, school chapel, &c., and the maintenance of two schoolmasters—one Bengali and the other Tamil.

(3.) The gift, by Mr. Wiehe, of a very spacious and commodious building, and the offer to pay the salaries of schoolmasters as soon as they can be found by Mr. Ansorgé, as the estate is not very far from Powder Mills.

(4.) The erection of schools and payment of teachers on other estates at Mr. Hobbs' request; and then

(5.) The wonderful assistance given to the Society's work at Powder Mills.

All these are so many, as it seems to me, most encouraging indications of blessing on the work and response from the island.

Tamil Department.

The Rev. Stephen Hobbs has the superintendence of the Mission to the Tamil-speaking population. He reports at the close of the year:—

The Tamil department has received a valuable addition by the arrival, in August last, of a devoted and experienced catechist from Tinnevelly. The expenses of his journey to the Presidency, and his voyage from thence to Port Louis, were entirely defrayed by friends in India.

The consolidation of the Mission has been greatly promoted during the past year by the completion of the Mission buildings at Creve-Cœur, through the liberality of the Parent Committee; and also by the erection of a commodious residence for the catechist at Port Louis, through the kind assistance of P. A. Wiehe, Esq., by whom the money was advanced as required. The latter is built at Plaine Verte, upon the ground bestowed upon the Society by a grant from the Government, with a view to the erection of a church for the use of the Bengali congregation, which it is hoped may be constructed without much longer delay.

I have itinerated during the year to every district in the island, and to some parts twice and three times. From various causes my tours have, in almost every instance, been more hurried than I could have wished, and I have omitted many localities which I might otherwise have visited. Upon the whole, however, I think my journeyings last year have been more satisfactory than the year before, and I am sanguine in the expectation of further amendment in the year now commencing. My plan is to make a journey of at least a week in every month, and to choose, if possible, the week when the moon is bright, as that gives me time to remain in the camp in the evenings, besides rendering a long ride more easy. I continue to meet with the same kind welcome from the planters, and the same willing attention from the people. I have every reason to hope that the Lord does not permit my words to fall to the ground.

BENGALI AND HINDUSTANI DEPARTMENT.

Mr. Ansorgé writes respecting his work among the Indians from North India during the year 1861:—

The number of native Christians, which was last year 201, has, under God's grace, increased to 236. I admitted by baptism into the visible church 25 adults besides children. All the Christians are independent: none of them are a burden to the Mission in a pecuniary point of view. But year by year there is a growing difficulty in giving them sufficient Christian instruction: they are all scattered amongst the estates and at such distances as to make it very difficult to trace them. On special occasions 60 or 70 Christians have assembled for every prayer-meeting in St. Louis, who come from various parts of the town or neighbourhood, and also from the country.

The work amongst the orphans at the Government Asylum goes on very steadily. There is in general a desire felt among the children to learn and understand God's holy word, and the Spirit of the Lord is certainly working upon some of them. They are all brought up to work at trades.

I have made several preaching excursions into various districts of the Island. I must thankfully acknowledge the kind and hospitable reception given to me by French Roman Catholic proprietors, as well as by the English Protestant proprietors.

Liberated slaves from the East Coast of Africa.

Mention has been made in former Reports of the occasional arrival in the Mauritius of captured slaves from the East Coast of Africa, to be liberated in the colony. The Bishop and the Missionaries direct their attention to such cases, in the hope that suitable persons may be found among them to be trained as teachers, and sent to aid in the East-Africa Mission. The following extract is from a letter of the Bishop of Mauritius, dated May 4, 1861:—

Yesterday I inquired particularly into the history of the poor liberated Africans, and found an interpreter with them who had come to the island five years ago from the Macquas country. His description of the sufferings of which these children had told him was very heartrending. Until he (the interpreter) came, no one knew what was the matter with the poor children. Amai, amai, was their one cry. When he came he said it meant "mother." Then followed accounts of how they had been torn from their mothers. This morning a body of East Africans came early to see us. After prayers I sat down and talked with them. They described their country, and I told them of my visit to their countrymen yesterday. When I mentioned the name Macquas, they said, "That's our country. Do you know the language?" "Yes." "What is the word for 'mother'?" "Mayaga." "Then what is amai?" "That is 'mother' too. I looked to the *Polyglotta given me by the Committee nine years ago. On turning to the map I saw Matatan along the Mozambique territory, and on referring to Matatan (p. 19. xi. 5) I saw that amai and mayaga are names for "mother." This gives me a clue. I question them fully, and make them give me equivalents in Creole for words in Matatan. Poor old men, they laughed heartily at my knowledge of their language, and I felt most thankful for this additional connexion with East Africa. Their recollection is quite wonderful, and the accuracy of the book most satisfactory.

Adoption of Hong Kong as a station of the Society.

THE Committee have long felt the importance of making Hong Kong a Missionary station. The colony now contains a very large Chinese population, and of a more settled and respectable class than those who at first flocked to it, in violation of the national prejudices which then existed. The silent operation, also, of the Bishop's college has led to several hopeful conversions among young men, who have, some of them, found employment in the city, and need to be brought together in a native-Christian congregation. The Bishop of Victoria, in his recent visit to England, strongly urged upon the Committee the immediate occupation of Hong Kong by a Missionary of the Society, and promised his aid in raising local contributions towards the expenses of the station. Accordingly, in

* Reprinted from the last Report.

FUH-CHAU.

The Rev. G. Smith has remained for another year the only Missionary of the Society at this station, though he has had the advantage of an experienced fellow-labourer of the American Board of Missions residing on the same premises. At the close of the year a second Missionary, the Rev. John Wolfe, proceeded to China to strengthen this station.

Mr. Smith stated in his report of last year that he was without a school or a single convert. In the course of the present year he has had the joy of witnessing the springing up of a spirit of inquiry, and has gathered around him a small band of eight native converts, four of whom have been admitted to baptism. Mr. Smith thus describes the providential circumstances which, under God, brought about this happy result:—

Mr. Collins' visit and opening of the temporary dispensary was the means of bringing the first convert to me. So that, though the visit did not obviate the necessity of Mrs. Collins' return home, we are, in the wonderful providence of Almighty God, indebted to it for the brighter day that has dawned upon this poor, feeble, halting Mission. It brought Siu Kieng to us, and induced me to fit up the place under my house for preaching: this was blessed by Siu Kieng's conversion, and the services which have been continued in this place have brought another inquirer, Sing Puo Sieng Seng Sang, a literary graduate, now a candidate for baptism. For another most hopeful candidate we are indebted to the Prefect's unavailing persecution of the convert who procured for me, and the man who let, the preaching-place, and to Lo Sing Siu Kieng's zeal. He managed to obtain access to the prisoners, and in addition to alleviating poor La Tang's (the imprisoned convert) sufferings, preached and prayed with the prisoners. The Lord there, in the prison, opened the heart of one to attend to the things spoken. This young man's name is Siu. He was imprisoned on a false charge of embezzlement whilst connected with the Government bank, but is now released. Thus the Lord has made this most painful and vexatious business turn out to the furtherance of the Gospel. To Him be all the glory.

I think that the Committee will feel, on receiving this, that their decision not to relinquish this station was of the Lord, and that henceforth we may expect a blessing to rest upon our work here. I am full of hope as to the future. Oh for more love and compassion for perishing souls, and a greater willingness to become the servants of all men for Christ's sake; if by any means we may be the instruments of saving some from the terrible judgments hanging over those "who know not God, and obey not the Gospel of Jesus Christ."

Mr. Collins has, however, been called to experience the anxieties inseparable from the care of an infant church, by the early relapse of one of those admitted to baptism. The rest remain steady; and as one is a literary graduate, he may prove a valuable help to the Mission. Mr. Smith writes in his annual letter:—

In January 1861 the authorities yielded in the long disputed question of the right of Missionaries to open preaching-places, schools, &c., within the city walls, and no opposition of any kind has since been offered. Thus this important city has at length been opened to free and unfettered Missionary action. Two services have been maintained throughout the year on Sundays, in the chapel under my house, and all our household and schoolchildren are assembled daily for prayer, and exposition of the Scriptures. The attendance of females, especially at these services, has been encouraging. There has also been a Bible class weekly for converts and inquirers.

On the 1st of April we commenced a girls' boarding school. The expense of the school is met by contributions from the foreign community, and by friends in England.

NINGPO.

The year 1861 opened at Ningpo with bright hopes for the future. The Rev. Messrs. Russell, G. Moule, and Fleming were at the station. Mr. Burdon was to join them from Shanghae, and Mr. A. Moule from England. Converts were being added to the church, and candidates for holy orders were under instruction, in the prospect of the Bishop's visit in the course of the year. The Mission was strong enough to send out two of their number, Messrs. Burdon and Fleming, to occupy a new station at the important city of Hang Chow. But at the close of the year all these prospects were reversed. The Taeping army destroyed the out-stations. The Missionaries were all driven into Ningpo. At length Ningpo was itself captured and sacked, and became almost a desolate ruin. The Missionaries could with difficulty find residences for their families, and Missionary work was suspended. "We are all here," writes one of the Missionaries, "sitting, like Jonah, outside Ningpo, to watch what the Lord will do for the city." All the thoughts which will arise at these sad recitals must find refuge in the divine saying, "The Lord reigneth, let the earth rejoice, let the multitude of the isles be glad thereof. Clouds and darkness are round about Him. Righteousness and judgment are the habitation of his throne."

The storm which thus burst upon the Mission at the close of the year has prevented the Missionaries from sending the usual annual reviews of the progress of their work. Our report must therefore be confined to the great events of the occupation of Shaouhing as a Missionary station, the expulsion from it, in the course of a few months, and the desolation of Ningpo by the insurgents.

Occupation of Shaouhing as a Missionary station.

It was the intention of the Missionaries, and of the Bishop of Victoria, that Hang Chow should be the first new station in the Che-keang province. Mr. Burdon and Mr. Fleming were therefore designated to that city. But its disturbed state, through a threatened attack of the Taepings, rendered it undesirable to seek an entrance at that time. It was therefore determined to take up the important city of Shaouhing, lying on the road between Ningpo and Hang Chow, being ninety miles from the former and forty from the latter. Its walls are at least nine miles in circumference, and its population was variously estimated at 300,000, or 400,000. Mr. Burdon thus relates the auspicious commencement of the Mission:—

In March last Mr. Fleming and myself were enabled to secure a footing in Shaouhing, a city far larger in extent than Ningpo, and equal to it, if not more important in the eyes of the Chinese. We went thither with no other helps than a knowledge of the language, the company of a native Christian from Ningpo, and trust in Him who has said, "In all thy ways acknowledge me, and I will direct thy paths." Our first step on arrival was to go to the chief magistrate, show our passports, and declare our object; and our catechist immediately set about looking for a house. One was soon found; the consent of the authorities was obtained for the hiring of it, only three or four days after our arrival. Not long after commencing the work of preaching, several rather interesting cases of inquirers presented themselves. They seemed in a prepared state of mind to hear and accept the Gospel, and it was with real delight that I met them from day to day to tell them of Jesus and his salvation. I felt, that even if they disappointed me, it was encouraging to find persons who were willing to listen to the truths of God's word, and who came so frequently to talk about them; but I was doomed to be disappointed. One by one they discontinued their visits, and I fear that now they have lost their interest altogether, if, indeed, they ever really had any. One, however, of whom I expected nothing, has come boldly forward to confess Christ, and has been the means of influencing his family to do the same. He applied for baptism for himself and son. At first I could not bring myself to believe that he was really in earnest, for my former disappointments led me to be more cautious with reference to professions; but by degrees my doubts with reference to both of them were removed, and before their baptism they gave every reasonable proof that could be asked, that their hearts were under an influence, not of this world, but of a higher and a better. In becoming connected with Christianity, he had to give up his whole means of living. On Sunday morning, the 22nd of September, therefore, in the presence of Mr. Collins from Shanghae, and our few domestics, father, mother, and son, were received into the church of Christ by baptism. The room was an humble one, the spectators were few, but let us hope that One was there who is no respecter either of persons or places. The occasion was to myself one of peculiar interest, and you will join with me in the earnest prayer that these three may be "faithful unto death," and that they may be an earnest of a large ingathering from our new Mission station at Shaouhing.

The hopes thus excited were speedily disappointed by the capture of the city by the insurgents, and the removal of the Missionaries.

Approach of the Taeping army—Capture of the City of Ningpo—Behaviour of the Missionaries.

The insurgents appear to have set their forces in motion against Ningpo as soon as the heat of the summer had passed over. Towards the end of October a panic in the city commenced. The richer inhabitants fled first, the people generally, who were able, followed their example. On the 24th of October news arrived of the murder of two American Missionaries by the insurgents in the North, the Rev. Messrs. Parker and Holmes. Early in November Messrs. Fleming and Burdon were compelled to take refuge in Ningpo, having been driven from Shaouhing by the advance of the enemy.

Previously to this event Mr. Russell had been earnestly invited by the Parent Committee to visit England on account of the serious failure of his health. In reply to this invitation he wrote, November 4th:—

> The probability is that Ningpo will not be left very long unvisited by these cruel and savage men, who seem to have no regard either for God or man. Under such circumstances our position may be exceedingly trying and dangerous; and for us to abandon our post at the present moment would be misinterpreted by our native brethren, whom I could not think of leaving in this their hour of trial, especially as such conduct might act injuriously against the cause which, I trust, is dearer to us than our lives. Oh that Almighty God may graciously vouchsafe to us all the wisdom and grace we now so much need, to enable us to know and do His own holy will!

sionaries as a day of solemn fasting and humiliation for themselves and the native Christians; and each Friday was so observed as long as they remained in the city. The terrified inhabitants passed out of the gates day by day. More than 100,000 of them fled during three days, most of them not knowing whither they were going. The great and busy city became a desert: whole rows of shops were shut up. The native Christians, however, remained, and kept together. On the 25th, news arrived of the destruction of Yu-yiao, a city of 60,000 inhabitants, from fifteen to twenty miles from Ningpo, and one of the out-stations of the Mission. Then a conference of the Missionaries was held, in which it was determined that the ladies of delicate health, and the newly arrived Missionary, who had not acquired the language, should remove to Shanghae, or to the European quarter on the opposite side of the river, for safety; but Mr. Russell and the rest of the Missionaries remained at their post. Various negotiations took place between the officers of the European vessels of war and the invading army. It was stipulated, that in case of the taking of the city the foreigners should be protected. On the 6th December the invaders appeared before the walls. On the following day, being Sunday, there was much firing on both sides. At length the city was assaulted, and the imperial troops surrendered and fled in dismay. The victorious army spread itself over the city and a general pillage commenced. Several bands of armed men broke into the Mission premises, but, in most instances, were prevailed upon to retire, in virtue of the stipulations for the protection of foreigners. Afterwards the commander of the insurgents gave the Mission houses the protection of a guard of soldiers. Then the anxiety of the Missionaries was awakened for their native brethren, many of whom had been seized and taken prisoners. Day by day the Missionaries traversed the city, and encountered armed bands of ruffians, but at length succeeded in procuring the release and safe conduct of all the converts. The Missionaries, however, and Mrs. Russell, remained in the city for thirteen days, at the increasing risk of their property and lives, until the senior officer of the British men of war, and Mr. Parkes, the Consul, represented that the presence of foreigners in the city would seriously embarrass their measures, if difficulties should arise between the European ships of war and the insurgents. The Missionaries then removed, with the last of their converts, to the European quarter.

The Rev. J. Hobson, British Chaplain at Shanghae, writing from thence December 24th, remarks:—

You will hardly be surprised, but very much grieved, to hear that our beautiful vineyard at Ningpo has been uprooted, though, thank God, not destroyed, by the wild boar out of the woods. The rebels took the city on Monday the 8th, with very little resistance, and with comparatively little bloodshed. Our dear brethren felt it to be their duty to abide in their places, and run the risk of all that it might please our heavenly Father to send upon them. The Missionaries and their wives deserve all praise for their stedfastness and courage. They acted as true heroes and heroines, and, but for them, much more blood would have been shed. I am sure they will have your sympathies. They have hazarded their lives for Christ's sake. Thank God, even in the howling tempest and withering storm his work goes on. Flight, loss, bereavements, will bring the Gospel, already heard, home to many.

The Rev. Arthur E. Moule records the following particulars respecting one of the converts :—

One or two bright and cheering circumstances, amidst all this gloom and sadness, I must not forget to mention. Whilst searching for our cook Is'e-s-ou, my brother found another of the converts, an old tailor, Dyang-s-ou, who lives in the country a little distance from Ningpo. The rebels would have left him unmolested, because of his being quite an elderly man, had not his neighbours mentioned that he was a clever tailor. When they heard this they carried him off. "At first," he said to my brother, "I felt very sad, for I left my aged mother alone; but when I looked around and saw numbers of my neighbours in the same calamity, I bethought me of my true comfort; and then I began to tell those with me of Christ, and all the peace which He gives to his people. And as I spoke comfort to others my own soul was comforted." He had quite a nice audience every evening in his prison house until he was discovered and liberated.

As soon as all had been done for the safety of the converts in Ningpo, the anxiety of the Missionaries was excited on behalf of those in the out-stations: Messrs. Burdon and G. E. Moule therefore determined to visit them. Mr. Moule has furnished a very touching account of these visits. The Mission premises were, in most cases, dilapidated, or occupied by filthy inmates, and the property had been scattered or destroyed. At his house at Shaouhing Mr. Burdon found an opium-smoker stretched upon the bed, with his head propped up by a volume of Alford's Greek Testament. But in every case the Missionaries applied to the chief Taeping authorities, and met with great civility and prompt redress: converts were restored, even though they had been taken as prisoners of war; passes were given to them for their safe conduct to Ningpo; and every endeavour was made to recover lost property; and the Mission houses were sealed by the insurgent officers for their security. Seen-poh had been left undisturbed by the insurgents, though the destruction of their trade had left them in a state of destitution. Mr. Moule thus expresses his feelings upon a review of this melancholy excursion:—

The solitude on rivers, and canals, and in streets, instead of crowding bustling commerce, and the actual desolation in the cities, is very, very saddening. "Our soul cleaves to the dust." We know, indeed, that the punishment is less than the sin which has called it down. But as yet it seems all punitive, not remedial, and our hearts sink and recoil at the sight. I say, not remedial, for as yet we have not met with a single person, I may venture to say, who has seemed at all to be inclined by these troubles to turn to Him from whom they have deeply revolted. In the Lord's own time, we believe, He will give healing to the poor people; but now it seems all dark. Generally the poor stragglers left after the general captivity are loud in their praises of us, and quote what they remember of the conduct of our army in the first war, in honourable contrast to that of the Chang-mao. But though they allow that heaven's time has come, and heaven's decree is being fulfilled, they do not feel themselves personally responsible to God, nor can they conceive of any calamity hereafter worse than the present.

No hope for Christianity from the Taepings.

Mr. Russell thus states the reasons which have induced him to give up all hope of any benefit to the cause of Christianity from the Taeping movement:—

All that we have borne, and even worse, might be tolerated, did this strange movement seem to indicate the least gleam of hope for the future to this miserable country, which I confess I feel utterly unable to discern. My views of the whole movement, in a political and religious aspect, which hitherto have been constantly oscillating between hope and fear, though the latter has generally been in the ascendant, have now assumed a very decided character, that its mission, under God, is one of judgment alone, sent on this miserable land for her long night of gross idolatry and fearful iniquity; and when this object is accomplished, the movement itself will probably be overwhelmed in the very desolations it has caused. This conclusion I have arrived at principally from my observation of the strange character and doings of these Taepingites, who have now visited this port, and who, I understand from those who have seen them elsewhere, are a fair specimen of what they are and do everywhere.

1. The leading men in this movement who have come to Ningpo, as almost all their followers, personally considered, are the most illiterate, the most depraved, the most barbarous Chinese, in every sense, with whom I have had the misfortune to be brought into contact. As far as I can ascertain—and already I have had considerable intercourse with representatives of all classes from amongst them—there seems to be no redeeming feature in their character, not even the outward politeness and external grace which so generally characterize the most abandoned of ordinary Chinese.

2. The character and conduct of these men is such, their notions and modes of procedure so contrary to all recognised standards of right and wrong, that amalgamation with others in business or otherwise seems not only never designed by them, but also utterly impracticable. A training of several years in the practice of living altogether on plunder—accustomed during this time to overlook the rights of others—has so seared their consciences, that the principle of "meum" and "tuum" seems now completely forgotten. Consequently, as there is no security under their rule for life and property, the people fly from them whenever they can, so that even in those places longest occupied by them there is not the slightest appearance of the resumption of trade, or of any confidence in them on the part of the people generally.

3. They seem to be totally unconscious of the work they are commissioned to perform. Carried along by a blind impulse, no one appears to comprehend or care what he does, or in what his work may terminate. Desolation and destruction on as large a scale as possible seem to be the only object they have in view. True it is that their war-cry "Down with the Tartars, down with the idols," might be regarded as a sufficiently intelligible motive to urge them forward, and doubtless it would be, had they any distinct apprehension of its meaning: but while it is the cry continually on their lips, and the work it indicates is strangely but effectively executed by them, they themselves seem utterly unconscious agents in the hands of him who doubtless is using them for his own wise though mysterious purposes,

4. As to the Christian element supposed to pervade the movement, I have been unable to discern any whatever, except the negative one of "Down with the idols" referred to above. In their hymns of praise to the Heavenly King, the Trinity of the Taepingites, there might seem at first sight to be some approximation to Christian truth; but a closer investigation of their views, so far as they may be regarded to possess any, with reference to God, seems clearly to show that they are as far from orthodoxy on this point as the idolaters they so affect to despise. The terms referred to above would appear to be taken up by the majority in a sense scarcely more intelligible than the Oh-mi-do-fuh as employed by ordinary Buddhists. So far as any do possess distinct notions of what they say, these notions are perfectly blasphemous, terribly repulsive to the mind and heart of a Christian. To them the Heavenly Father and Heavenly Elder Brother are absorbed in the person of the Heavenly King, whose dictum is law, whose fancies and hallucinations are superior to the Scriptures of truth, which, notwithstanding, they in some sense profess to reverence. From the above, therefore, and from many other things which might be added, had I time, I am compelled to believe that the mission of these Taepingites is one of judgment alone, and that, when this strange work of the Almighty and Allwise Judge and Ruler of all is accomplished, they themselves will perish with a terrible destruction. I cannot persuade myself to think that they will ever be employed as instruments for the work of reconstruction, and for the dissemination of pure Christianity in China; yet for this it is doubtless our duty to pray and hope, though it may be to hope against hope.

Should these men ever attain to the government of the whole country, and be permitted to establish a national religion, I am strongly inclined to apprehend that they will become a terribly persecuting power, which will brook no interference with their religious views, but will everywhere enforce them at the edge of the sword. When reasoning with one of their headmen the other day about the blasphemy of putting the Heavenly King on a level with Jesus, he replied that he was not responsible for the tenets he held; that the Heavenly King propounded these to his followers; and that all must receive them at the risk of their lives.

Still, however gloomy the present aspect of things looks as to these Taepingites, we know that the Lord reigneth; we know that He will give His Son the ends of the earth for a possession; and that China, emancipated from all error, will be part of that inheritance: and it strikes me at times, in the midst of all these terrible desolations, that we may look up with encouragement, and hope that her redemption even now draweth nigh. When we look abroad on China and the world, with what intense desire does the cry rise from our inmost souls "Come, come quickly, Lord Jesus, and do for all lands what Thy presence, power, wisdom, and goodness can alone accomplish."

SHANGHAE.

The state of Shanghae has been, during the last year, one of so much terror and confusion, that all Missionary operations must have been virtually suspended, even if the agency of the Society had not been reduced to a single Missionary, the Rev. W. H. Collins. He has ministered to the small native flock, and has superintended the school, which is supported by local subscriptions.

NEW-ZEALAND MISSION.

European Missionaries first arrived in New South Wales, 1810; proceeded to New Zealand, 1814: Mission confined to the Northern Island.

DIVISION OF THE MISSION.

I. Northern District, comprising the Diocese of New Zealand.

II. Eastern District, comprising the Diocese of Waiapu.

III. Western District, comprising the Diocese of Wellington.

Political events in New Zealand—Appointment of Sir Geo. Grey K.C.B. to the Government.

THE last Report brought down the history of the unhappy civil war in New Zealand to a period when the horizon on all sides had assumed the most threatening aspect. British troops were mustering in large numbers; disaffection was spreading throughout the tribes. The "native" policy of the Governor of New Zealand appeared to your Committee, and to the best friends of the colony, to be unsound and full of peril. H. M.'s Secretary of State at home hesitated to interpose his authority for the reversal of that policy; and the Bishops and clergy of New Zealand, who lifted up their voice on the side of justice and humanity, were stigmatized by the public press in the colony, as well as by many of the officials, as disloyal agitators.

Under these discouraging circumstances your Committee ventured to dwell upon the indications of the restraining power of Christian principles over the native mind, and to the spirit of prayer largely poured out upon the native congregations, as well as upon the Missionaries and native teachers. Your Committee pointed to these facts as a ground of hope. That hope has not been disappointed, but signally fulfilled. The "native" policy of the local Government was unexpectedly reversed by the colonists themselves in a new Parliament. A change of the colonial ministry took place; and the very men were called to office, who had advocated the principles which your Committee had ventured to urge upon the home authorities. Mr. Fox, the new prime minister in New Zealand, brother of Henry Fox, our late Missionary, upon taking office, made a noble declaration of principles, which your Committee earnestly trust may ever prevail throughout the colonial empire of the British crown. He stated, as the three leading principles of the new policy:—

of like feelings with ourselves; adding this memorable sentiment, "Whatever shortcomings the New Zealanders may exhibit in some respects (perhaps not more than among ourselves), they hold the same faith as we do, and recognise with a friendly feeling the fact, that from us they received it. There is here no opening for such jealousies as exist among the Asiatics; no fear of any question about greased cartridges: our political difficulties with the natives rest on political grounds, and are not exasperated by differences of creed. This, then, is the first principle on which our policy is based—that the Maori is a MAN of like passions and feelings, and to be governed by an appeal to the same motives, as ourselves."

The second principle to be taken as a guide in the new policy was, that the great national movement commonly known under the name of the "King" movement, was not to be regarded as antagonistic to the Queen's government, but as an effort of the native race for self-elevation. Mr. Fox thus expressed his views on this point:—

"If there be a wholesome sign in the condition of the Maori race, one feature which would lead us to hope that we may rescue it from destruction, it is to be found in this great movement of the national mind—a movement as remarkable as any in history. We desire not to put down this movement, but to separate what is good in it from what is bad; to guide it, to develope it, to aid it, to avail ourselves of it, as the fulcrum by which we may elevate the race to the higher levels of civilization, and create among them the machinery of local self-government. Herein our policy differs altogether from that of those who see in this movement nothing but disaffection to British authority, and who would crush it by force, or suffer it to wither and die by 'supreme indifference and neglect.'"

The third principle enunciated by Mr. Fox was to use the natives in working out the problem of their own social elevation, and especially the native council, or Runanga, in the machinery of self-government, under legal sanctions.

Concurrently with this change of ministry in New Zealand, Her Majesty was pleased to appoint Sir George Grey to the government of the colony. His very name acted as a talisman. He had enjoyed the confidence of all parties in his former government of New Zealand, and the principles of the new policy were known to be identical with his own. The feelings with which this appointment was welcomed by those who had represented the Society in New Zealand, are exemplified by the announcement of the event in a letter of Archdeacon Kissling. "I called on the Parent Society to sympathize with us in the miseries of war, which have well nigh ruined this 'goodly heritage.' I have now the high satisfaction to convey to the Parent Committee tidings which will lead them to participate in our joy and thankfulness to Almighty God. He is our Refuge, and we have fresh proof that the Lord God Omnipotent reigneth." "The appointment of Sir George Grey," writes the Bishop of Waiapu, "fills us all with hope about the native affairs. We believe that it is in answer to the prayers of his people that God has caused this appointment to be made, and we now confidently trust that the late disturbances will be overruled for lasting good."

Sir George Grey's measures, as already propounded, are based on the principles enunciated by Mr. Fox, and bid fair to meet with general acceptance by the natives. Nevertheless, the Committee are compelled to add one word of caution. So deep has been the injury inflicted upon the proud and sensitive minds of some of the New Zealand chiefs, that the best-informed friends of the colony still rejoice with trembling, and there is a strong call upon the church of Christ to continue instant in prayer.

Advanced state of the Native Church.

Concurrently with the inauguration of a new policy in the civil government, new measures have been introduced into the native church of New Zealand, based on the same principles of self-government—which mark the year now under review as no less memorable in its ecclesiastical annals than in its civil history. The number of native ministers in New Zealand having been increased, the Bishop of Waiapu has taken the forward step of summoning a diocesan synod of the clergy, three being European and three native, with seventeen native lay delegates from the chief districts of the diocese. The synod met in December, and various resolutions were passed, and rules were adopted for the formation of parishes, and the support of churches; and other matters of business connected with the promotion of religion, and the education of the rising generation, were transacted. The proceedings were wholly conducted in the Maori language. The following Resolutions occur in the proceedings of the synod:—

That it is expedient that all the clergy and laymen of the synod, should stir up the members of the church in their respective localities, to build decent churches for the worship of God.

That it is the opinion of this synod that the inhabitants of the different localities should have consideration for their teachers, and that Friday in every week should be a fixed day on which work be done which may be required for the teachers.

That in the judgment of this synod it is the duty of those who enjoy the blessings of the Gospel, to use their exertions to send the Gospel to the nations who are sitting in darkness.

The morning after the last Resolution was passed, upon the assembling of the synod, the laymen placed the sum of 5*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* upon the table, collected from among themselves, in consequence of the Resolution of the synod on the previous day that the Gospel ought to be sent to the nations who are sitting in darkness.

A testimony has been borne to the great significance and prospective importance of this native synod by one well able to speak with authority upon New-Zealand affairs, William Swainson, Esq., formerly Attorney-General for New Zealand, who, in a work published shortly before the meeting of the synod, states, "Considering the time, the place, the circumstances, the first meetings of the diocese of Waiapu will be one of the most remarkable events in the history of the church."

It is indeed cause of unfeigned gratitude to God, that He should have used the humble instrumentality of the Church Missionary Society, to send the light of the Gospel into the islands of New Zealand, amongst a nation of cannibals, ignorant and savage; to reduce their language to writing; to translate and to print the whole Bible in that language; to form native churches under native pastors; and to raise the moral and intellectual standard of the Maori race so high, that the native clergy and native laity can form a diocesan synod, and the chief authorities of the colony can pronounce these aboriginal tribes entitled to equal privileges with the European settlers. Here is a triumph of Protestant Missions which may serve as a sufficient answer to all those who ask, What are the results of your Protestant Missions.

Your Committee cannot but point to one remarkable circumstance connected with these events. The Missionary who, twenty-five years ago, first carried the message of the Gospel to the Eastern division of the Northern Island, has been preserved to rejoice in its complete triumph. In the year 1840 Mr. Williams was the solitary Missionary in the Eastern District, and he wrote to the Society these words:—"The size of my parish is two degrees and a half. My present condition is solitary. Here I am, therefore, holding on, not to the wreck, but on the spoil: and by God's assistance I will hold on, until you send the required help." In 1861 the same veteran Missionary presided, as a Bishop, over a synod of the native church, surrounded by his native clergy and laity, and with his own son in the flesh and in the Gospel, born on the spot, as his Assessor. Such an instance of signal blessing upon the labours of a faithful Missionary can scarcely be paralleled in modern times. The mind is carried back to primitive ages, when the word of God grew mightily and prevailed, and forward to the predicted latter season when a nation shall be born in a day.

The Northern stations, which were the first occupied by the Society, namely, Paihia, Waimate, and Kaitaia, are within the Archdeaconry of the venerable senior Missionary of the Society, Archdeacon Henry Williams, who thus reports upon them:—

I have much pleasure in announcing an orderly and quiet deportment of the people within the district, notwithstanding the general and severe excitement caused by the war carried on at Taranaki, between Her Majesty's troops and the natives of the various districts around that place.

In January last I paid a visit to Wangaroa, in my cutter, where I remained two Sundays, and was highly gratified with the progress made since I was last at this place. The Sunday schools were well attended, as evidenced by the correct knowledge of the Scriptures and the catechism. I met the people generally at Karanga Hape, and the Papake, administering the Lord's Supper at each place, where there are good raupo chapels. At the latter place Mr. Matthews joined me from Kaitaia, dividing the duties with me.

Once each quarter the communicants from the distant villages are assembled at Paihia, Kororarika, and Pakaraka, for examination previous to the administration of the sacrament, which is always attended with beneficial and bracing effect. At the two former places I meet on the average 140 communicants: at the latter place the average is 27. The communicants in connexion with these places exceed 300, but they are much scattered, and do not attend at one time.

I believe that a more serious and genuine state of feeling prevails around; though there have been many efforts on the part of some to regard lightly an occasional outbreak. Intoxication appears to be confined to a certain class, as amongst Europeans: this is urged on by wicked and designing men.

The Kaitaia settlements have been greatly afflicted by a fatal contagious fever. Messrs. Matthews and Puckey, in their annual letter, speak of the calamity, and of the death of a Christian native, who had sustained with much ability the office of an assistant magistrate:—

Our people have sustained a heavy loss in the death of Popata (Bobart), one of our chiefs and native Assessors. He was an active Assessor, and the young men of his tribe gave him frequently much work to do in repressing evil and maintaining the law. His daughter caught the infectious fever and died. He was afterwards seized with it, and brought to our settlement. He was visited by us several times a day. It appeared a great comfort to him to hear a portion of God's word, and in lucid intervals he repeated hymns and prayed.

The aged Missionary, the Rev. Richard Davis, resides at Waimate, and occasionally visits his former station Kaikohe, which was the place of the famous insurgent chief, Heke, and his war party. Mr. Davis speaks of having entertained, after Heke's death, a good hope of the progress of Christianity, from the religious character of his son, and of many of the people. But these hopes, he states, have been blighted, by the introduction of ardent spirits, and by the various sins to which intoxication leads. He trusts that some improvement has of late been introduced, by vigorous protests against the evil, and that the new measures of Sir George Grey will awaken amongst them a fresh spirit of social reform.

AUCKLAND.

The Rev. R. Burrows, the zealous, and efficient Secretary of the Mission, has removed his residence to the Bay of Islands, where the advanced ages of the senior Missionaries require the help he is able to afford them. He has supplied the Committee with valuable information, from month to month, of the progress of political and Missionary affairs, which has appeared in the periodicals of the Society.

In consequence of the severe illness of Archdeacon Kissling it has become necessary to relieve him of the laborious duties which he has hitherto discharged. In order to provide for the teaching of St. Stephen's College, the Rev. T. Chapman was removed from the Eastern District to Auckland. His intimate acquaintance with the native character will be of great value in this position, though his advanced age prevents his taking the long journeys required in his former Mission. He has charge of the Institution, and of the native Christians in and round Auckland. In this latter department, he writes, "I am ably assisted by two native deacons, who are very regular in visiting the outposts. These have their residence in the Institution."

Missionary Stations on the Waikato, and to the South of Auckland.

The stations on the Waikato have all been greatly affected by the excitement of the war; the schools have been much reduced in their attendance; there have been frequent removals among the native population; and the means of grace have therefore been much neglected in too many localities. Archdeacon Maunsell writes, at the close of the year, in better spirits than he was able to do in his earlier communications:—

In the Waikato district, generally speaking, we have not much to record, at least of spiritual things. Political questions seem to absorb all the spare thoughts of the people. I am thankful to report that they are quiet, and that Sir George Grey's movement of the troops to make a road to Te Ia on the Waikato river, instead of exciting war, has roused the spirit of trade, and the Maoris come with food and all saleable articles in crowds to the camp. I am sanguine. The Government are exercising wonderful energy in introducing laws, &c. They have already secured the services of some very able men as magistrates, &c.

The Rev. B. Y. Ashwell from the same distinct, writes, in his annual letter at the close of the year:—

The consequence of the unsettled state of this district has been unfavourable to our boarding schools: our numbers are reduced to less than half. It has also had a prejudicial effect on the village boarding schools, kept by native teachers: some have been broken up because the teacher received no longer assistance from the Government. Confidence must be perfectly restored before permanent good can be done among them. I am thankful to say I see some signs of its commencement. The demoralizing effects of the war among some of our teachers are seen by their lukewarm-ness and indifference; a few have altogether lapsed. Yet we are not left without some marks that we have still the blessing of God. Firstly, the attendance on public services is good. Secondly, our monthly Missionary prayer-meetings with our native teachers are well attended. Thirdly, I do not remember any time when there was less crime in the district. Fourthly, we have had a Missionary meeting on the Christmas afternoon to dismiss one of the teachers, of the Taupiri school, who has offered himself as a candidate for Missionary work in the Melanesian Islands. He is our first Maori Missionary to his cannibal brethren; he has been accepted by Bishop Patteson, and I trust that God may bless the day of small things.

The testimony of the Rev. John Morgan from Otawhao, and of the Rev. T. Lanfear from Hauraki, is to the same effect.

An important measure which has been adopted in this district is the establishment of a Theological Training and Boarding School at Tauranga, the station of Archdeacon Brown, for supplying native teachers for the western division of the diocese of Waiapu. The Rev. Charles Baker and the Rev. E. B. Clarke have been associated with Archdeacon Brown in order to carry out this important scheme. The Society possesses a valuable grant of land at Tauranga, which it is hoped will eventually support the the training Institution.

The following extracts from the letters of the Bishop of Waiapu will give an interesting view of the progress of the native church in his diocese:—

In October I held my visitation in that part of the diocese which extends from Turanga to Tauranga. The natives living on this extensive line of coast constitute many distinct tribes, much differing in their progress in Christianity. A striking feature which attracts the notice of every traveller from Turanga to Hicks' Bay, is, that at nearly every principal village there is a commodious church, substantially built of wood, many of which are so conspicuous that they are seen by vessels which are passing along the coast. These churches are, for the most part, the resort of attentive congregations. The people, too, are desirous of having native ministers, and have contributed upwards of 700*l.* as endowment fund for their support. At most of the villages there is a neatly finished house, called "Te whare minita," which is kept exclusively for the accommodation of the English or native clergyman who may visit them. The religious state of the natives may be said to be healthy, and the people are disposed to conform to the instructions which are given to them. The number of natives confirmed in the different villages was 441, and it was a pleasing feature that many of them were young persons who had been baptized in infancy. Some time ago it was a cause for much regret that the yonng were growing up without much regard for the religion which had been professed by their parents, but now there has been a reaction among them. The state of the natives to the west of East Cape is very different: religion is at a low ebb. The people are cold and indifferent, and many who seem to have begun well have gone back. The consequence is, that with few exceptions, there are no places of worship. The subject of endowment for support of ministers has not been taken up, for the people are careless about having any one to live among them. An indication is given of the state of the people in the fact, that while the population is about equal to that on the other side of the Cape, the confirmations will not altogether exceed twenty-four. I must, however, in justice, add, that the natives in Tauranga appear to be in a better state than I have observed them to be on former visits.

Yesterday, November the 3rd, was a day much to be remembered at Tauranga. Ihaia Te Ahu, a native teacher, who had lived with the Rev. T. Chapman upwards of twenty years, was admitted to deacons' orders, and will reside at Mr. Chapman's old station, Maketu. It had long been Mr. Chapman's desire that this native should be admitted to the ministry, and the good old man, now in his seventy-third year, will be able to say, in the words of Simeon, "Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace," for he sees in Ihaia a substitute for his own labours.

Mr. Chapman has given, in his annual letter, a further account of the native minister who has succeeded him in his ministerial work. He writes from Auckland, after his removal to that new sphere of labour:—

In my former scene of more than twenty-five years' labours I passed through all the phases of a long Missionary life; commencing where only barbarism in all its native features were exhibited, and leaving where, one very Sabbath morn, throughout the whole extensive district, in every little and in every larger party, the Sabbath bell is duly heard. It has been a great satisfaction to me to leave the duties of my old station in the hands of my long tried and faithful teacher, Ihaia Te Ahu. He came to me a little boy, in the year 1833, when living at the Kiukiu, always behaved well, and has continued with me ever since. From 1844 he has been a consistent Christian teacher. This, and I bless God for it, is a great comfort to my mind; and when I contrast what it would have been to have left my people without one to watch over them, and what it is to have left them in charge of one whom I have every reason to believe will thoughtfully and prayerfully care for their souls, I cannot express the gratitude I feel to the great Head of the church for His mercies to me and to them in this important matter: for I have not spent so large a portion of my life among them as I have done, and with one, too (my late wife), now resting from her labours, whose patience and perseverance have often urged me to a renewal, when both flesh and spirit seemed spent, without having yearning remembrances of my late charge, and earnest prayers too, that they may grow in grace, and walk humbly and faithfully with their God. But here I cease. As far as God has enabled me—I speak with great humility—the Gospel has been faithfully preached unto them, and its precepts lived out, in our measure, before them. The injuries they may have done me I most heartily forgive them; and for their kindnesses, and they were very many, I have a grateful remembrance; while to that Triune Jehovah, whom I have served, I would ascribe all the praise for whatever good I may have done, praying His merciful forgiveness for my many sins and transgressions which befel me in my Missionary course among my former people. This burden I have been enabled to leave at the foot of the cross.

The Bishop of Waiapu gives also the following encouraging account of the native church and pastorate in his diocese —

I must refer to the results which we are hoping to realize from our Theological Institution, in obtaining from it a supply of clergymen to meet the increasing wants of our native congregations. Raniera Kawhia, who was ordained deacon last year, is a man of great stability, and he is highly respected wherever he is known. It is my hope to admit him to priests' orders on the 22d of this month, and then the district of Waiapu will be more efficiently supplied than it has been for a long period. The station of Wairoa (to the south) was carefully worked for some years by Mr. Hamlin, but ill health has caused him to remain in Auckland. In the mean time another of our students, Tamihana Huata, has been ordained Deacon, and is located there among his own people. He, too, is a superior man, and the natives of Waiapu would gladly have secured his services for themselves. Other candidates are in prospect, and will follow as we may require them.

The Waiapu District is now worked entirely by native pastors, and it is no longer an experiment whether this principle will answer. It is, moreover, so acceptable to the natives, that they are anxious to have the number of their pastors increased. And equally striking is the willingness of the natives to contribute for the support of their ministers. In order to effect this, they have exercised very much self-denial, and left but a small portion of the proceeds of their wheat for the purchase of clothes. On my way to Auckland last May, I found the natives assembling in large numbers at Hicks' Bay, on occasion of the opening of a new church. On my return, as our vessel was lying at anchor at the same place, the native minister of that church brought on board a bag containing 252*l*., which had been collected on that occasion as endowment for the Bishopric. This I propose shall be invested in the hands of trustees, and allowed to accumulate for those who may come after me.

The Waiapu Diocesan Synod has been already referred to in the introductory remarks on the New-Zealand Mission. The Bishop has supplied a few notices of the results which have followed its session:—

I send by this mail the proceedings of our first native synod. There is of necessity a collection of dry matter, but still there is enough to be deeply interesting. The willingness and the desire for an organized system is spreading, and cannot fail to do good. The circumstance of natives from different localities coming together gives an opportunity to those who are in the back-ground to gather courage from others who are more advanced. Many tribes showed much indifference when it was first proposed to have the meeting, who, now that they have a little insight into what was done, express a regret that they were not represented. They have now openly recognised the duty of supporting their pastors, and the effect will be an increase of effort. I regard the measure as one which will have a salutary effect upon our native church.

It is to be hoped that, on a future occasion, the gathering may be more general, and that the effect may be the stirring up a holy emulation, which may be a benefit to the whole population. But much will depend, under God, upon the pacification of the country. There is now a good hope that this may be effected under the wise policy of Sir George Grey, and if this is the case, I believe we shall find a strong disposition among the natives to receive good advice, not only in those things which relate to their temporal benefit, but also in such matters as may promote the welfare of the church of Christ.

Archdeacon Brown reports of his district:—

Various changes, together with intestine quarrels which we have reported from year to year—the king movement, the land league, and the Taranaki war—have not only diminished the number of natives, but relaxed discipline throughout the infant churches, and in many ways caused the wheels of our Missionary chariot to drag heavily onward. We trust, however, a better state of things is before us, morally and politically.

The Missionary has little to do with politics, but in the sifting time through which our people are passing a word spoken in season by the Missionaries has doubtless diminished the number of those who would otherwise have been in arms against the Crown; while the truths of the Gospel have tended to soothe the angry feelings of many others who were drawn into the Taranaki war. There is great reason to hope that peace, in answer to the prayers of the church, will, ere long, be firmly established in our borders.

The Rev. W. Leonard Williams visits the different districts of the diocese of Waiapu, as far as his duties at the Turanga educational establishments will allow. He reports—

In my annual letter of last year I alluded to a marked change which had shown itself in the people of this neighbourhood. The movement began at Waiapu, near the East Cape, and has spread, in a greater or less degree, to Wairoa and other parts. It is not strictly a religious movement, though religion has a great deal to do with it, at least in this district, for the people have taken up strongly matters connected with religion, such as church-building, endowment, &c. Drunkenness is put down, and the traffic in ardent spirits, as far as the natives are concerned, is entirely stopped. Together with these, there is a much greater eagerness for religious instruction as is shown by the large attendance on our classes. It was impossible to tell at the beginning how long this would last, but it has been on trial for more than a year; and though the number of communicants does not show a large increase upon last year, the difference is very evident in the ordinary habits of the people, and in their attendance at religious services, and the improvement is borne witness to by all who have to do with them.

Educational Establishments at Tauranga.

The Bishop of Waiapu reports of the educational establishments at Tauranga:—

The first three months of the year 1861 was a time of great trial. A virulent attack of influenza in the preceding winter which had returned a second time, was succeeded by a typhus fever, of which there were many cases in our own Mission station, and many others in the surrounding villages. The operations of our schools were suspended for a long period, but at length it pleased God that the scourge should be removed from us, and our operations proceeded as before.

Mr. Leonard Williams, who is the Principal of the Theological Training Institution, reports:—

Since April we have been much prospered, and our numbers have been steadily on the increase.

Western District.

The district was first occupied by Archdeacon Hadfield in 1839. It now comprises five stations: 1. Wanganui, 1840; 2. Otaki, 1842; 3. Heretaunga, 1844; 4. Papawai (Palliser Bay), 1856; 5. Pipiriki, on the Wanganui river, 1856.

The reports from the western district of the New-Zealand Mission are of a less encouraging character than those of the other districts. Several causes are stated to have contributed to this result. The tribes in the neighbourhood of Wanganui have been more immediately connected with the dispute at Taranaki, and more embittered against the Europeans. One tribe, the Ngatiruanui, have formally forbidden Missionaries to visit them. Another cause of discouragement is the return of many individuals to the native customs, of which tatooing is adopted as a token. A third cause which prevails in Wanganui River district is a popular superstition respecting the diseases which prevail amongst them, leading them to various foolish acts. These, however, are probably the effects of religious declension and neglect of the means of grace, which have been more manifest of late years, as the generation baptized in infancy has grown up in nominal Christianity, and become exposed to various temptations which were unknown to their fathers. In this district, also, Popery and infidelity have been more prevalent than in others. Amidst all these causes of discouragement there is, however, evidence that the Gospel has exercised, and is exercising, its saving influence upon some few, and its salutary influence upon the native population generally.

The European settlers are also represented as more disposed than before the war to respect the rights of the natives, and to allow them a share in the political institutions of the country.

Of the western district, Archdeacon Hadfield reports:—

Last year was perhaps one of the darkest which those engaged in promoting Christianity among the natives have experienced, at least in recent times. It is one from the further consideration of which I would gladly turn, as it presents nothing encouraging, and scarcely appears to teach any lesson.

There has been nothing, however, in the conduct of the more advanced native Christians in this district (I allude more especially to the communicants) to lead me to think that any of the events which have happened of late have lessened their attachment to the Gospel: on the contrary, I have had my confidence in the sincerity of their faith strengthened. Still these events, by causing many to change their residences and alter their modes of life, have produced a certain amount of disorganization and disorder which have been far from beneficial, and have occasioned me much anxiety and trouble.

The Rev. R. Taylor writes under much discouragement and with many gloomy forebodings:—"The spiritual declension of the natives is, as far as my observation goes, general. A native cannot attend to two things: whatever he does he gives his whole mind to: he does nothing by halves. If it be religion, it will entirely engross the attention: it is his thought by night as well as by day: if it be not religion, it is just the same. At present their thoughts have been led to politics and self-government."

The Rev. Basil Taylor, the son of our Missionary, assists his father in his extensive charge. Mr. James Booth, after having been compelled, for nearly two years, to be absent from his station at Pipiriki, on account of the illness of his wife, is now happily about to return to it upon her recovery. The Rev. William Ronaldson was placed at Papawai, Palliser Bay, by the Bishop of New Zealand, before the separation of the diocese of Wellington, in the hope that, by ministering to the two races, he might conciliate their mutual goodwill, and kindle among the settlers a Missionary zeal. But the hopes entertained upon his appointment have been disappointed. As the settlers have increased the natives have removed, so that the Missionary character has been too much absorbed in that of the European pastor, and the time has arrived when a new arrangement must be settled. The Rev. Samuel Williams is stationed on the East Coast, at a place called "Napier," in the Ahuri district. He has had to contend with many difficulties, but the importance of the tribes with whom he is brought into communication, and his success in his Missionary labours, abundantly repay the sacrifices which he has made in sustaining his position.

Transition of the earlier Missionary stations into settled Christian communities.

The earlier stations of the Mission are gradually passing into settled pastoral charges. Wherever there is a large proportion of European settlers, or the descendants of Europeans by marriages with natives, the station has manifestly ceased to be a proper field for the operations of the Church Missionary Society. One such station the Committee propose to retain, namely, St. Andrew's Church, which, as a Mission church, will afford a centre of union for both races, as well as a ministerial charge for the Secretary of the Mission. All other congregations of this class must sustain their own institutions, or obtain assistance from Societies instituted for the aid and support of the colonial church. One such church, St. Paul's, on the Red River, received a grant from the Society for the support of a school, until the present year. Upon the announcement of its discontinuance, a meeting of the friends and supporters of the school was called, at which the following Resolutions were unanimously adopted:—

Resolved, 1st. That this meeting wish to convey to the Church Missionary Society their deep and heartfelt gratitude for their liberal support and assistance in sustaining the school of St. Paul's (Middle Church) for a period of about forty years.

2nd. That while this meeting regret that this school will no longer enjoy the privilege of connexion with its generous founders, they cheerfully submit to the withdrawal of the Society's assistance; feeling that now, in their improved condition, due in a great measure to the benevolence of the Society, they stand in less need of aid than the thousands still in heathen darkness, on whose behalf appeals for help to this Society are being continually made. And they earnestly pray that great success may attend the Society's efforts to spread the glorious Gospel to the remotest parts of the earth.

3rd. That a copy of these Resolutions be sent to the Lord Bishop of Rupert's Land, with the humble request of this meeting that he will have the kindness to forward it to the Secretaries of the Church Missionary Society.

General Review of the Mission.

The circumstances of the eight districts into which the North-West-America Mission is divided are the same as in the last year's Report. The only changes in the location of Missionaries is the return of Mr. Tugwell from the Mission at Fort Simpson, on the shores of the Pacific, in consequence of the failure of his health within a year after his arrival in the Mission, and the removal of the Rev. T. T. Smith from the Red River to English River, with a view to release Mr. Hunt, who is to visit England next year. The work within each district is very similar. At the central stations the Indians have been induced to form Christian settlements, and to send their children to schools established by the Society for their benefit. Many of these Indians are engaged for half the year in the hunting expeditions, and they carry with them their Christian Scriptures, and so the light of Christianity is gradually diffused amongst their ignorant and heathen countrymen. The Missionaries themselves often take Missionary tours to visit the chief meeting-places and camps of the Indians. Native teachers occupy a few out-stations, but many thousands of the Red Indians are still unevangelized, who roam over the vast plains, extending across 5000 miles of country. The work which therefore remains to be accomplished is still very great, and the difficulties are formidable. New languages have to be reduced to writing, for hitherto the Scriptures have only been printed in Cree, and in the Salteaux or Ojibbeway dialects. The commencement of the work is, however, full of encouragement, and the signs of progress are happily apparent on every side. During the last year the Bishop of Rupert's Land has admitted to holy orders two Indians, which raises the total number of native ministers to seven. In reference to these and other proofs of progress, the Bishop gives the following general view of the Mission during the last year, in a letter dated March 11, 1862:—

Looking back upon the last year, I feel convinced that there is more of encouragement than in any similar period; more to lead us to entertain the hope that, though a long time must elapse before we can be self-supporting, we are, at all events, becoming more self-supplying than formerly. In the way of self-support, a beginning has been made, as the Society has heard, by a very successful Missionary meeting, held at St. Andrew's. The sum collected after sermons at St. Andrew's and Mapleton, and in annual subscriptions, was, for the times, very creditable, being 50*l.* in all. Much was said at the time regarding the necessity of native effort, and the wants of the enormous outlying portions of the territory. It may be partly as a consequence of this meeting, and in answer to prayer they offered up, that one young man has since come forward, willing to assist in carrying the Gospel to the Mackenzie River and the regions yet beyond. In the interval the very encouraging tidings of Mr. Kirkby's visit to the Youcan had been received, and his earnest appeal for a fellow-labourer. The narrative must have filled the heart of every well-wisher to the cause with joy and thankfulness. No little honour is it to have been the first to penetrate within the Arctic circle, and to unfurl the banner of the Cross on the banks of the distant Youcan. It marks progress and a definite era in Missionary labour on this continent. While the intelligence must have been welcomed with devout gratitude by the Committee, it has produced the happiest effect here. It has awakened the desired response in one breast—"Here am I, send me!" (the Bishop alludes to a native catechist whom he proposed shortly to ordain). Does not this example afford some indication that the Missionary field among us is becoming more self-supplying? Does it not manifest something of co-operation with the liberality of friends at home? While a generous layman has been led to offer to the Society, as we heard most gratefully, 100*l.* a year to plant a Mission at Churchill, we have been enabled, through God's help, to add another Missionary, and to contribute, we trust, the necessary means for his support in the remotest corner of the northwest. May we seek thus to advance pari passu, and may each fresh instance of Christian liberality at home be quickly followed up by a corresponding effort on our part for the spread of the Redeemer's kingdom. The distance I leave to speak and plead for itself. If Rupert's Land be thought at times an expensive field (and we are forced to grant that it is and must be so), then listen to the voice of the Youcan—listen to the cry of a continent! Few there may be to gather at any one spot, but the spots are almost past numbering where we yearn to plant the light, and where it would possibly be welcomed as heartily as on the Youcan.

Such, then, are our chief encouragements in the year, from which we would look forward to a brighter future:—the visit of Mr. Stagg to the Indians of the plains, and his cordial reception by them; the introduction of the Gospel within the Arctic Circle, and to the very banks of the Youcan, by Mr. Kirkby; the noble contribution towards the commencement of the Churchill Mission, and the appointment of Mr. Gardiner to it; and, if I may add what has just occurred among us, the addition of another to join the Missionary band, called, I hope, by God's Spirit, to strengthen Mr. Kirkby's hands, so that he may not labour alone in that mighty district.

Other work is before us, and already planned; but I would not allude to it now. The noise of war has been lately in our ears, and the sound of hosts gathering for battle. In God's mercy the evil has been arrested for the present. But in our spiritual warfare the contest is unceasing, and we ought to learn a lesson of diligence and activity in mustering and arranging our forces to meet the hosts of darkness. Carlton is much on our mind, as undoubtedly a post of growing importance; central in position between this and the Rocky Mountains, and very near to the reported gold-fields. It has often been visited by Mr. Budd and others, who have spent there a few days at a time. A Roman-Catholic priest also paid it a visit lately, but went away saying, "I must leave those at Carlton to themselves; they will not attend my prayers." Shall we, then, leave them; or is it not our sacred duty to take them up, when they have hitherto stood so firm against temptation? We trust to occupy the post before winter, but the arrangement is not yet fully matured. With these encouragements there has, of course, often been mingled much of a very different character. Satan has at times appeared where we least expected him, and caused us much depression. We look to the noble land to the south of us, and weep over her disunion and troubles. Still we doubt not that God will overrule all: we have a lively confidence that what has happened may prove to have been for the furtherance of the Gospel. While man is contending the Gospel is spreading; yea, and will spread. It is gradually covering this continent: this year God has carried on his own work, and all can see it. May we ever be found fellow-helpers with Him, following the guidance of his cloud!

The Committee have the satisfaction of announcing that through the liberality of the British and Foreign Bible Society, the whole of the sacred volume has been printed in the Cree language, in the syllabic character, and a large supply has been sent to Rupert's Land. This work has been accomplished through the diligence and perseverance of the Rev. W. Mason and his excellent wife, who, being a native of the country, rendered great assistance in the translation of such parts as had not been already prepared, and in the correction of the press throughout the volume. She was spared till the last sheet had received its final correction, and a few days afterwards entered into rest.

I. Red-River District.

Archdeacon Hunter records the zeal and devotion with which 'the week of prayer,' at the commencement of the year was observed. "From one end of the settlement to the other, all the different congregations assembled for united prayer, commencing with the meeting at St. John's, at which our beloved Bishop presided. The spirit which pervaded the meeting was most harmonious and earnest, and our expectation is that a large blessing will be the happy result."

The Indian Settlement remains under the care of the Rev. A. Cowley and his native coadjutor, the Rev. T. Cockran. Mr. Cockran has the principal charge of the out-station of Mapleton. The report of the congregation is on the whole encouraging as to its social and religious progress, though the Indians are still far below the maturity of Christian attainments in churches of long standing, and amongst a well-educated community. Archdeacon Cockran is building up a Christian church at La Prairie and an Indian settlement in its immediate neighbourhood.

The Rev. Henry George has succeeded in establishing the station of Westbourne, on the borders of the country inhabited by the Plain Indians, who have not yet been brought under the influence of Christianity. The Mission premises have been completed at the station, and a small farm of ten acres of ploughed land brought under cultivation, which will secure food for the support of the school and the Mission family. Mr. George has also directed his attention to Beaver Creek, as being an important trading post for obtaining intercourse with all the Plain tribes. In the month of June he visited the post, between six and seven days' travelling from Westbourne, in company with the Rev. T. Cockran. Many Indians were addressed on the Gospel message, but it was not thought suitable for a Mission station, though a native schoolmaster might be located at the Fort at Beaver Creek. ISLINGTON is under the charge of the native minister, the Rev. Robert M'Donald, who reports a gradual increase of the Christian church from 36 members to 53, with 10 candidates for baptism. A small school is maintained by the produce of the Mission farm; and the heathen Indians of the surrounding tribes are occasional visitors to the station, and attend at divine service.

II. MANITOBA DISTRICT.

This district is under the superintendence of the Rev. W. Stagg, who resides at the central station of FAIRFORD. The out-station of FORT PELLY, at which the native minister, the Rev. J. Settee, is located, and the Touchwood Hills, where the native catechist, Charles Pratt, labours, are comprised within this district.

Mr. Stagg reports respecting Fairford:—

I am afraid to give my Christian friends too high an estimate of the good done, but I hope I may report progress. Certainly we are every year increasing in numbers, not so much by those gathered out of heathenism as from the Christian Indians settled around us. We are always wanting new homes for our young people, and we now have the appearance of a Christian settlement. There is still a steady attendance at the means of grace, and we have not been pained by any falling back to heathenism. I am glad to be able to say that all our Christian people have homes at the station, and the women and children remain in their homes while the men leave in parties for the fur hunt. The men when going off for any length of time come in to see us, and we have prayer with them, we also give them small almanacs with the Sabbaths marked.

Mr. Stagg took a Missionary tour of several hundred miles westward, in search of some of the Plain tribes. In the course of this tour he visited the out-stations of the district of which he gives the following report:—

At Fort Pelly there is not much success yet. Half of the Indians are Crees, and half Saulteaux; and wherever the Saulteaux have any influence, there is great opposition to the free course of God's word. At Touchwood Hills great good is already effected. I had the privilege of baptizing nineteen Crees at Charles Pratt's station—nicely prepared for baptism, and already living in settled homes, the first-fruits of the Plain tribes. There are now forty Crees, settled around Charles. I had in all twenty-four baptisms during my journey. Mr. Settee and Charles Pratt accompanied me. I much enjoyed travelling with my native brethren. They were ready in every way to carry out my plans.

The following are interesting extracts from Mr. Stagg's journal of his Missionary tour :—

You will see from the inclosed journal, that there is considerable danger when travelling on the Plains, from hostile Indians; but when once the Protestant Missionary is in the camp, with the Bible in his heart, in his hands, and on his lips, I believe he is quite safe. If in his heart he will have faith in God, and be discreet; if in his hands, he will be reverenced; if on his lips he will do his Master's work. This is what is wanted for the Plain tribes, and nothing else will satisfy them.

I had some conversation with one of the company's servants who had been trading with the Plain Indians. He said he was once sleeping in an Indian tent, far off on the Plains, and he was surprised to hear in that tent the voice of prayer, for he knew that all the Indians there were unbaptized. He made inquiry and was told that some of the children had been taught by Charles Pratt, and that they not only continued to pray themselves, but taught others to do so. What an encouragement to press on this blessed work!

The report of Mr. Settee from Fort Pelly exemplifies the hardships to which even a native Missionary is exposed in so dreary a country as the great plains of Rupert's Land; but it exemplifies also the happy spirit in which those hardships may be met.

In reviewing the past year there has been very little done. We could have done more for the instruction of the Indians than what has been done, had they come forward to obtain Christian knowledge: but they stand away from the truth. To this date there have been twenty-five baptisms—five pure Indians; the rest half-breeds. We have sixteen communicants. We regret that the Indians are not willing to work, and that there is too much spirituous liquor employed among them. All this is against our work. But may God help us! Our eyes are directed to Him alone. We have been out to the woods early and late, running to the Indians to speak to them. I am glad to say we have sounded the Gospel's voice round about to as far as Qu'Appelle, and beyond that; so that very often my wife has to manage to attend to the work when I have been away. We delight in the work, we love it. We would not exchange it for other situations, though we often suffer hunger, sickness, and other evils. But, thank God, our day is now short: we shall soon finish, "as an hireling his day." Oh may we be found more faithful.

III. Cumberland District.

The Rev. E. A. Watkins has continued in the superintendence of this district during the past year. A large Christian congregation of Indians have the benefit of his pastoral ministrations at the settlement. Mr. Watkins reports:—

In reviewing the past year I do not see any thing of a very striking character which has marred either the spiritual or temporal condition of my people. The portion of the Lord's vineyard in which it is my lot to labour has not yet been visited with any of those remarkable revival influences which have been manifested in many places, both in Christian countries and in heathen lands; yet, upon the whole, I see sufficient cause to "thank God and take courage" for the gradual advancement of the Redeemer's kingdom, and the diminution of the surrounding heathenism.

In the course of the year I have taken four Missionary journeys—two to each of the out-stations, Cumberland House, and Moose Lake, lying in opposite directions, but each at the distance of about fifty miles. In the month of September I met with a large number of heathen Indians at Moose Lake, and spent much time in their tents, conversing on the things of God. They showed much reluctance to listen, but yet did not offer any open opposition.

Mr. Watkins is ably assisted in his district by the native minister, the Rev. Henry Budd, who was, for the first part of the year, at the Red-River Settlement, to which he had been invited by the Bishop, to witness the ordination of his son, Henry Budd, jun.

IV. English River District.

The Rev. R. Hunt has pursued his patient, self-denying, and laborious ministrations at this station for another year. His trials have been rather increased than diminished. The Roman-Catholic Missionaries have beset his path in great numbers and force, and he has not enjoyed the advantages of Christian intercourse with brethren which the stations nearer the Red-River Settlement enjoy. He was cheered, however, at the close of the summer, by the arrival of the Rev. T. T. Smith, who would be his coadjutor until Mr. Hunt leaves for a visit to England, and will afterwards supply his place at the station.

Mr. Smith has directed his immediate attention to the Chipewyan language, and will, at the earliest period, translate portions of the Scriptures into that language, and print them at the lithographic press of the station, in the syllabic characters, in which the Cree Bible has been printed, adapted to this new dialect. It appears that Mr. Smith's acquaintance with the Welsh language gives him a peculiar facility in acquiring the tones of the Chipewyans. The Chipewyans have long pleaded for a Missionary who would make them his special charge, for hitherto they have only obtained their Christian instruction through the means of occasional interpreters; though, by means of this scanty help, more than 100 of their tribe have been joined to the Christian church. One of the Chipewyan chiefs, Ah-eel-ghart, on taking leave of Mr. Hunt to go to his distant hunting-grounds, thus addressed the Missionary on behalf of himself and the rest of the tribe:—

He told me, that since I first came here the leaves and flowers had many times become green and beautiful, and had withered and fallen to the ground; that many of their old men and women had left their hunting-grounds to return to them no more; that their bones, together with the bones of younger men, women, and children, had crumbled in the dust like the bones of animals; that yet no minister for the Chipewyan had arrived, nor anyone to be among them and to teach them, although many years had passed since they first asked me for one. The Crees had ministers for them here and there, but the Chipewyans had no one for them, although originally they were masters of the lands, and the Crees were strangers here. They were longing for the light; they had sought it earnestly; but they had been given over to ministers (the Romanists) who, we told them, were not ministers of the Lord Jesus Christ. All this, and much more equally touching and distressing, he told me. I could only answer to the like effect as I had said to their chiefs at Frog Portage, that a young minister would soon arrive, who would learn their language, and do all that could be done for them, that they might read in their own language God's own account of that wonderful story of his love that had often been interpreted to them by some of themselves from my lips.

V. Mackenzie River District.

The station, if it may be so called, of this most extensive district, is at one of the Company's trading posts, Fort Simpson, upon the river Mackenzie, about the latitude of 63° There is no settlement of Indians, but successive parties bring their furs to the Fort, and remain two or three days, during which time the Missionary, the Rev. W. W. Kirkby, imparts to them such instruction as the circumstances will allow. He thus describes his labours:—

With the Indians I have had a much happier winter than last. Perhaps not so many visited the Fort; but nearly all who came listened attentively and gladly to the blessed truths of God's word. The Bible pictures interest them much, and are the means of conveying much Gospel truth to their minds, in a way, perhaps, they are at present the best able to comprehend. They usually remain two days at a time.

I am endeavouring to prepare a little book, consisting simply of a hymn and prayer for the morning; ditto for the evening; ditto for Sunday; the Lord's Prayer, Ten Commandments, and Watts's First Catechism. I fear it will not be very correct, but it may prove useful until something better can be had. I hope to have it ready by the time the last boat leaves, and purpose sending it to the United States to be printed, as they will do it much cheaper than it could be done in England, and I shall receive it a year earlier.

Mr. Kirkby has also taken, from time to time, very extensive Missionary journeys, in the hope of meeting large parties of the distant tribes which assemble at stated times of the year. In these journeys he is often brought, by the necessities of the country, into singularly close contact with the Romish priests who are striving with him for the spiritual possession of the native tribes scattered over the country, often travelling with them in the same boat, and sharing with them the same hut and the same fire. He is not without encouragement in his arduous toil, though he feels deeply the loneliness of his position, and is most urgent for a fellow-labourer to share his anxieties, toils, and joys.

The Bishop alludes, in the remarks already quoted at the commencement of the Report of this Mission, to Mr. Kirkby's journey to the River Youcan, which runs into the Arctic Sea, within the Arctic Circle, a distance of about 1500 miles from Fort Simpson. The following extracts from Mr. Kirkby's account of his journey will show its important Missionary aspect:—

We followed the ice down the noble Mackenzie, staying awhile with Indians wherever we met them; and remained three or four days at each of the Forts along the route. On the 11th of June I left the zone in which my life had hitherto been passed, and entered the less genial Arctic one. Then, however, it was pleasant enough. The immense masses of ice piled on each side of the river sufficiently cooled the atmosphere as to make travelling enjoyable; while the sun shed upon us the comfort of light nearly the whole twenty-four hours; and as we advanced further northward he did not leave us at all. Frequently did I see him describe a complete circle in the heavens.

Between Point Separation and Peel's River we met several parties of Esquimaux, all of whom, from their thievish propensities, gave us a great deal of trouble, and very glad were we to escape out of their hands without loss or injury. They are a fine-looking race of people, and, from their general habits and appearance, I imagine them to be much more intelligent than the Indians.

At Peel's River I met with a large number of Loucheux Indians, all of whom received me most kindly, and listened as attentively to the glad tidings of salvation that I brought to them. These are a part of the great family who reach to the Youcan.

Five days of drifting and rowing down the rapid current of the Porcupine River brought us to its confluence with the Youcan, on the banks of which, about three miles above the junction, the Fort is placed.

On my arrival at the Youcan there were about 500 Indians present, all of whom were astonished, but agreeably,—glad to see a Missionary among them. They are naturally a fierce, turbulent, and cruel race, approximating more nearly to the Plain tribes than to the quiet Chipewyans of the Mackenzie valley. They commence somewhere about 65° of north latitude, and stretch westward from the Mackenzie River to Behring's Straits. They were formerly very numerous, but wars, both among themselves and with the Esquimaux have sadly diminished them. They are, however, still a strong and powerful people.

Mr. Kirkby grounds the following animated appeal to British Protestants on his experience of the zeal and magnitude of the efforts of Rome to proselytize the Indians—

I must now close my journal. You will gather from its pages that the Romanists are endeavouring to concentrate their efforts for the conversion of the Indians of this district. When I came they were just establishing their first Mission in it; now they have Fort Resolution, Fort Rae, Good Hope, and, I fear, will have Liard also. There are now four priests and brothers here; and, in the fall, the newly-appointed Bishop of Isle à la Crosse is to visit Fort Simpson, and will bring two or three more priests with him. How, then, can I stand alone before such a force? They possess in a great degree the sympathy of the Indians, which is no more than one might expect, from the length of time they have been at Athabasca, their perfect knowledge of the language, their gaudy ceremonies, and, I must add, their untiring zeal and perseverance. They are really heart and soul in their work, and would verily compass sea and land to make one proselyte. The worst is, their zeal so completely overleaps all sense of truth and justice, that the most unscrupulous means are used to accomplish their purposes. The most extravagant falsehoods and frauds are freely laid under tribute; but of this the poor Indians are at present too ignorant. The priests all belong to the order of "Oblats," and therefore little else is to be heard but the praises of Mary. Oh my country, what a rebuke is this to thee! Servants of Jesus, what a voice has this to you! Would that you could look from the windows of your sanctuaries, as your dear pastors are feeding you with the bread of heaven, and see these poor creatures around me, anxious to be filled, and yet fed on the barren husks of error! Surely compassion for their souls, and love to Him who died for you, would constrain some of you to come forth to preach Christ crucified among them. Picture to yourself this immense tract of country, with only one feeble and inefficient Missionary of the truth in it, and that one writing, and begging, and praying for help, and yet no one responding; while the enemies of the truth are increasing on every side. I have just read that in England 150,000 men—the pride and flower of the land—have banded themselves together to defend their Queen and their homes, and my patriotism rejoices in it; but there is another Sovereign, one Jesus, whose cause they are equally bound to defend, and yet, out of all the noble hearts that beat in loyalty to Him, the Missionary publications tell of only fourteen being sent forth last year to bear his standard against heathenism. And during that time I see that twelve were removed from the field by death; so that our number was only augmented from England by two. Britain, why is this? Rome sent at least a dozen Missionaries into this land alone last year; and shall it be said that French Romanists have more zeal than British Protestants? I cannot think it. Let me once more, therefore, beg for two good, able-bodied, single men, as soon as they can possibly be sent. If they knew French it would be a great acquisition. I trust that fears of the climate may deter none from coming, for, though cold, it is extremely healthy. There are of course a few difficulties and privations, but none sufficiently important to deter the priests or fur-traders; they therefore ought not to influence us. With the Bible in our hands, containing, as it does, such a storehouse of promises, suitable to all our wants and emergencies, we need not fear where we go, or what scenes we may encounter. And let me only, in conclusion, bear my solemn though humble testimony to their faithfulness. God has never once failed me: and I feel fully assured that He will not fail in one thing that He has promised.

VI. York Factory.

The Rev. J. P. Gardiner has been in charge of the York Factory district during the absence of the Rev. W. Mason in England. Besides ministering to the congregation of settlers and Indians at York Factory, Mr. Gardiner has given instruction to the various parties of Crees who from time to time visit the Fort. He has also occasionally had visits from the Chipewyans, with whom he has conversed by means of interpreters. With two Chipewyans he was so well satisfied that he was willing to have baptized them at York Factory, but they begged him to visit Churchill, and there to baptize themselves, their companions, and their children.

In the month of July Mr. Gardiner went to Churchill by sea, where he found many Chipewyans and Esquimaux assembled, and for several days he was wholly occupied in examining and instructing different parties. He was able to admit thirty-four adults, besides children, to baptism.

VII. James Bay District.

The Rev. J. Horden remains in charge of this district, which extends along the shores of the bay to the east and to the west, as well as far into the interior. At the station of Moose Fort Mr. Horden has a large Christian congregation of settlers and Indians, of whom he writes:—"I have this summer been most happy in witnessing much individual spirituality among my people, especially in some members of my flock, on whom the hand of God has been heavily laid." He gives the following account of his Missionary visits to distant out-stations:—

Directly after the departure of the Kinogumisse Indians I left Moose for Rupert's House, and with the Indians of that quarter I spent nearly a fortnight. I saw about three hundred, most of them anxious to obtain a knowledge of the truth. There are still, as is to be expected, some remains of heathenism among them, and I am sorry to add that they have not all yet learnt to respect the grey hairs of their parents when they become feeble and burdensome. Two professedly Christian Indians, Atchew and Pikotao, forgetting all the instruction they had received on the matter, strangled their poor infirm mother during last winter. This hurt me deeply. Formerly the sick and aged were almost invariably put to death: a headache would almost secure a bowstring. That has now nearly passed away, and, I hope, will soon be known only among the things that were.

Soon after my return from Rupert's House I proceeded to ALBANY, accompanied by my wife and four children. We spent eight days there, profitably and pleasantly, comforting and strengthening Mr. Vincent, who is proceeding in his labours with all diligence. He has this year been as far as Martin's Falls, and next year (D.V.) goes on to Osnaburgh. He has already erected a small house, and is occupied in building a church, of which he stands greatly in need, having no place at present where he can meet his people with any degree of comfort.

Next summer, D.V., I hope to spend the season principally in the East Main District, visiting Hannah Bay, Rupert's House, Fort George, and the Whale Rivers, being especially desirious of imparting religious instruction to the teachable but neglected Esquimaux. I shall not labour under such disadvantages as I did on my former visit, as there is now at Whale River a tolerably good Esquimaux interpreter. I hope some means may be devised by which the poor Esquimaux may be brought under Gospel influence. The whole of the eastern coast (of James Bay) gives me much anxiety, from my inability to do for it what it so manifestly and urgently requires.

The Rev. W. Vincent resides at ALBANY and writes hopefully respecting his congregation. The following extract is from an account of his visit to a distant locality.

Three Indians came about 100 miles on foot through a forest for the purpose of seeing me. Their manner is somewhat different from the majority of the Indians at this place; but I was particularly pleased to find that they knew something of the syllabic system, and that they were anxious to get books, which they might always have by them. I did not disappoint them, and it is not easy to describe the pleasure they evinced when I handed each one a copy of our Prayer-book, Hymn-book, and Bible and Gospel History. As they only remained for a few hours, I spent the most of that time giving them directions and exhortations respecting their future conduct.

VIII. The Shores of the Pacific.

In the last Report the Committee were happy to state that they had sent a fellow-labourer, the Rev. L. S. Tugwell, to assist Mr. Duncan at Fort Simpson, on the shores of the Pacific. The Committee have now to report their great disappointment in the failure of the health of Mr. Tugwell, and the consequent necessity of his return to England. Mr. Duncan is thus again left alone, almost overwhelmed with the weight of responsibility thrown upon him. The Committee trust that they shall be able, in the course of a short time, to send a Missionary and a catechist from home, to render the required support to the Mission. The short residence of Mr. Tugwell at Fort Simpson enabled the Missionaries, however, to select, and prepare for, and admit to baptism, the first-fruits of Mr. Duncan's labours, nineteen adults. Mr. Duncan writes:—

The first baptism took place here on the 26th of July last—a day to be remembered by us. Since these have come fairly out there has been more of a persecuting spirit abroad from the Lord's enemies. This we may expect to increase. The converts are severely tried and tempted at present, but we pray that they may be preserved faithful. While some have decided, and many (increasingly many) are anxious, others—the wicked—wax worse and worse. Drunkenness seems to gather strength as the facilities for it increase.

Mr. Duncan proposes to make an Indian settlement at a place called Metlahkahtlat, about fifteen miles from the Fort, and therefore less liable to the temptations to which the Indians are there exposed. A Mission house and school have been erected near the Fort, and the average congregations on the Sunday have been from 70 to 100.

Captain Prevost R.N., who had been for four years in command of H. M. S. "Satellite," and the senior officer on the coast, visited the Committee in December last, and bore honourable testimony to the ability, assiduity, and success with which, alone and unaided, Mr. Duncan had initiated and conducted, for four years, a difficult Mission at great personal risk—his life, on one occasion, having been saved only by a friendly Indian having seized the arm of another at the instant he was firing a blunderbuss at him;—living in the native villages among a people, one tribe of whom still persists in cannibalism, and all are lawless;—instructing 350 of their children, and exercising a salutary influence alike by his mild and Christian bearing towards them, and by his command of their language, of which he has been the first European to obtain a mastery.

The Bishop of Columbia has favoured the Committee with a valuable and encouraging letter on the subject of the Mission, dated January 20, 1862, in which his lordship says:—

It has been to me a subject of regret that I have not as yet had an opportunity to visit the Mission at Fort Simpson.

That place is 500 miles hence. Communications are seldom made, and only by vessels engaged in bartering along the coast, which remain away several months together.

I have had means, however, of knowing that the work has been blessed of God, and that a great impression has been made upon the Indian mind. I have conversed with many Indians who have attended the Mission school, and am satisfied of the happy movement in progress.

Fort Rupert, about 200 miles south of Fort Simpson, is a good station for Missionary work in connection with the latter, and healthy. The Hudson's-Bay Company have there a small trading post, which will be a protection.

I cannot too earnestly press upon the Society the necessity of immediately strengthening these two promising stations.

I enclose some statistics of Indian population dwelling southwards from Fort Simpson down the coast of British Columbia, and the east side of Vancouver, for about 350 miles. They are derived from returns published by the United-States Government in 1856, though there is every reason to believe the number is now considerably less.

While over the whole area of the United States, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, there are not above 300,000 Indians, and in the vast territory of the Hudson's-Bay Company east of the Rocky Mountains but 50,000, the generality of whom lead a nomadic life and are difficult of access, it is certainly both interesting and significant, that in the comparatively small area of this British territory of Columbia and Vancouver there should be some 80,000 Indians, not leading a nomadic life, but settled in their own village homes, capable of instruction, and even stretching out their arms for Christian teachers.

I earnestly trust nothing may interrupt the steady and increasing interest of the church at home in this most important, most urgent, and most hopeful Mission field. May your Society be a blessed and honoured instrument of furthering and maintaining the hallowed work. And may the great Head of his church answer speedily the prayers of his faithful people, and raise up and send forth the wise and true-hearted labourers, to bear the light of the Gospel to these benighted children, and to gather them into the heavenly fold.

CONCLUSION.

YOUR Committee believe that the Report they have now presented calls for a special tribute of thanksgiving. The finances have been freed from the anxieties and fears which lately existed, and which enforced a painful restriction abroad. The Committee are now free to strengthen the Missions by pecuniary aid, and to send forth such new labourers as they may believe to be called of God to the work.

There is also special ground for praise in the work abroad. The Committee review with great and devout satisfaction the instances in which your Missionaries, whenever called to the test, have not counted their lives dear unto themselves, so that they might finish their course with joy, and the ministry which they have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the Gospel of the grace of God. Witness their continuance at their post in the Yoruba country, in New Zealand, and at Ningpo, amidst war and bloodshed. These men were not specially selected for posts of danger. They represent the spirit of the whole body; the same spirit which, in a less striking but not less decisive form, keeps many a Missionary at his post in unhealthy climates, and during seasons of pestilence; which supports him in his solitary hours; which makes him expose his neck to the knife of the Afghan, and enter, with his Bible as his solitary weapon, into the camp of the hostile Red Indian;—the same spirit of faith and self-sacrifice which sustains the preacher who, year by year, stretches forth his hands to a disobedient and gainsaying Brahmin population, or from year to year, itinerates amidst heathen villages, lifting up Christ as the only Saviour of the lost, yet enduring the pain of hearing that Saviour reviled, and seeing that Saviour's offers of mercy scornfully rejected. Rumours sometimes reach us of comfortable dwellings, and conveniences of life enjoyed by Missionaries abroad. Your Committee are not careful to answer such charges. They know the temper of their men, and that, when called upon "to endure hardness," they will not be found wanting. To God be all the praise!

Another cause of special thanksgiving is the announcement made this year of the transfer of the Sierra-Leone Mission to the independent position of a native church, and of the near approximation to the same position of the native church in New Zealand. Such happy consummations of Missionary effort may seem to come late after forty or fifty years' labour, but they are an ample recompense; and your Committee confidently believe that the success in these two oldest Missions of the Society foreshadow earlier success in India, China, and Yoruba. Missionary principles are worked out, like all great principles in social questions, by a process of slow induction, amidst many mistakes and disappointments. But now the examples of more than one native church, self-supporting, self-governing, and self-extending, gratefully resigning the Society's further pecuniary help, that the aid may be sent to the regions beyond; such examples will both stimulate and guide the whole Mission field. And, above all, the Committee receive these successes as a proof of the presence of the great Head of the church with the churches abroad. "His hands have laid the foundation of this house; his hands shall also finish it." We rejoice when we see "the plummet in the hand of our Zerubbabel, with those seven. They are the eyes of the Lord, which run to and fro through the whole earth."

 This mark * denotes that the Sermon was preached at St. Ann's, Blackfriars; this †, that it was preached at St. Bride's, Fleet Street; the Twenty-third was preached at Christ Church, Newgate Street; the Thirty-first at St. Sepulchre's; the Thirty-second at St. Clement Danes; and the Thirty-third at St. Andrew's, Holborn.

The Collections at the Sixteenth and subsequent Anniversaries include the sums contributed at the Annual Meetings.

NOTICE TO TREASURERS AND SECRETARIES OF ASSOCIATIONS.

THE Committee of the Church Missionary Society request the Treasurers or Secretaries of Associations to transmit the proceeds of their respective Associations, together with the Contribution Lists and Accounts, as soon after the close of their Financial Year as possible. The Lists and Accounts should be written legibly, to avoid mistakes in printing, and made up in the manner in which the same are printed in the Parent Society's Report. The Local Officers being appointed by the Associations, their names, as well as the date at which the Accounts of the Association are closed, should be specified. Where the Account or the List is a printed one, two copies should be forwarded.

The Committee would also point out, for wider adoption, the convenience of a practice already very generally observed by Associations, of making remittances on account whenever any considerable proportion of the year's receipts is in the hands of the Local Treasurer. This practice, they have reason to believe, would be acceptable to many of their Contributors, and would tend to equalize in a greater degree the income and expenditure in the earlier months of the Society's Financial Year.

The Society's General Accounts are closed on the 31st of March, and all Moneys and Lists belonging to the year must be received at the Society's House by that date, in order to the Lists being inserted in their proper place in the Report.

The appending to the Annual Report of the Lists and Accounts of the Associations, is a general acknowledgment to the Local Contributors that their Contributions have been received by the Parent Society; and the Committee are desirous of preventing the dissatisfaction which they are aware is occasioned by the omission of the Lists in the Report in consequence of the Money or the List having been received too late for insertion.

Where an Association has Branches connected with it, the Accounts of the Branches should be forwarded to the Secretary of the Association some time before the period for forwarding the Accounts of the Association to London. When this is not done within a reasonable time, such Branches should be considered as self-excluded, and the Accounts forwarded without them.

To prevent mistakes, it is requested that Branch Associations will in every case, where practicable, forward their Money and Lists through the Association with which they are connected, and not direct to the Parent Society.

The Committee return their cordial thanks to the Treasurers of Associations, and to those friends who kindly fill the office of Secretary—an office which, they are well aware, draws largely on the time and attention of those who occupy it, but on the efficient discharge of the duties of which, the prosperity of an Association chiefly depends.

N.B. Benefactors of Ten Pounds and upward, whose Names have appeared in former Lists of the Associations, will now find them in the List of "Benefactions of former Years."
